Tsongas To Hold Office Hours In Charlestown

Senator Paul Tsongas' Eastern Massachusetts Field Representative will hold public office hours on July 9th at the Community Service Mall, One Thompson Square (Old Charlestown Savings Bank) Charlestown from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

For the past two months, Tsongas staff member, Shirley Simons, has been meeting with residents of cities and towns throughout Eastern Massachusetts in an effort to provide regional services to constituents. Senator Tsongas encourages anyone who needs assistance on a federal matter or would like to obtain information about federal legislation or programs to meet with Simons. No prior appointment is necessary. Simons meets with constituents on a first come first serve basis.

When Tsongas was a Congressman, he sent a mobile van to every city and town in his district. Simons staffed the van. Constituents asked for information about a variety of matters ranging from social security to energy to health care. Many wanted to discuss federal legislation. During the past weeks people have sought assistance on a wide range of issues. Simons consults with the Boston and Washington Senate staffs when additional information is needed to respond to an inquiry or request.

Proclamation Of A Charlestown Patriot

by Sal Giarratani

This is my country and I love it. In recent years, patriotism has been treated as an anachronism but true patriotism can never be such!

Standing up for America can never go out of fashion. As America celebrates it's 203rd birthday, we should reflect on how we, as a people, were founded, endured and grew.

From a tiny colonial nation, we have become the leader of the non-Communist world.

Our forebearers fought for freedom. They fused thirteen scattered, squabbling colonies and turned them into a cohesive independent nation, carving a civilization out of a wilderness.

From Lexington, Concord and Bunker Hill, they handed to us a land of the free and home of the brave. They weren't afraid of the rockets' red glare, the bombs bursting in air!

They fought for their freedom and ours; they fought again to preserve the Union, to free Western Europe twice to strengthen the forces of freedom in South Korea and Southeast Asia.

As we look forward to our nation's birthday, we should look back with pride and ahead with determination.

Wednesday was July 4th. Be proud of your country. Seek always to make this land of ours a better land, but love your country with all your heart!

1979 Fun Races Day

Mayor Kevin H. White and The Department of Parks and Recreation in conjunction with the Youth Activities Commission announce the 1979 Fun Races. The Fun Races will include apple bobbing, egg relays, sack races, three legged races and other events. Ribbons will be awarded and hot dogs, ice cream and sodas will be served. Fun Races start at 11:00 a.m. and will be held in Charlestown at the Medford Street Gym on Monday, July 16.

Fund Raising Bazaar

A Fund Raising Bazaar will be held on Saturday, July 14th in St. Catherine's Hall from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. There will be Handcrafted Items, Homemade articles, Flea Market, Bakery, Chances, Raffles on 50 prizes. Our goal is $5,000. to enable Sister Nancy Rowen to continue the Pastoral Care and Outreach Program in the parish. Last year's Bazaar raised one-fourth of the goal. We are hoping for that much again this year. Donations may be left at the rectory.

SUN-BURN

THE ALMOST INEXCUSABLE INJURY

A sunburn is a type of inflammation following sun exposure ranging from redness of the skin to sunstroke. Any person taking oral medication should check with the physician before going out in the sun. Tetracycline, sulfa compounds, certain diuretics (fluid pills), some antidepressants, a few antihistamines, and griseofluvin can cause increased sun sensitivity. Certain fragrances containing oil of Bergonot and lime induce sunburn more readily.

Once the sunburn has occurred it should be treated as follows:

Mild Sunburn

- cold water compresses or Burow's solution applied 4 times a day for 20 minutes
- apply emollient such as Eucerin cream
- occasionally a steroid cream (prescription) helps
- take analgesic such as aspirin or tylenol

**never apply a preparation containing benzocaine as it can cause a rash.

Eye Involvement - call a physician

Severe Burn - see a physician

This may all have been prevented if a person obtained sunlight gradually. That is, increased daily sun exposure by 15 minutes to reach a maximum of 90 minutes a day. After that a sunscreen containing Cinnamate, PABA, or Sulisobenzone should be applied to the skin. The first two chemicals also come in stick form for the lips.

