Charlestown Proclaims September 13 As "Nathaniel Gorham Day"

Charlestown once again finds itself occupying a unique place in history as the 200th Anniversary of the signing of the United States Constitution approaches.

One of the signers of this historic document was a native son of Charlestown — Nathaniel Gorham.

Kay Whelan, president of the Charlestown Historical Society, extends an invitation to all to join with the Historical Society and the Massachusetts Daughters of the American Revolution on Sunday afternoon, September 13th in celebrating this anniversary and recognizing Nathaniel Gorham.

At 2:00 p.m., there will be a ceremony dedicating a plaque in honor of Nathaniel Gorham at the Phipps Street Burial Ground, where Gorham was buried following his death in 1796. This dedication is being sponsored by the Massachusetts Daughters of the American Revolution.

Immediately following the ceremony, at 3:00 p.m., the Charlestown Historical Society is sponsoring a reception at the Bunker Hill Museum at 43 Monument Square. The historical background of Nathaniel Gorham will be outlined, accompanied by a slide presentation by Robert Bayard Severy.

At the conclusion of the program, coffee and pastries will be served.

All are welcome to attend.

Charlestown Navy Yard Site Of Harborpark Day Activities

by Kathy Giordano
The Charlestown Navy Yard will be alive with excitement for this year's Harborpark Day events to be held on Saturday, September 19th between noon and 5:30 p.m. There will be something going on for everyone in the family.

Among the many events that will continue during the day will be a live broadcast by radio stations WBOS/WHDH, sponsors for this year's Harborpark Day. WBOS will broadcast from the Navy Yard, while WHDH will be broadcasting from Waterfront Park. Free balloons will be given away by the radio stations. Also, a sail aboard the Courageous and her fleet of sailboats will be offered at the Courageous Sailing Center on Pier 4. An Art Show will take place on Second Avenue and local vendors will be selling refreshments as well.

A free water shuttle service between Pier 4 in the Navy Yard and Long Wharf will continue all afternoon, donated by Boston Harbor Boat operators. Visiting ships will be docked on Piers 4 and 5 and will be open to the public for boarding from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m.

Special events that will take place during the afternoon include the very popular Fish Fry, served between 2:00 and 5:00 p.m. on the Dry Dock area on

First Avenue. A $1.00 donation to benefit the Courageous Sailing Program is asked for this all you can eat feast.

Children's events include performances by the Strawberry Jam Band from 1:00 to 1:30 p.m. and again from 2:45 to 3:15 p.m. In between these performances, the Susan Linn Puppet Show will take place from 1:45 to 2:30 p.m. Children will also be delighted with getting their faces painted, and be amused by the jugglers, clowns and games.

The City Lights Non-Profit Performing Arts Center from the South End will hold two performances at the fountain area of Shipyard Park. The first, entitled "Holiday," a song by Madonna, will take place from 3:10 to 3:15 p.m. and their second performance, entitled "Boston City Lights" will be from 3:15 to 3:35 p.m.

Between noon and 1:00 p.m., Liam Tiernan Irish Folk Music will be featured. A Comedy Tent will be set up on Pier 5, sponsored by "Play It Again Sam," and for a $1.00 donation to benefit the Courageous Sailing Program you can see one of two performances, offered at either 12:30 or 2:00 p.m.

For those hearty souls, a Harbor Walk will start at Waterfront Park and continue on to the Charlestown Navy Yard and back again. This one and a half mile walk is sponsored by Nike, the sneaker manufacturer, and participants in the walk will be eligible for a raffle with prizes that include sneakers and other products. Seniors are welcome to join in the fun! Water will be offered along the way by Poland Springs.

More activities are still in the planning stages. Complete details will be listed in next week's edition of the Patriot. But, between ribbon cuttings and ground breakings, balloons and painted faces, Harborpark Day should be a lot of fun!

APPRECIATION ON YOUR HOME

If you rent a home, you probably pay your landlord less in rent each month than you would pay on a mortgage for property that is similar to your rental. Why, then, do people pay more each month to own a home of their own?

Over the years, a home grows in value. The rate of appreciation will depend on many factors, especially the home's location, interest rates, and the general economic climate in the community. If, for example, you purchase property for $100,000 and it grows in value at the rate of 5 percent each year, after five years its value would have grown to approximately $121,000, and at 10 percent each year it goes up to $146,000. While a homeowner's property value is rising, the rent will be increasing for those who lease. An owner, on the other hand, can establish mortgage payments that will remain constant over the next 15 or 30 years. At the same time, the owner is building up equity as the mortgage is repaid and the home's value increases.

For professional advice on all aspects of buying or selling a home, talk to the professionals at Century 21, Silva Realty Associates. Come by our offices at 142 Main Street, Charlestown or call us at 242-7470.

Each office is independently owned and operated.

Charlestown Working Theater Prepares To Open 1987-88 Season

The Charlestown Working Theater (CWT) is opening their 1987-88 season with two one-act plays — Reunion by David Mammet and The Great Nebula In Orion by Lanford Wilson.

Both plays are about people meeting after long separations. Reunion revolves around a daughter seeking out a relationship with her alcoholic father whom she has not seen in 20 years. Great Nebula centers around two women who meet after not hearing from each other for over seven years.

For all characters concerned, the time apart and then together serves as an accurate, insightful, often painful barometer for change.

Charlestown resident Laurie Zallen will direct these two plays. Zallen has been active in the CWT since its inception. Her work at CWT has included directing Jane Martin's Talking With, voted best production by the Boston Theatre Critic's Circle and Top-Ten by both the "Boston Herald" and "Boston Phoenix." She has also directed A.R. Gurney's Children and in 1984, Clifford Odett's Awake and Sing. Zallen also served as co-director of CWT Children's Theater in the early 80's, along with Peggy Ings, founding director of the CWT.

You will often see Laurie down at Collier's Market on Bunker Hill Street debating between buying an apple or a bag of potato chips. She remarks, "Although still an active board member, I haven't directed at CWT for well over a year — I look forward to it! I'm particularly interested in the plays' themes — time and change . . . I think everybody will relate to some degree. Nobody, or for that matter, nothing stays the same and I think until we personally experience the process of 'big-time' change, do we understand it — or more appropriately, feel it.

