

Entrepreneur How To Start A Business

If this is the start/continuation of a new trend and governments/corporations are starting to see many traditional labour positions as obsolete then what is the new trend for us to tap into and take our power back and future proof ourselves against any sort of threat to our livelihood?

This is not a time to be complacent and have an attitude of ‘it will never happen to me’ – because this is starting to happen in my own backyard, within the company I currently work for in the UK.

How To Start Entrepreneurship

Quite simply, it would be misleading and somewhat fanciful to suggest by reading and following the advice of my article you would achieve complete freedom from our corrupt banking, lending, investing, trading, credit model – it's all pervasive and will take a colossal shift of global proportions before we could declare our emancipation from it's slippery clutches. The Western banking model of issuing money that does not exist and then charging extortionate interest on it's return has been the accepted and de facto system for a very long time – and many have achieved a level of comfort or even wealth accumulation within this system.

Seven years ago January just gone, life changed for me on a seismic scale! I started to see the world from a different perspective, I had my eyes pulled wide open to see things that were difficult to swallow.

The journey since has been interesting to say the least, challenging may be leaning toward a description more relevant – but still doesn't cut it. Why, oh why did I take the red pill?!

Seriously though, I have no regrets – life is a journey and needs to be experienced at every level, the bad times, the good times, the shocking times, the enlightening times.

So why am I telling you this?

Well, it's not to go into details about what caused my life perspective to change, but to put context around the fact that I changed!

Before January 2008, I was desperate to be free from the world of 9-5 work, the traditional, yet very limited and now outdated way of making an honest living.

There is a middle way and I am a dedicated family man who wants to provide the absolute best life experience for my family. And this is not hiding away from society on some small farm holding, living a simple frugal life of owning nothing and growing potatoes and carrots – this really did happen!

Life is to be lived and experienced, every moment is precious and never to be wasted. The sum of all my previous experiences has led me to where I am today – old, wiser, more mature (some would argue against that!) and ready to build something significant in our lives that involves total freedom. Freedom to make any choice, financial freedom, work freedom, location freedom. For me this is the essence of the entrepreneurial spirit, an alternative approach to life – an approach that demands more, an approach that strives for a life away from the status quo.

Most see an entrepreneur as a slick, astute and driven businessman – bent on success and a high desire for wealth acquisition. I used to think that and perhaps that is one type of entrepreneur!

But now being involved in the digital world of entrepreneurship and being mentored and guided by self-made internet entrepreneurs, I know different. I am witnessing the quick development of many, many unlikely entrepreneurs online – the rise of the internet has literally changed the playing field for anyone whose motivated to take part.....and I just love that!

The success, lifestyle and achievements in certain segments of society, areas we previously thought out of reach, have now entered into the world of the Everyman and I could not be more excited for this time to exist and build something of value within.

And the best part is that it's changed the way business is conducted entirely. The reason being it's now possible for anyone to grow a business online and open the doors of it to the whole world!! This means businesses are being setup and growing into profit far quicker than that of your traditional business.

If you have knowledge of something somewhere, then you have value – and we all know something about a specific area, although we may tell ourselves we do not. And knowledge, education and information is fast becoming the most in demand commodity on the net – if it is not already. And guess what, if you feel that you do not have much knowledge or have no value to offer, then you can learn enough in a matter of months now to be become an expert very quickly – that’s how simple it has become to access and absorb information. There’s nothing we can’t find out about on Google, YouTube or FaceBook now.

Only this time, I will walk into my venture with my eyes wide open, more mature in attitude and more open to actually building something that can truly contribute real value to others in this world. I can now build a business where I get to help other people achieve their hopes and dreams. Just like I have the privilege of being mentored toward building a business of complete freedom at every level, I then get to pass that knowledge on and mentor willing people to do the same.
