Suspect Being Sought By FBI For Daring Mid-Day Bank Robbery

by Kathy Giordano

The Federal Bureau of Investigation Bank Robbery Task Force is investigating a daring bank robbery that took place on Wednesday, Aug. 8 at the Bunker Hill Mall Branch of Newworld Bank near Thompson Square.

A spokesman for the Boston Police Department stated that two patrol cars responded to a silent bank alarm at 12:52 p.m. A teller informed the officers that a lone gunman walked up to a teller and stated: "Give me all your money." The teller quickly passed the robber a bag of money, and he fled into the shopping mall.

According to a police report, bank officials described the man as being between 20 and 22, approximately 5 feet 10 inches tall and slightly built. He was wearing a white sweatshirt with the hood pulled up over his head, and a handkerchief covered his face with only his eyes exposed. He was also reported to have been wearing a brown long-sleeved shirt and dark pants.

After fleeing the bank, the suspect was spotted running onto Main Street through the mall exit adjacent to Papa Gino's. Witnesses stated that as he darted across Main Street up into Hathon Square, a red dye pack exploded in the bag of money. He was last seen climbing over a fence at the back of the Boys & Girls Club building High Street, and from there it is believed that he proceeded down Elm Street.

Witnesses on Main Street and at Hathon Square said they spotted a young man running past them and noticed a puff of red smoke. It was then, they said, that they realized a robbery must have taken place.

According to one eyewitness, the robber dropped the money in a parking lot behind the Charlestown Co-operative Bank before fleeing through the overgrowth of bushes leading up to the back of the clubhouse. Police said that an unknown woman gathered the dye-covered money together and returned it to the bank.

The weapon used in the robbery, a small black gun, had not been found late Wednesday afternoon. Also missing was the bank bag turned over to the robber.

The amount of money stolen from the bank was still undetermined at press-time.

The Bank Robbery Task Force, comprised of FBI agents and officers from the State and Boston Police Departments is investigating the crime.

Charlestown Marine Park Seeks Approval Of Draft Master Plan

(continued from page 3) ates, environmental consultants on the master plan for the site, outlined some aspects of the draft master plan. She said that DEP suggested the licensing of the whole property for future use, adding that the master plan outlines certain uses acceptable to DEP, and DEP would conditionally pre-approve these uses.

Gowell added that one of the conditions of the master plan is that any prospective tenant would come before a community meeting to describe its tenancy and operation.

According to Gowell, the primary goal of DEP is to maintain maritime-related uses at the Amstar site. She said that the upper floors of the building pose difficulties for maritime-dependent tenants. She noted that DEP specified it wanted the industrial character of the building maintained, not usage as an office park. The owners would seek maritime-related tenants, but if those were not available, other businesses could be approved on a short-term basis which was said to be a 20-year lease.

She told the committee that a working draft of the master plan had been submitted to DEP and the Neighborhood Council for preliminary review with community input due by Aug. 13. In turn, DEP would issue a written determination by Aug. 20 and allow 30 days of public comment before a license was issued.

Several council members saw problems with some procedures to date. Conway was critical of Hamilton Realty for not giving notice to community residents to give input at the DEP hearing, adding that not everyone reads the small print in the Boston Herald legals. Shadrawy shot back with: "Galvin and [Council Chairman Dennis] McLaughlin had been personally notified."

Galvin said that he had written to DEP that the council's limited approval on the site was for Spinnaker and Spinnaker only, and that the non-maritime use of Charlestown Marine Park could not take place without a public meeting in Charlestown and a favorable council vote. He also asked DEP to send notices on all hearings on the facility to The Patriot.

Galvin noted that Shadrawy has been very cooperative on all requests. Conway added that his comments were not vis-a-vis Charlestown Marine Park, but rather that all developers have a responsibility to inform the residents of the community of public regulatory meetings concerning their proposals.

Several motions were put before the committee, all leading to continued discussion. Galvin asked for a motion to bring the concept of a master plan for the 425 Medford St. site to the full council. Conway added that each tenant should be considered on an individual basis, and Gillen noted that any motion should reflect past council votes.

Looney stated that while the Hamilton Realty people were present to watch out for their investments, the responsibility of the council members was to look out for the community. He said that Spinnaker came to the community as a good neighbor, offering jobs, day care and community benefits. He said he was worried about what Charlestown would get from a building that had employed a lot of Charlestown people. He said he didn't believe it mattered whether the committee agreed or disagreed on the master plan.