However, one must always remember there is no perfect sunscreen so that even with these agents sun exposure should not be excessive.

Twenty years from now when that first wrinkle and rough, red patch (? skin cancer) have appeared "just the other day" will all that sunning have been worth it? Really?

Voting Meeting Became Jumbled As Order Faded

by Maria Girvin

Last Thursday night (June 28) started out with good intentions and signs of order. At least 165 relaxed residents gathered after supper in the Kent Community School cafeteria to vote on the naming of the Medford Street Athletic Facility. Who would have guessed that it would end in a display of frayed tempers and a mockery of parliamentary procedure.

After a brief synopsis of the business that had transpired in two previous meetings and after comment by Maurice Gillen on how he had secured his position as chairman of the naming committee, eight names were mentioned as having been previously nominated for consideration. "I'll start at this side of the room to hear any more nominations," Gillen said. At this point the only other thing a parliamentarian could have asked for was a microphone to amplify Mr. Gillen's monotone voice, for at one point during the meeting while voting procedures were being explained, his words fell on deaf ears and turned heads as voters made that last plug for their candidate. However, that was forgivable.

Even the voting and tallying went smoothly. The residents didn't seem to mind the hour long wait and instead turned it into a social hour to catch up on neighborhood gossip and buy snacks at McCarthy's. When the announcement was made that the name Michael P. Quinn was the overwhelming preference, an approval could be seen in the nodding of heads.

"Now we'll vote on names for the individual facilities," said Gillen.

"Tonight?" exclaimed the thinned-out crowd.

That began an hour of debate on how to vote. It was late and those who had made the losing nominations to Quinn wanted to see fairness remain in the naming of the facilities. However, the long process of another ballot voting was out of the question.

"I propose we use a show of hands," said one innovative thinker.

"No," was the response of the crowd in a show of hands.

More proposals were made but became shaded by other proposals on how to proceed without voting. In no time a debate was being carried out like a couple's tennis match with two balls. Just like the spectators and the competitors wouldn't know on what to keep their eyes in such a farce, neither could the voters understand and keep track of what issues were being batted back and forth in the unorganized discussion.

The hubbub in the room began to drown out the debate and childish tempers were displayed. Order returned only briefly when resident Glenn Luce, Jr. charged Gillen with having ignored his proposal for 20 minutes. "It's hard to ignore you Glenn, especially for 20 minutes," retaliated Gillen. There was only a rustle of criticizing whispers then.

Finally, as what always happens at disorganized meetings when people are tired and frustrated, someone stood up and voted that they get on with the voting.

So what did the people do?

They voted that the families of the nominees make the decision.

With only four names left on the board for consideration (many nominations had been lost or withdrawn somewhere in the course of the meeting) and four facilities to be named, (the pool, gym, field and auditorium) it was decided that the names would be drawn out of a box and in the order drawn the family would be given preference as to which facility they would like to have bear their name. Nominator Jay Farris who submitted the name Charlestown Veterans' Memorial volunteered for last choice in this preference. The outcome can be found elsewhere on this page.

However, with all not said and done, the Kent cafeteria was vacated with the people still arguing.

Results Of Vote On Athletic Complex

One hundred sixty-five persons voted in the election to name the Medford Street Athletic Complex last Thursday evening at the Kent Community School.

U.S.M.C.R.
Softball Field: Charlestown Veterans' Memorial Auditorium: Jeffrey J. Keating High School: Charlestown High School.

The results were:

Football Field: Firefighters Thomas Beckwith and Joseph Boucher

Pool: Capt. Francis E. Powers, Jr.

Gym: Staff Sgt. James P. Kelley, U.S.M.C. and PFC Daniel A. Kelley,

These recommendations are being sent to the Boston School Committee and will be forwarded to Mayor Kevin H. White through Little City Hall Manager Roberta Delaney for official action.

