New Police Station, Repair To Pool And Roadways Planned For Charlestown

Mayor Raymond L. Flynn has announced plans for a major capital improvement program designed to dramatically improve city services and municipal facilities in Charlestown. This package of improvements is part of an overall proposed $632 million program to improve the city's capital plant throughout Boston.

The plan was released on Monday after a full briefing with members of the Boston City Council.

The city will undertake a major capital program in Charlestown that includes the construction of a new police station, the completion of Phase III of Shipyard Park, and total reconstruction of Main and Warren Streets.

"The people of Charlestown have gone without full police services since 1981," Mayor Flynn noted. "This capital plan proposes to reactivate full police protection in the neighborhood by building a new station and staffing it with a full complement of officers." According to the plan, a site survey for this facility is currently underway.

Mayor Flynn said that now is the time to resume investing in the city's capital stock, before any further deterioration takes place. The Mayor noted that the city can resume this kind of investment because of its improved financial condition. The city's credit rating was recently upgraded by Moody's Investors Service, which will allow it to borrow money at lower interest rates, saving millions for the city's taxpayers.

"This capital plan represents a renaissance in city services," the Mayor said. "It will allow us the opportunity to rebuild neighborhood parks and playgrounds, restore municipal buildings, reconstruct streets and sidewalks, improve recreational services, and renovate neighborhood libraries."

Permit Parking Program For City Square Area Receives Mixed Reaction

by Marianne Martin

The possibility of a resident permit parking program in the City Square area of Charlestown has generated mixed feelings by those who would be directly and indirectly affected. At the North Area/Central Artery community meeting held on Tuesday, September 10, 1985, Pat Jones from the Boston Traffic and Parking Department spoke regarding a request by a group of residents for a permit parking program in the area.

There is no resident permit parking program in the City Square area at the present time. Jones told the audience the program will only be implemented if the residents circulate a petition requesting the program in their neighborhood. The petition must receive the signatures of over 51% of the residents on any given street proposed for the parking program, indicating that they are in favor of the program.

While no one at the meeting denied there is a parking problem in Charlestown, there was debate over how to solve the problem. Some residents argued overdevelopment and condo conversion were responsible. Others, however, argued the fight over a parking space is not necessarily between neighbors. In some sections of Charlestown, residents must fight commuters, who as one man summarized, "arrive like clock work" and park their cars on residential streets as if they were their private parking lots.

A resident parking program is presently operating in the Little Neck section of Charlestown, where residents had been fighting commuters who utilize the Sullivan Square MBTA Station. The program discourages "outsiders" from parking on the side streets and hampering the accessibility of emergency vehicles in the area.

Jones added that while a permit parking program is not "a cure all" for the present parking situation in Charlestown, "it is a help to the cure" since the program discourages non-residents from utilizing Charlestown streets.

Resident Bob Wallace called the permit parking program a "great misconception" since there was no guarantee that residents would be able to park outside their homes. Dan Kovacevic added, "If you think you have a problem now, if we allow the City of Boston to do this, you are going to have to deal with the city. I'd rather deal with my neighbors than deal with the city."

However, one man living in the vicinity of City Square rebuked, "We have to deal with these people (commuters) everyday and they tell us they can park where they want — and they can. They insult us. We have to fight them everyday."

Another objection to the program was the "street by street" approach to permit parking. Many stated that if the program is only for select streets, there will be a spill over of cars onto other streets. One woman summarized, "Why not the entire town? No street in Charlestown can afford not to be resident permit parking."

Jones presented a map outlining a proposed permit parking plan for the City Square area. The area under consideration extends from City Square towards Sullivan Square as far as West School Street and School Street; High Street; Monument Square; Laurel Street; Tremont Street; and back towards Park Street and all the streets in between.

Essentially, the proposal calls for resident permit parking along most streets with an area designated for visitors. There would be no visitor parking passes. In retail areas, the program provides a two hour parking limit (permit exempt). Jones stated that parking enforcement officers will patrol the area and ticket the offenders.

Should the program receive the support of the residents, permits will be available free of charge only to those living in the designated town. Residents must prove that they do, in fact, reside in Charlestown by producing a valid Massachusetts Registration in the same name and address, and one of the following: a utility bill, such as electric, gas, or telephone; a cable TV bill; a credit card billing; a monthly bank statement; or a Massachusetts Medicaid eligibility card. All bills and statements must be current, that is, less than 30 days old, and must bear both the name and street address of the resident.

Other concerns voiced by residents was that some of the streets outlined on the map had parking on one side only, while others had no parking at all. Jones told the residents these were not new restrictions.

Many stated the lack of available space necessitates the need to park along these streets that have parking restrictions. One resident stated there are 52 homes on Mount Vernon Street where he lives, with approximately 104 cars and only 28 parking spaces on the street. "We park illegally all the time."

Another community meeting with Traffic and Parking Department officials will be held to continue discussion on this topic. The date and time will be announced in The Patriot.

