Public Meeting On Designs For Thompson And Hayes Squares

On Thursday, April 17th at 7:30 p.m., Charlestown residents will be able to view preliminary design alternatives for Thompson and Hayes Squares. The chosen artists, Jeffrey Schiff for Thompson Square and Lu Stubbs for Hayes Square, will be present along with CBT architects Nicholas Reed and Rebecca Krinke, to present their collaborative design efforts. The meeting will take place at the Charlestown Branch Library, 179 Main Street, in the second floor Lecture Hall.

At the last public meeting on March 3rd, CBT presented landscape and circulation analyses, and reviewed design opportunities and constraints pertaining to each square. A review of the public questionnaires followed, which provided a list of the community's desires for each square. A question and answer period followed.

This will be the last public meeting before the Charlestown Preservation Society and the Bunker Hill Tenants Task Force present the final designs to the Browne Fund. The Browne Fund previously provided a grant to these organizations for the beautification of these respective squares.

Opinions regarding these designs are highly valued by both organizations, as well as the participating architects and artists. All Charlestown residents are encouraged to attend this meeting.

Teenage Suicide Prevention Forum

by Marianne Martin

"From the time you enter this room until the time you leave, one adolescent will commit suicide," began Dr. Lonnie Carton, host of WEEI Radio 590's "The Learning Center", at a forum on Teen Suicide Prevention held at the Charlestown High School on Thursday, April 3, 1986.

Teenage suicide is increasing in this country at an alarming rate. In the past 25 years, the rate of teenage suicide has tripled, and even closer to home, in Charlestown, there were four attempted suicides this past year. The statistics are frightening, and even more frightening, is that this problem shows no signs of lessening unless parents, family, and friends learn how to be understanding of teenage problems, and learn to be supportive.

The forum, sponsored by WEEI, the Charlestown Boys and Girls Club, and the Charlestown Community Schools, addressed not only some of the reasons why children kill themselves, but also explored some of the early warning signs, what kind of young person is apt to take his own life, and how to prevent these suicides.

Carton, a noted expert in the field of Child Development, told the audience that

Annual Easter Egg Hunt

by Kathy Giordano

The Annual Easter Egg Hunt, sponsored by Saint Mary's Parish, was held this year under a beautiful blue sky and soaring temperatures. This annual event began after the Children's Mass with the youngsters marching from the Church, up Winthrop Street and onto the Training Field grounds, led by Father Tom Brennan, a Salesian Father from Don Bosco Technical High School who assists at Saint Mary's on weekends.

Over one hundred children scurried through the grass to find the brightly colored eggs, while Mr. and Mrs. Bunny distributed balloons to one and all.

MAKE YOUR KITCHEN SHINE!

Most of our customers rank a good kitchen very high on their priority lists when looking for a new home. They'll consider the layout, the amount of counter space and storage, and the age and overall condition of the appliances. Even more important, however, they will see their new kitchen as the center for nourishing their family and sharing many meals.

When you're thinking about selling your home, take a hard look at your kitchen, and consider how to make it an asset. First, have any plumbing leaks or broken appliances repaired. It also pays to scrub the room down, paying special attention to the range and oven. Go through the refrigerator to make sure you throw out last year's onion dip and any other moldie oldies that might look or smell offensive, and place a box of baking soda inside.

Sometimes little fix-ups can do wonders. Hang some pretty pot holders over the stove. Make some new curtains or wash and starch your present ones. You don't need a brand new, high-tech kitchen to impress buyers, but whatever you do have should look as homey and well maintained as possible.

For professional advice on buying or selling property, contact Century 21, Silva Realty Associates. Call us at 242-7470 or stop by our offices at 142 Main Street.

Charlestown - To - Charlestown
The Mayor • The Rose • The Tour

by John 'Fox' McLaughlin

This article is not intended as a "can you top this" kind of a thing, but I am writing it from my very comfortable seat aboard a luxurious Shamrock Jet, 20,000 feet in the air, on my way to Ireland.

What a beautiful sight, the sun is shining brightly on the mountainous white clouds. As we approach the Emerald Isle, we get our first view of the forty shades of green on a truly glorious Easter Sunday morning that makes me proud of my Irish heritage.

I bow my head in silence for a moment in honor of the brave Irishmen and women who worked so hard and endured hardships, that we might have a better life.

The members of the Charlestown - To - Charlestown Committee are grateful for the support we have received in the past four years in our efforts to perpetuate Irish heritage.

My special thanks to Gloria Conway, editor of the Patriot, and the Bunker Hill Council Number 62, Knights of Columbus, for without their support over the years, we would not have been able to accomplish any of our successful events.

This year's mayoral race was a very exciting one. I am sure "Mayor" Crilley will represent Charlestown with the same integrity as have the past three "Mayors". I understand he has a few appointments unsold as of last Friday.

Thanks to Fran Scadding and her many hard working supporters for a great contribution.

It is great to see that Ellie Marino has recovered from her accident which caused her to get off to a slow start, but she had a great finish. After one night in Killarney with us, Ellie, you will feel like a teenager again.

Lisa Collins, enjoy your weekend at the Irish Village — you earned it. Thanks for your support.

In the past three Rose Festivals, Charlestown has presented us a total of 39 Roses. In my conversations with the various judges, they have all indicated that they have been so very impressed by all the Roses. Thanks, Roses, you are a credit to your parents, your Irish heritage, and to Charlestown.