None of the committee members, except the chairman, had received a copy of the plan prior to the meeting. A sign-up sheet was passed through the hall for persons interested in receiving a copy and Shadrawy was asked to provide a copy to the 21 council members.

Mansfield said that since he had not seen a copy of the plan, he thought a motion on the plan was premature. Wallace agreed, noting that everyone on the council should read the plan before a vote was taken. Conway added that he couldn't recall the council voting on a master plan they hadn't seen, although the members might agree that Charlestown Marine Park should go forward in finding a tenant.

Gowell pointed out that by Aug. 20, DEP hoped to complete the document with council input and release it in fairly final form for public review and additional comment.

Looney pointed out that the Mitigation Committee was only a subcommittee and could only recommend to the full council for action in September since the council voted to cancel August meetings.

Conway made a motion that the Mitigation Committee recommend that the Charlestown Neighborhood Council Executive Committee approve a letter to DEP extending the time limit for approval of the master plan until the end of September to allow for community input into the Charlestown Marine Park plan. The motion carried.

According to Galvin, a copy of the Charlestown Marine Park draft master plan is available at the Charlestown Branch Library for public review. He added that individual comments on the plan should be directed to: Thomas Maguire, DEP Division of Wetlands and Waterways, One Winter Street, Boston, Mass. 02108, telephone 292-5516.

(Note: The second portion of the meeting focusing on the Revere Sugar site will be covered next week.)

Lamb Published In National Magazine

William Lamb, local architect, had a recent design featured in Kitchen & Bath 1990, a nationwide annual from the publishers of Builder Magazine. The publication shows how he converted a dark and narrow corridor-style kitchen into a sun-filled and roomy space where the family can now gather to prepare and enjoy their meals.

"It's now the main gathering point," Bill was quoted, concerning today's kitchen. "The kitchen is no longer a backroom. It's a dramatic space." He adds, "All of my projects are intended both to incorporate fresh design concepts and to look like part of the neighborhood where they are built."

Lamb is best known in Charlestown for the design of the Main Street Townhouses, 26 houses located near the Community Garden in Sullivan Square, and for the restoration of the historic Hurd House, which now contains Sorelle, Tuttle Cleaners and Olives restaurant, at Main and Monument Avenue. He has designed numerous residential additions and renovations in Charlestown and throughout Massachusetts.

DECISION DAY

HAVE YOU a "Decision Day"? What do we mean? We mean an actual day when you face the fact BEFORE GOD that you were a lost, ruined sinner — when you were conscious of your need of a Savior from the punishment and the power of your sin — and you DECIDED for, and ACCEPTED JESUS CHRIST, GOD'S SON, who died for you, as your Substitute, Savior, Master and Lord, (John 3:16, 36).

DECISION DAY is the day when you are "BORN AGAIN." Christ says, "Good for that man if he had not been born," if he has never been "born again;" "Ye must be born again," (Matthew 26:24; John 3:3, 5, 7).

If you have not already decided and taken Christ, will you believe Him NOW and make THIS your "Decision Day"?

This is a "once for all" decision which saves you from sin and makes you a child of God forever (John 1:12). Have you been saved?

Little Patriots Graduates

On June 29, Little Patriots Child Care Center held its graduation ceremonies. Children in the Preschool I and II rooms showed off a few poems and songs they had learned and enjoyed during the year.

The Preschool I room, made up primarily of 3-year-olds, performed The Jigaree, a story from the "Big Book" series of Early Childhood Education. Their costumes were colorful and their enthusiasm glowed in their reenactment.

The Preschool II room, made up primarily of 4- and 5-year-olds, cooperated to bring a dragon to life. The children created the mask and costumes themselves.

Little Patriots Child Care Center is a warm, creative environment for young children based in the Charlestown Boys & Girls Club. Their programs consist of full-time daycare, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., and nursery school, 9 a.m. to noon, Monday through Friday year-round.

For more information, call Mary-Adele Wingenbach, director, at 242-1775, ext. 220.

'West Side Story' To Open At The Wang Center

"West Side Story," one of the most exciting Broadway musicals in history, returns to Boston on Tuesday, Aug. 14 through Sunday, Aug. 19 for eight performances only at the Wang Center for the Performing Arts, 270 Tremont St., Boston. Celebrating the 35th anniversary of its conception and the 30th anniversary of its return to Boston "West Side Story" has become one of the best-loved musicals of all time.

This wrenching love story set to the breathtaking score by Leonard Bernstein, with lyrics by Stephen Sondheim and book by Arthur Laurents, is the modern re-telling of "Romeo and Juliet," set against the rivalry of two New York gangs. Conceived and originally directed by Jerome Robbins, "West Side Story's" stunning Tony Award-winning choreography advanced the use of dance within the framework of a musical.