St. Mary's Second Annual Mass Of Anointing

photos by Sandy Jarasitis

St. Mary's Parish recently held its Second Annual Mass of Anointing for the elderly and chronically ill of the parish at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Following the Mass sandwiches, deserts and beverages were served while many danced to the music of the keynotes. Over 200 people received the Sacrament of the Sick, with many others on hand to assist with the Mass, refreshments, entertainment, medical assistance and transportation.

Providing assistance to and from the Knights of Columbus Hall (which the Knights of Columbus graciously donated and set up) were St. Vincent de Paul members Paul Sullivan, Bob Rooney, Bill Lynch, Ed McGuinness and Wallace Killoran, as well as John Killoran, Joanne Duffy, Ann Callahan, Jackie McCarthy and Margaret Kane.

Chairperson for the refreshments was Dotty Duffy, who was assisted by Pat Rooney, Mary Meena, Elaine McCarthy, Susan Meena, Fran Lacey, Agnes O'Connell, Margaret O'Connell, Kitty McLaughlin, Margie O'Neil, Sandy Jarasitis, Margaret Murphy, Bob and Kay Hickey, Mary Wilkins, Marie Lynch, Mary Sheehan, Jeannette Cassidy, Bunny Kane and many, many others who donated food and refreshments.

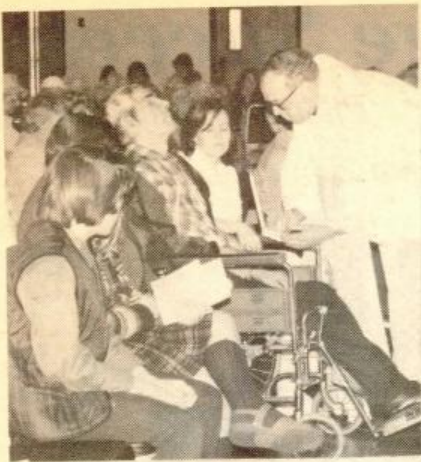

Nurses on hand, along with Sister Theresa, were Ann Rinaldi and Mary Harrington. Members of the Confirmation class of 1979 of St. Mary's were also extremely helpful. Acting as photographer (and a good one) was Sandy Jarasitis, who also developed the photos. In the Liturgy itself, Frs. Boyle, Jezowski and Zilonka concelebrated, with Sister Theresa assisting as commentator. Agnes O'Connell, Helen Myers, Bob Rooney and Sister Theresa also assisted as Lay Eucharistic Ministers and Lectors, with Gerry O'Neil and Sean Sullivan acting as acolytes.

The theme of the Mass of Anointing was "Thank You" to the elderly and chronically ill and those who may take care of them. Gratitude was expressed for the deep faith, hope, love and devotion they share with God and others. Our elderly and chronically ill were seen as the true Christian pilgrims, leading the way to Jesus Christ and the promise of eternal life. It is the elderly and chronically ill who continually remind us that a person who loves deeply never grows old - they may die of old age, but they die young.

Undoubtedly, the Mass of Anointing was a deeply moving and spiritually healing experience for all - priests, sisters, and laity. And the get-together afterwards, with old friends and new ones, amidst smiles and hugs and tears and dancing and laughing or just watching on, all this showed St. Mary's parish family at its best ever.

Completes Fellowship

Congratulations are in order for Dr. James Smith who has just completed a fellowship in Cardiology at St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

"Archie" is married to the former Karen Morey of Green Street, Charlestown. The couple now reside in Newton with their four daughters.

Dr. Smith will be opening his office on August 1st in Cambridge.

Commissioner will fix and establish automobile insurance rates, after holding a public hearing required by law, for policy year 1980.