This year's Rose Festival will be held on Friday evening, May 30th at the Knights of Columbus Hall. If you are a young woman of Irish descent, between the ages of 18 and 23, and would like to represent Charlestown as the Charlestown Irish Rose in the Western Irish Rose Festival this summer, you may obtain your application at the Mary Colbert Apartments, 20 Devens Street on Monday evening, April 14th.

The Charlestown Rose and her escort will receive an all expense paid tour of Ireland and a custom made gown designed for her by Priscilla of Boston. The Rose selected by the judges in Ireland as the Western Irish Rose, will receive a trip to Paris for herself and her escort.

If you have a sister or daughter, niece or granddaughter who meets the eligibility requirements, a little encouragement could produce a Rose in the family.

Ireland, where every county has its stories and every path has its memories, is where our tour will be taking us from August 6 through August 17, 1986. This may be the last year to see Ireland at a reasonable price. The prices over here have increased significantly and are expected to go much higher.

Perhaps you have been wracking your brain for the perfect gift for someone special or perhaps it's time you have that vacation you have been putting off. Some space is still available. Send us the coupon in the advertisement below for details.

If you are unable to join us on the tour of Ireland this summer, an old friend and co-founder of the Charlestown-To-Charlestown Committee, Dennis McLaughlin, can make you feel at home at his new McLaughlin's Shamrock Village Restaurant and Pub, located in Hampton Beach, New Hampshire on Ashwood Avenue at "A" Street. ## Teenage Suicide Prevention Forum suicide, or attempted suicide, is not "just a cry for help, but a cry of pain. And this pain is real." Over 6,000 individuals between the ages of 15 and 24 years kill themselves each year, and over 10,000 attempt to. According to Carton, these figures translate to approximately 15 deaths each day.

While there are no concrete reasons why an individual who appears to "have everything to live for" would opt to take his or her own life, Carton pointed to the daily pressures society places on today's teenager to grow up too fast. "We all live in the fast lane," began the doctor, "but for today's adolescent the lane is getting faster. It's more difficult to grow up today, than ever before," continued Carton, "And while it is quite normal for an individual to feel pressure, for some adolescents it's too much."

The speaker stressed while she was not "an apologist for children," she saw their struggle as "living in a vacuum." Each child goes through the "cutting of the second umbilical cord," stated Carton, where socially, emotionally, and physically, they "cut away from their family support system to peer support, and it's not the same."

According to the doctor, society teaches youngsters to seek "instant gratification but it takes maturity to be patient. Children learn to want it now, rather than wait, and to the child in emotional pain, they believe the logic of "instant gratification" in seeking an "instant remedy." "When they find this can not be realized, they see their struggle as never ending," added the speaker.

While every human being experiences periods of depression, social pressures, and other emotionally trying times, Carton stated adolescents are unable to see that life can change. "They haven't lived long enough," stated Carton, "They lack the historical perspective of knowing things will get better." To the teenager, theirs is a life like that of a prisoner, compared Carton, who is beaten, everyday by the guards and there is no escape, "it's a life sentence."

There are several warning signs which parents, friends, and family should be aware of in order to prevent teenage suicide. One sign is if an adolescent "even jokingly" talks about killing him or herself. Carton stated that eight out of ten individuals who actually commit suicide, have talked about it first. Other warning signs included changes in a child's behavior like eating or sleeping habits, sudden personality withdrawal, or poor school work. Carton told parents to note "anything that is not within the natural realm of a youngster's behavior," like drug or alcohol abuse, or giving away one's possessions.

Parents must walk "a balanced line" between spotting normal teenage behavior and potential trouble. Carton told the audience that the best means of prevention of teenage suicide is communication. "Talking about suicide will not put these thoughts into a child's mind," stressed Carton, but in talking to children, the speaker warned adults against acting like "know-it-alls". Parents must learn to listen and not lecture.

Carton presented the audience with a "profile" of the typical suicide candidate, but emphasized, "Children who don't look like this commit suicide, and some children who do, don't commit suicide. I wish we had some more perfect examples." Typically, nine out of ten attempted suicides are made by females, but, three out of four actual suicides are performed by males. The reason for this, she stated, is that males tend to choose more lethal methods of suicide such as guns, knives or hanging themselves. Girls tend to use methods like sleeping pills which can be intercepted.

The average female suicide candidate is white, quiet, and tends to give more of herself than she receives. Her father is either absent from the home or the girl does not have a close relationship with him.

The typical male is usually the youngest member of the family, which according to Carton, may cause him to feel additional pressure to match other siblings' successes. He also tends to keep things to himself. Carton compared him to "a kettle without a spout to vent steam."

Carton offered those present a "formula" based on the five senses, which adults could use to help their children.

In "hearing," began Carton, "we must create the opportunity for children to express their feelings, but don't mimic or minimize a child's troubles because the child won't come back."

Using the sense of sight, Carton told the audience "to see things as they really are, not the way we think they are."

Touch is an important sense, continued Carton, because it includes large doses of "Vitamin A" — affection, attention and approval. "Remember even if they act big, they aren't. Touch is important, even if you're not a touchy/feely person, or if your child isn't a touchy/feely person, just go slow and go back a second and third time."

As for the sense of taste, Carton said, "All of us need to taste success. All human beings need three basic things: someone to love, someone to love us back and something to do and look forward to."

