- Every page must have a header on the top left with the essay title
- Add the page number on the top right corner

When writing an essay, you will need to cite all the sources used. Citing essay writer work is a necessary part of showing intellectual honesty and responsibility. To avoid plagiarism, here's how in-text citations are done for MLA and APA formats:

In order to provide proper credit when using someone else's words or ideas within their own work -- whether quoting them directly or supporting one's points with examples from other texts-- it must be cited by using parenthetical references (i.e., author name year).

APA

Author/ write my paper last name, followed by the date and paragraph number.

"It is found that Darwin's theory of evolution is flawed. (Paul, 2015, p. 9)."

MLA

Author/publisher's last name, followed by the page number.

"It is found that Darwin's theory of evolution is flawed. (Paul, p. 9)."