The extraordinary score contains some of the greatest songs ever written for the theatre. From the indifference of Cool to the ominous Something's Coming to the romantic Tonight, I Have Love, One Hand, One Heart, and I Feel Pretty, Bernstein and Sondheim set standards still unmatched to date.

The romantic leads, direct from the Broadway and Los Angeles companies of "Les Miserables," are Peter Gantenbein as Tony and Betsy True as Maria.

Tickets are from $23.75 to $38.75. Performances are Tuesday through Saturday at 8 p.m.; matinees are Wednesday and Saturday at 2 p.m. and Sunday at 3 p.m.; with the press opening, Thursday, Aug. 16 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are available at the Wang Center Box Office and Ticketmaster at 931-2060. For group sales call 426-6444. For information, call the Wang Center at 482-9393.

To the neighbors, especially the Supreys and the people on St. Martin Street, thank you for the compliments on our work. We're trying our best to do our jobs, and it's nice to know that you're concerned. We thank you for your support. We appreciate it.

United Cerebral Palsy Association Seeks Charlestown Volunteers

The United Cerebral Palsy Association is looking for Charlestown residents interested in volunteering 5 to 10 hours per week to help expand its Coin Canister program in the Charlestown area.

UCPA is a local health care agency serving over 250 adults and children with cerebral palsy and other developmental disabilities who live in Massachusetts. Almost 90 percent of every dollar raised goes directly to program and services, which is why community volunteers are so important.

Thoughts On Dewey Beach

Quite a few of our senior citizens in Charlestown reminisce and talk about the good old days at Dewey Beach. Always curious about the good old days of Charlestown, I decided to do a little research to see what I could piece together about good old Dewey Beach.

I started with what I remembered most about the place. Entering the beach was through a tunnel from Medford Street under the railroad tracks that are still there outside of the Domino Sugar plant. Going through the tunnel was rather dangerous. It was cluttered with all sorts of debris and a resident rat or two.

Dewey Beach was a piece of work. I looked up the definition of the word pollution in Webster's Dictionary and there was a picture of Dewey Beach. The beach was strewn with old tires, broken glass, wire and plenty of filth. The mud was so deep that one time I lost a sneaker pulling my leg out — try explaining that at home! After all, we were forbidden to swim at good old Dewey Beach; that was the only place that was off limits to us.

Some people have different memories of the beach. My mother has a different perspective than that of my father. She talks about the swimming races that were held there, swimming out to the raft, and the time she and Winifred Birmingham had their picture on the front page of the Boston Globe exiting the water.

My father, on the other hand, said the place was dirty and only swam there on a few occasions — probably chasing my mother. He spent most of his swimming days at the other end of town, in the Little Mystic and from the high bridge. Anyway, I left them with their debate.

On a map of Charlestown dated 1885, Dewey Beach is not listed, however, there is a street named Beach that ran from Bunker Hill across Medford to the river, apparently on the other side of Brockways, and perhaps this street ran onto bolickey beach. Where this name came from I have no idea, but the kids swam naked. According to some other information I gathered from the Rev. Cutler collection at the Charlestown Branch of the Boston Public Library, there was a Charlestown Park Beach that was later named Dewey Beach. This could be true. However, if the 1885 map is correct and my bearings are correct, where did Beach Street go? The map makes no reference to either beach, but where Dewey Beach was appears occupied by dock space.

The first reference I could find to Dewey Beach was in the city of Boston Directory of 1903. It listed Dewey Beach under public bath houses open from June 1 to Sept. 30. The public bath house was rebuilt in 1912 and would be most remembered by our elders. What was called Pottery 1, 2 and 3 was the Edmonds & Hooper Pottery works, which in all probability, was closed when my parents swam at Dewey.

So what was so good about the good old days at Dewey Beach? First of all it was right down the street, two-cent bottles of tonic, you knew everyone, we had Townie Pride, a story about someone doing the loop, a swim out to the raft or taking a dive from the end, life was very simple then, no traffic, pretty girls and men with tops on their bathing suits.

But what was really great about the good old days at Dewey Beach? Frolicking on the beach playing ball? The answer is really simple — we were all younger then.