The sense of smell can be used to "smell out trouble," stated Carton. Often times, when a community experiences a teen suicide, there is what is known as a "cluster effect" where others suicides follow. "We don't know why," stated Carton, "maybe if the suicide is glamorized by the community by the naming of a street or school wing after the teen, another child may see this as a way to be somebody. Even though these tributes are done out of love, they are wrong." In order to prevent this, Carton told the audience to take the first step in "building that bridge" and "talk to our children before they have to talk to us."

"I once wrote a piece for WEEI in which I spoke as a mother whose child had just committed suicide," Carton told the audience, and after the mother had praised her child, there was one line which said, "Wouldn't it have been wonderful if I could have said those things in person and not in eulogy."

After the presentation, Carton answered questions from those in attendance. One woman asked when does a parent or adult know when a child's pain is too great to handle simply by listening to him. Carton compared emotional pain to physical pain. "Do what we would do as a family to help one another out of pain. Just as we would remedy a stomach ache with a heating pad first, and if the pain is too great, call a doctor," this same formula may be applied to emotional pain.

The Bunker Hill Health Center, located at 73 High Street in Charlestown, has a Community Mental Health/Social Service Department. Doctors Mark McCormick and Thomas Frank were both present at the forum and urged residents to take advantage of their services. The Center is open Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., with early morning and evening appointments available, and residents can call 242-5760 to set up an appointment.

Dr. Frank added, "If you are concerned about an adolescent, take the responsibility as a parent and get family help. These adolescents are angry with the world and the fact that someone offers to go get help with the child, gets a child to cooperate." Frank told the gathering that there is also counseling available for parents who need help in understanding their children.

Another woman questioned the increased use of drugs as a contributing factor in the increased suicide rate. Carton was hesitant about singling drug abuse as a reason for suicide, but said it is a sign of something wrong.

Dr. Frank commented while drugs may not be a "specific cause" for teenage suicide, increased drug use may be the result of adolescents "seeking a quick solution to their problems."

Some of the questions posed by the audience could not be answered with a simple response. One such question was, "How can we establish trust in our children?" Carton told the audience that the topic of trust "would take a whole night to address." "I don't want to dismiss the question, but one has to look at such things as how one disciplines the child and what responsibilities parents and children must take". She did note that if a parent hits, belittles, or uses sarcasm when a child is young, it will be hard to talk to the youngster as a teen.

Several commented that stress placed upon children is overwhelming. Zeke Marsden said, "People used to think suicide only happened to the kid at Harvard University who couldn't cut it," but now all kids are caught up in pressure. Jim Conway added, "We have created the pressure where every kid must go to college instead of maybe encouraging a child to learn a trade, where they would be better off."

Another pressure exerted on children, one woman said, is the violence to which children are exposed through the media, "whether it be rape, murder or something that happened in South Africa, and it's not just on 'Miami Vice', but it's the six o'clock news. It's overwhelming."

In order to lessen the pressures and fears of a child, Carton told those present to take the time to be there for their children. She said, "We take each other for granted. A teen should not feel he is taken for granted — he should be told and feel that he is loved."

Before closing her presentation, Carton left the audience with a poem she felt summarized the plight of a child who is in emotional pain, "I am alone, afraid, in a world I never made."

Charlestown High Students Tour Liberty Mutual Warehouse

Forty-one special needs students and Student Leadership Club members from Charlestown High School recently toured Liberty Mutual Insurance Company's Records and Supply warehouse in Stoughton. Offered annually, the field trip is part of the ongoing CHS - Liberty Mutual partnership program, which was established in 1975. According to CHS Flexible Campus Coordinator, Ralph Berkowitz, this tour is designed to give students the opportunity to explore jobs that are available in warehousing and consider their own career options. "Warehousing is a very practical career choice for many of our special needs students," Berkowitz said. "Student Leadership Club members will use what they learn on the trip as a resource to advise other students at CHS," he added.

Jim Force, Manager of Stoughton Records and Supply, guided the students on the tour, and demonstrated how the Stoughton warehouse serves the needs of Liberty Mutual's 200 offices across the United States and Canada. The group visited the Receiving and Shipping dock, where they saw forklift trucks move large crates. They learned how supplies are transported by a recessed track that pulls loaded cart-like "trucks" to pre-programmed areas of the warehouse. They saw how the supplies were organized, stored, packaged, weighed and shipped out.

Upstairs in the records storage area, Force explained how the insurance company's claims records are organized and maintained for 10 to 15 years before they are destroyed. He demonstrated how the Auto Master 500, commonly called the "narrow aisle picker", is used to reach supplies and files on top-shelves, as high as 30 feet above the floor.

"This is the fourth trip that the school has made to Liberty Mutual's warehouse, and it's always great exposure for the kids to see that there are jobs out there that they can do," Berkowitz said. "It gives them a goal to work towards."

Charlestown High School students attending the Liberty Mutual tour were: Diana Bissett, Joseph Silva, Janet Hartung, Lynn Doe, Ansel Hernandez, Guy Galloway, Malcolm Robinson, Feliciano Delvalle, William Green, Henry Ramos, Albert Hunt, Ann Considine, Billy Ross, Donna Hobart, Eric Wimes, Louisa Castillo, Larry Eason, James Foley, Kevin Carlton, Theresa Masca, Gerald DiBeneditto, Fitz O'Byrne, Guida Almeida, Dan Nicolson, Allen Simpkins, Sean McFarlan, Scott Robins, Eugene Boston, Brian McNicholas, Itoa Eaton, Theolonious Ford, Natasha Fortune, Katrina Holifield, John Kelley, Mary Ma, William Matos, Felicia Perkins, Dorothy Richardson, Lisa Rosa, Liana Serano, and Hamilton Williams.