In a letter to the Commissioner, Rep. Voke, a member of the Joint Committee on Insurance, told him that he was encouraged by the decision because, "it reaffirms my belief that our State Government can be responsive to the needs of the people. This decision is a real victory for consumers because it shows that the State will act in the best interests of its citizens despite intense lobbying by powerful special interest groups."

Rep. Voke also welcomed the announcement that a special task force will be named representing industry, agent and broker, consumer and government interests to study the feasibility of competitive rating and to determine whether a competitive system can be implemented in the Commonwealth. However, Rep. Voke reminded the Commissioner of the astronomical rates imposed on the people of Charlestown when competitive rating was last allowed in 1977 and pledged to work with him to ensure that there will never be a return to unreasonably inflated rates again.

Annual Special Olympics Was Huge Success

Sunday afternoon, June 10, saw over three hundred Townies and friends turn out to cheer the retarded and handicapped children of Charlestown at their annual Special Olympics, produced by the Exceptional Children's Program.

Dressed in bright red team jackets with blue and white uniforms, the 31 participants presented a stirring sight as they marched into the Medford Street Gym.

The children presented a co-ordinated exercise routine and rapidly moved into their events which included foot races, elbow crawls, tug-of-war, obstacle course, and fine motor skill events.

An award ceremony followed in which each child was presented with a personalized trophy. A special trophy was presented to Arthur Locke of Wall Street as "Most Valuable Player."

Participating children were: Eugene Bangs, 36 Pearl Street, Edith Ahearn, Dunstable Street, John Bradley, 2 Marshall Place, Maureen Brassil, 28 High Street, Tommy Brazil, 293 Main Street, Janine Bryant 68 Ferrin Street, Charlie Carberry, 1 Russell Street, Mike Castranova, 8 Soley Street, Jay Doherty, 12 Prospect Street, Jessica Duncan, 66 Tibbetstown Way, Anthony Ferro, 26 Charter Street, Joanne Hogan 50 Walford Way, Sean Kerrigan, 60 Dunstable Street, Matthew King, 31 Mystic Street, Kathy Kirk, 8 Hill Street, Arthur Locke, 19 Wall Street, Annette Marino, 29 Clarke Street, Bobby O'Neil, 73 Lawrence Street, Claire Rooney, 5 Wallace Court, Dottie Simensen, 137 Bunker Hill Street, Sharon Sullivan, 10 Lawnwood Place, Billy Teves, 65 Polk Street, Janet Wojdakowski, Brighton Street, Rhonda Reeder, 58 Monument Street, Christine McDonough, 10 Walford Way, Frankie LaVasco, Dunstable Street, Cathy Boyden, 10 Wall Street, Jerry DiBenedetto, Prince Street, Mary Ann Doyle, Bunker Hill Street, and Theresa Freitas of the North End.

In his remarks during the closing ceremonies, Program Director Jack Millerick pointed out the substantial progress the program has made in the past year. Of particular interest was the announcement that the program would expand into a full-time Life-Focus Center for older retarded children next September.

After the closing ceremonies, members of the community based Charlestown Association for Retarded and Handicapped served refreshments to the crowd in the field.

Congratulations are due the children and staff of the Exceptional Children's Program for an outstanding job. Thanks are also due to the Charlestown Youth Policy Council, which sponsored the fund raiser for the Olympics, and the Kent Community Council for its continuous support.

Three to four hundred spectators looked on as the children displayed their athletic abilities.

C.H.S. Students Attend Special Safety Classes

TOOLS OF THE TRADE—Chemistry students from Charlestown High School listen as Charles W. Boone, Consultant-Industrial Hygiene Training at the Liberty Mutual Research Center in Hopkinton, describes a personal sampling pump during the students' recent visit to the Center. Worn by industrial workers, the pump collects air samples in the workers' on-the-job environments which are later analyzed. The students' visit to the Research Center was part of the continuing C.H.S.-Liberty Mutual Partnership Program.