An Open Letter To The Bunker Hill Health Center

On a recent visit to the Bunker Hill Health Center, I was told to wait to see a "Doctor."

When I was "summoned," I thought the "Doctor" was rude for not introducing herself.

Her diagnosis was very, very swift (and incomplete).

I made inquiries and learned that the "Doctor" is actually a "Physician's Assistant."

She may be capable in her field, but she's NOT a Doctor!

I think that you deceive the public by not making them aware of her "status." If patients are told that they are going to be seen by a Doctor, their confidence is in the many years of a Doctor's training, plus an M.D. Degree!

Several people who I asked thought that they had been treated by a Doctor. She is a "Physician's Assistant" not a Doctor. She may have permission to use a Doctor's name on prescriptions, but the patient should be aware of her status when she prescribes medicine.

I have never met the Doctor who's name was on the prescription and if I hadn't inquired, I would have assumed that I had been treated by a Doctor — the same Doctor who signed the prescription.

I consider this practice "deceptive."

Signed,
"Deceived"

Thank You

A heart felt thanks to our family, friends, relatives, neighbors and clergy, who made this recent bereavement a little less painful because of your support and love.

We will always be remembering you in our prayers. God Bless.

Sincere Thanks,
Mrs. John Connolly and children

Looking Forward To Art Series

Dear Editor:

As an art enthusiast who in the recent past has tremendously enjoyed the stimulating and informative lectures given by Aileen Callahan on art appreciation and on the techniques of famous painters, I was delighted to learn that she will give a five-part lecture series on American Art, the first of which is scheduled for presentation at the Charlestown Branch Library, 179 Main Street, Charlestown, on Thursday, October 17, 1985, at 7:00 p.m.

Last October, Miss Callahan, a muralist and lecturer on Art at Boston College and Regis College, presented a similar and highly successful series of lectures on the French Impressionists at the Roslindale Public Library and, at the conclusion of the lectures, it was agreed on by all who attended that they had participated in one of Greater Boston's truly significant cultural events.

Those of us who have become familiar with Miss Callahan's very impressive knowledge of Art and Art History and also of her unique talent for presenting these subjects in such an interest compelling manner, have sound reasons to suspect that local devotees of American Art have a rare and memorable experience in the offing for them.

Sincerely,
William J. Fitzpatrick

Mary Nee, the director of the Mayor's Office of Capital Planning, said this plan represents not only a renewal of investment in the city's capital stock, but also indicates that the administration will take a well-planned, coordinated approach to addressing capital needs.

"Not since 1963 has the City of Boston undertaken such a comprehensive program to improve services across the city," Nee said.

"In the absence of a plan to guide capital expenditures, major portions of the city's capital stock were ignored, thereby accelerating the deterioration of both facilities and city services. This plan begins a coordinated, comprehensive process of restoring facilities and services which were not maintained because of inadequate planning."

For Boston's neighborhoods, that means services that residents rely on for public safety, fire protection, recreation, health care, and other vital needs will be upgraded and then maintained.

For Charlestown residents, this investment by the city means a new police station to provide improved protection and more police visibility.

Residents of Charlestown will also see the completion of Phase III of Shipyard Park, and the complete reconstruction of Main and Warren Streets, two of the neighborhood's busiest roadways.

Recreational services in the area will also be enhanced as a result of this plan. The Clougherty Pool will be rehabilitated and facilities at the adjacent Doherty Playground will be repaired.

"Recreational facilities are extremely important to a neighborhood," Mayor Flynn said. "I am committed to restoring and upgrading these to allow local residents, young and old, to enjoy them."

Highlights of the proposed capital action for Charlestown include:

- construction of a new Charlestown police station;
- total reconstruction of Main and Warren Streets, including new sidewalks, lighting, and trees;
- rehabilitation of pool area, filtration system, and administration/locker building of Clougherty Pool, and renovation of adjacent

Doherty Playground, including repairs to tot lots, basketball courts, and walls, as well as landscaping of back slope;

- completion of Phase III of Shipyard Park and construction of new streets in the Navy Yard;

- reactivation of ongoing program of local street reconstruction, including new sidewalks, lighting, and trees.

These improvements are part of an overall plan to rehabilitate municipal facilities and upgrade city services across Boston. Director of Capital Planning, Nee, said that this plan also addresses citywide concerns and will mean for Charlestown, a program of expenditures for street and sidewalk repair, and lighting and traffic signal installation.

Betty Shea Honored On Retirement

More than thirty-five friends and co-workers of Elizabeth "Betty" Shea, a lifelong resident of Charlestown, turned out to honor her on her retirement from Massachusetts Mental Health Center after twenty-eight years of service. Shea retired on August 31, 1985 and her party was held at Pippins Restaurant in Dedham on Tuesday, September 17, 1985.

One of the surprise highlights at the party was the presentation of two City Hall proclamations by former Charlestown resident, Sal Giarratani.