"Speaking for myself, it is really a trip to see kids I taught down at the theater years ago. Now, they are not only in high school, in college, or married — but they are tall; that's a very obvious change . . . Ironically, the last children's production I was involved with was a show the kids wrote entitled Growing Pains. Wouldn't it be something if one of these kids came down for the 'grown-up' show?! I'd love it!"

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

The theater is seeking volunteers to help in this production, particularly anybody who would like to run lights and sound.

"We need people willing to commit themselves for the better part of the run — that means being at the theater a lot of weekends — Friday and Saturday nights, and Sunday afternoons . . . It's work, but it's fun and you learn a lot," noted Zallen.

"The most constant comment from people who have 'run-tech' has been how surprised they were that every performance has a different life to it. Not that the words or basic movement changes, but the collective spirit of the cast, crew and audience generate a unique energy."

Zallen continued, "By virtue of sitting in the tech booth, juicing up and controlling the lights and sound for anywhere from six to 18 performances, one picks up more than technical skills."

The shows open on October 16th and will run Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday matinees, through November 22nd.

If you are interested in being part of this production, or just want more information, please call 242-3534 or 242-2202.

COMEDY NIGHT

Also, if you've never been to the theater and want to check it out, kill two birds with one stone.

Come to this Fall's CWT Fundraiser, featuring Boston Comedian and CWT's official Santa Claus, Tony V., who is bringing some of his friends along for what promises to be an uproarious evening. It will be held on Wednesday, September 23rd at the CWT, 442 Bunker Hill Street, with cocktail hour at 7:00 p.m. and showtime at 8:00 p.m.

Tickets are $10 per person.

For more information regarding the fundraiser, call the theater at 242-3534.

Do You Remember . . .

SPOT ANY FACES YOU RECOGNIZE? This was the cast of "Growing Pains," a 1980 production of the Charlestown Working Theater. These talented youngsters wrote and performed in this musical play, which was produced by Peggy Ings and co-directed by Ings and Laurie Zallen. This was the official first generation of CWT and alumni are always welcome at the theater.

All are welcome.

Main And Warren Streets Reconstruction Update

by Kathy Giordano

The top layer of mix will be poured on the roadway along Main Street between Baldwin and Austin Streets starting today (September 10). The process should take three days to complete. All vehicles must be removed from that section of the roadway. Any vehicles found in the way of the construction crew will be towed at the owner's expense.

Brick work continues along Main Street between Thompson Square and Union Street. When this section is completed, the crew will move their operation to Warren Street outside Constitution Cooperative Elderly Housing to provide a safer walking surface for the residents of the old Saint Mary's school building.

"No Parking" signs have been posted along Warren and Main Streets once again. Residents are reminded not to park along the reconstruction route. Cars will be towed at the owner's expense.

Discussion Continues On The Preservation Of Artifacts From The 'Y'

by Mary Ziniti

The subject of the Boston Redevelopment Authority's (BRA) proposal to provide a site in the Navy Yard to serve as a memorial for the soon to be demolished YMCA in City Square was once again the topic of a meeting on September 8, attended by representatives from the state, the city and the community.

Gathered in the Massachusetts Department of Public Works (MDPW) field office on Rutherford Avenue were representatives from the National Park Service (NPS), the North Area Task Force (NATF), Howard Needles Tamment and Bergendoff (HNTB), an attorney representing the YMCA, the BRA and the MDPW.

This meeting was a follow-up to a meeting held a week earlier at the YMCA building. The BRA proposes to incorporate the portico of the YMCA into the Shipyard Park in the Navy Yard, specifically, into a structure housing a swimming pool.

However, the items needed to complete this proposal are not included in the existing demolition contract between the MDPW and the O'Rourke Construction Company, that specifies which articles O'Rourke will salvage from demolition. Glenn Sadulsky of HNTB concluded that each group itemize which artifacts they wish salvaged from the 70 year old landmark and a process of allocation to determine who receives which items be developed. Others in attendance at the meeting agreed with this recommendation.

Sadulsky raised the question of properly "parcelling out" the artifacts. He said that while the BRA or the "Y" may be prepared to utilize an item a year from now, the MDPW may not use it for five years. This could result in items being placed with one agency, only later to be seen as better suited for another area.

The YMCA will be torn down by the end of October as part of the Central Artery North Area (CANA) project. The possibility of placing some of these artifacts on Parcel 5, the proposed City Square Park that the MDPW is committed to designing, has already been discussed.

One issue not clarified at the meeting was the funding of the BRA proposal. Jack Glassman, senior architect for the Authority said, "Funding is a question that I can't answer." When David Flanagan, MDPW community liaison, asked if the BRA has considered using linkage money for this proposal, he received no answer.

NPS has agreed to store the artifacts already specified in the MDPW-O'Rourke contract. Arsen Charles, museum curator for NPS, said that they would find space for whatever else is asked to be saved, but he is unsure where that space would be. He added that the NPS would not assume any additional costs nor would their workers be involved in transporting artifacts not previously specified.

Fran Bruno of MDPW said that the community has the first choice as to what they want preserved. John Shek, attorney representing the YMCA, added that his client is interested in maintaining some items from the old building for the "Y's" new location. Bruno added that some legal problems may arise should the "Y" obtain some artifacts because the MDPW has already allocated money for storage of the proposed items. He added that the YMCA would have to supply money to transport the items out of the proposed NPS storage.

NATF representative Elaine McCarthy said that she thinks the portico should be saved and she thinks the NATF would agree. She added that a meeting will probably be held within the next few weeks for the Task Force and the community to discuss which artifacts they will request to be itemized for preservation from the wrecking ball.

Central Artery North Area Roadway Reconstruction Update

Massachusetts Department of Public Works

TALKS CONTINUE ON RELOCATION OF YMCA ARTIFACTS

The MDPW is currently negotiating with representatives from the North Area Task Force, YMCA, National Park Service and the Boston Redevelopment Authority on the storage and possible uses of artifacts which will be removed from the YMCA building before it is demolished.

