

"White Slate" Dumped In Kennedy Center Board Election

Three incumbent Kennedy Center Board members were unseated in Tuesday's APAC/Kennedy Center Elections. Helen Lawler lost her seat to James O'Brien by nearly a 2 to 1 vote. In Precinct 7, long-time board member Michael Donovan lost to Ellie Marino, a former board member by 5 votes. Also Precinct 3 squeaked a win for Ann Wallace over Matty O'Neil by three votes. 1363 votes were cast community-wide.

Two Boston American Herald stories disclosing these incumbents' positions in Mayor Kevin White's political machine may have been instrumental in the incumbent upset as well as causing the loss of Donna Hickey, a city personnel officer. Donovan is the executive director of the Office of Housing, Lawler is a research analyst for the Mayor, and O'Neil is one of Mayor White's precinct captains and a city administrative analyst.

Another reason for the defeat of the incumbents, expressed by some residents, was the failure of some members of the Board to push for full and complete disclosure on charges of credit card mis-use by former Executive Director John Gardiner.

Precincts 4 and 5 had only one candidate each allowing Edward Everett and Brian Hickey to automatically win. There were no candidates for Precinct 1 although several write-in votes for Sal Giarratani were received. However, Election Committee Chairman Phil Coleman told vote counters and those gathered at the Mary Colbert Apartments where the votes were tallied, that write-ins would be disqualified.

According to Coleman write-ins were always disqualified in previous elections and so he followed a past policy.

To date, no challenges have been made regarding the election. However, Coleman said residents had 48 hours (Wednesday and Thursday) to make a complaint. All complaints should be in writing and delivered in a sealed envelope addressed to Charlie Johnson or Coleman and left

An Evening Of Prayer And Reflection At St. Catherine's

Do you like to know about people's past lives...what they did before you knew them?

On Wednesday, October 27, 1982, St. Catherine's guest speaker for the second evening of prayer, reflection, conversation and refreshments, will be Sr. Theresa Lucier, SP. For nine years the people of Charlestown have seen her on the streets and in their homes, caring for the sick and elderly; at church training lectors and eucharistic ministers; and being a loving and energetic member of St. Mary's parish staff. In Springfield, people know her as nurse and hospital administrator; in Bolivia, they called her mid-wife. Doctors were few, so it was Sr. Theresa who delivered most of the babies in the village for two years. That's the part of her life we are going to hear about as she shares with us some "Reflections on Ministry to the poor in South America."

Accept our invitation to participate in the evening which begins at 7:30 p.m. in St. Catherine's Church and continues in the rectory hall.

Floral Arranging At The Library

With winter frosts killing the last of the garden flowers, nothing brightens a home more than an indoor floral bouquet. For those interested in learning to arrange fresh, dried or artificial flowers, Mr. Joseph Shadroui of the Bunker Hill Florist will give an hour-long demonstration at the Charlestown Branch Library Parents' Discussion Group meeting on Friday, October 22, at 10:00 a.m. The Bunker Hill Florist, located in the Mishawam Apartments at 316 Main Street, provides delivery of flowers for weddings and other special occasions. Mr. Shadroui has owned and operated the shop, with Jean Poehier, for almost two years, and presently teaches a course in floral arrangement at the Charlestown Community Center.

For those seeking more information on this art, the Charlestown Branch Library has two good books on the subject: Julia Clements' Gift Books of Flower Arranging and Amalie Adler Ascher's The Complete Flower Arranger.

For more information on the Charlestown Branch Library Parents' Discussion Group programs, open to all members of the public, please call 242-1248, or stop by the library at 179 Main Street.

Halloween Dance

Anyone interested in obtaining tickets to the Halloween Dance to be held at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Thursday, October 28, 1982 must contact either Helen Lawler at 242-1955 or Betty Marshall at 241-9321 before Friday, October 22nd for reservations.

The election results came as a surprise to many residents. The election of four new members — O'Brien, Wallace, Marino, and Everett will presumably add to the voices and votes of present Board members who have been pushing for major changes on the Board. These changes include complete financial disclosures at the Kennedy Center, by-law changes, questioning of the legality of lifetime members, and the legality of seating appointed members.

GED And Adult Basic Educational Services To Begin At Community School

To Charlestown Residents:

On October 26th the Kent/Charlestown Community School Program will enter into a contract with the Massachusetts Department of Education to provide GED and Adult Basic Educational services in Charlestown. We are thrilled with the prospect of initiating these services and hope that you will help us get this message spread throughout the Town and will refer potential students to our program.

Between November 1st and June 30, 1982 we will be able to accept up to 170 students. While our priority area is Charlestown and young adults 16 to 35 years of age, we will turn none away. The courses are free with all books and materials provided. Our first session begins with a GED Preparatory Course on Tuesday, November 2nd, at 6:00 p.m. at the Charlestown High Athletic Facility on Medford Street. It will continue each Tuesday and Thursday evening from 6:00 to 9:00 p.m. thereafter. Adult Basic Educational classes will begin in January.

The program will be so organized to allow individuals to enter at any point through April 1983. Space requirements are our only limitation. Placement will depend upon the results of a pre-screening competency exam. Those passing will be placed immediately in a GED Course, while those not passing will be referred to our Adult Basic Education Classes. A group test will be administered at the first meeting on Tuesday, November 2nd. Preregistration is urged. The GED Test itself will be scheduled as students demonstrate the capacity to pass it.

Our goal is to upgrade basic skills. Too many individuals are lost to the job market or to training and vocational programs because they can neither read nor write nor compute a column of numbers. We do not see the GED Program as an end but as a beginning. We ask your cooperation and support in this first step. For further information call the Kent/Charlestown weekdays after 2:30 p.m. at 242-2770.

Sincerely,
Michael Griffin
Coordinator

Thanks To Everyone

To The Residents of Charlestown:

My sincere thanks to the residents of Charlestown for your overwhelming support of my candidacy for At-Large Member of the Kennedy Center Board of Directors in Tuesday's election.

I appreciate the time each one of you took to vote for me and also extend a "Thank you" to my friends and family for all the hard work that you did for me in this campaign.