The first citation, honoring Shea on her twenty-eight years of service to the state Department of Mental Health, was from the Office of Mayor Raymond Flynn and the second offered by City Councillor Robert Travaglini from the entire Boston City Council. "As a friend, co-worker and former neighbor," said Giarratani, "I am honored to present these two citations from Mayor Flynn and from Councillor Robert Travaglini... People have cared and appreciated all your hard work at the Center since your first day on the job back in January 1957."

Massachusetts Mental Health Center is a comprehensive mental health facility serving Brookline, Brighton, Allston, Mission Hill, part of Jamaica Plain and the Fenway.

The facility, which opened in 1912 as Boston Psychopathic Hospital, is a Harvard Medical School teaching institution.

North Area Reconstruction Project Impact Discussed At Community Meeting

by Marianne Martin

The North Area Central Artery project, which essentially will remove the overhead roadway structure in City Square and replace it with tunnels, is a complicated and overwhelming project. Presently the project, which calls for $150 million construction, is in the final design phase where the details are being "refined."

While no actual construction has begun, teams of engineers, public agencies, and community members are working to coordinate and fine tune the various aspects of the project which will forever alter the face of City Square. On Tuesday, September 10, 1985, a community meeting was held at the American Legion Hall to present an overview and the current status of the project.

Among the aspects of the project discussed were the present archaeology project, the loop ramps and the Rutherford Avenue area, and the possible landscaping alternatives.

On a simplified level, the project involves the construction of a temporary detour structure, the removal of the overhead traffic system looming over City Square, and replacement of the overhead with tunnels. The new roadway will provide a smoother transition for traffic, complete with two circular ramps west of Rutherford Avenue.

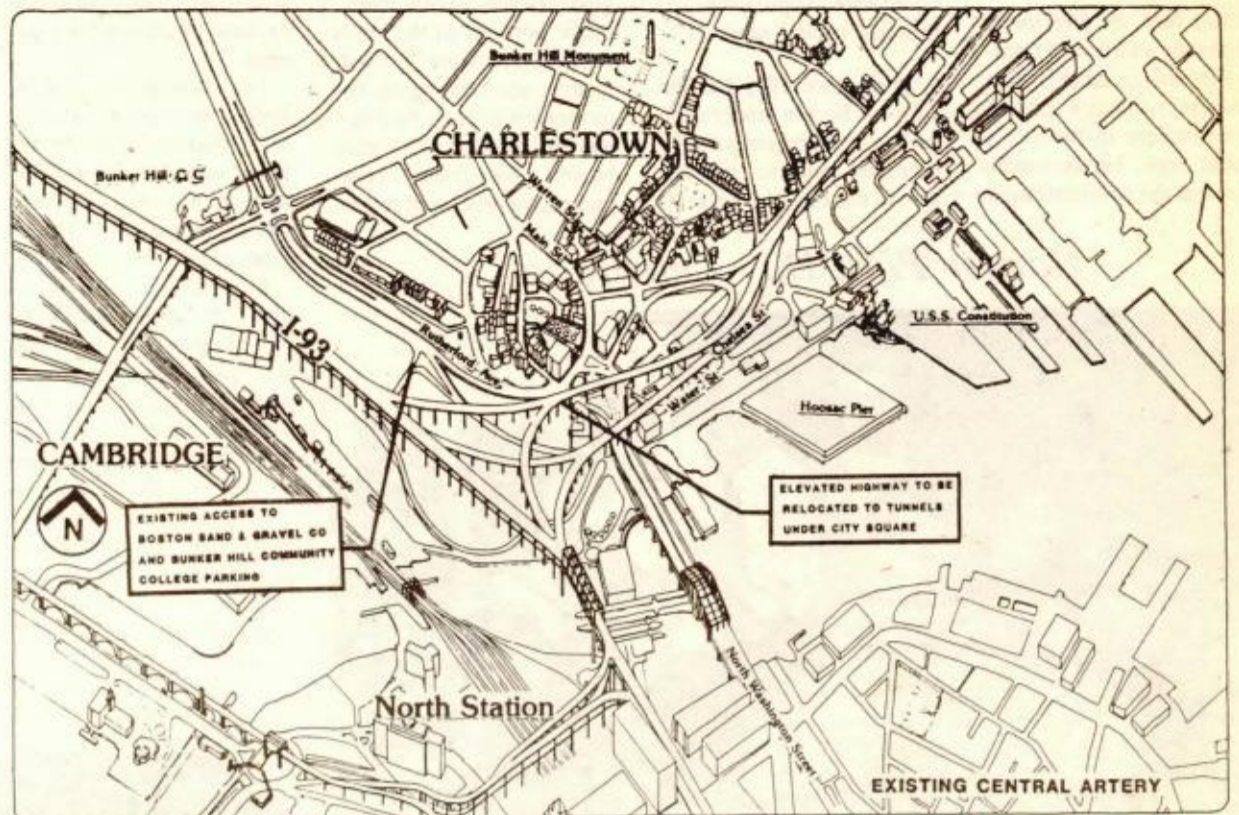

The first signs of actual construction will begin this fall and continue until the spring of 1987. Among the structures to be demolished are the Department of Public Works maintenance and the YMCA buildings. A temporary detour structure will be created in early 1986 and the present overhead roadway will be removed. The construction of the tunnels will begin in the spring of 1987 and be completed in 1990.