A Special Commitment For Local Lawyer

by Margaret Evans

"Special Olympics encourages the athletes to be more secure in themselves," said John C. McCullough, Charlestown attorney and outgoing president of Special Olympics in Massachusetts. "Their self image is better and they gain a confidence which affects every aspect of their lives — work, family, friends, health and fitness — they benefit in every way possible. And that has been, for me, one of the most satisfying rewards of my involvement."

The 1980s was an exciting decade for Massachusetts Special Olympics and McCullough. On June 22, he came to the end of his two-year tenure as president, and recently took time out to reflect upon the growth of that organization and the changes he has witnessed since joining as a volunteer in 1981.

A graduate of Notre Dame and Boston College Law School, McCullough is also a founding co-partner in the Charlestown-based law firm of McCullough, Stievater & Polvere. "My partners have been more than supportive of my interest in Special Olympics," McCullough said when asked about the vast amount of time spent working for the program. "We're all active in community service for many such organizations. In fact, most of our attorneys and other staff in the firm volunteer for various charities and causes. That kind of concern motivated me in my commitment to MSO."

It was McCullough's legal background which brought him to Special Olympics where he initially became involved in 1981 as an attorney providing pro bono legal services to the organization. He was hooked and, within a year, was nominated to the board of directors. From the start, he was determined to make a difference, to help develop Special Olympics in Massachusetts. "I won't go on the board unless you give me something to do," he said at the time. "Back then, Special Olympics was perceived as an eastern Massachusetts program, loosely organized just for fun and games. Right off the bat, I wanted to see it develop, so that more people with mental retardation could benefit. Now, almost 10 years later, I'm proud to say that Special Olympics has grown in a number of ways — there have been substantial improvements in our training programs and competitive events, more family members are taking part, it's more organized in a business-like fashion and, most importantly, thousands more athletes have joined."

Indeed, growth in numbers has been the most significant development during McCullough's tenure as president. In 1989, the organization reported a 31 percent increase in the number of athletes who had competed at state events throughout the year. An overall growth of 23 percent was recorded in terms of the numbers of athletes joining the Special Olympics program throughout Massachusetts.

Public awareness has also changed. "One of the indications of that," said McCullough, "is that our events are now reported on the sports page instead of the 'home ec. page'. We're recognized as a sports program. I think the awakening of Special Olympics both nationally and internationally has contributed to that. The Soviet Union, for instance, recently joined the estimated 90 countries who already conduct Special Olympics programs around the world."

In 1987, McCullough was head coach for the team which represented Massachusetts at the International Summer Special Olympics Games held at Notre Dame University in Indiana. That experience further convinced him of the real talent and athletic ability to be found among competitors in all sports. "They train hard, they are serious athletes. They are not to be patronized as a bunch of nice kids out there having a good time. They work hard at what they do, and they take pride in what they do. That's probably one of the major changes I've seen in the past several years — that the athletes are now recognized as athletes."

Having stepped down as president of MSO, McCullough continues to work as a volunteer and is looking forward to being able to direct his time into specific areas of interest within the program. For the immediate future, however, his major priority will be raising funds to keep the organization alive and growing in Massachusetts. "There's a great spirit of Special Olympics. It's different," he said. "The effort, the camaraderie, the self-esteem, the idea that everyone can be a winner — it's an ingenious concept, and I intend to stay with it."

Charlestown Marine Park Seeks Approval Of Draft Master Plan

Several angry outbursts punctuated the July 30 Charlestown Neighborhood Council Mitigation Committee meeting as some 30 residents and persons involved with the use of two Medford Street sites met to consider plans and proposals for the two former sugar refineries.

Updates on the Amstar property, owned by Hamilton Realty, and the Revere Sugar parcel owned by Massport with lease arrangements pending by the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority, were the agenda items for the committee. Chairman Bill Galvin and committee members Stephen Collins, Jim Conway, Moe Gillen, Dan Kovacevic, Peter Looney, Jim Mansfield and Bob Wallace, were on hand at St. Francis de Sales Church hall.

The first half of the meeting centered around the Amstar facility, now known as Charlestown Marine Park. Galvin gave some background on the site, which is a tidelands area. As such, the property is subject to restrictions on non-maritime-related activity under a Chapter 91 license.

Spinnaker Software had been in negotiations since September 1989 with Hamilton Realty and its agents for 58,000 square feet of space at the site. Spinnaker representatives came before the committee and council last winter requesting support for locating the company at the site. They offered benefits for local youth groups and schools, along with jobs for residents with added pluses such as day care. The council voted to support the Spinnaker proposal, and even representatives of the International Longshoremen's Union went along with the non-maritime usage because of the commitments by Spinnaker to the community.

