This is a little bit of a trick questions, if you cycle properly they shouldnt have a negative effect on sperm count. However if you dont follow up with a good post cycle therapy or PCT you could end up with a lower sperm count. You will also notice a drop in testosterone production and loss of libido. Some of the products by Blackstone labs and Olympus Labs will not have the same affect as these are 4- andro and 1 andro based products.

It's a dry compound. It'll dry you out of the water you're holding but if you gain 15 lbs on a superdrol cycle and 0 was fat I'd expect half of it to be glycogen and not actual muscle though. There's only so much muscle someone can gain in a month. Even on superdrol. Gained 8-10 lbs of ACTUAL muscle in a month would be incredibly good.

An important note on prohormone supplementation: As I wrote above, there is no federally recognized prohormone supplement that will provide you with exactly what you need to launch a multi-directional attack on fat. This steroid isn't going to replace the bodybuilding supplement you are currently taking, it will complement it better and make it a whole lot more powerful combination.