All access to the new roadway will be made from two circular ramps to be located west of Rutherford Avenue. These ramps will provide access north and south to both the Central Artery, the Mystic Tobin Memorial Bridge and Interstate 93. The project should esthetically improve City Square, however, the benefits of this improvement will only be enjoyed after the final renovation occurs sometime in 1999. Peter Smith of Childs Bertman Teskares & Casendino Inc. (CBT), the community participation, urban design, and landscape architects, told the residents to expect the project to pose "unavoidable negatives."

One early design problem is the placement of the driveway for the Boston Sand and Gravel Company on Rutherford Avenue. Originally, engineers had planned for the driveway entrance at the same location as the circular ramp entrance. However, the Federal Highway Administration regulations prohibit the shared access since the ramps connect to Interstate Highway 93. Engineer Glen Sadulsky of Howard Needles Tammen & Bergendoff, the managing consultant team, stated this regulation serves as a "design control" thus creating the need to look at, what he called, "a family of alternatives."

Brad Mills, project manager and engineer from Fay, Spoffard & Thorndike, Inc., explained that one alternative is to move the Boston Sand and Gravel driveway 400 to 500 feet west of the ramps, towards Sullivan Square. Such a move would require the use of the land parcel presently owned by the Boston Redevelopment Authority (BRA). Sadulsky stated BRA officials agreed with the engineers that the parcel would provide "a reasonable alternative," adding the city would treat the driveway as a city street.

THE EXISTING CENTRAL ARTERY is the elevated highway ramps over City Square as shown above. As part of the North Area/Central Artery project, the overhead highway connections will be relocated in tunnels under City Square.

THE ABOVE PLAN shows the proposed highway changes of the North Area/Central Artery project. The highway structure over City Square would be removed, and new loop ramps would be built West of Rutherford Avenue. The loop ramps would allow access to the Tobin Bridge, downtown Boston, and Route I-93. Also proposed is a new access road to Boston Sand and Gravel and Bunker Hill Community College parking.

This suggestion met objections from the audience, since the parcel is presently being utilized as a parking lot by the Bunker Hill Community College. Resident Jim Conway stated this parcel could also become a possible new home for the YMCA.

Another criticism was the fact engineers were not aware of the federal regulations, in the first place. "Don't use the federal highway law as a whipping boy," stated resident Martin Flynn, "If you knew your jobs, you'd have known about this."

Don Nicholas of CBT rebuked, "The present (traffic) situation out there is terrible." Nicholas reminded residents that the major concern and reason for the project is to eliminate the dangerous bottleneck and S curve configuration of the present roadway, as well as improve City Square.

"Originally, we had intended to put everything in a tunnel," explained Nicholas,

"We came up with 35 alternatives and with the help of the community, we improved and are continually improving the project." Nicholas stated the engineers are using a "broad brush" to cover all aspects of the project and asked residents, "Please don't lose sight of the improvements (in the plans) we've made."

Many were angry that the changed access was not discussed prior to this meeting. Don Jackson, Chairman of the North Area Task Force (NATF) asked why this point was not brought up at past community workshops or NATF meetings. "Why

Update On Construction Activity At Old Charlestown High Site

Graham Gund Associates, in their effort to keep the community abreast of all construction activity at the former Charlestown High School on Monument Square, have announced the following construction update.

In accordance with plans, the former high school will become 44 apartment units with ancillary parking on the site of Spencer Annex building. During the month of September, demolition work on the main building will continue, with dumpsters and trucks on Bartlett Street. On either Tuesday or Wednesday, September 24 or 25, a crane will be parked on Monument Square to load materials into the building from 9 a.m. to noon. Demolition within the main building will be completed by Friday, September 27, 1985 and construction within the building will begin immediately thereafter.

From Monday, September 23 to Saturday, September 28, Cedar Street will be closed to traffic, from Laurel to Bartlett Streets. There will be a crane parked on the street for the annex demolition. This area will be fenced in at night, swept and washed. On Tuesday, October 1st, the crane will be moved onto the site. Trucks will be used on Cedar Street to remove debris. The trucks will proceed to Monument Square, down Concord, down Bunker Hill to Chelsea Street to City Square.

During the demolition of the annex, traffic on Cedar Street will be detoured to Laurel Street. Signs will be posted indicating that the road is closed and provide detour instructions.

The annex demolition will take three to four weeks to complete. As work proceeds, the debris will be sprayed continually to minimize dust. The Graham Gund Associates report that the dust can not be completely eliminated and suggest that abutters to the property should close windows while the demolition is in progress.