The community will be given first preference for the usage of the artifacts which include the building's two cornerstones, two ornamental panels with the lettering USA and USN, all metal building grates and all masonry ornaments — including the two eagles mounted over the front entrance of the building.

The MDPW and representatives of the various groups involved in the negotiations are exploring the options for the usage of the artifacts as part of the proposed park for Parcel 5, which the MDPW is committed to design, and the possibility of a memorial to the YMCA in the Navy Yard. We are also investigating the legalities of saving additional building parts not covered in the demolition contract. In a related YMCA issue, an intensive rat extermination program is underway in the building.

CANA COMMUNITY MEETING TO BE HELD SEPTEMBER 29th

The MDPW will host a community meeting at the Knights of Columbus Hall located at 75 West School Street, at 7:00 p.m. on Tuesday, September 29th. Once again, the MDPW would like to stress that the community's involvement in the preparation and planning for the CANA project is one of the primary reasons for the project's success to date.

Courageous Sailing Center Provides Learning And Fun For Area Youngsters

photos by Nan Wilkins

by Mary Ziniti

"I must go down to the sea again, to the lonely seas and sky, and all I ask is a tall ship and a star to steer her by . . ."

John Masefield wrote these words for his poem Sea Fever in 1902. But by next spring these same thoughts, if not these same words, may be in the minds of many a Boston youth yearning for the reopening of the Courageous Sailing Center Program at Pier 4 in the Charlestown Navy Yard.

The program has been open for the last two months and has another two months to proceed before closing at the end of October. Whether they are black or white, affluent or in need, Catholic or Jew, youths from neighborhoods all over the City flocked to Charlestown as they learned the fine art of sailing . . . together.

Under the direction of Harry McDonough, president of the Courageous Sailing Center, and 18 sailing teachers, 480 youths in all learned the rigor of navigating a boat around the harbor. Once these young sailors learned to control a 19 foot Rhodes sailing boat, they moved on to bigger and better things. The best in sailing. An America's Cup Winner. The Courageous.

This 12-meter yacht won the Cup in 1974 and 1977 with captains Ted Hood and Ted Turner, respectively, while it also competed in five America's Cup Regattas. Courageous owner Leonard Greene donated the boat after a "massive letter writing campaign," headed by McDonough. "I should have said 'yes' to Harry right away to keep my arms from being twisted off," Greene said prior to the ceremonies held this past Bunker Hill Day welcoming the Courageous to its new home in Charlestown.

But why Boston? The Courageous crew and staff were in the City in the summer of 1985 to prepare themselves for the America's Cup challenge held in Perth, Australia in January of 1987. Greene said that they were pleased with the hospitality they received. Besides what the yacht could teach the youths of Boston, Greene also sees another future benefit to the City. "I hope Boston will become an America Cup Center, like Newport used to be. It has the conditions and the spirit to," he said.

This program is the brainchild of Harry McDonough, who already runs a sailing program in South Boston. In his remarks to the crowd at the June 17 gathering, Mayor Raymond L. Flynn outlined the goal of the program. "We're looking for the best sailing program for kids regardless of (family) income." He added, "What does sailing teach young people? It teaches teamwork, it teaches courage, it teaches skills of communication — that's what we want instilled in the youth of Boston."

In a recent interview, McDonough, 66, said that his goal is to make this the best program in the country. "It's important to me for kids to enjoy what I enjoy. It means a lot to me to see kids here. They are learning something, they aren't sitting in doorways (doing nothing)." He added that the sailing center is a good place for kids to go to because their parents know where their children are.

He stressed that with the Courageous Sailing Center, youths get the opportunity to sail, otherwise they would never get the chance because it's too expensive a sport.

The brusque McDonough, whose many years on the salty water have salted his personality, is not one to beat around the bush. The word "commitment" constantly sprinkles his conversation, whether he discusses promises made to him

A Long Ride Home

by Charlie McGonagle

Each time the man lifted another item into the trunk of his late model sedan, a different year from his younger daughter's life was carried with it. His time with her was capsulized in his efforts, as tiny stuffed animals brought him back to more innocent times.

And a Mickey Mouse clock, complete with a large strap simulating an over-sized wrist watch, returned him to a magical adventure to Disney World. The man cherished these memories of earlier times, and because his daughter carried these mementoes of her childhood, he knew she shared his feelings.

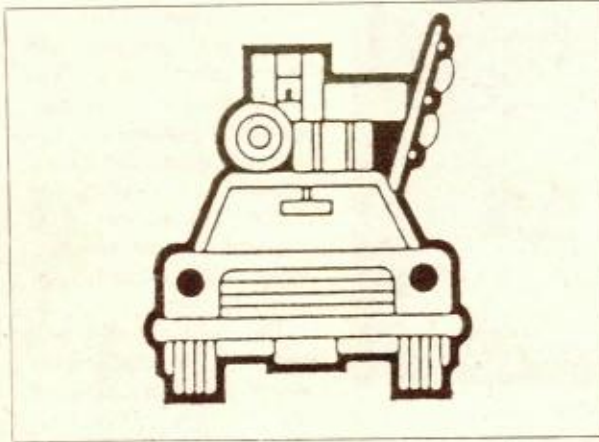

Quickly the years skipped forward as he carefully placed delicate long-playing records atop the stereo speakers, all the while wondering how she could enjoy the music of rock stars whose antics reached beyond the realm of his own imagination. But then the man remembered his own time and Elvis, Fats, and Little Richard.

The clothes he placed into the trunk for her were trendy and quite grown up, but a pair of sneakers and an old sweat shirt, a souvenir from some far off place, reminded him of her youthfulness.

It was the third time he had done this, helped her get her things together for another year away at college. Seeing her off may not have been as painful as the first two years, but the man knew the experience could never be totally painless. Only the enormous pride he felt in her youthful accomplishments helped to ease the discomfort of her leaving again.