Sincerely,
Jamesie O'Brien

Thanks

Dear Gloria:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone that took part in our Tootsie' Roll Drive these past few weeks. We were pretty successful in our drive to assist the handicapped and retarded throughout the State of Massachusetts. All the members that took part did a great job and they are very happy to have been a part of this very important undertaking.

Once again, thank you to all participants in the drive. The winner of the $500.00 gift certificate from Johnnies' Foodmaster was M.L. Buckley of 41 Chestnut Street, Charlestown.

Many thanks,
James Carr
Grand Knight

To All Townies: Especially Mr. Kent And Ms. Wallace

In reference to your article (Boston Herald American, October 19, 1982) implying that Mayor White is taking over the Kennedy Center, you have alleged that my nephew, Matty O'Neil is not a community person. Matty, like his father, Matt Sr. and his grandfather before him are born and bred "townies."

Matty not only is a "townie" but an extremely brilliant one. He has a B.A. in Political Science, obtained at Amherst College on a full scholarship for academic merit and a Masters Degree in Business Administration. While he was at Suffolk University getting his Masters Degree he was honored with a teaching fellowship there. At a time when young people are preoccupied by drugs, alcohol, etc. it would seem to me that you would encourage someone of Matty O'Neil's caliber to participate in our community.

Matty was on The Kennedy Center board five years before he went to work for Boston City Hall. He has received no salary for being active in community affairs. You imply that the people who work for Mayor White are of criminal element. I resent that implication as does my entire family.

What pleases you? Certainly John Gardiner did not. Whose team was he on? The people you cast aspersions on in those articles are "townies," with one exception, Michael Donovan, a new "townie" who volunteers his time in youth hockey in Charlestown. I haven't heard any applause for that activity.

The rest of the people involved apparently are being taken to task for being better educated and not working the docks or driving a truck. Brian Hickey has not worked for the Mayor since before he ran for Boston City Council, but has always contributed to the Charlestown community. Shame on you for implying anything immoral about Helen Lawler, the recipient of the ABCD Person of The Year Award and who gives so much of herself. Charlestown should encourage young Charlestown residents like Donna MacCreevan Hickey to become involved in the affairs of this community. You would go a long way to find a more dedicated and enthusiastic group of young people for the thankless job of serving on the Kennedy Center Board.

Do you only qualify to be "townie" if you are a blue-collar worker? My nephew need not take a back seat to Mr. Kent or Ms. Wallace in that the quality of his character is unquestionable to anyone intelligent enough to judge. Do not slander or malign him here in the town that he works so hard for and has lived in all of his life. Save your garbage for the trash collectors.

Very truly yours,
Mrs. Helen (O'Neil) Myers

McNamara Supports Flat Rate Tax

Calling for "radical reform of the tax code," Frank L. McNamara, Tip O'Neill's opponent in the race for the Eighth District Congressional seat, spoke recently at the Bunker Hill Monument.

McNamara proposed a flat rate tax in the 10 percent to 15 percent range with no exemptions except for individuals.

Said McNamara: "The lower marginal rates of the flat tax would draw economic activities out of the underground economy and into the light of the formal market where they could be taxed."

Finally...a flat rate tax would be fair. Everyone...would pay the same relatively low rate, whether or not they had access to expensive tax lawyers and accountants." McNamara called the present tax systems unfair

China — A Young Woman's

by Maria Girvin

She is only 17 years old, yet she has made a journey most of us will never make in our life times. Yes, Maura Alves of Charlestown, has been to China.

China is still one of the world's mysteries. Isolated from a modernized world for centuries, few know about her past, and as she becomes more attractive to the western world, even fewer can predict her future and of course the Chinese do not give many clues.

Maura, daughter of Marie and John Alves of 15 Sullivan Street, was one of 11 bright Boston Public High School students invited on the five week study-travel program which took place July 19 through August 23. Maura attends Boston Latin Academy. The trip, for all involved, was funded through private donations with a fraction of the trip being paid for by the families of students involved. Five cities were visited: Hangzhou, Beijing (formerly Peking), Shanghai, Suzhou and Nanjing.

For Maura, the trip to China was a complete cultural turn-around. "Everything was different," said she in describing her first impressions of the ancient civilization during an interview. She was awed over the thousands of people she saw in uniform style of dress — white tops and dark pants. However, some youths were bold enough to sometimes wear printed tops. The few cars she saw were 1950 models in mint condition. "They are not old cars, just old models," Maura was told.

China is a country where bicycle traffic jams are common. Maura laughed at the memories of bicycle pile-ups, and how a speeding bus would break up ensuing arguments with a horn blast. Buses in China stop for nothing but passengers. Cyclists would scatter for their lives.

And if China was strange to Maura, she and the 26 other various students and chaperones were just as strange to the locals. "Everywhere we went, Chinese people stared at us," said Maura. "Some would say 'Hallow, hallow,' but mostly they stared. They were very curious about the two black students that went with us and a girl with red hair. One of the black students, Brian Allston is very tall and most of the Chinese are so short. They were really looking at Brian. There was also a Chinese girl with us but they knew she wasn't one of them because of the way she dressed."

In a daily journal kept by Maura, she writes about the flurry of excitement their presence caused. "As we walked around the neighborhood (of Shanghai), we noticed everybody stopping and staring at us. We noticed a lot of people sitting in groups at small card tables. The people crowded around the tables and watched the others play cards or a game like checkers. I think one of the funniest things is watching the reactions and expressions on the people's faces when they saw us coming down the streets. Some people seemed shocked and amazed to see foreigners. Others pushed their children forward for pictures... We went to the Shanghai number one department store. Upon leaving the store, Barbara (one of the students) decided to take a Polaroid picture of some people. The minute she stopped to take the picture, we were surrounded by people. We quickly got on our bus. Since our bus did not have air conditioning, we always left the windows open. To our surprise, people began standing on boxes, hydrants, anything to look in the windows at us. Some of the people stared right in our faces. They made you feel as if you had 10 heads. Well, people started pointing at the camera, they wanted another picture. Barbara thought it would be better to take another picture; maybe the people would go away. She took a Polaroid and the people started going crazy! They all started climbing on top of each other shoving and pushing to get near our bus. The people started pushing their hands in the window. Barbara was getting nervous — who should she give the picture to? She picked out a person and threw the picture to him. We all started rolling up the windows. Everybody started yelling for the bus to leave. We were afraid the crowd would get violent. Nobody was hurt. The people were just curious. I guess they don't have Polaroid cameras in China. The people went nuts over the pictures. I guess we'll have to watch where we take pictures ... not on busy streets, near crowds."