Chemistry and electrical students from Charlestown High School recently visited the Liberty Mutual Research Center in Hopkinton, Mass., for special safety classes relating to their fields of study. The classes were another part of the continuing Charlestown High School-Liberty Mutual Insurance Company Partnership Program.

Recently 15 sophomore and junior electrical students, accompanied by C.H.S. instructors Paul Duval and Pat Sbardelli, attended a presentation on many aspects of electrical safety given by Russell W. Besser, Technical Director-Industrial of Liberty Mutual. Topics included general rules for accident prevention, the nature of electricity, and the effects of electrical current on human beings. Mr. Besser also distributed packages of printed material on electrical safety to the students for future use in their study and work.

Industrial hygiene was the subject of a class attended by 20 C.H.S. chemistry students, which was held on May 11 at the Research Center. Charles W. Boone, Consultant-Industrial Hygiene Training at the Center, spoke to the students on career opportunities in the field of industrial hygiene. He described the ways in which the industrial hygienist, acting as a consultant to management, protects workers from possible adverse effects of their work environments, and also showed the students some of the devices the hygienist would use to detect such hazards.

Following a screening of Liberty Mutual's new film about the Research Center, entitled "The Endless Marathon," the chemistry students were given a tour of the Center's chemical laboratory.

THIS IS HOW IT WORKS—T. Walley Williams (left), Project Director-Mechanical Development at Liberty Mutual Research Center in Hopkinton, demonstrates the artificial Boston Arm for Charlestown High School electrical students during their recent visit to the Center. Designed for above-elbow amputees, the Arm is powered by small batteries in its forearm and is controlled by electrical signals from muscles in the upper arm. The students' visit to the Research Center was part of the continuing C.H.S.-Liberty Mutual Partnership Program.

A highlight of each C.H.S. group's visit to the Research Center was a live demonstration of the Boston Arm, an artificial arm for above-elbow amputees that is controlled by electrical signals from the severed bicep and tricep muscles and is powered by small batteries in the forearm. Originally developed by Liberty Mutual in conjunction with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Massachusetts General Hospital and the Harvard Medical School, the Arm was demonstrated to the students by T. Walley Williams, Project Director-Mechanical Development.

Charlestown Seeks Control Over Own Community

Dear Gloria,

I am submitting a copy of the following letter for your consideration for publication in the next issue of the Patriot. This letter is in reference to a memo sent to the Kennedy Center and EDC Boards on June 25th by Kennedy Center Executive Director John Gardiner in which he noted being upset with the uncomplimentary Herald American article about Charlestown on June 20, 1979 and enclosed a copy of an article from the Boston Globe of June 21, 1979 regarding Paul O'Leary and the Youth Department of the Kennedy Center.

A copy of Gardiner's memo was also sent by him to the Boston City Council.

Sincerely,
John D. Millerick

June 26, 1979

John D. Gardiner, Executive Director
Kennedy Center

Dear John:

It was with some interest that I read your letter of June 25 concerning the recent articles in the Herald American and the Globe. I would like to raise three points that seem to have escaped you.

1) John Gardiner, Exec. Director of the Kennedy Center (non-resident) defends Paul O'Leary, Director of Youth Services at the Kennedy Center (non-resident) in opposition to a Herald American article written by a non-resident.

Has anyone thought to ask the opinion of some residents? Or are the articles written by non-residents simply to be discussed by non-residential experts?

2) Paul O'Leary points to the Teen Center but consistently neglects to mention the people that built and maintain it. James O'Brien, Gerry Carmody, and Beverly Hanson, all residents of Charlestown, are most noticeably ignored, while non-residents discuss their labours.

On The Gas And Oil Shortage

To The Editor:

I would like to express my opinion of this ridiculous gas and oil shortage. First, we have a United States Attorney in Washington D.C. who is doing nothing to alleviate the situation. He should indict, try and convict every oil company executive in the United States for extortion of the taxpayers' money. As soon as the rates climb to $1.50 or $2.00 per gallon, we will have gas and oil coming out of our ears!

