About Manufacturer

A global French company that manufactures food goods, Danone S.A. is headquartered in Paris. A Sephardic Jewish doctor named Isaac Carasso (born Zak Karasu) founded it in 1919 in Barcelona, Spain.

In the US, some of the company's goods are sold under the Dannon name.

As of 2018, Danone sold goods in 120 markets and generated €24.65 billion in revenue.

Both national and international brands are included in the Danone brand portfolio. A few of its well-known international brands are Activia, Alpro, Danette, Danone, Evian, and Volvic.

AQUA (Indonesia), Bonafont (Mexico and Brazil), Blédina (France), Happy Family (USA), Silk (USA), and others are some of its local or regional brands.

About Product

AQUA mineral water was produced by nature, apart from human contact, and it brings goodness to life in the way that nature intended.

With around 50 years of experience, the brand shows the goodness of nature and safeguards it with cutting-edge integrated technology in manufacturing and quality control, bringing you a completely new level of purity in every bottle.

In order to ensure that everyone in Indonesia has access to the highest quality mineral water, AQUA has made it a top priority to maintain and preserve the natural balance.

AQUA has spent 50 years preserving 11 billion liters of mineral water for more than 34 Indonesian regions, earning AQUA a spot among the top 50 most valuable brands in the country.

It is also the leading manufacturer of bottled mineral water in Indonesia thanks to the incorporation of 21 water springs spread around the country.