As difficult as it was for him, he knew it was even more so for her, but they had talked about it many times before, and at great length. Both had long agreed that anything worthwhile required sacrifice.

It was a long ride, but shortened by the eventual beauty of countryside and Green Mountains that seemed to reach God's very doorstep, but mostly by conversation.

It was always a special time for the man and his daughter. For three hours, each would be the other's captive audience.

As always, the conversation would begin with the anticipations, the apprehensions and the expectations which signaled the beginning of each new school year. The future was ahead. Mysterious, unknown and sometimes frightening. But always exciting, and certainly worth talking about.

Soon, though, words of the future began to reverse direction and turn backward, back to other times and to other places, to where things really were, and away from what might be.

These were the times and places, he hoped, that would become a permanent part of all her tomorrows.

"I remember the beach," she'd say, "and all the peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, and the lemonade. You always made lemonade."

The man knew that thoughts of the beach were very old, for he and his family had spent the last fifteen years at the lake.

How old could she have been? Four? Maybe five? "Do you remember Sue?," she'd ask.

"Remind me," the man would say.

"She was the girl who took us on those pony rides one summer."

He remembered the summer, he remembered the ponies, but he did not remember the girl's name. His daughter did, and he was glad for that.

The road to school was becoming shorter now, and the man drove slower, for stories of family times together flowed ever so smoothly from his daughter's lips. He did not want the ride to end, certainly not while visions of happy times danced beautifully against the windows of his automobile.

As his daughters marched the inevitable journey toward adulthood, the man and his wife did all they could to carve out memories, not just for the girls, but for themselves as well. Knowing their time together would be temporary, those memories would allow each to always have a part of the other. Neither time nor distance, no matter how great, could ever take that away.

As the school began to loom ever larger in the distance, a feeling of separation began to touch both father and daughter, though a cloak of false bravado did its best to blanket their emotions.

When the final item was lifted from the trunk and a last hug was exchanged, the cloak became frayed and good-byes could only be uttered through cracking voices.

The drive home was a long one for the man.

It always was.

Powers Honored With Endorsement At Labor Day Breakfast

On Monday, September 7 at the Park Plaza Hotel in Boston, Mike Powers, candidate for District One School Committee (East Boston, North End, West End and Charlestown) was given his official endorsement by Charles "Chuck" Raso, President of the Boston Building and Construction Trades Council. The event marked the 100th anniversary of organized labor in the United States and was attended by over 1,000 people from unions across the state.

Powers stated, "It is a great honor to be invited here today to attend this momentous occasion in the history of the Labor movement in the United States. It is befitting that the 100th anniversary of organized labor coincides with the

The two endorsements bring a total of six consecutive endorsements for Mike Powers' candidacy. In addition to these important union groups, Powers has been endorsed by the Inter-

McDonough said that the program will continue after a threat that the City had run out of funding, but the situation was rectified by some fast moving politicians. As youths may continue to sail until the end of October on their own initiative, Monday through Friday from 3:00 to 6:00 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., McDonough said that the program will also be incorporated into the physical education department of the Boston high schools. He predicted that next summer the sailing program will be "twice as big as this year."

DiLibero Calls For More Police

Remember the days when police officers walked the beat around Boston's neighborhoods? The days when you weren't taking your life into your own hands by walking home at night after visiting a friend? Maria DiLibero, District One Council Candidate, remembers those days.

She also remembers the afternoon not too long ago when she came home and discovered a break-in. And the late night phone call from a friend stranded downtown because her car was stolen.

It would be an understatement to say that crime has increased in our lifetime. DiLibero believes that there simply aren't enough police officers on the beat to balance this increase. What's more, "The abuse and harassment officers receive from some citizens is grossly unfair," says DiLibero. "The solution is a larger, more efficient street force."

MARIA DiLIBERO, District One City Council candidate, talking to Officer Nick Saggese, in front of the East Boston police station.

DiLibero is puzzled by the fact that with the millions of dollars the City of Boston has in its budget, only a small portion is earmarked for upgrading the Boston Police Department. Maria says, "To maintain a top-notch police department, funds are needed. Back in 1979 our police force consisted of over 2,800 officers. Today, we have 1,800. It's 12 years later, Boston has grown enormously, and we have fewer police! Expanding street coverage should be a top priority in the budget process."

Maria DiLibero is an East Boston businesswoman, wife and mother of three.

Picarello Questions Travaglini's Full Time And Effective Platform

ANTHONY "SKIP" PICARELLO

Anthony "Skip" Picarello, democratic candidate for city council in district one, has campaigned hard over the past nine months on his past political record of accomplishments and on a commitment to residents of the district to represent them honestly and to the best of his ability. The current councillor, Robert Travaglini, on the other hand has campaigned with the theme "Full Time and Effective." Apparently the councillor or his staff has not looked up the word effective in the dictionary. Effective means to produce the intended or expected result.

Picarello asks: Is the following being effective to produce intended results?

Question 1: Antrim Street
It was just a home for eight mentally ill homeless people. Letters were sent to the councillor and other officials one month in advance by the Department of Mental Health on the use of this home. The councillor did not take the necessary action to make the community aware of the situation and co-ordinate with the Mental Health Department to prepare the neighborhood for the introduction of such a facility. Fully effective — NO.

Question 2: Brandywine Village

Hundreds of residents may lose their home due to condo conversion or loss of rent protection in this development. The current councillor failed to support the residents by not voting for the total eviction ban. Instead he supported a watered down bill that would protect some of the tenants and not all of the tenants. Fully effective — NO.

Question 3: Chelsea Street Traffic

Overflow traffic from

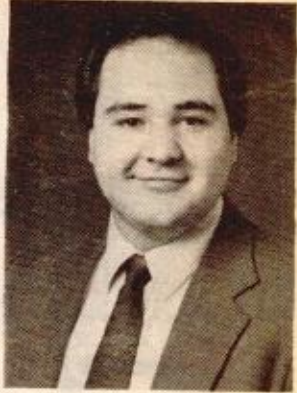

Logan Airport is choking the life out of the merchants and residents from Day Square to the tunnel entrance. The current councillor has consistently vacillated over this issue. Fully effective — NO.