I cannot believe that the members of Congress and the Senate are unable to do something about this traumatic drama that is being played out in filling stations all over the country. We are sweating it out in long lines while Jimmy Carter consorts all over the world wheeling and dealing - hopefully in our favor - instead of staying home and trying to figure out a

3) Charlestown, as a community, will not be affected in the long run by adverse publicity. It has been the object of such for my entire life.

Your use, however, of these articles to promote the Kennedy Center once more clearly shows the division between the Charlestown Community and the Kennedy Center.

Note my use of the word "Community", John, because the fact is that Charlestown perceives itself as a cohesive body of individuals with a strong common heritage. We are newly aware of our identity as "Townies", and we are eagerly picking up the threads of our lost autonomy.

We seek control over our own fate in our own community, and have grown weary of "non-residents'" controlling Charlestown. Bear witness to the activities of such native groups as the Charlestown Youth Policy Council or the Kent Community Council. The Kennedy Center cannot compare in productivity with such organizations.

In closing, your hope that the Globe article will balance The Herald American article is in vain. These problems are rooted in lack of educational and job opportunities. Giving the Kennedy Center a media bow will not bring the solutions one inch closer.

Only hard work, by people who know and love this Community will bring a resolution to these problems.

Please understand, John, that these remarks are not anti-Kennedy Center, they are rather Pro-Charlestown.

Sincerely,

solution to this country-wide problem. Will these countries he has been visiting come through for us this winter when we need oil to keep warm?

A Boston reporter asked me how I felt about the sky lab landing. My reply was that I hoped it would land in one piece somewhere in an open field in the Mid-West, whereupon we can put all of the oil company executives in it and, of course, have Jimmy Carter for pilot...and rocket it back to outer space...for punishment. This will give them all a chance to realize that the American public has had it! When this realization takes place, we may consider their re-entry.

No more speeches please. The American people want action. The bottom line in all of this gas and oil shortage is the good old American Buck!

How About A Cleaner Main Street?

Dear Editor:

Though the improvement of Main Street goes on and we have an ice cream shop now on the street for our young people, it does nothing for the street. Is it too much to ask the Wizard to put a barrel or two in front of their place of business for their patrons to dispose of their empty materials instead of into the street?

There can be money spent until the end of time in repair and upkeep but until we learn to keep our streets clean there will be no improvement.

A few blocks away is another disaster area. How can a place of business like Sunnyside be allowed to pile their boxes and garbage beside their building as they do. If it were for one day while waiting for the truck to pick up, that would be bad enough, but it is there for days and days.

Is the day ever going to come when you can walk the length of Main Street and be proud of it?

M.D.

Thanks Charlestown

To The Editor:

Our boys marched in the Parade on June 17 celebrating Bunker Hill Day. The recognition given to our pack by the people living in Charlestown was tremendous. The boys were treated along the Parade route with tonic, cold drink mixes and ice cubes, to keep them cool. We wish to thank all the wonderful people from Charlestown for their kindness and generosity. A special thanks to the Wallace Family from Charlestown for inviting our pack into their home after the parade for all kinds of goodies.

Boston Jobs For Boston Residents

To The Editor:

"These construction jobs are intended to benefit our city directly. They are on our land, in our city, created by our tax money, yet who is getting these jobs? Certainly not Boston residents!"

These are the frustrated words of an unemployed city resident. State law and Federal guidelines require that local residents be given job preference on publicly supported construction projects. In fact, the overwhelming majority of construction jobs go to workers living outside Boston.

The Boston Jobs Coalition and 42 neighborhood-based organizations want the city to protect our rights and insure that publicly funded construction jobs go Boston people. For many months the BJC formally asked Mayor White to endorse the Coalitions basic principles:

1) From 100% of the total workforce, at least half the workers, craft-by-craft, on all publicly funded or subsidized construction projects in Boston, be comprised of Boston residents.