The Graham Gund Associates also report that all asbestos removal has been completed in both the main and annex buildings. Officials from the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering gave the developer verbal approval to proceed with the removal at the department's final inspection on Tuesday, September 10, 1985. Written approval will follow and a copy will be forwarded to the Charlestown Patriot.

No Environmental Impact Statement On Local Sewer Project

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has proposed that no environmental impact statement be prepared for a sewer project in Charlestown, Massachusetts.

An EPA funded facilities plan prepared for the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA) recommended the construction of a new pump station on Alford Street in Charlestown. The existing pump station was built in the 1890's and is in poor condition. The new pump station will be built across the street from the existing station, which will be restored and utilized by the MWRA because of its historical significance.

Due to the reduced efficiency of the existing pump station, frequent surcharging and combined sewer overflows occur in the Mystic and Charles rivers.

EPA's review of an environmental assessment prepared by the Massachusetts Division of Water Pollution Control indicated that this project will not cause significant adverse environmental effects and will improve the quality of the human environment.

Comments on this decision may be submitted to EPA by September 29, 1985. Comments should be sent to EPA, Municipal Facilities Branch (WMF-2111), Federal Building, Boston, MA 02203.

The finding of no significant impact is available for public review at the above EPA office, the Massachusetts Division of Water Pollution Control office and at the MWRA office.

Sally Kelly — A Soft Voice That Vibrates Across The Nation

Sally Kelly of Charlestown, speaks slightly louder than a whisper. Her words, however, pack a wallop that vibrates across the nation.

Kelly, a 1973 graduate of UMass/Boston, is administrative counsel to Massachusetts Attorney General Frank Bellotti. She identifies and develops cases on issues of national interest, such as patient abuse, nursing home care, annuity fraud, oil overcharge. Then she begins litigation.

SALLY KELLY

Cases she developed have led to the creation of new laws to protect the rights of individuals and the state.

For example, Kelly filed against powerful insurance companies in 1979. The Commonwealth charged states have the legal right to compel insurance companies to provide patients with minimal coverage in a number of treatment areas. The case went all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court.

"Presenting an argument before the Supreme Court was a wonderful, thrilling experience in itself. Of course, having the justices vote in the Commonwealth's favor is indescribable," says Kelly, in a characteristic understatement.

Kelly's oral argument before the High Court in February resulted a landmark decision: the High Court voted 8-0 in the Commonwealth's favor. The result is the "Mandated Mental Health Benefit Law."

"Laws of this type clearly have impact for all people," said the attorney.

The Court's decision benefits all states. Insurance companies must make at least minimal payment for treatment of mental illness, such as psychotherapy, alcoholism, neonatal care and kidney dialysis.

She admits she never imagined herself before the High Court during her undergraduate years as a political science major at UMass/Boston.

"During my junior and senior year at UMass, I worked for the Massachusetts Law Reform Institute. It was part of UMass's project, 'University Year for Action', a kind of national Vista program. Students were placed in community projects," said Kelly, who entered UMass/Boston after graduation from St. Gregory's in Dorchester.

The Institute dealt with law reform issues, lobbying and it worked with numerous community legal service agencies. Kelly worked with low-income people and helped them traverse the political process. She discovered she liked working with social justice issues.

"I was at UMass during the anti-war period. The faculty was supportive of students who wanted to become involved in issues and programs for the public good. That helped reinforce my goals," said Kelly.

From UMass/Boston's Harbor Campus, Kelly enrolled at Northeastern University's Law School. She joined Bellotti's Office in 1976 after graduation from law school, worked with Paula Gold, chief of the Consumer Protection Division, on issues concerning the law and the elderly.

To recognize needs and issues facing the elderly, Kelly made a list of "10 eminent people in the Greater Boston area, from all professions whether in the public or private sector. I was young and felt people in government and industry had a broad base of knowledge and experience," said Kelly.

"I asked them if they were hired to work on issues concerning the elderly where would they start? Nursing homes and patient abuse were the most frequent responses," she continued.

Her investigation revealed mistreatment, inappropriate drugs, neglect, not enough staff and other abuses at many nursing homes. Although it was Kelly's first major litigation, her well-documented and prepared case against nursing homes led to the passage of Massachusetts' Patient Abuse Law.

Kelly lives in Charlestown and generally walks to her office. She's a sort of workaholic — her avocations outside of the AG's office are woven with the same thread of public interest. She is involved with the Boston Food Bank, a woman's shelter, the advisory board of the Boston Women's Fund and is a member of the Ford Hall Forum.

"The Forum is a part of history...Boston's and the nation's," she adds.

Kelly is also vice president of the Fellsway Inn, a halfway house for alcoholic women who she says "need people to care about their recovery".

"My code, if you want to call it that, is preparation and hard work are the criteria to make any project successful. When you feel strongly about what you're doing and enjoy it, you don't consider it hard work," said Kelly.

"DENTAL HYGIENE WEEK"

September 15 - 21

"Dental Hygiene Week," September 15-21, gives all Dental Hygienists an opportunity to promote better dental health. Your Dental Hygienist is a licensed professional with a minimum of two years of college education stressing all aspects of health care. He/she can play a key role in helping you prevent dental disease.