Question 4: Charlestown One-Way Streets

With construction, narrow streets and a thickly populated area, traffic in Charlestown is a constant problem. The current councillor proposed a change in the traffic flow on some one-way streets. He made this proposal without discussing the change with all the residents to determine the impact it would have. Fully effective — NO.

Is this full-time and effective? Anthony Picarello does not think so. Picarello will use his experience as a senatorial aide, dealing with everyday problems of residents of the district... plus his three years experience in Boston City Government as a liaison in business and community issues in East Boston and the North End to work for the people of the district. Picarello reminds everyone to please vote in the primary election on Tuesday, September 22nd. (political release)

Markis Stresses Importance Of Early Childhood Education

PAUL MARKIS

Paul M. Markis, candidate for the Boston School Committee - District One seat, spoke before a group of parents and educators on the subject of early childhood development.

"Early childhood education has an affect on successful learning throughout the students' school years," suggested Markis. Any long range educational planning must address elementary (K-5) school issues.

Markis outlined a number of measures that would enhance student learning in the elementary years. As a first step, Markis believes that the lower grades should have a reduced class size, with a teacher : student ratio of no more than 1 to 20.

A curriculum must be developed in cooperation with all services offered in the school to maximize the students' learning day. Staff, teachers and aides, should participate in workshop and course series designed to inform them on teaching methods.

Any education plan must include parental involvement. Parents and school committee members must voice their concerns and have input to programs which they believe will help the school system.

The current student assignment process should be restructured to allow students to remain in the same school for kindergarten and grades 1-5. "Movement at this age disrupts the continuity of their early learning experience," stated Markis. In addition, students face bus rides with inadequate supervision, fear of safety and a dwindling number of crossing guards.

"The school committee must take an active role in debating educational issues," stressed Markis. To understand the needs of the students and develop effective programs, Markis believes that school committee members should have some hands on experience in the classroom working with the students that they are developing programs for.

Markis has proven educational experience. He is a past chairperson of the Boston Community Schools City-wide Board, a teacher/counselor for the East Boston City Roots Alternative High School and this year is an Educational Assistant for the East Boston Adult Basic Education Program.

Markis concluded by stating, "We need practical solutions on the school committee, not the everyday rhetoric that we have been receiving." (political release)

Murphy Pledges To Work To Solve Problems Of The Neighborhoods

Stephen J. Murphy of Hyde Park, a longtime political activist and civic leader, officially kicked off his campaign for an at-large seat on the Boston City Council recently on the steps of City Hall.

Murphy, a former senior legislative aide to Senate President William M. Bulger, targeted a number of problems that the city faces and promised to work hard as a member of the council to solve them.

"As an at-large city councillor," Murphy said, "I will work to solve the problems of each and every neighborhood. When you get right down to it, the problems are just about the same in every neighborhood."

"Because of my work for the Senate President on the harbor cleanup and the siting of the incinerator, many people have called me a 'born again environmentalist.' I do care about the quality of the air and the water, but there's a greater environment that I'm concerned about.

"I care about the environment of fear that we live in because of crime in the streets and against our property.

"I'm concerned about an environment in which too many people live in poverty and where many people cannot find adequate housing. Jobs and housing — we need more of both.

"I'm disturbed about the environment of failure that exists in our schools. We cannot have our young people growing up in an environment of failure.

"I deplore an environment where city services — such as street cleaning and repair, trash collection, proper medical care and police response — are not delivered in a timely and efficient manner.

"I care about all of those environmental problems — those and much more."

Murphy also said that he would issue his proposals for adding 1,000 police officers, increasing the housing supply while retaining each neighborhood's traditional characteristics, asserting the city's role in the harbor cleanup and paring

STEPHEN J. MURPHY the school committee budget, which he called "bloated and unrealistic."

Murphy said that he expected the disposal of Boston's trash to become an issue in the current campaign. "It's dormant right now," he said, "but the next council will be called on to vote on, if not the siting, the means of transporting the trash to the incinerator. Each councillor will have to vote for what's best for the city as a whole. It will take courage and wisdom, and that's where the four at-large councillors will be vitally important and pivotal."

Assessing the city's economic future, Murphy said he would push for enhancement of tourist programs as "an industry we've only begun to tap" and accelerating linkage payments to put developers on a "pay-as-you-go" basis.

Townies Drub Rhinos . . . 29 - 0

by Dan O'Neil

The Charlestown Town Team is play-off bound after drubbing the Rhode Island Rhinos 29-0 in last Friday night's football game.

The win is the second shut-out in a row for the young Town Team. Town Team coordinator, Larry Mulcahy, said before the game, "This is what we have been working for these past two years, a chance to make the play-offs." Rhode Island was mathematically eliminated after the loss; even if they should win their last two games and the Townies lose their two remaining games . . . Charlestown would be in because of head-to-head records. The Townies won both contests. Mulcahy also added, "I'm not trying to put the horse before the cart, but if Hyde Park loses tonight, we have a good shot at fourth place." Hyde Park did lose and the Townies are locked in a tie for fourth place. Both teams have four wins each and they play in the season's final game at Charlestown.

The game started a half hour late under clear skies with the temperature a cool 64°. The Townies scored early and often, scoring 16 unanswered points on their first three positions.

The Rhinos were threatening early, but Scott Geezil paid his dues and intercepted a Rhode Island pass at the Townie eight yard line. The interception broke Rhode Island's back early in the game.

Rhode Island kicked-off and Jeff McCarthy ran it out from the 18 yard line to the 43 of Charlestown. Ed Vargas carried the first two downs for a total gain of eight yards. With third and two, quarterback Paul Soracco passed and completed at the Rhino 48. Rhode Island was called for a late hit and the ball was moved to the 32. On first down, the Soracco pass was incomplete. On second down, Soracco stepped back behind great protection and found Leo Boucher open. Boucher made a great catch and suddenly the Townies had the ball on the Rhino four yard line. On the first play, Eddie Vargas ran it in behind lineman Big John Killoran. Daryle Walke was back in the line-up and the conversion was good. C-Town was in the lead 7-0.