It was in Hangzhou, Boston's sister city, (China's honeymoon spot) where the group spent three weeks studying. Maura and her friends were the first to stay in a new dorm of the University of Hangzhou called "The Foreign Experts Building." They were allowed to mingle with eleven Chinese students from the English Department of the University. No other students were suppose to communicate with the Americans.

It was through these students and other students encountered during un-escorted sightseeing tours that Maura and the other students got a real feel for what Chinese youths think about their country's politics.

Maura learned that upon completion of college, Chinese men and women are assigned to a job and a location. There is no choice in this process and most seem to accept it. One young woman told Maura that most Chinese youths do not bother to go steady for this reason. "They feel there is no sense in developing a relationship when they will probably be split up after college," said Maura.

Most accept their government's way of doing things but some do not. "They never criticize their government unless they are alone," she said. "One boy told us he has an aunt in the United States and that he is constantly applying for a visa to visit her. He said he had to work in a watch factory six years before he was allowed to go to college. He said he hated it, that the job was repetitious and boring, but they won't let him go to the U.S."

China boasts of high employment. To argue this point is to come up against some faulty logic. "One girl thought Americans were all rich people who didn't help their poor," said Maura. "She said, 'At least in China everyone is equal — everyone has a job after the university.' I said, yes, but we get to choose our jobs."

"But we always like our jobs," countered the young Chinese girl.

Maura pointed to a photograph in her album showing men working on a road. At the sidelines were more men leaning on picks and shovels with nothing to do. "They say everyone has a job but they over hire people. This photo shows there is more men than needed to work on this road."

The Boston group was given considerable freedom as guests of China — more freedom than experienced by other tourists, be they American or European. The students were allowed to tour un-escorted, but were sometimes stopped from being their usual, care-free, friendly, American selves.

"We would frequently go to the Hangzhou Hotel, where all the tourists stay, to eat American food. One day we asked one of the Chinese students if he would like to join us. He agreed and we walked into the hotel. No one said anything to us as we walked in and sat down. Then a man came over and questioned the Chinese student as to what he was doing in the hotel. He explained the situation and they finally allowed him to stay but only after he obtained a special pass. They really don't want the Chinese to mix with outsiders."

Toward the end of the trip the students tried to organize a dance in the dorm. Their original objective was to invite the eleven Chinese students who had been their hosts and hostesses. However, they were told the dance would never be approved because "dance expresses feelings and the Chinese do not express feelings." The only way around it was to invite the whole dorm that is, all the students and the help as well. It was only fair and equal. Maura and the group were delighted to be able to teach their new friends how to disco to American tapes. The waltz is the main form of dance in China — that is, when Chinese are allowed to dance.

Maura tried to paint a picture of life as a Chinese. In her album, she pointed out photos of typical scenes of Chinese life. By American standards, most Chinese live in poverty. However, you do not miss what you have never had and the Chinese seem relatively happy living in shacks with decrepit roofs, no plumbing and few modern conveniences.

"Because it is so hot there, (the average yearly temperature is around 90 degrees) people never close their doors. You can see into every house you pass. Their dwellings are mostly shacks. You should see their roofs. Some are grass and some are tin shingles with bricks or rocks placed on top to keep the shingles from falling off. One of the students who went with us kept taking pictures of roofs so he could show his father when he got home. His father is in the roofing business. In Hangzhou, rice fields are located 10 minutes from the downtown area. There is a large lake also in Hangzhou called West Lake which makes that area particularly attractive to vacationers.

"People sit outside on the sidewalks playing cards all day. There is a community canal where the women will go to wash their food to cut up fish. Fish and chicken are two of their main staples. The people are all impoverished but that's the norm. They see it as being equal. No one talks about the large beautiful homes on the lake.

"We were there during the monsoon season," said Maura. "As we traveled to different cities on the train we would see people living on their roofs because the river banks had swollen and flooded their homes. Villages would be washed out but no one seemed to mind the inconvenience."

Stains of Mao Tsetung's (now called Mao Zedong) anti-west policy are still visible in Hangzhou's lack of churches. Nevertheless, Maura and her friends learned that religious worship and friendship remains a universal spirit — despite all obstacles.

Wrote Maura in her journal: "Today I went to church. What an experience! From the outside, the church looks like a typical Chinese temple with dragons on the top. From the inside, the church is rather small with long benches and hardly enough room to walk around. When we walked in the door, we saw people standing in the doorway and sitting on stairs which led to a balcony. The church was rather hot, no open windows, and most of the people carried hand-held fans. Unlike our Catholic Church, the people sit and read while the priest talks to them. The only visible sign that it was a church was the huge wooden cross hanging behind the pulpit. An older woman with a red arm-band came up to us and started to babble in Chinese. Luckily, we brought one of the Chinese students, Nancy, with us. She spoke to the woman and ten minutes later the lady had cleared out a whole bench for us. I felt really bad for some of the older people who were sitting in the bench, having to give up their seats for us. With all the commotion over seats, the whole congregation was staring at us. We were the only foreigners. Everybody in the church was staring at us. We smiled at them and pretended to be listening to the priest. The priest was a middle-aged man with white hair. He talked and talked while the people sat there reading books which I assumed were the Bible or something similar. Anybody who turned around to look at us during the service was spoken to by the woman with the red armband ... At the end of the service we decided to go thank the priest for letting us attend his service since we had caused so much commotion. Thankfully, the priest spoke English. He explained that the Catholic Church had been closed during the Cultural Revolution and was later ravaged. He said that within the last few years, they had begun to remodel the Catholic Church. One interesting comment — there were no children or teenagers at the Church. The minister told us he was very glad that we came to church. Others who were sitting near him said the only English words they knew — 'Hello' or 'God bless you.'