Galvin, along with Attorney Bud Shadrawy representing Hamilton Realty, explained the delays that the realty company and its prospective tenant faced. The delays, for the most part, apparently rest with the Department of Environmental Protection that issues licensing for such tideland sites.

When Charlestown Marine Park representatives went before the DEP for a licensing hearing they requested that an environment impact report be waived, which was eventually granted. But at the hearing, DEP asked for a master plan for use of the entire site for all current and prospective uses. Presently there are two tenants, Boston Harbor Marine Terminal and Bay State Express, both with marine-related businesses.

The DEP-ordered master plan pushed the timetable even further back for a Spinnaker occupancy, possibly to as late as January of 1991. Shadrawy indicated that although the realty company had attempted to keep the software company interested in the site and invested between $350,000 and $450,000 in plans and renovations, Spinnaker decided to look for rental space outside the city of Boston. He noted that a business can not wait a year or more for occupancy when they can get space elsewhere within 30 to 60 days.

Shadrawy was critical of the government in delaying the process. He told the committee that the company has to go forward with the Chapter 91 process and go on with the master plan that would show a prospective tenant what the timetable would be for approval.

Shadrawy added that the proposed Haul Road, which would parallel the railroad tracks and Medford Street, created another problem, although he stated publicly that he was in favor of the road. He said their property shown in the Haul Road plan had been designated by them for tenant parking. He said that they are waiting for the Boston Redevelopment Authority to get back to them with definitive answers on the road.

THE TITLE SEARCH?

People who do title searches for a living don't have real estate's most exciting job, but it is an important one. They must ensure that the sellers really do own the property you're buying and that all liens against the property are taken care of before or as a result of settlement.

If, for example, your seller has had financial difficulties and didn't pay bills, there might be judgments that must be satisfied when the property is sold. Someone in addition to the people who signed the sales agreement may have a partial interest. If, for example, parents cosigned the mortgage for your sellers, they will need to sign the sales agreement and the deed that transfers ownership to you. In addition to looking at the current owners' situation, they go back many years, examining what is called the "chain of title," and they will send the results to the settlement office. If you learn that the property you're buying has title problems, don't panic. Most of them are resolved easily and in plenty of time to avoid settlement delays.

If there's a move in your future, the real estate professionals at Silva Realty are ready to serve you. Call us at 242-7470 or drop by our office at 371 Somerville Ave. in Somerville.

Children's Films

The Film Program for Children will be presented at the Charlestown Branch Library, 179 Main St., on Tuesday, Aug. 14 at 10:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

The features will be "School Excursion," in which a dog turns himself into a boy to go on a school trip; J. Thaddeus Toad's friends help him get out of trouble in "The Adventures Of J. Thaddeus Toad," and Paddington competes in a TV game show and wins a supply of toffee candy in "Paddington # 8."

Scientists in Yellowstone National Park study the behavior of the bears in the park in "Grizzly," shown only at 3:30 p.m.

The suggested readings in conjunction with these films are Baby Bears and How They Grow by Jane Heath Buxton, Paddington Takes the Test by Michael Bond and The River Bank by Kenneth Grahame.

Not For Nothin' . . . But Have You Heard . . .

• First CYO Meeting . . . will take place this Sunday, Aug. 12 at 6 p.m. at St. Catherine's lower rectory, 49 Vine St. Fr. Ron Coyne invites all high school students in grades 9 through 12, especially parishioners of St. Catherine's, to attend. The aim of the CYO program is to allow teen-agers to center their lives at St. Catherine's not only spiritually, but socially and athletically as well. Why not drop by and give it a try?!

• It's that time again . . . for the Annual Halfball Tournament. Plans are in the works for this year's event on the weekends of Sept. 8 and 9 and 15 and 16. If interested in participating, call Bob O'Neill at 242-2788.

• What A Nice Surprise . . . It's always nice to see old friends, but when a certain handsome, bearded, casually attired man came to our front desk this week seeking the whereabouts of this columnist, it was a real treat. Fr. Jack Lord, now stationed at Immaculate Conception Parish in Norwood, N.J., brought back old memories of the Squires minstrel shows and caught up on old friends. It was so great to see you, Jackie. Drop by again when you get some more (much needed) vacation time! . . . Say "Hi" to all the kids in the parish for us. (They're crazy about him, we're told.)