The Life Focus Center in Charlestown is to be given $35,000 from the Charlestown Community Fund to insure the center's operation through the end of the fiscal year. ### Rummage Sale

The Women's Group of The First Baptist Church, 5 Monument Square, Charlestown, will hold a Rummage Sale on Saturday, April 19th from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

Life Focus Center Receives Grant

The Life Focus Center is a non-profit Charlestown-based agency which has been providing vocational and recreational services for retarded and handicapped adults and youngsters in the community for eight years. The Center's current programs include a work program for 21 retarded adults, a Special Needs Program for developmentally delayed adolescents, a supportive work program for quadriplegic adults using voice-activated computers, and a recreational program for 18 wheelchair-bound children and adults.

Since its founding in 1978, the center's operating budget has grown from $10,000 to over $600,000 for this fiscal year. According to the Life Focus Center Director John D. Millerick, the center has incurred debts which must be paid out this year. The $35,000 approved by the BRA Board at its last meeting will give the center the capacity to operate and continue to provide its services to the community.

Boston City Councillor Robert Travaglini spoke before the BRA on April 3rd in support of the center's request for financial assistance from the Charlestown Community Fund, saying, "I give Jack Millerick, his staff, and the program my highest personal recommendation for the funding request. This program is one of the finest in the Commonwealth and it must continue in the community." City Councillor Albert "Dapper" O'Neil also expressed his support for funding assistance before the BRA.

BRA board members Robert Farrell, who lived many years in Charlestown, and James Flaherty increased the original proposal from $25,000 to $35,000 for the Life Focus Center. Farrell said, "The Center is doing an excellent job and is deserving of its request."

On a related matter, in the last round of designations before the BRA, the amount of voluntary contributions for the Charlestown Community Fund was increased from $.50 per square foot to $1.00 per square foot.

Congratulations to our new "Mayor", Joe Crilley. A fine time was had by all at the "Election Night" festivities at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Congratulations also to Fran Scadding, who came in second, Ellie Marino, and Lisa Collins. ### Say No To Pay Hike

If the Boston City Council wants a boost in their pay, they should let the voters of Boston vote on this increase. Furthermore, if the City Council members are unhappy with their salaries, they should resign and run for another public office that pays more money.

At a time when small homeowners are faced with huge tax increases on their property, the Boston City Council wants a 38.5% boost in their pay. This type of irresponsible action is wrong and I shall work to defeat those Councillors who vote themselves huge increases in their pay. That money belongs to the taxpayers and they should decide whether an increase is warranted.

Boston voters should pay close attention to the big tax and spenders and vote them out of office.

Sincerely,
Althea Garrison

Mr. Wheeler Responds — Challenges Community To Act

To The Editor:

Norita Lee would have me hang my head in shame because I said that we have all been guilty of "benign neglect" as guardians for "Old Ironsides" and because I said that the consequences of the planned Northern Artery construction could become a "public relations boondoggle."

I submit that the phrases I used are actually understatements. Who among us can say that proper consideration was given to tourists when the present Routes 1 and 93 construction took place many years ago? Where were we with our great love for "Old Ironsides" when we let tourist parking slip away from us, first in the Navy Yard itself, then in the B.R.A. section of the Navy Yard, then along the Chelsea Street Extension, and more recently, in the new Hoosac Pier area?

Ms. Lee can be forgiven in that had she attended the meeting described in the March 25 Boston Globe article she would have heard me assume my own share of the blame for this past neglect.

But now we have a new threat that is greater than all the others: it is a threat that would not go away even if I were to hang my head in shame. All of the roads in the City Square area are going to be torn up, not for months, as they were during the disastrous summer of 1984, but for years.

At the meeting described in the Globe article, the group representing Charlestown and the National Park Service representative seemed to me to be setting their sights too low; to provide only one hundred parking spaces for over a half a million tourists a year seemed to me to guarantee that residents, tourists, the Museum and the U.S. Navy are all going to be highly upset and vocal. We could quibble forever over the proper choice of words, but "public relations boondoggle" seemed to me to describe what we are headed towards.

State and City officials, unlike Ms. Lee, seem to feel that I performed a service by flagging the situation in time for them to do something about it.

If Charlestown residents want to join with us in doing something about their own love for "Old Ironsides", I have these suggestions. Call me (426-1812) or write (USS Constitution Museum, P.O. Box 1812) to say that you are behind USS Constitution Museum in our quest to restore adequate and secure parking under the Mystic River Bridge. This will provide for the tourists and protect your personal parking interests. Let me know that you are also behind us in our quest to have this area be renamed CONSTITUTION PARK or CONSTITUTION DOCK. Let's face up to the fact that "Old Ironsides" is what people have come to see and that "The Boston National Historical Park" is an unmanageable mouthful that confounds tourists as they try to find their way on our confusing city streets.

Let's not get into a petty squabble over who loves "Old Ironsides" the most. We all love that remarkable vessel: Norita Lee does, I do, you do, and so does every other American. But let's turn this love into action: call me or write to me with your support for adequate and secure parking and with your support for giving the Navy Yard area a name that will be a lasting tribute to your love for USS CONSTITUTION.