Despite the harsh climate of Mao's reign in China, many Chinese still consider him their hero. No doubt because of this, the new Chinese government has allowed Mao's mausoleum to stand in Tien Man Square where his body lies perfectly preserved in a glass coffin. Maura and the others visited this landmark. "We were told to leave any cameras, pocketbooks, etc. on the bus. Nothing is to be carried into the mausoleum out of respect for Mao. We were told not to smile, laugh or talk. These actions would be considered disrespectful and also an insult to the country. All hats or hair things were to be carried in our pockets. Mao Zedong's body was perfectly preserved! As we walked alongside the coffin, we could clearly see Mao's face. It was incredible! He has been laying there six years and his body is in perfect condition!"

As for an educational experience, the Boston students learned more about China in five weeks than others absorb from geography books during their entire school years. The silk industry, Chinese folk art forms, the martial arts, Chinese medicine and Buddhism were some of the lectures received by the students. Many of the lectures were interpreted for the students and most were given in the morning to be followed up with a day-trip in the afternoon. Maura said she saw silk worms and the detailed process by which silk was made. They visited factories where jade is readied for jewelry making and where medicine is made. "The Chinese use a lot of snake venom and deer products to make their medicine but their labels still carry ingredients like dragon tongues or something strange like that because the old people still believe in those things. We saw factories that most tourists don't see. They really trusted us. They let us touch everything — jewelry, oriental rugs, and different types of silk products."

Maura said that Chinese instructors were not used to the American-style of learning. "They weren't use to us raising our hands to ask questions. They were used to just lecturing. Usually if a Chinese student has a question, he or she will ask it after class. We had to set up a system where the teacher would lecture for 45 minutes and we would ask questions for the last 15 minutes."

"We had a lecture on women's rights," said Maura. "But the Chinese students claimed they were all equal because the women got to do the same work as the men. Yet when it comes to meeting people or carrying on a discussion, the men are more vocal while the women are timid and reticent."

According to Maura, few like to talk about the cultural revolution under Mao. "Our instructors would skirt around any questions we asked," said Maura. "I think most didn't want to talk about it because they probably had someone in their families hurt by the revolution, either killed or imprisoned."

Maura hopes the Chinese Government will allow Chinese students to visit Boston. "I hope they can stay with American families and see our culture through everyday life," said Maura, as she smiled and closed her photo album.

Charlestown High To Elect Delegate For Student Government Day

Senator Francis D. Doris announces that elections are to be held in Charlestown High School on November 2, 1982, to select that school's delegate to the Thirty-Fifth Annual Student Government Day Program.

The program was es-

Library To Be Open Saturdays

Beginning Saturday, October 16, 1982, the Charlestown Branch Library, 179 Main Street, will be open between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. each Saturday.

established in 1947 by the Massachusetts General Court in order that secondary school students of the Commonwealth would be able to learn about state government by participating in a unique and meaningful experience. This idea has developed into a six-month program which explores all aspects of our state governmental system and includes a one day "take over" of the state administration by the students.

Any secondary school in Massachusetts is eligible to send one student representative to this program. The student must be sixteen years of age on or before May 31, 1983. The student must be elected by his/her high school in a democratically held election. The student must be dedicated to receiving full benefits offered by the program in understanding state government.

After the election in each school, the name of the delegates are placed in a "Glass Bowl." Names of the student counterparts will be drawn by the governor, other constitutional officers, and supreme court justices. Another drawing will be held to select the governor's councillors, department heads, cabinet secretaries, senators and representatives.

Three series of workshops will be held for the purpose of educating and informing teachers and student delegates about the legislative process and state government. The first series will be held in the regional education centers. The second and third workshop series will be held in the regional education centers. The second and third workshop series will be held at the State House. The governor will participate in these workshops along with the constitutional officers, legislators, judicial officials, members of interest and lobbying groups. The workshops will also provide an opportunity for students to observe the legislature in session.

Student Government Day occurs on the second Friday in April. On this day students will participate in all aspects of the administration of state government in the place where it happens, the State House. This allows students who have been educated in state government the opportunity to exercise their newly obtained abilities in the atmosphere that actual governmental officials perform.

The Student Government Day Program has been successful in many ways during its long history. Along with the responsibility of educating a concerned population of the citizens and future voters of Massachusetts, it has been estimated that one third of the elected state governmental officials currently serving in Massachusetts have participated in the program. Therefore, this program has a responsibility to Massachusetts to provide knowledgeable and exemplary public officials for future generations.

Charlestown Cruises, Columbus Loses!

by Bob DeCristoforo

All year long they gear up for this one and don't let anyone fool you, this is one of the best high school football rivalries.

Charlestown and Columbus. Columbus and Charlestown, no matter how you bill it, for many this is "THE GAME".

The Columbus lineup is filled with "Townies", the Charlestown lineup is filled with "Townies" - most of them chum around with each other, and at times some have worn the colors of the opposite school.

In the stands, just about everyone knows each other, there is a carnival atmosphere, and no matter who you are rooting for the "PRIDE" is ever present.

In this one the Charlestown "Townies" prevailed, and they certainly are a very good football team with an outstanding coach in Jack Green. It was a 14-0 shut out, and a game which saw our Christopher Columbus Friars knock on the 'door' on several occasions only to have the door slammed by a sturdy Charlestown defense.

Dan Considine, a sure All City candidate, (his brother Pat played on Columbus' Superbowl team) opened the door for C'Town going over from the 2 to cap a drive late in the first half. QB Steve Burns hit Rich Smith with a pass for the extra 2 points to send Charlestown into the lockers with a 8-0 lead on the crisp, windy fall day.

Most of the 'chilled' fans were back in the stands for the third quarter action, and the action was Steve Burns once again. Burns intercepted a Columbus sure TD pass in the end zone and galloped 100 yards plus for the football game buster. For Charlestown, 3-0-1 it was a fine afternoon for our Friars it was another tough day.