As individuals, we are all interested in achieving and maintaining optimum health. To be successful in reaching this goal, we must realize how important our dental health is. Teeth do far more than provide a nice smile. They also play a major part in proper mastication (chewing) of food which allows for proper digestion. Teeth are also important in developing proper speech patterns. These are only two important functions of our teeth.

Your Dental Hygienist can help educate you in the best way to brush and floss your teeth to completely remove the plaque which forms on your teeth every day. To maintain oral health you and your Dental Hygienist must work together as a team. As a team member, you play the most important part and you should try to follow these basic steps:

1. brush your teeth correctly at least twice a day
2. floss your teeth correctly once a day
3. eat well balanced meals
4. limit your sugar intake during and between meals
5. visit your dental hygienist and dentist twice a year.

The Dental Hygienists at Bunker Hill Health Center are looking forward to being part of your team.

Mystic Street Residents Enjoy Annual Block Party

by Sandy King

The Eighth Annual Mystic Street Block Party was a success, in spite of threatening skies. This annual event gives newcomers to the street an opportunity to meet their neighbors in a relaxing atmosphere.

The afternoon was devoted to the kids, with pony rides, games and fun. Contributions of prizes came from the New England Aquarium, The USS Constitution Museum, The Museum of Science and the Charlestown Boys and Girls Club.

At dusk, the kids were treated to movies provided by Bunker Hill Community College, followed by rock music by the US Marshalls. This band is made up of the seventh generation of the Marshall family of Charlestown. Kevin Marshall is pianist and lead vocalist, brother Kenny plays bass and rounds out the vocal section, while Barry plays the drums. The group has recorded for the Isabella label.

When the kids were tucked into bed, the adults relaxed with a community supper and some mellow 50s sounds from the US Marshalls. A drawing was held after dinner and Walter Kelly won a dinner for two at The Front Page. The pair of Red Sox tickets, donated by Edison Shoe was won by Dottie Farris and Bob Fountain won two bottles of cheer donated by M.S. Walker Company.

The festivities went on all night and the next day, party organizers enjoyed a few extra hours of sleep before making plans for the 1986 party.

Pop Warner Corner

This past week, Charlestown Pop Warner opened its season at home against Newton South. We had a good crowd and we hope to see more people down the field next week.

In the C-Team game, despite a good effort by the whole team, Charlestown lost by a score of 14-0. Next week, they will do better against Somerville.

In the B-Team game, Charlestown lost by a score of 20-0. They're all a bunch of good kids on this team and with a little more practice they will be on their way to a winning season.

In the A-Team game, Charlestown lost by a score of 13-12. This game went all the way to the final seconds with the A-Team almost walking away with a win.

This week, Somerville will be coming to Charlestown and the games will start at 11:00 a.m. Good luck to all the teams.

The Charlestown Pop Warner Organization would like to thank the following people and companies for their generous contributions received this past week: Tony the Barber, Somerville Lumber; Louis W. Columbus Football Liturgy Tonight, Season Begins Saturday Morning

by Bob DeCristoforo, Athletic Director

Tonight, the Annual Football Liturgy will take place at the School Chapel. The celebrant will be Christopher Columbus High School's new Principal, Father Steven Sysol OFM.

On Saturday morning, the Football Friars will travel to Archbishop Williams for the 10 a.m. Catholic Central League Opener.

The Friars have just completed a most rigorous preseason training, and they are anxious and ready to go. The "Bishops" are one of the teams picked to do well in Division IV and they are expected to make a strong bid for a Super Bowl berth. The Friars have one thing on their mind: UPSET!

The Captains of the team are Steve Harvey, Paul Davis and Dan Dearden. Other members of the team are Brian Nichols, Steve

One thing these fine young people want is SUPPORT. Their cry is "BE THERE." They have worked very hard and nothing is worse than looking up at empty stands. The attitude is different now regarding the football program here at Columbus. We need a new attitude from our supporters!

The coaching staff is building a solid foundation, and the road back is a tough grind, but together that top spot can be reached.

Mens' Basketball League

The Charlestown Mens' Basketball League is scheduled to begin on Monday, October 7 at the Kent Community School.

Once again the team will be structured by a draft. Registration will be Monday and Tuesday, September 23 and 24, from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. at the Kent School Gym.

The League will be operated for persons 19 years of age and older. At the time of registration, a $5.00 fee will be charged and league guidelines distributed.

City Councillor Michael McCormack has generously donated to the sponsorship of this league and will be providing T-shirts for all participants.

There's Something Stirring On Boston Common

The secret "chowda" recipes are being taken out of hiding, ingredient amounts are being increased to accommodate thousands, cooking pots scrubbed and New England restaurant owners are plotting strategies to win. All for one reason — to prepare for the Third Annual Bud Light "Chowda" Fest, for the benefit of Horizons For Youth to be held on Boston Common, Sunday, September 22nd, from Noon to 6:00 p.m. The event will be held rain or shine.