2) From 100% of the total workforce, at least 25% of the workers, craft-by-craft, on all such projects be comprised of minority workers.

3) From 100% of the total workforce, at least 10% of the workers, craft-by-craft, on all such projects be comprised of female workers.

4) That half the on-the-job training slots be maintained for Boston residents, providing an opportunity for hands-on training of the unemployed to develop experience and skills.

The Navy Yard Advisory committee has pushed hard for and received designation of the Neighborhood Employment Center as the employment agency for the Imobiliare housing in the yard. There is, however, no teeth in this agreement and no desperately needed job training provisions.

Mayor White has yet to endorse the Resident Job Policy. The BJC and those concerned about neighborhood economic development are getting annoyed and beginning to lose faith. The Mayor is now costing Boston's unemployed people jobs that belong to them.

If you are unemployed, need job training or just believe that Charlestown should be working on tax supported construction projects, we need your support. The BJC would like to sponsor a meeting in Charlestown in July to show people where the jobs are and what you can actively do to help insure neighborhood employment call Tom Maher at 426-4363.

East Boston Court Program Unveiled

A new federally funded restitution program, the Restitution to Victims of Crime (REVOC) Project, is operating in the East Boston District Court under Presiding Justice, the Honorable Joseph V. Ferrino.

The primary goals of this project, which provides services to both law offenders and to victims of crime in the communities of East Boston and Winthrop are:

1. to increase restitution to victims of crime and to the community.

2. to provide advice, counseling, and supportive services to victims of crime or witnesses to crimes.

3. to decrease the incidence of recidivism amongst offenders who are participants in the REVOC Project.

Offenders sixteen years of age and older who have been ordered by the court to make restitution participate in one or more types of restitution while in the REVOC program. These forms of restitution include: payment of money directly to victims in cases of property damage, participation in community improvement projects which benefit the community in cases of victimless crimes or in instances when public property has been damaged, repair of damages to a victim's property, payment of money to the court for court costs or fines, and reimbursement of money to insurance companies for payments they have made to repair a victim's property. The choice of an appropriate restitution plan for offenders participating in the REVOC project depends on the unique circumstances of each offender and victim and is thus determined on an individual basis.

In addition to arranging for victims to receive compensation for damages, other services are available to victim of crime through the REVOC Project. This project can provide pre and post-trial counseling to victims, assist victims make use of community social services, aid victims establish the amount of any monetary loss, and when desired by the victim and offender, help the victim work out a restitution plan in cooperation with the offender which is acceptable to both parties. The REVOC Project can also provide job seeking assistance and referral to vocational training programs to victims who are interested in entering the labor market or in changing jobs.

REVOC also offers a number of services to law offenders in order to facilitate their ability to make restitution and to help them remain free of future legal entanglements. Employment counseling and job seeking assistance are provided to unemployed or underemployed offenders. In cases of victimless crimes the court often orders community service which is volunteer work in a public or private non-profit organization. In these cases the REVOC staff develops positions for offenders in community agencies so that they can repay the community for damages done. The REVOC staff also helps offenders make use of vocational, testing, training, and social service facilities in the community.

Those interested in obtaining more information on the Restitution to Victims of Crime Project, in providing employment or volunteer positions to law offenders, or in learning more about services to victims of crime. Please contact Ellen Zemon, Director, Restitution to Victims of Crime Project, East Boston District Court, 37 Meridian Street, East Boston, 02128 or call 567-1601/ 567-1602.

C.Y.H.A. News

The C.Y.H.A. would like to express congratulations, first to the "Charlestown Board of Trade" for an extremely enjoyable fair. Secondly to the "Charlestown Parade Committee" for their work in making the parade one of the most enjoyable in many years. "Our Hats are off!" to both groups.

At the board meetings, on the 11th and 12th of June, all the candidates for head coaching jobs were interviewed. On the following Tuesday, the board met and made their final selections. The following are the head coaches for the 1979-80 season.