• Tickets For The Charity Benefit Day . . . Sept. 11 at the soon-to-open CambridgeSide Galleria's Filene's Store are being sold at the Mass./R.I. League for Nursing office at One Thompson Sq. (first floor). The $5 tickets will allow the holder to participate in all the day's planned activities plus a chance to win prizes and giveaways. Call Ellen Mondy at 242-3009 or stop by for tickets and more information . . . All tickets sold by the League will benefit their programs. One ticketholder will win a $2,500 shopping spree at Filene's.

• Did You Spot A Dirty Lot . . . that could use cleaning? Call the Trash Attack Hotline at 725-4500 with the correct location and the "Red Shirts" (the young kids working hard this summer cleaning up various locales) will put it on their list of spots to clean.

• Tote That Barge . . . and get it out of the way. So says the bridge tender in Sullivan Square. Two runaway barges on the Mystic River slammed into the Alford Street Bridge last Saturday after a third attached-anchored barge sank freeing the others to float away. The Coast Guard freed the two stuck barges, only after the bridge had been closed for a while, causing a headache to motorists. No one knows what made the first barge sink. It's still under investigation by the USCG.

• What A Special Way To Celebrate A Birthday . . . James Duffy, retired proprietor of Duffy's Tobacco, had three great reasons to celebrate last Saturday, Aug. 4. It was his 80th birthday, his daughter Susan's 40th birthday and her wedding day. Heard the Duffy clan and their many friends had a great time. Congrats to all.

• No One Asked, But Did You Know . . . excavation of the entire 30 miles of pavement for the Third Harbor Tunnel project will generate enough material to cover Charlestown with a 13-foot layer of debris . . . The mid-point of summer was reached on Aug. 7. If you're counting, there's only 45 days left! . . . Happier news, especially for parents, is that there's only 27 days left until the first day of school! . . . and International Lefthander's Day is Monday, Aug. 13! . . . Tip 'O the Hat, with my left hand of course, to all you southpaws!

• Goings On In City Square . . . New detour in front of Roughan's caused havoc for motorists trying to enter Route 1 or Park Street. Signs will be moved to the new entrance onto Park St., we're told . . . House at 11 Park St. that was the scene of a floor collapse last week has been adorned with a large "X" denoting that it is condemned . . . When excavation crews were draining off rain water from the "Big Dig" raw sewage was seen coming out. Boston Water & Sewer was called in and determined that someone in the area was hooked up illegally. The culprit is being sought . . . While the search continues, Park Street neighbors are seeking relief from the multitude of mosquitoes that have swarmed to the area due to the sewage . . . and the large depression found outside the Navy Yard's Gate 4, along the Freedom Trail's red line, has been repaired. It was determined that a broken shut-off gate caused the undermining of the area. It has been repaired.

• Tick, Tick, Tick . . . it has now been 139 days since a Charlestown Community Liaison has been on the CANA project in City Square . . . To further prove the need for such a position, the above news came to us either from personal observation or by residents contacting this office for assistance on their complaints. We are very happy to help out, but we are not always able to drop everything and devote the time it takes to get results. We need someone from the community on the job taking care of these incidents and concerns . . . Tick, Tick, Tick • Show Support To Our Service Men And Women . . . during these trying days by proudly displaying the American Flag. Top it off with a prayer for their safe return home.

NATF Testifies At Hearing On Central Artery Project

Members of the North Area Task Force were among those offering testimony at a public hearing of the Boston Civic Design Commission at Boston City Hall on Aug. 7. The focus of the hearing was on the Central Artery/Third Harbor Tunnel project area north of Causeway Street.

Elaine McCarthy made the presentation on behalf of the NATF. The testimony given was as follows:

"I am speaking on behalf of the Charlestown North Area Task Force. The NATF is a group of Charlestown citizens who have been both following and guiding the progress of the Central Artery North Area (CANA) project over the course of the last decade or so. We have been working with the State Department of Public Works during this period through a public participation process that has built consensus within the Charlestown community and the DPW over solutions that provide benefits to us all. CANA has been the model for a satisfactory relationship between a public agency with regional goals, and the needs of a local community.

"Regarding the issue before you — we are asking the Mass. Department of Public Works to study a different solution with much reduced visual and noise impacts on Charlestown, an all-underground solution to replace the massive collection of ramps and bridges proposed in Scheme 'Z.'