Members of a fine Charlestown Team are:

- 5 Tom Donahue
- 10 Owens
- 12 Bob Allen
- 14 Duane Nelson
- 22 Steve Burns
- 21 Finch
- 23 Carl Jaena
- 26 Knight
- 27 Ruiz
- 34 Scott
- 35 Dan Considine
- 36 Martin
- 37 Robinson
- 38 Smith
- 45 Jim Murphy
- 51 Slaymen
- 56 Steve O'Neil
- 57 Tyler Roy
- 58 Ed Cahill
- 59 Kevin Woods
- 62 Lance LaFreniere
- 73 Davin
- 75 Jim Yandle
- 79 Glen Miller
- 81 Maurice Walkins

- 82 Eric Johnson
- 91 Phil Johnson
- 93 Mike Gauthreau

FROM THE FRIAR-ing PAN: A special thanks to Columbus grad and North End Rep. Sal DiMasi who helped sponsor the game. Sal starred in football and basketball for the Friars. A pleasant surprise was the 'early' debut of the Columbus Cheerleaders under the direction of Coach Carolyn Wrenn, who has worked very hard to get the girls uniformed and ready for this game. Coach Fred Montiero and Coach John Awbrey (C'Town) Underclassmen's squad got another win as they defeated Arlington Catholic 14-6 upping the record to 3-0-0. After a trip to Blue Hills, the Underclassmen will be hosting Cardinal Spellmen. A fine friend of Columbus athletics, Fr. Tom Garrone, Ofm, is now Principal of St. Mary's Grammar School in Melrose.

In the stands, many great Columbus people were in for this one among them author - teacher Frank Segadelli, former Head Coach Robert Hennessy (now assistant at Don Bosco), Representative Sal DiMasi and his family, football alumni Marty Connolly, John Garvey, Bobby O'Neil, Steve Butler, Shawn Gordon, Steve Howard, Michael Charbonnier, Rocco LaCivita, and Hockey Coach Tommy DeRosa to name a few. It certainly is great to see so many Columbus alumni supporting the team, and we certainly appreciate it.

This week the Friars will be hosting St. Clement. Kickoff is at 1:30 p.m. at Hormel Stadium in Medford.

Billy Smith Adds Win To Record

by Maria Girvin
"Townie" boxer, Billy Smith, added another win to his 7-1 record after knocking out Robert Torez of Holyoke in the middle of the second round during a Holyoke Boxing Tournament last Friday night.

According to spectators, Smith won his match through a brutal body attack and excellent footwork which left his opponent swinging at the air.

"I think he only hit me a total of five punches," said Smith in a telephone interview. "I just wore him down. He fought a style of boxing that I like. He just came right at me and I just kept letting him miss."

Smith was pleased with his win since Torez sported the same record as Smith - 6 wins, 1 loss with 5 KOs. His win shows he has recovered from a recent automobile accident in which he dislocated his right shoulder and pulled muscles in his lower back.

Although Smith said his shoulder experienced some pain following the fight, it did not bother him during the fight.

Smith's fight with Torez was a surprise, as Smith was scheduled to fight Pepe Figueroa. However, Figueroa was re-scheduled in a fight with Golden Gloves champ Charlie Brown who went on to defeat Figueroa, despite his lack of experience as a professional fighter.

Future fights for Smith includes a trip to Atlantic City November 8 through the 20th where he will spar with a main card fighter Kenny Bougna who is ranked 10th in the USBA light-weight division.

There is a possibility that Smith could fight on the undercard of this cable televised tournament.

To Receive $1000 Weekly During NFL Strike

Although the NFL players' strike has stopped play, the Boys and Girls Clubs of Boston will continue to receive financial aid from the Frito-

Lay/New England Patriots' Challenge for Children.

The Boys and Girls Clubs of Boston will receive $1,000 a week during the period that the New England Patriots do not play.

For the past seven years, the Patriots teamed up with Frito-Lay in a program to benefit the Boys and Girls Clubs. For every point the Patriots score in the pre and regular season games, Frito-Lay donates $100 to the Boys and Girls Clubs. In the four pre-season and two regular games this year, the Patriots scored a total of 120 points, meaning $12,000 for the Boys and Girls Clubs of Boston. More than $260,000 has been contributed to the Clubs during the past seven years through the Frito Lay/Patriots' Challenge.

"In no way do we want the Boston Boys and Girls Clubs to be losers because of the strike," said Wayne Calloway, President of Frito-Lay.

Frederick J. Davis, Executive Vice President of the Boys and Girls Clubs of Boston, stated: "For many years, Frito-Lay has been recognized nationally for their charitable interests.

The fact that they are willing to fund the New England Patriots' Challenge during the NFL strike reinforces their commitment to charity.

Pop Warner Corner

On Friday, October 9th, the Pop Warner D team played the Malden Raiders. Charlestown lost 18-0. The D team is in its second year and has not run into any trouble with any other teams or their "Head Coach." The game was called late in the 4th period by the officials for unsportsman like conduct on both teams, not just one as reported in the Malden paper.

On Monday, October 11th, the C team played East Boston and won by the score 6-0. The touch down was scored by Hammering Cameron on about a seven yard run. Billy McKillop played a second outstanding game as quarterback. A great job was well done by the Charlestown defense.

In the second game, the B team won its fourth straight game by the score 19-0. Two touchdowns were scored by Jimmy Donovan and one by Kevin McGonagle. Ed Sullivan had another outstanding game as quarterback. In all, the team has had four wins. The offensive line has been outstanding. They are John Doherty, Ken McCarthy, Kevin and Mike Killoran and Kevin O'Donnell.

THE WORLD BELONGS TO GRADY.

It used to be the $100,000 World Sprint Championship. Then we asked ourselves, what's the World ever done for the New England sporting public? Has the World brought honor and credit to greyhound racing? Of course not.

And it's going to be one heck of a race. Because 1982 has been a vintage year for sprinters, and some of the fastest dogs in the country are coming for this prestigious event. Come join us—there's plenty of excitement to go around.

In the A team game, Charlestown lost a heartbreaker 13-12. The first touchdown was scored on a halfback pass from Addie Duraes to Griffin. The second touchdown was scored by Addie Duraes on a run up the middle.