MITES - (No head coaches selected because of uncertainty as to the number of mites in the program for the coming season.) Possible coaches; Tom Getherall - Lou Marino - Jim Tucker and Bill Feeney.

SQUIRTS

"A" - Don Sullivan
"B" - Eddie Greatorex

PEE WEE

"A" - Jack Farley
"B" - (open)

BANTAMS

"A" - Bobby Hardy
"B" - Bill Smith
"C" - (open)

MIDGETS

"A" - Matty O'Neil
"B" - Moe Mahoney

All the coaches were notified, by phone, of the board's final selections. In some categories the final selections were extremely difficult to make. But now that the board has made them, whether you agree or not, we hope everyone in the C.Y.H.A. will give them your support.

If we hurt anyone's feelings "We Apologize." Our only intentions were to get what we consider, the best possible coaches for the Charlestown program.

The Board of Directors thanks each and everyone who applied for a coaching position.

Jesse O'Neil

Billy Nolan Memorial Swim

Arthur Riordan and Mike Shea hosted the June 5th Bunker Hill Day Swim and annual meeting of the New England Marathon Swimming Association.

The swim is held each year in memory of Lieutenant Billy Nolan a famous Charlestown diver and later marathon swimmer who trained at the Boys' Club. Billy was killed in Anzio in World War II when performing his forward observer role. Prior to his service duty he was recognized as one of the best liked and most talented of the American Swimmers by the Canadian Marathon Swimming Association.

Awarded P.A.Y.S. Scholarships

The Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce announced the names of 36 Boston high school seniors receiving $1,000 scholarships each as part of its "Program of Assistance to Youth in School (P.A.Y.S.)".

P.A.Y.S., inaugurated four years ago by the Chamber, is a combined scholarship/summer job program honoring meritorious seniors and juniors from the city's 18 high schools. This year's scholarship awards, the largest distributed in the Boston public school system, are being underwritten by some 33 area business firms.

Scholarship winners were selected on the basis of scholastic effort, conduct, citizenship, and school attendance by Review Committees in each high school.

Scholarship winners from Charlestown High School were Gregory Metto and Rene Cheung.

Special Programs For Children Offered Charlestown Residents

The Center for Behavioral Pediatrics and Infant Development at Tufts-New England Medical Center is currently offering programs for children ages 18-22, 30-34, 36, and 48 months who are slow to walk or talk with no known medical cause. Both programs are open to all residents of Charlestown.

The program for children ages 18-22 months and 30-34 months consists of three phases: diagnosis and evaluation of the child's current level of functioning, a ten month treatment phase and a year and a half of follow-up. The child's ability is tested by using both traditional measures of development and newly created procedures that do not rely on speech or motor skills.

Test results are used to design a 10 month treatment and evaluation program that is directed towards overcoming particular problems and improving the child's overall level of development. Parents are actively involved in the treatment phase of the study and will be provided with specific written information and verbal instruction to help them help their child. Treatment is under the direction and supervision of the program's directors, Drs. Kearsley and Zelazo.

The second program consists of the diagnostic evaluation of children who are currently 35 to 38 and 46 to 50 months of age and who have a documented history of prior developmental delay. These children will be offered a thorough diagnosis and evaluation of their present level of functioning with appropriate suggestions made for the management of their ongoing problems. There will be two evaluations: one upon entry and the other twelve months later. Because these children are beyond the ages normally treated in our clinic, the services provided to this group will be primarily diagnostic with recommendations for treatment, rather than active intervention at our clinic. Recommendations based on the results of the testing will be provided to parents and made available to the existing community programs involved with the child's educational planning.

Parents who are considering enrolling their child in either program should recognize that these services are federally funded and are provided at absolutely no cost to the parents. Also, parents are free to withdraw from the program at any time they desire, although it would be most beneficial to both parent and child to continue through the follow-up phase. Any interested parent should feel free to contact Drs. Zelazo and Kearsley at 956-6127.