If we all do this, we can all hold our heads high as loving and caring guardians of the national shrine that has been entrusted to us.

Sincerely,
Richard C. Wheeler, Director
USS Constitution Museum

'Boston Barons' (U.S.A.) Triumph Abroad!!

by Bernie "Scoop" Kelly

Eddie Johnson, General Manager of the Boston Barons Hockey Club, along with his coaches Johnny Tibbetts, Ron Vitale, and their staff, were jubilant upon arrival from their 12 day European Tour, which concluded on Wednesday, April 2nd, at Logan Airport.

Eddie's "Boston Barons", arrived triumphantly, after their successful challenges of Europe's finest National Junior Hockey Teams, only to be squeezed out in the semi-finals by a stubborn Swiss Team (5-3), who later was defeated by a Norwegian team (3-2) in the Championship Game!

The Baron Coach, John Tibbetts, has nothing but praise for the gladiators, who performed like pros both on and off the ice! John, who believes in team discipline, instructed his top assistant, Ron Vitale, that team discipline will prevail, and as each game attests, they taught their team well! These men know well the importance of restraint for a young hockey player, who can be easily intimidated to commit an unnecessary penalty that jeopardizes a team's chance to win. Their fine training paid off as our Boston Barons won six games and lost two games, for a third place finish in the overall tournament.

Another un-sung workhorse, Steve McDonald, whose responsibility it was to collect, organize and transport the teams' equipment, was highly praised by Eddie Johnson for the outstanding, strictly professional job he performed.

The Baron goalies, Doug Michaels, and his equally fine back-up goalie, David McTavish, both received high marks from Coach Johnny Tibbetts and General Manager Eddie Johnson for their spectacular goal-tending, not to mention how they won the hearts of the fans and look forward to next year's championship cup honors!!

Doug's dad, Bernie Michaels, who made the trip with the team, will be the guest speaker at the Matt O'Neil Senior Hockey League Banquet slated for April 18, 1986 at the Knights of Columbus Hall and will summarize the "Barons" team trip along with our Senior Hockey League's chances to enter the National A.H.A.U.S. circuit of competitive play and the requirements to maintain National status!

Eddie Johnson and John Tibbetts proudly commend the "Boston Barons" Team and the entire staff of instructors for a "job well done" and for the professional manner in which they carried out their jobs while representing the U.S.A. and the Boston Barons at the Tilburg, Holland Tournament!

Gentlemen, we salute you all!

SENIOR HOCKEY "ALL-STAR" GAMES

Since his return from the European trip with the "Boston Barons", Eddie "Tuxedo" Johnson, still showing signs of severe jet-lag (sagging buns), welcomed a challenge from the "Winthrop All-Stars" Representative, former "Townie" Bob Hamilton, for a benefit hockey game to aid Muscular Dystrophy to be played at the Larsen Rink in Winthrop on Saturday, April 19th at 7:00 p.m.

Mike Eruzione, former U.S.A. Hockey Gold Medalist, volunteered to be Honorary Captain for the Winthrop All-Stars, and former European Hockey Star, Joe "The Shot" Fidler, has volunteered to be Honorary Captain for the Matt O'Neil All-Stars for the benefit game.

Bob Hamilton, former "Townie" C.Y.O. coach, when asked about the Winthrop All-Star Team stated, "Come prepared. These kids are good, they play to win!"

Bob's wife, Rosalie, will be leading the mothers of the players from Winthrop who will serve as cheer-leaders. This should be quite a cheering section (they were always loud cheerers)!!

What do you say mothers and girl friends, can we have a cheering section from the Charlestown side of the rink? Repeat after me ... Give me a "C", you got your "C", Give me an "H", you got your "H"!

We hope the "Townie Spirit" will be present on April 19th as our "Matt O'Neil All-Stars" take the ice in what appears to be an exciting evening of amateur hockey, but more importantly let's help the Muscular Dystrophy Campaign which helps all of us. Tickets for the event will go on sale this week. Call Rita Kelly at 242-1983 or Mary Johnson at 241-9891. The donation will be $2.00 per person.

Over 20,000 To Walk Against Hunger

On Sunday, May 4th, over 20,000 New Englanders will gather on Boston Common to participate in America's largest annual one-day fundraiser to fight local hunger: The 17th Annual Greater Boston Walk for Hunger. The goal for the 1986 Walk

For Hunger is set at $2 million. Last year, the Walk raised $1.2 million.

Hundreds of participating community, church and school groups will be walkers, as well as local and national leaders including Governor and Mrs. Michael Dukakis, Mayor Raymond Flynn and Cardinal Bernard Law.

The money raised by the Walk for Hunger will be distributed to over 235 soup kitchens, food pantries and emergency feeding programs in Greater Boston, including the Pine Street Inn, Rosie's Place, Quincy Community Action Center and Neighbors In Need in Lawrence.

The Walk for Hunger is sponsored by Project Bread, which is the parent organization of the Walk for Hunger, Hunger Hotline and Food Stamp Hotline. Co-sponsors are WNEV-TV and WZOU. Walkers for Hunger will gather at 8:00 a.m. on the Boston Common to begin the 20-mile trek through Boston, Brookline, Newton and Cambridge.

Individuals, groups or organizations wishing to walk or sponsor a walker, contact Project Bread at 227-3796.