This exciting event will be held under striped tents amid continuous entertainment from George Leh & the Rockin' Shoes, No Strings Attached, Little Joe Cook & The Thrillers, Ananda, Nebula, Sherry Ann and the All Stars, and Peer Pressure.

The only requirement of the general public is to come hungry, since it's all you can eat of the more than 2,000 gallons of "chowda" that will be available for sampling from more than 30 restaurants who will compete for the title of "Chowda" champ of New England's largest and best "Chowda" Fest.

Each person who attends will go from booth to booth and taste as much "chowda" as they wish from as many different restaurants as they choose. A vote is recorded by writing the booth number of the favored restaurant on the admissions ticket and placing it in one of the ballot boxes. The "Bring Out Your Best" awards will take place at 6:30 p.m. It is estimated that 12,000 people will gather to cast their vote.

Proceeds of the "Chowda" Fest will benefit Horizons For Youth.

The "Chowda" Fest is sponsored by Bud Light in cooperation with the American Legion, Boston Police Patrolmen's Association, Boston Musicians' Union, Knights of Columbus, Coca-Cola of New England and the Massachusetts Restaurant Association.

are we not keeping the process (of community input) going?" questioned Jackson, adding the engineers should have kept the community abreast of the change. "This is a give and take process, but you're doing all the taking and we're giving. Let's balance this off."

Sadulsky answered, "Given what we've learned and what steps we have taken and where we are now, I think we've brought this process back." Sadulsky added that this is the first community meeting at which the ramps have been discussed and "we can't have full closure (on the subject) until we talk to all concerned."

Another topic discussed at the community meeting was the landscaping alternatives for the Rutherford Avenue area, including the areas along the Charles River and Miller's River. Deneen Crosby from Wallace Floyd Associates told the audience that among the possible designs is an extension of the Esplanade Park into Charlestown by means of a pedestrian walkway and deck from the Spaulding Rehabilitation Center along the B&M Railroad Bridge into Charlestown.

One of the ventilation buildings for the tunnels will be located in the Rutherford Avenue area. Crosby stated plans are being examined for lighting and landscaping around the building. The attempt is to "soften the impact of the highway" on the abutting neighborhood. Once specific alternatives are determined, Crosby stated the plans will be brought back to the community for approval.

Presently, the Rutherford Avenue area has been used as a dump for discharged debris. Resident Eric Anderson asked the consultants if they could guarantee against future "midnight dumping." Bill Oliver from the Massachusetts DPW told Anderson his department was "well aware" of the problem and would do "everything in our power" to eliminate it.

Smith from CBT added, "The DPW is committed to landscaping and the MDC (Metropolitan District Commission) will patrol the area. All are concerned with this midnight dumper situation." Smith added the area will be fenced to prevent access and those found littering in the area will be fined.

Presently, the land located under the roadway in City Square is utilized by the DPW for storage space and maintenance buildings. Dan Kovacevic from the North Area Task Force, asked about the possibility of preventing municipalities from using the area under the Rutherford Avenue ramps.

Another concern addressed the future of the Veterans' Memorial located in City Square. Jim Conway asked the consultants for a commitment that the Veterans' Memorial remain in the area. Smith of CBT told Conway the commitment will be honored.

Conway told the consultants not to store the memorial away from public view. He referred to a World War II memorial plaque which was displayed for many years in Thompson Square and subsequently taken down and put in storage when the Post Office was constructed. "No one knows where it is today," added Conway.

While the project may seem far away in time, there are a number of concerns which still need to be addressed. Residents are encouraged to attend future community meetings with consultants which will be announced in The Patriot.

Since the reconstruction will permanently alter the makeup of City Square, an attempt is being made to salvage a bit of Charlestown's historic past. As the overhead ramps come down and the tunnels are dug, many artifacts from colonial Charlestown may be destroyed. The Federal Highway Administration is funding an archaeological excavation project in several areas of the community in what may be the last chance to secure physical evidence of earlier life in Charlestown.

Archaeologist Joan Gallagher told the audience that the reason for archaeology is to learn "things about life you'd never find in a book." The archaeologist explained that prior to any digging, research was done by studying diaries, maps, letters, and land deeds of Charlestown.

The archaeological team has already completed one dig at the site of the former Henley Distillery, located under the ramps of the Central Artery now the home of the Area Towing Company. Despite finding "disturbances" such as power and sewer lines, Gallagher was excited to report several artifacts were found from the former distillery, which processed Caribbean sugar cane and molasses into rum. The first discovery was a wall which was detailed on a 1889 map. After digging eight to ten feet below the surface, other evidence from the 1790 distillery was found including a firebox which was built around 1790 and gone by 1868 and vats which were gone by the 1860s.

Gallagher reported that wood piles for a stable later built on that site were found in the middle of the vats. Another interesting finding was that the vats were still preserved, since they were lined with clay which "even after 100 years still held the water back."