Rhode Island took the kick-off and started at their 12 yard line. It looked as though the Rhinos were going to jump back into it and quickly. Rhode Island drove up field to the Town Team 27 yard line. Rhode Island dropped to pass and Townie secondary man Scott Geezil came out of nowhere and made a diving interception between two Townies and a Rhode Island receiver; a gutsy play by Geezil.

The Townie offense took over at the eight. With second and eight at the ten, head coach John Houlihan used some imagination and tried the old flea-flicker again; last week against the Bears, it just missed connecting. Soracco handed the ball off to Vargas . . . Vargas faked the run and held the ball until the last possible second. Then he tossed the ball back to Soracco who threw the ball 50 yards down field to a streaking Jeff McCarthy. The Townies were on the Rhode Island 35. Jimbo Murphy moved the ball down to the 30 yard line on a screen pass. The home team moved the ball down to the 18 and on fourth down the Townies called on Walke's leg. The ball was set on the 23 and Walke kicked it down the middle for the score. The Townies were up 10-0.

The flea-flicker worked to perfection. Just as Vargas got rid of the ball, he got nailed. A good drive by Charlestown.

Rhode Island took the kick-off out to the 30 yard line and on the second play, the Rhinos tried to pass the ball. It was intended for a receiver down-field, when sticky fingers Brian Tobin stepped in front of the receiver and picked the ball off. A face mask penalty was called against Rhode Island and the Townies were knocking at the door once again at the Rhode Island 28. The Townies moved the ball to the 19 and with fourth and one, Paul Soracco went over center for the first down. With 3:50 left in the half, Soracco found Jeff McCarthy in the end-zone for the score. The kick was blocked and the Townies were up 16-0.

The Townies kicked off and Rhode Island had the ball on their 40. The Townie defense held and the secondary came through breaking up three passing attempts. Jeff McCarthy took the punt and returned it 25 yards to the Town Team 40.

The Townies went into a two minute drill and drove down field to the Rhino two yard line. With 12 seconds left, Paul Soracco went over the tackle for the score. The conversion try failed, but the Townies were blowing them out 22-0.

The Townies kicked off to open the second half. The ball came down on the five yard line to speedster, Tracey Almedia. Almedia went straight up field, cut right, cut left, and went 95 yards for a T.D. that would be called back because of a clipping penalty. It was the best run of the year. The ball was placed on the Rhode Island 33. The Rhinos tried getting back into it with a passing game, but the C-Town secondary was doing a fine job. The third period ended and the Townies were still in the lead 22-0.

The fourth period opened with the Townies in possession at their 48. Two passes later, they were on the Rhode Island 10. Soracco hit Jeff McCarthy for a 40 yard pass and an eighteen yarder. These two players have proven to be the most effective passing combination in the Eastern Football League. The drive stalled at the one half yard line. With third and one yard to go for a touchdown, Jimbo Murphy ran into a brick wall and on fourth down, Soracco could find no one open.

The teams swapped possessions and the Rhinos were deep in their own territory when they fumbled and the Townies received at the Rhino nine yard line. A personal foul was assessed against C-Town and the ball was moved back to the 24. Bobby Kahill was at quarter (continued on page 16)

Columbus "Jams" On Sunday, Friars To Face Pope John

by Bob DeCristoforo, Athletic Director

There will be a "dress rehearsal" of sorts come this Sunday afternoon. The Catholic Central High School Football League Jamboree will be taking place at Cardinal Spellman High School in Brockton.

Christopher Columbus High School will face Pope John in the 2:00 p.m. mini-game. No matter what the circumstances, Pope John and Columbus face-offs have always been "high spirited" athletic events, and this should be no different.

JAMBOREE SCHEDULE

12:30 p.m.	Cathedral	vs.	Marian
1:15 p.m.	Saint Mary	vs.	Arlington Catholic
2:00 p.m.	COLUMBUS	vs.	Pope John
2:45 p.m.	Dom Savio	vs.	Archbishop Williams
3:30 p.m.	Fenwick	vs.	Matignon
4:15 p.m.	Austin Prep	vs.	Cardinal Spellman

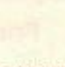

Tickets for the Jamboree are on sale at Christopher Columbus High School and at all participating schools. The Football Friars have already had two successful scrimmages against Charlestown and Dorchester, and this Friday they will face South Boston in another pre-season contest.

Volleyball and Cheerleading practices continue this week as both these teams are preparing for their Fall seasons.

The Christopher Columbus High School Running Club is going to be revived this year and any student interested should speak to the Athletic Director during the first days of school.

Congratulations to Carolyn Shannon and Pat Considine and all those involved with the successful "Teen Connection" Benefit Bruins Softball . . . once again another plus for the Charlestown teens!

Charlestown Versus Boston Bruins Softball Game Benefits The Charlestown Teen Connection

terback, he rolled right and turned on the after-burners and was clothes-lined at the Rhino two yard line. The Townies were off-side on the next play and the ball was on the seven yard line. Kahill would not be denied. This time he rolled left and dove into the end-zone for the score, with a minute to go in the game. The kick was good and the Townies won it 29-0.

All and all, the Town Team looked real good for the second game in a row. They have out-scored their opponents 55-0 in the past two games. Granted, Rhode Island and Cape Cod are not the best teams in the league, but last year both of these teams beat the Townies.

Paul Soracco and Jeff McCarthy could be the best passing combination in the league. Running backs Murphy and Vargas balance the attack. Gary McNeil is still nursing a bad shoulder, but could be back in the line-up for the play-offs. He will be needed down the stretch. The offensive line lead by John Killoran looks good.

Defensively: the secondary keeps coming up with big plays.

Daryle Walke and the kicking game are a little rusty. Walke missed a few games and was not 100% for this game. He said he will be ready for Middleboro. Three weeks ago, he was injured in the game against Middleboro.

The Townies must play well against Middleboro next Friday. They must avoid costly errors in order to win.