Charlestown Townies Football Club Seeks Community Support

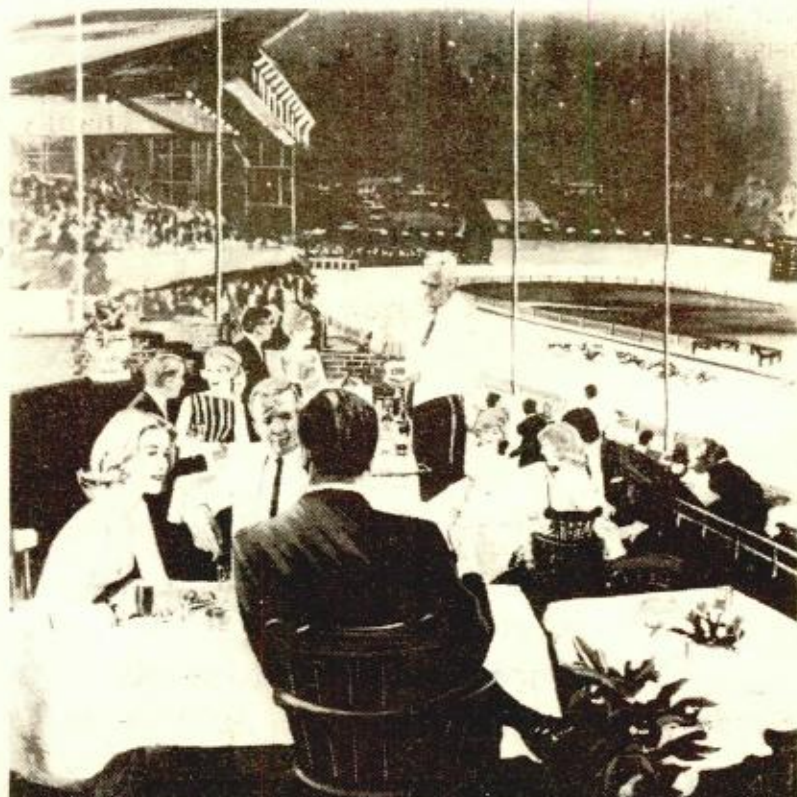

The Charlestown Townies Football Club has been selected by the Eastern Football league as the fifth team in their National Conference. The "Townies" have long been known throughout New England for their success and competitive spirit. The organization needs support for this endeavor more than ever before.

This team is considered highly competitive and a possible contender for the league title. The team will be traveling throughout New England and New York state. Charlestown has a long history of success in football, and it was the "Townie" spirit that contributed greatly to that success.

The organizers feel that the town will once again come out and support the team. For anyone who feels that they have the talent and the "Townie" spirit to put into the organization, this is a rare opportunity to show concern for our community.

Anyone interested in helping with the organization may call 241-7751 or 241-7771.

Little League News

TRYOUTS: A "Tip of the Hat" to the kids and parents who made it! The weather was terrible. The Little League people spent 3 1/2 hours on Saturday in a real brutal wind and came back Sunday to a dose of hail stones. They stayed until the kids stopped coming. Thanks, Gang.

DRAFT: The draft will be held on Wednesday night, April 9th at 8:00 p.m. at Memorial Hall, 14 Green Street.

KIDS: Don't get nervous, you will be called by a manager as soon as we get the teams made up. Whether major or minor league, all who registered will play in this league. Nobody is left out.

NOTE: All Charlestown Little League News will be in the Charlestown Patriot throughout the season.

Thank you, John Curtin

There seems to have been some confusion concerning two separate Charlestown hockey organizations.

The Charlestown Youth Hockey Association is providing organized hockey for the children, while the Charlestown Youth Organization, ably run by Ed Johnson, not only helps us to run our program, but provides help to other youth programs in the community. We hope this will clear up any confusion within the community and, in closing, let us state both organizations are assets to the community.

Thank you, C.Y.H.A. Board

FACTS ABOUT DRUGS - F.A.D.

"Even though I can't be sure what will happen when I take LSD, I like it."

This is a very common attitude among teenagers. They are risk-takers and often foolhardy. They are also influenced by strong forces to belong and to be the same as their peers. On the other side of the coin, they do not want to be like their parents and spend a lot of energy breaking away. And yet they deny both these forces. "I am not influenced by my friends, I make my own decisions." "No, I am not rebelling against my parents, I'm just different from them and disagree with them." So the teenager shouts out his independence, yet he wears clothes, goes places, and even eats and looks the way his/her friends do. And any parent will report that the teen in their home disagrees about everything.

Enter drugs and alcohol. It is a set-up for use and abuse, experimentation, rebellion and belonging; and to teens it seems to be worth the risk. What is not understood by the teen is the extent of the risk:

- Frequent use and abuse of drugs (including alcohol) may lead to addiction. Addiction is a disease and there is no going back.

- Overdose, is a possibility. Not knowing how various drugs react and interact can lead to death, permanent or temporary emotional or physical damages.