"If such a solution turns out not to be viable, and if 'Z' is selected, then we ask that the following design issues relating to Scheme 'Z' be addressed:

1. Design of the gateway bridges over the Charles River must be improved to transcend typical highway construction. These bridges represent the highway entrance from north of town into the historic downtown center of the city and should be of landmark significance recognizing both the crossing of this historic river and the entrance to the city core. Furthermore, these bridges must enhance land and water passage along the river. This is the area, after all, where the Charles River meets the Harbor.
 2. The Charlestown Community has expressed concern about the resulting environment under the enormous assembly of ramps north of the Charles River and west of Charlestown. We need a well-lighted and safe pedestrian environment under the ramps, particularly along the river's edge. We support significant public art to improve the experience of pedestrians and others as they traverse the area.
 3. We see major impacts on the adjacent Charlestown residential community from vehicular noise and from highway lighting. We ask that sound barriers along the highway's edge and appropriate lighting be further studied.
- "While we are residents of Charlestown, we are citizens of Boston. We support the depression of the artery through downtown because it allows reconnection of the city to its waterfront and opens surface land to better uses. We also see benefits to the local economy during construction and to the regional economy upon completion. Continuing the public participation process, as in the CANA project, is essential."

Signed: Ken Stone, Co-Chairman
Charlestown North Area Task Force

MBTA Police Union Endorses Malone

Treasurer candidate Joe Malone received another major boost to his campaign this week when the MBTA Police Association/IBPO Local 639 gave him their endorsement at a ceremony held at Boston's Parker House.

"We are pleased to announce today that our union has endorsed Joe Malone for State Treasurer," said Herman Wheeler, president of the 145-member police union whose executive board voted unanimously to endorse Malone.

Remarked Wheeler: "At a time when the people of this state have lost confidence in their government, we believe that Joe is the answer to restoring that confidence and trust. Joe is a new, fresh face and we need new energy in our government. He comes from working-class roots and understands the needs of working people. Joe is our man for state Treasurer."

Flanked by several members of the union and others holding Democrats for Malone signs, Malone said: "I'm delighted to have the MBTA Police Association in my corner. It's an indication that our message is getting out and that this campaign is getting stronger and stronger with each passing day. It's clear that the members of this union want what every other working person in this state wants. They are looking for someone in the Treasurer's office who will be an independent voice, someone who will be open, honest and accessible, someone who will be a fiscal watchdog. I hope to be that person and am honored to receive this endorsement." (political release)

Is this senate district for sale?

Not if Mark Strahan can help it!

For three years Tom Birmingham has been telling people that "we can't afford business as usual" on Beacon Hill. That we can't afford more of the same disastrous policies dictated at the State House by political insiders and special interests.

Yet, Tom Birmingham can afford "business as usual" with special interests from all over the state and, for that matter, all over the country. Why else would his 1988 and 1989 treasurer's reports to the Office of Campaign and Political Finance contain contributors from as far away as California, Oregon, Texas, Minnesota, Missouri and North Dakota, not to mention more than a dozen from Washington, D.C. In 1989 alone, 68.5% of his campaign contributions came from people and special interest PAC's outside our senatorial district. If elected, whose interests would Tom Birmingham really represent? Facts are facts, and these facts speak clearly.

Mark Strahan has always been independent of the special interests. He has no strings attached. His ten years as an auditor give him the experience and know-how to find the fat and waste in state budgets. And his six years on the Everett City Council give him the understanding of what local government needs to help people. Birmingham is right.

Vote against "business as usual!" Vote Mark Strahan for State Senate. No strings attached.

Strahan

Dr. Weiss Honored At Reception As He Leaves Health Center

Bunker Hill Health Center staff recently honored Dr. Charles H. Weiss at a reception at the center as he prepared to leave the local facility to become a founding partner in a new medical group practice, the Bulfinch Medical Group, which opened on July 16.

Weiss came to the BHHC in 1979 and served in recent years as its Unit Chief of Adult Medicine.

Dr. Roger Sweet, director of the Community Health Associates, utilized a few moments at the reception to praise Weiss. He told the gathering that Weiss was born in New Jersey and came to the Boston area to attend Harvard University, graduating in 1970 magna cum laude, one of a very select group. Weiss went on to Case Western Reserve for his medical training and returned to Boston in 1978 to work with Dr. John Sokol at Mass. General Hospital as a Sokol Fellow.

Sweet went on to say that since Weiss came to BHHC in 1978, he has been involved in the Charlestown community, taking part in such events as the Bunker Hill Day Road Race and the Bunker Hill Day Parade. He is known and loved in Charlestown as well as at Mass. General.

Sweet said that during the past few months of transition, he has been able to reflect on the character of the man. He noted that Weiss has not let down during this period and kept more to the grindstone in his dedication to the community and the health center as he prepared to turn over the reigns to Dr. Mark Eisenberg, who will become the new Unit Chief of Adult Medicine.