Charlestown won their fifth in a row by the score 20-0. In this game, two touchdowns were scored by Jimmy Donovan and one by Kevin McGonagle. An outstanding game was played by Jimmy Wermer and Adam Enos. Andy Powers also had a real good game.

The A team won a thriller 6-0. The winning touchdown was scored by quarterback Shawn Farley. Outstanding all four games. I'd like to wish one of our 18 cheerleaders, Lisa Connell, a happy 14th Birthday.

There will be an A team cheerleading competition to be held in three weeks. They are the defending champs in G.B.L. Come down and cheer them on.

As of last week, we started our sticker drive and we have to report that the area that the boys covered was very responsive. We will be in a different area on Saturday, October 23rd, between the hours of 12 noon and 2:00 p.m. Please receive the boys openly and give proudly to help these boys in their drive to raise funds. The stickers are very attractive in three colors and stick very well either on your front door, window or car bumper. Display the sticker proudly. We are still short boys in order to make a Squirt II team but things are looking better. As soon as we get enough boys we will enter that team in a league. If any boys are interested, please call Mr. Lou Marino at 241-9010 or Mr. Jim Tucker at 242-3470. (Boys in the Squirt age group are 9-10 years of age.)

Once again we appeal to the parents to be patient as far as the teams look in competition. We will probably be in first gear for awhile until our rink opens.

Northeast-8 Conference include American International College, Assumption College, Bentley College, Bryant College, Springfield College, Stonehill College, and the University of Hartford.

The eight conference teams will play a double round-robin schedule and then will cap-off the season with a post-season tournament in early March.

In addition to the N.E. round-robin the 25-game schedule will include games with Big East Playoff contenders Seton Hall, Harvard, and the University of New Hampshire.

Said Coach Tom Gotsill, "We don't guarantee wins but we guarantee that no one will be in better condition and no one will play harder."

Contributes To Hockey Program

Massport recently announced that the Authority has contributed $600 to the Charlestown Youth Hockey Program.

The Charlestown Youth Hockey Program is planning a "Massport Week" at the Charlestown MDC rink during the Christmas and February vacations.

Assisting programs like the Charlestown Youth Hockey Association is just one example of Massport's commitment to work with Charlestown residents for the betterment of their community, stated a Massport spokesman.

On Saturday, October 17th, the D team lost to the Malden Bronco's or Lyons, by the score 18-0. This was a good clean game and I have to say the Malden team and coaches are an outstanding group as are our own coaches.

The C team lost to a real powerful Medford squad by the score 18-0. With more practice, this week we will do better. P.S. Make sure you coaches get there too.

In the B team game, defense was provided by Joe DeAngelo. There were a lot of people that thought this team would not win a game, but they are playing outstanding football.

HOW TO GET RICH QUICK

Easy ... simply pull the lever for Independent candidate Frank Rich for Governor in the voting booth on November 2!

Here are a few major reasons why, as evidenced by quotes from literature available to anyone from his Condor Street, East Boston Headquarters:

1. ABORTION: "My administration will support, endorse, ratify and implement the Human Life Amendment to stop the killing of unborn babies."
2. CAPITAL PUNISHMENT: "The moral obligation of government is to protect the people ... as Governor I will sign the death penalty legislation for capital offenses."
3. CRIME: "Appointment of hard line, fair judges is a must as is recognizing the hardship of victims. I will declare WAR on crime."
4. STATUS OF WOMEN: "That's easy ... EQUAL PAY FOR EQUAL TALENT!" and
5. He is "100% opposed to forced busing."

As an Economics major graduate of Brown University, Frank Rich is solidly for Proposition 2½, advocates implementation of a Zero Based Budget, and strongly opposes increase in taxes ... all of which bodes well for the already too burdened Massachusetts taxpayer.

Francis Patrick Rich is a Saugus resident, married and the father of 4, and the President of a highly successful Boston-based family business. He is a disabled veteran of World War II (having served as a Paratrooper), a Fourth Degree Charter Member of the John F. Kennedy Assembly, Knights of Columbus, and, in 1977, started the Committee to Elect Ed King Governor (serving as Treasurer and Chief Fundraiser), which resulted in Governor King's successful election.

After publicly announcing his candidacy in September 1981, he accomplished the herculean feat of obtaining 47,000-plus certified voter signatures to become the first candidate in our state's history to have his name placed on the ballot in this fashion as an Independent for the office of Governor. For too long, voters have usually had to choose between "the lesser of two evils," so it is especially meaningful (and refreshing!) to have a solid, alternative choice to the present liberal-oriented philosophies of Dukakis-Sears ... and we just might be witnessing the establishment of an Independent Party.

Mr. Rich's candidacy deserves every consideration, warrants support and merits "The Vote." Our bottom line is his own, often repeated statement, as follows:

"I'm INDEPENDENT ... I'm not going to back down from principles that I stand for. NO PARTY ... NO POLITICIAN ... NO PERSON is going to control me."

Think about it, and then think about it some more! We know you'll decide to join us in voting RICH FOR GOVERNOR ... and please do tell a friend!!!

WILL U.S./CANADIAN CHRISTIANS STAND FOR THIS???

On a recent Sunday in Minneapolis, churchgoers were directed to take notice of a flyer posted in the church vestibule and to take appropriate action. We'd like to share the information it contained ... and tell you how YOU CAN HELP.

MODERN PEOPLES NEWS recently revealed plans to film the sex life of Jesus Christ, "based on the controversial book that features Christ as a swinging homosexual." The flyer goes on to list the names of the writers, directors and producers, and notes that a French prostitute has been assigned to play the part of Mary Magdalene, "with whom Christ has a blatant affair in the movie."

Unless the public outcry is great enough to throw the question of profit into doubt before these mercenaries of muck and mud, filming will commence in the U.S. this year.

Whatever the present status of this movie, we can all help to see that it is barred from showing in either the U.S. or Canada by protesting in the strongest possible terms, noting that such a movie would be OUTRAGEOUS, BLASPHEMOUS and CONTRARY TO TRUTH.