The Town Team wishes Bobby Allen a speedy recovery.

The star of the game? Paul Soracco.

The Charlestown Town Team will play Middleboro at 8:30 p.m. on Friday, September 11 at the Lt. Michael Quinn Athletic Facility, Medford Street.

Daughters of Isabella To Present The Princeman Chorus

The Daughters of Isabella No. 1 will present an evening of entertainment on Thursday, October 15 at 7:00 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 75 West School Street. The event will feature the Princemen Chorus.

The Princemen Chorus, as they are now known, was formed in October of 1980. It has a musical history, however, dating back to the mid-thirties. It began when the Sacred Heart Crusaders, moderated by Father John J. Sheehan of Sacred Heart Church, Malden, won the 1940 New York World's Fair National Championship. This attracted the attention of the Lt. Norman Prince Post 1506 VFW in Boston who offered to sponsor the Crusaders in statewide VFW competitions. Thus was born the association which continues today and which in 1946 became the Senior VFW Drum Corps of that Post and won its first VFW National Championship in Boston. The nationally renowned organization has participated in competitions around the country throughout the years, gathering five national championships from 1946 to 1955 and finishing in the top five for the most of their years through 1983. In September of 1982, the corps was inducted into the Hall of Fame in Allentown, Pennsylvania, an achievement reserved for very few.

An alumni association was formed in 1967 and has met regularly. In October 1980, members suggested that Joe McNaught, the former music instructor, arrange a four-part harmony to "spark up" their meetings. That group of 15 men has grown into the present large 45 member chorus, all Norman Prince Alumni, wearing uniforms of the original black and gold colors.

The musical notoriety of this group has resulted in many requested appearances throughout the state. They have performed for many veterans' functions, hospitals, nursing homes, homes for the elderly and institutions. Their appearance in Worcester last year brought about a special invitation to appear at the Veterans' Day Ceremonies at the State House Hall of Flags in Boston. The marble halls of the Rotunda rang out with the rich sounds produced by the Chorus from this special event and received personal commendation from Governor Michael Dukakis. Following this, the Governor requested that the Chorus become a permanent part of the annual ceremonies in the Hall of Flags and other appropriate State functions, when available.

And so, the Princemen Chorus now takes its own place in history as its calendar fills with requests for performances far and wide. Jim Pinette is President of the Lt. Norman Prince Drum and Bugle Corps Alumni and also director of the Chorus since its formation. May of 1986 marked the 40th Anniversary of the Senior Corps and the 50th Anniversary of the original Junior Corps. Many of the original members are still together and performing.

The performance by the Chorus in Charlestown on October 15th will be preceded by a hot chicken pie buffet.

Tickets, priced at $8.00 per person, will go on sale September 15 at the Knights of Columbus Hall or by contacting Chairman Gladys Gauthier at 242-2627, Judy Burton at 241-2913 or Mary Callahan at 396-6490. Full tables will be reserved.

AARP To Meet

guest speaker will be Wendell Coltin, former newspaperman and now senior adviser for Blue Cross/Blue Shield. He will be making the complicated world of health care coverage understandable. There will be a question and answer period following his presentation. Guests are welcome.

Mayor Involves Neighborhoods In Central Artery Project

Mayor Raymond L. Flynn introduced a team of traffic and engineering consultants to a group of neighborhood leaders recently at the Parkman House. Campbell and Associates will be working with the city's Transportation Department to assist Boston residents in actively participating in all phases of the Central Artery/Third Harbor Tunnel Project.

Charlestown residents Dennis McLaughlin and Rich Johnston, along with Judy Evers, Charlestown Liaison from the Mayor's Office of Neighborhood Services, were present at the meeting.

Headed by traffic expert Bruce Campbell, Mayor Flynn said that "the consulting team will work to ensure that residents from Boston neighborhoods that will be impacted by the massive $3 billion construction project have a strong say in how the project is done."

The mayor assured the neighborhood representatives that he would work to see a cooperative relationship be developed between the Boston neighborhoods, which will bear the brunt of the ten year project, and the Commonwealth which will oversee it through the state's Department of Public Works.

Transportation Commissioner Richard Dimino said, "Since federal funding for the project — which is set to begin as early as next year — was announced this March, the mayor has consistently pushed for a tripartite agreement between the state, the city and Boston neighborhoods through which communities will know about, and have a voice, through every step of the decade long construction process. Campbell and Associates will be working directly for my department to ensure that the community is informed and involved."

At the Parkman House meeting, Mayor Flynn promised, "if an issue arises between what is best for the state and what is best for the neighborhoods, we will come down on the side of the city and its neighborhoods every time."

The state is set to begin a series of community meetings regarding the project within 60 days. According to Don Gillis, director of the Mayor's Office of Neighborhood Services, "The City of Boston is developing a strategy to insure full and ongoing citizen participation and we expect the State to respond to neighborhood concerns."

"Many of the impacted neighborhoods — from East Boston to South Boston," Gillis went on to say, "want to be actively in-involved in the planning and implementation process of this project. They have clearly articulated their concerns." Commissioner Dimino added, "Campbell and Associates will be working with our office and with the communities to guarantee that those concerns will be heard."

Dimino also noted that Campbell has assembled a team of engineering, construction and traffic experts to assist the city in monitoring plans for the project and making sure that neighborhoods have the necessary information to advocate for their needs.

Those wishing additional information about the Central Artery/Third Harbor Tunnel project or wishing to speak to the Campbell's consultant team, should call Susan Hitchcock, executive secretary to Commissioner Dimino, at 725-4641.

New Charlestown JobStart To Be Featured At Merchants Meeting

Professional Development Will Create Effective Education

Professional development is at the heart of creating effective education, says District One School Committee candidate Stephen Tassinari. He said the Boston School System needed to invest not just in students but in the people who are their role models; teachers, administrators and support personnel.

"Any contribution to the success of teachers and administrators is a direct contribution to the success of students," said Tassinari.

Tassinari said he believed the school department had an obligation to formulate and implement a policy of professional development. He said the system should look to outside resources to provide the necessary funding.