The people planning the new group medical practice had the "wisdom and foresight to include Charlie in their plans," Sweet said, adding that the good news is that Weiss will not be leaving Mass. General.

Eisenberg, who joined the staff at BHHC as a general internist in 1985 following the receipt of his medical degree from Harvard Medical School, his residency at the University of Rochester and his fellowship in infectious disease at Stanford University, told of his first meeting with Weiss when he came to BHHC for an interview. He related that the two walked over to the Bunker Hill Monument and Weiss told him about the history of Charlestown and what working at BHHC was like. He said that Weiss equated BHHC with a commitment for care. It was noted by center officials that Eisenberg has displayed his deep commitment to patient care and the BHHC in his five years on staff, and will ably carry on the superb legacy of Weiss.

Weiss, in responding to the accolades and gifts, said that his 11 years at BHHC gave him an opportunity to learn what primary physician care was all about. He said that the center allowed him to look at and learn from the health care professionals in other disciplines, noting that he also gained much from the unit secretaries, especially regarding advocacy for the patients. He added that this was a sad time as he won't have the same professional relationships in the future, although he will still be around Mass. General. He said that he was made richer by his tenure at BHHC, adding "in the figurative sense."

As Weiss assumes his position with the Bulfinch Medical Group and Eisenberg takes on the duties of Unit Chief, plans are underway for two new doctors to join the Adult Medicine staff at BHHC. Dr. Lyn Lindpaintner will be joining the staff in early August and Dr. Helen Toomey will be on staff in October. Weiss was actively involved in recruiting and hiring both new doctors, who promise to be outstanding additions to the staff.

Annual Bunker Hill Day Road Race

of The Raymond Group that sponsored the event, is shown presenting the winner's award; JENNIFER EVANS, top Boys & Girls Club female finisher in the Novice Race is congratulated by McHugh; FIRST PLACE WINNER in the Female Division was Ann Marie Marino shown accepting her award from Francis.

Sunday, June 17, marked the 22nd running of the Battle of Bunker Hill Road Race, and again it proved to be one of the most exciting sports events held in Charlestown each year. The excitement of this year's race was heightened by the fact that it was designated by the New England Athletic Congress as the New England Championship of the 8K distance. This attracted many of the top runners and running teams from all over New England. The total number of runners participating increased by over 200 from last year.

There, of course, remained a real local flavor as many Charlestown residents continue to begin their Bunker Hill Day celebration with a run through our historic streets. Of particular note is John Gassman who dethroned Thom Gilligan as the fastest Charlestown male and Carolyn Mather who claimed the title of the fastest female in town.

The shortened distance of this year's race from 10 kilometers to 8 kilometers (just under five miles) also seemed to encourage a larger turnout, and while it continues to be one of the most difficult courses to run, most runners seemed to appreciate the shorter distance.

An inaugural event at this year's race was a challenge match between two local businesses that resulted in a $500 contribution to the Bunker Hill Day Parade. McCarthy Brothers Liquors in Hayes Square and the Ironside Grille on Park Street initiated the friendly rivalry that saw the two teams pitted against one another for bragging rights and to display the winner's trophy in the business establishment for the coming year.

McCarthy Brothers won this year's challenge, lead on by the efforts of team member Frank Keane who passed the finish line in 30:06 minutes. Bill Smith, running for Ironside Grille, finished shortly behind Keane at 31:11 minutes. The close finish has inspired both teams to better their times in next year's race, and include other local businesses in the challenge match.

Everyone at the Boys & Girls Club would like to thank The Raymond Group and David Francis for their generous sponsorship of this year's race. Not only do they support the clubhouse through a generous donation but Francis and his staff are always there, bright and early, on Bunker Hill Day to help work the race and ensure its success. Their donation to the Boys & Girls Club and this community event is greatly appreciated. Also, a special thanks to all the volunteers (over 175 of them!) who turned out to help in any way they could and all the businesses in town who supported the race through our program book. Though too numerous to name, everyone at the Boys & Girls Club knows who you are and appreciate the time and effort you gave to the club this year.

Finally, a special thanks to The Charlestown Patriot and Gloria Conway, and the Bunker Hill Parade Committee and Jim Conway for all the support they have given the Road Race this year and every year. What started as a small local race has grown to become a regional sporting event and the continuing support of The Patriot and the Bunker Hill Parade Committee have made that possible.

So, everyone mark your calendars, lace up your sneaks, and hit the pavement — only 312 days till next year's race. See you at the finish line.

Jerry Steimel