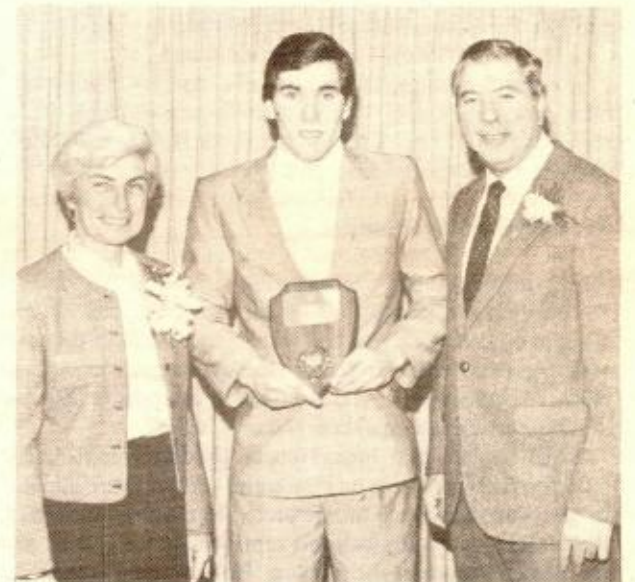

- Drug and alcohol use put off the duties and discomforts of adolescents. Results? Many adolescents never grow up. Instead they learn to cope with life by numbing it.

Where do we begin with these problems? Open our eyes, stop denying. Get education for yourselves, as parents, and insist on it in the schools for your kids.

Last weekend's warm weather reminded Charlestown residents of the annual summer nuisances of public drinking and late night unauthorized congregating, as many residents told Boston Police Officer John McLean at the monthly Police Community Relations Meeting held Tuesday, April 8th at the Kent Community School.

While public drinking and other problems often associated with this activity were not the only topics of discussion, they were the most trying for residents who about the most popular locations which include the Eden Street Park, Barry Park, the Doherty Park, the Charlestown High School and football field, the steps of the American Legion Hall on Chestnut Street, Main Street and the corner of Polk and Bunker Hill Streets. These and other areas are known for being "after hours" hangouts not just for teenagers, but even for some adults. One resident said, "I wouldn't care if they were drinking as long as they were quiet about it."

Many stated the problem is not an easy one to solve, but could be diminished if the police "would just arrest a few of them," as one resident summarized. Another added that she was shocked that much of the public drinking was by teenagers, as she told of a story of a teenage girl who approached her and asked if the woman would buy vodka for her. McLean stated that the fact the youth had to ask the woman to buy for her was "a good sign. It says that the liquor store is not just selling to anyone."

The officer told the gathering that even "if the whole police force was in Charlestown, we couldn't stop all the kids from drinking. If their parents can't stop them, we certainly can't. However, the officer assured the residents that he would look in to a stronger policing of the areas of concern and establish a reputation that "if you drink here, you're going to get arrested."

Another major concern expressed at the meeting focused on the issue of illegal parking which included double parking, non-handicapped vehicles in handicapped only designated areas, Boston Public School buses blocking street and driveway access, and parking congestion at the Bunker Hill Mall parking lot egress.

One woman stated cars were forever double parking on Main and Bunker Hill Streets to frequent the local food establishments or simply to talk to people in other cars or on the street. "On Bunker Hill Street, there's an awful bottleneck caused by people going to buy the best donuts in the state," she continued. "The MBTA buses have an awful time getting around the cars."

Another spoke of the time she witnessed a police cruiser "squeeze through" the double parked vehicles on Main Street "like he had blinders on and didn't see the cars."

Parking in handicapped zones is an increasing problem in Charlestown, with drivers fighting over available parking spaces. One woman told of two incidents when vehicles were utilizing a handicapped only space on her street. "There was one time a man parked there all day. I called 911 three times and was told it was not a priority call, but I was next on the list," McLean stated that this was not a priority call, but added it was an automatic tow for the violator and a $100 fine if caught. The woman continued that during her wait, a cruiser did drive by but did not stop.

The second incident at the same handicapped spot involved a Cablevision Van parked there. The woman twice asked the van's driver to move his vehicle. The first request was answered with "I have business in this house" and the second answer to the woman's request was "I will move if you ask me nicely." The woman told McLean that even another neighbor was unable to get the driver to move the van, so she took down the license plate number and phoned the police department to report the violation. "The next day I got a call from Cablevision and they said they were sorry, but I know it's all just public relations."

Another resident discussed a problem she is experiencing with the Boston Public School buses blocking the access to her driveway every day between 1:30 and 2:00 p.m. McLean told her that no one had the right to obstruct the access to her property and said that he would talk to authorities in the Boston Public School System about the situation. Another woman said she had a similar problem of not being able to move her parked car because of school buses on High Street.

One gentlemen present told McLean that earlier this week there was a fire alarm at the Charlestown High School and, because of the buses being parked in a tow zone, the fire apparatus had "a hell of a time" getting to the school. Fortunately, there was no fire.

The Bunker Hill Mall parking lot egress, between Front Page Restaurant on Austin Street, is another parking trouble spot mentioned at the meeting. McLean said that he would look into the problem of cars being parked on both sides of the driveway to the lot since this was not only not designated parking, but a fire lane as well.

While McLean made no promises to the residents that life in Charlestown would change over the next month, he could address the major concerns raised by the residents and report his progress to them next month at the monthly police community meeting. Residents are encouraged to attend these meetings, which are held the second Tuesday of every month at 7:00 p.m. at the Kent Community School, 50 Bunker Hill Street. The next meeting is scheduled for May 13th.

Monthly Observatory Night Scheduled For April 17

The Harvard-Smithsonian Center for Astrophysics invites the public to attend a free program in popular astronomy on Thursday evening, April 17th, featuring a nontechnical lecture, film, and telescopic observing, weather permitting.