He said that he agreed with the school department's study committee recommendations increasing the amount and frequency of professional development time, revising the performance evaluation instrument and process and committing funds to develop a working model. He added, however, that funds should come from outside sources until the system has a better handle on its own budget.

"Private funding and grant money is out there," said Tassinari. "The School Department just has to aggressively seek it."

He said that he disagreed that more central support staff was necessary at this point, however.

"The key element in staff development is the school principal," said Tassinari. "Adding more layers on central administration staff doesn't seem like a cost effective way to handle the problem."

Tassinari said the roles of principal and school development officer, which now exists at the high school level, should be expanded.

"The School Development Officer is one of the most important administrative concepts we've seen in Boston," said Tassinari. "Properly used, they can be very effective. I propose that the school department investigate the feasibility of expanding the responsibilities of the existing School Development Officers to the city's middle and elementary schools and include staff development as one of their roles.

"It is just the kind of thinking I hope to bring to the School Committee," said Tassinari. "We must recognize the talent and resources we have and use it effectively. Rather than building new layers of administration, let's use what we have before we begin restructuring. That makes dollars and cents sense as well as educational sense." (political release)

The Case Has Been Completed

To the Editor:

Over the past few months you may have received letters in reference to the case of the Commonwealth vs. Richard Lindsay, which resulted in the tragic death of Michael DeLuca. During the pendency of this case my office has been unable to respond to these letters due to constraints imposed on prosecutors by the Canons of Ethics. Public comment by my office on pending cases is inappropriate.

On Monday, August 31, 1987, the case of Commonwealth vs. Richard Lindsay was completed. The defendant pled guilty and received a seven to nine year MCI Cedar Junction sentence. The defendant was immediately incarcerated and will lose his license to operate a motor vehicle in the Commonwealth for ten years. This result occurred only six months after the defendant's arraignment in Superior Court.

Unfortunately, due to the overcrowded jails and the limited number of trial sessions, most cases must wait much longer before a final disposition.

Newman Flanagan
District Attorney of Suffolk County

My Thanks

I would like to thank the many people and businesses who never say "No" when asked to help the children of the Bunker Hill Housing Development.

It was my pleasure, along with Team Police Officers Al Whiffen and Don Keeler, to organize and run the cookout part of our Fifth Annual Cookout for the Development.

The Boston Housing Authority and the Tenants' Task Force are to be thanked for being the major fund raisers.

Thanks to the Boston Police Athletic League for the use of their first class cooking equipment. Thanks also to Leo Mathews for his excellent products; to the D'Arrigo Brothers of Chelsea for their juicy watermelons; to Mr. O'Neil for help with the ice; Father Reilly for the use of Saint Catherine's facilities; Bill Foley of the National Park Service; Judi Meaney, director of Elderly Services for the Kennedy Center; Tony Costa; and Kathy of Cee Jay Subs, Milton.

Also, thanks to the Development's good friends and helpers including Bob Pelletier, Ellie Ortiz, Jay Crowley, Ed Swirbalus, Louise Fama, "Bubba" and the many others who always help without question.

Charlestown Police Line

From The Desk Of
Deputy Superintendent Ronald X. Conway
Area A, Boston Police Department

Monday, August 31

A Charlestown resident was arrested by Officers O'Meara and O'Laughlin on a default warrant for breaking into a building.

Tuesday, September 1

At about noon, two men entered the Cagney's Video store at 251 Main Street. One man was described as 25 years old with a shamrock tattoo on his right hand. The other man, also described as 25 years old, showed a black handgun and demanded the receipts from the register and a VCR. Both men fled down Main Street.

Wednesday, September 3

A Somerville resident was arrested by Officer Bollen on Alford Street for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

Vandalism was done to the McDonald's Restaurant at 21 Austin Street by unknown individuals who broke the glass window.

Two Everett men were arrested at Medford Street and Old Ironsides Way for possession of cocaine with the intent to distribute. Detectives Lally and Pierce observed a sale of the drug occurring and suspects were found to have 14 bags of cocaine in their possession.

Thursday, September 4

At about 4:45 p.m., two white males about 17 years of age entered the Main Street Market at 435 Main Street wearing ski masks and holding handguns. They stole the receipts and fled the scene on foot.

Friday, September 5

A Chelsea resident was arrested by Officer Costine at City Square for operating under the influence of liquor.

An automobile was vandalized on Belmont Street by an individual described as about 18 years old, wearing a blue jacket and blue jeans.

Saturday, September 7

At around 3:50 p.m. at Main and Salem Streets, Officers O'Connell and Warren responded to a radio call for a man stabbed. Upon arrival, the officers found blood at the scene. Further investigation revealed that a Charlestown resident saw that the victim had been stabbed three times in the back. A passerby had transported the victim to Massachusetts General Hospital in his vehicle. Further investigation by Detectives McNelley, Leahy and Donahue resulted in apprehension of a suspect. Continued investigation revealed that the suspect was stabbed by the victim last October.

These incidents are under investigation by the Detectives of Area A.

Residents are reminded: If you know of any drug activity in your neighborhood, call the Boston Police Hotline at 247-4697. It is not necessary to give your name and all information will be investigated.

Commissioner Roache Issues Motorists Safe Driving Reminder As Schools Open

Police Commissioner Francis M. Roache joins Massachusetts AAA in urging motorists to drive extra carefully, as children in Boston return to school.

Many children in kindergarten and first grade are coping with traffic on their own for the first time and may not be aware of pedestrian safety rules.

Commissioner Roache advised concerned motorists that, "Safe driving is a year-round responsibility, but it is even more important as schools open. Keep alert and always obey the posted speed limit, but especially in school zones."

As part of its annual "School's Open" safety campaign, AAA of Massachusetts and the Boston Police Department, through the Bureau of Neighborhood Services, are distributing free "School's Open - Drive Carefully" bumper stickers.

The bumper stickers may be obtained at the Area A Police Station, or by contacting Officer Bill O'Connell at the Boston Police Department's Bureau of Neighborhood Services, telephone 247-4345.