Join us in getting a postal card off today to JESUS FILM POLL. Modern Peoples News, 11038 W. Addison Street, Franklin Park, Illinois 60131.

WHAT OUR READERS ARE WRITING...

"I recognize the right of my colleagues to offer legislative remedies to the Supreme Court decisions addressing abortion and school prayer." (Senate Majority Leader Howard N. Baker, Jr.); "I can't find the doorknob on the door but I do know the subject of alcohol and how to stay away from it from hearing thousands of talkers in AA for over 20 years." (name withheld, So. Boston);

everyone is on the defensive, not exactly the situation one would expect from an organization whose aims were so noble at the beginning.

Now, its Jimmy Cushman and the White Machine vs. Joe Kent's Gang. Sounds like a new 3-D movie or a couple of rock groups clashing, instead of the bitter dispute over the future of the Center itself.

The controversy has been going on for sometime now and shows no sign of being settled and that's a shame. The Kennedy Center should have a future, a purpose for existing but right now there is none.

Perhaps it is time for a Charlestown Town Meeting on this dispute which is tearing the Center apart? Are people really concerned about the bitterness ending? Do people even care? The public turnout at the Board's open meetings are quite small because the whole damn thing just continues to drag on without any resolution in sight.

Maybe, if the boiling pot could be put on public display at a Town Meeting, all the principles involved might finally decide to work things out in the best interests of Charlestown.

The chaos at the Center can not continue much longer. The credibility of the Center is being destroyed by a cancer, nourished by a lot of anger, arrogance and obstinacy!

"...sincere thanks and appreciation for your kind support and encouragement. The phone calls and mail have been overwhelmingly supportive and have been a great consolation to me." (Rev. Richard A. Bucci, Providence, R.I.); "Would appreciate brochures about busing and related education issues for our vertical file." (Jane Fahner, Librarian, Valdosta State College, Georgia); "A proposed school tax was beaten by a 3 to 1 margin. The main reason, our papers said, was resentment over forced busing." (David Braden, Louisville, Kentucky); "...follow with keen interest your vigorous prose. You have a sensitive regard for old-fashioned virtues and present an able defense." (Rev. Isaiah I. Sears, First Baptist Church of Charlestown); "...all forced busing disasters are the same because they stem from the same source — i.e. Court Dictatorship!" (Ora Mae French, St. Louis, Missouri); "You are fighting for Him in His vineyard." (Leo F. Kahian, Middleboro); "Let me assure you of my fullest support in seeing that the services of the Chaplain continue to be rendered in Congress." (U.S. Rep. Brian Donnelly, D-Mass.); "...we must pick up the pieces and begin in a new thrust of "Prolife" action — DECADE II." (Nellie J. Gray, Washington, D.C.); "I oppose forced busing, always have and probably always will." (Martin S. Goldman, Sudbury); "...positive results are clear indication of mounting pressure on our government to speak out against England's presence in Ireland." (John J. Finucane, Garnerville, N.Y.); "...thrilled at the closing of the Baird "clinic." (Rose Thomas, Hudson, Mass.); and "My departed mother (Nellie Kelly) would have appreciated your message to England." (Gene Maleska, Wareham).

Keep those cards and letters coming, folks!

WORDS THAT NEED NO FURTHER EXPLANATION:

"For the first time in 10 or 15 years, you've got a Justice Department that is willing to stand up and say that if you have a decree that is tearing apart the community, that is eroding the tax base, impeding public school education and causing resegregation rather than desegregation, we are not going to sit by and blink at the result simply because somebody, at some point, said that busing is supposed to be a good thing." (William Bradford Reynolds, Assistant Attorney General for Civil Rights, Justice Dept., D.C.)

YOU ARE WHAT YOU DO

REPEAL O'NEILL

Congressional candidate Frank McNamara is coming on strong in his attempt to unseat Speaker Tip O'Neill from his eighth district congressional seat which includes Charlestown...Speaking of the Speaker, I'm just a little angry at the way in which O'Neill appears happy that the national unemployment rate is 10.1 percent because its making Reagan look bad...God, what about the millions of people without a job? Is Tip happy about their plight? And I'm also upset with Reagan trying to blame past Democratic Presidents and plead Pontius Pilot on the jobless rate.

No one should be happy or gloating over it, all should be working to put people back to work! Democrats, Republicans... they're all to blame!

Its time to Repeal O'Neill and replace him with a new face with fresh ideas for the Eighties. The New Deal is dead and buried along with the Great Society! Frank McNamara is someone who has the credentials and the common sense to be an effective voice in a new and better Congress!

Views On Dental Health
by Jeffrey D. Cohen, D.M.D.

DOES PREGNANCY CAUSE TOOTH DECAY?
Once and for all, let's put the myth to rest. Pregnancy does NOT cause tooth decay. It is easy to see where certain factors may lead to this erroneous conclusion. During pregnancy, women tend to be busier preparing for the upcoming birth. Once the baby arrives, she is even busier. Instead of six months, it may be a year or more between visits. Obviously, more dental work will be discovered in a period of one or two years than in a six-month checkup.

Of course, women experience certain hormonal changes during pregnancy. These changes may produce a temporary condition of puffiness or bleeding of the gums. This condition is called "pregnancy gingivitis" and can be controlled by keeping the mouth "preventive clean" by the proper use of brushing and floss.

Equally false is the notion that baby robs the mother's teeth of calcium. The composition of adult teeth cannot be changed once fully formed. Babies may be responsible for stretch marks - but not dental decay.

Irish Update

by John J. Walsh

Due to a family illness, the Update column has been absent for the past few weeks.

The Heritage Society would like to thank all the Committee members and friends who made our Installation Dance on September 24th such a great success. The evening went off grand and the Shilling Show Band is to be credited with an outstanding performance in their rendition of Irish and modern music.

We would like to thank all the officers and members who attended and brought along their friends. A great job of serving the Irish bread and scones was done by the dance committee, including my better half, Betty, Kathleen, Mary and all the girls who kept charge of the front door. Well done, gang!!