The program begins at 8:00 p.m. with the lecture, "Antarctica: Storehouse for Planetary Samples", by Dr. Ursula Marvin, a geologist at the Center for Astrophysics. Following her talk, an astronomy film will be shown and the public will be invited to use the telescopes on the observatory roof, if the weather permits.

Admission to the program is free and no tickets or advance reservations are required. Seating is limited and will be filled on a first-come basis. (Doors open at 7:30 p.m.) All age groups are welcome to attend, however, the lecture is designed for adult and high school age audiences.

The lecture is held in the Phillips Auditorium of the Center for Astrophysics, 60 Garden Street, Cambridge. (The Center is located about one mile west of Harvard

"Observatory Nights" are held on the third Thursday of each month throughout the year.

Nucci Named One Of Boston's "Ten Outstanding Young Leaders"

The Jaycees have named "Ten Outstanding Young Leaders" for Boston to be honored at a huge dinner at the Marriott Copley Place on Friday, April 18, 1986. Among those to be honored are Boston School Committee President John Nucci, Boston Celtics former star M.L. Carr, New England Patriot's Steve Nelson, Boston Herald editor Joseph Rabinowitz and seven other prominent Boston leaders. In being named, Nucci joins a host of former recipients of significant prominence including Senator Edward M. Kennedy (1982), Keven H. White (1962), Governor Michael Dukakis (1965), Congressman Barney Frank (1970) and Edward Markey (1977).

Nucci, the District One School Committee Member (Charlestown, North End, East Boston), gained significant prominence during his first term as President of the Boston School Committee; the first district member to be selected for that prestigious post. During the first term, under Nucci's leadership the School Committee finally regained control of the Boston Public Schools from the Federal District Court after eleven, sometimes turbulent, years of court control. The court in its final orders itself acknowledged that the new School Committee "and its President, John Nucci," had finally earned the confidence of the court.

Also in Nucci's first term, he guided the Committee towards the equally historic selection of Dr. Laval Wilson as the new Superintendent of Schools. Nucci's formation of a broad based, entirely inclusive Search Committee to find a new Superintendent is credited by many as a major reason for the success of the search.

This year Nucci was elected President by his colleagues for a second consecutive term. In doing so he became only the third person in the last 45 years to achieve that accomplishment.

Nucci commented that he is "extremely honored by this selection and feels that there are so many people with which I share this credit. My colleagues on the School Committee, friends and supporters and, of course, family have been of invaluable assistance to me and are truly deserving of sharing this award with me."

Nucci, 33, is married to Peggy (Noons) Nucci, a special education teacher in Boston for eleven years. They have one child, eight month old John Francis Nucci. The Nucci's live in East Boston.

'XAX' To Open At Faneuil Hall

Faneuil Hall, the historic site where the concepts of the inalienable rights of the individual and the passions of Revolution were nurtured, will be converted into a theater for the first time when "XAX", an original musical, premieres April 17th and continues through May 18th.

Performed by Boston Youth Theater in conjunction with the Mayor's Office of Business and Cultural Development, the production, written and conceived by B.Y.T. Artistic Director, Elaine Koury, and set in a fantasy world Olympic Games-like arena, explores themes of winning, losing, power, identity and relationships, and is highlighted by "high-energy" gymnastics, original music by Clinton Ray, II, production numbers and storytelling-rappers. The audience follows the 30 member company of 15 to 23 year olds through the Games as their stories unravel. "Ultimately," stresses Koury, "XAX" is optimistic — kids can have positive impact on their lives and their destinies."

Incorporated in 1978 to provide inner city youth with the creative tools, hopefully leading to personal and professional growth, Boston Youth Theater staged the successful musical "Inner City Energy" last season at City Hall. "We produce original plays with young people, 75% of whom are from lower income families with limited opportunities," said Koury. "Boston Youth Theater dispels the myth that inner city youth are 'trouble' by training them to become role models of self-confidence and responsibility," Koury added.

A major portion of the production has been underwritten with a $35,000 grant from Bank of New England — the first time in Massachusetts that a small and emerging company has had this type of funding from a major corporation. The grant was applauded by Mayor Raymond L. Flynn: "This support bring together young people from all the neighborhoods whose backgrounds and cultures make this city great."

"XAX" performances at Faneuil Hall at Boston's Quincy Market will be Thursdays and Fridays at 8:00 p.m.; Saturdays at 2:00 and 8:00 p.m.; and Sundays at 3:00 p.m. through May 18th. Tickets are $10 at the door and $5 in advance. The Box Office telephone number is 492-2805.

"Children" Continues At The Charlestown Working Theater

What is the play "Children" about?

"Children" tells the tale of a family gathering and shows us all how we can get trapped by our childhood beliefs, family history and traditions.

In "Children", Jean Anderson plays the daughter-in-law Jane, involved, but enough outside the family to see its patterns. "Children" pokes fun at the classic New England family, White Anglo-Saxon Protestants. But are the Irish or the Jews any different? Come judge for yourself how universal these patterns are.

"Children" continues through May 3rd at the Charlestown Working Theater, 442 Bunker Hill Street.

Performances are Fridays and Saturdays at 8:00 p.m., Sundays at 2:00 p.m.

For reservations, call 242-3534. Tickets are also usually available at the door.

JEAN ANDERSON, "Talking With" star, returns to the Charlestown Working Theater in "Children."