Presently, the archaeologists are working in City Square where they have already discovered burnt soil, timber and melted glass, perfectly preserved since the 1775 burning of Charlestown. Deed research indicates four homes were once located on this site. One home is said to have belonged to Governor Winthrop in 1629 and later used as a tavern, called the Great House. Gallagher reports a fence line and the foundation of a little building and a larger building have been discovered. "If this is the the Great House," stated Gallagher. "This will be one of the earliest homes ever found in Boston."

One resident asked if it was possible to raise any of these 17th century structures. Gallagher said that depended on the condition of the buildings, but she added, "Some of the buildings are preserved and others have been destroyed. Regardless, we learn a lot about these buildings that has not otherwise been recorded. We do, however, photograph it, record it, and analyze the samples."

All evidence is then sent to the laboratory in the North End where such things as pollen can be analyzed to discover the types of plants were grown in the gardens and wood samples tell what type of trees were there, etc.

Gallagher told the audience that while no decision has been made regarding where the artifacts will go from the laboratory. "We hope they will stay in Boston, if not in Charlestown."

Barbara Thibault, the Site Interpreter, told the audience that the crew is on the site Monday through Friday from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. and a formal tour of the site or the laboratory can be arranged by calling her at 332-3290.

The archaeological study team will continue work this year until December and resume again next year in April, continuing until October. A summary report will be available to the public in 1987.

Thinking Out Loud

by Sal Giarratani
KUDOS TO...

Congrats go out to District Councillor Bobby Travaglini on his impressive preliminary showing.

He has done a good job being both a voice and a vote for District One in his government post.

The City Council over the past two years has had a number of liberal/conservative conflicts and Travaglini has maintained a moderate and workable approach to city government and the delivery of city services.

DISCOUNT FOR SELDOM DRIVERS?

The State Ratings Bureau has submitted a strange plan to the Insurance Commissioner. The proposal would give auto insurance discounts to drivers who operate their cars less than 10,000 miles a year.

This pretzel logic of government has it that the less you drive, the safer you are as a driver. Would you feel comfortable with an airplane pilot who flew once a week? Or a surgeon who operated once every two months? I believe it takes practice to become a skilled pilot, surgeon and auto driver.

I hear the insurance discount rates for non-drivers is expected to be announced soon and will be even more dandy.

RAINBOW NEWS

According to a report written by the Boston Rainbow Coalition, a Rainbow Draft Mel King for Congress Committee is being set up so that King can run for the Eighth District seat of retiring Speaker "Tip" O'Neill.

King is one of a phalanx of politicians lining up for the congressional seat in 1986. It appears there will never be a shortage of candidates for a vacant seat in Congress. Now that young Ted Kennedy Jr. has removed himself from the picture, it is anyone's race. So far it is looking like a liberal slugfest, but time will tell!

FINALLY FESS

It looks like actor Fess Parker, better known for his Davy Crockett and Daniel

Boone TV roles, will be a US Senate candidate in the 1986 California Primary. It appears he maybe entering the GOP primary to take on Democrat Senator Alan Cranston, according to Republican sources. Parker appeared in a short-lived 1962 TV comedy series "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington". Now it could be Davy Crockett Goes to Congress Again!

Rummage Sale

The Women's Group of the First Baptist Church will sponsor a Rummage Sale on Saturday, October 5, 1985 between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. at the Church at 5 Monument Square. Light refreshments will be served.

Childrens' Films

The Film Program for Children will be held on Tuesday, September 24, 1985 at 10:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. at the Charlestown Branch Library, 179 Main Street.

This week's features include "Walk," the adventure of a boy and his father who go for a walk and some very strange things happen; "Where Is It?," the tale of White Rabbit who munches through a whole basketful of carrots and then hops in for a nice nap; "Zoo Keepers," the truth behind what really happens at a zoo; "Bearskin," the film which answers the question, how do you think it would feel if you could not wash for seven years?; and "Paddington VIII," the tale of Paddington becoming a contestant in a quiz show.

Suggested readings in conjunction with this program are Walk My Way by Paige Dixon, Home for a Bunny by Margaret Wise Brown, Zoos by Karen Jacobson, Germs Make Me Sick by Parnell Donohue, and Paddington at Large by Michael Bond.

Deputy Superintendent Ronald X. Conway
Commanding Officer Area A
Downtown, Charlestown, East Boston, Beacon Hill

On September 5, 1985 at 3:30 a.m., police officers responded to the Doherty Playground on a report of a gang drinking. Upon arrival, the officers observed a group of youths drinking beer. The officers called for a backup and placed the group of five under arrest. Subsequently, they were transported to Area A. The carrier of the unlicensed firearm and one of the other youths had outstanding warrants.

On September 6, 1985 at 2:15 p.m., detectives from Area A observed a suspect, who had two outstanding warrants from

"The services this company is offering for $19 are available free of charge from my office. A toll free call at 1-800-632-8027 will produce accurate official information immediately," Crane