The next Bunker Hill Irish Heritage Society Social event, called the "Octoberfest" and Masquerade Ball will be held on Friday, October 29th at the K. of C. Hall, 75 West School Street. You are all invited, one and all, and there will be prizes for the most unusual costume. Any outfit will do and you are welcome with any attire you so please.

The music will be by the Dennis Curtain Showband and I'm sure you have heard by now of his great performance recently at the K. of C. to honor retiring John Walsh of St. Mary's Church. (Happy retirement John - a good County Waterford man!)

Tickets for the October 29th Dance will be issued by our hard working dance committee: Grace Campbell, Betty Kelly, Kathleen McAteer, Patricia Pelton, Rita Kelly, Peter Looney, Mary Dennehy and Betty Walsh.

Donations for the dance are $6.00 per person with refreshments. Lets make this Ball another great success for the Society!

Welcome home to our dear member Gert Roche, from her few weeks stay in the hospital. Gert, who resides at 409 Main Street, is doing fine and will be kicking up her heels at the next social. Good health, Gert!

Our favorite member, "Leprechaun" Francis X. Moriarty from Roxbury, says hello and hopes to see you all soon. (Remember Francis X. from our Vermont trip?)

The next monthly meeting of the B.H.I.H.S. will be on Wednesday, October 27th at Memorial Hall, 14 Green Street, 2nd floor (opposite the Boys and Girls Club) at 7:30 p.m. All members, and would be members, are welcome to attend.

Keep your Irish Up - Read the Charlestown Patriot!!

P.S. Remember the Kerry man says "Thanks Offally" - All Ireland Football Champs!

Your Child's Health . . . .

Sore Throats

Like it or not, it's Fall, and that means the beginning of sore throat season. Parents become nervous when their children get sore throats because of the possibility of strep throat. Here are some things you ought to know about sore throats in general, and strep in particular.

Sore throats in children are usually caused by infections. Some of these are caused by a bacterial germ known as strep. Most, however, are caused by viruses. You cannot tell if strep is present by how sore the throat is, or by how bad it looks. Even the presence of pus on the tonsils doesn't tell you for sure.

The only way to be sure of a strep infection is by doing a throat culture, which takes twenty-four to forty-eight hours to grow. The treatment for strep is penicillin. If strep does not grow on the culture, we assume the sore throat is caused by a virus, and no antibiotic will help - the infection will go away by itself.

Many people do not know that a strep throat will feel better in a few days without penicillin. The bacteria, however, can remain in the body and may cause problems later on, like heart disease (rheumatic fever) and kidney problems. The reason we treat strep is to prevent these problems. A ten day course of antibiotics is usually sufficient to eliminate the strep.

When a child comes to the doctor with a sore throat, a frequent question is whether to begin treatment before the culture results are known. The decision to treat immediately is often made because the doctor has strong reasons to believe strep is present. Such reasons may include a brother or sister of the patient already having strep, or the known presence of a strep epidemic in the community. In most instances, however, the doctor will wait until the culture results are available. This is not harmful, and unnecessary antibiotic use has its own problems.

If your child has a bad sore throat that lasts more than a day or two, a culture would be advisable. In some cases, antibiotics will be started. If not, you will hear from us in one to two days if strep is present, and antibiotics will be started. If you do not hear from us, the sore throat is viral and will get better on its own.

No matter what the cause of the sore throat, there are some things you can do for the pain. Aspirin or acetaminophen (Tylenol, Liquiprin, Tempra) every four hours is helpful. Gargling with salt water and drinking warm liquids also make sore throats feel better. Swallowing a teaspoonful of Karo syrup very slowly also feels very good. The pain will usually begin to go away in two or three days.

Charlestown Police Line

From the desk of
Deputy Superintendent Joseph V. Saia Jr.
Commanding Officer District A
Charlestown, East Boston, Downtown

It is with great pleasure that I am able to recommend a member of the Charlestown community to receive the Boston Police Civilian Award. All too often we hear of incidents where citizens will ignore the call for help from a fellow human being, yet here is an occasion where Mr. William Delaney, 22 years old, of 26 Pearl Street, Charlestown put his life on the line to aid a fellow citizen.

On October 13, 1982 at about 5:00 p.m. on North Chardon Street, Boston, one Carmen Pantalowe observed his previously reported stolen car, being operated by a black male, stuck in traffic on Chardon Street. Mr. Pantalowe approached the vehicle and the operator pointed a gun at him and started to flee the area. Mr. Delaney observed the incident and with complete disregard for his own safety, threw his body at the fleeing felon, tackling him and knocking him to the ground, and began wrestling with him for control of the weapon, a fully loaded 32 caliber revolver. At this time FBI Special Agent Bruce Ellavsky came to the assistance of Delaney and both men were able to disarm and hold the culprit for Police Officers of Area "A".

The above individual was transported to Area A and booked for the following: Possession of Firearm; Two counts of Assault and Battery by means of dangerous weapon; Possession of burglary tools; and Possession of a Class A substance.

Well done "Bill", Charlestown can be proud of you.

Officers Wallace and Langlois arrested a Juvenile for Assault and Battery and Unarmed Robbery in the area of Medford Street. The case is pending in the Charlestown Court.

Officer Al Whiffen arrested for Larceny of Motor Vehicle

an adult male caught in the process of stripping a stolen motor vehicle for parts in the area of 118 Medford Street. The case is pending in the Charlestown Court.

Two Stolen Motor Vehicles were recovered in the area of Medford Street.

The Detectives of Area A are presently conducting investigations on two separate hit and run incidents, where property damage occurred and the Detective and Arson Squads are investigating the fire which took place at 10 Roland Street, this past week.

Remember I have secured steady bike units from Mobile Operations to patrol for gangs and enforce motor vehicle laws in the town, so drive carefully and be especially watchful for School Crossings.

High School Attendance

The problem of attendance and tardiness is being addressed this year with new approaches by Mr. Robert Murphy, the Headmaster at Charlestown High School. A new detention policy has drastically reduced tardiness in the school. Now, various new approaches are being made to reduce the absentee problem.

Parents may call 242-1444 anytime after 10:30 a.m. to verify whether his/her child is in school. The school urges parents to use this new method and cooperate with the school in reducing the absentee problem.
