SMART HOUSEHUNTING

When you go out to look at houses, you may find yourself worn out and confused at the end of the day. After a Sunday afternoon of looking at Open Houses, your feet hurt. You can't remember which house had a great back yard and a kitchen you loved or which one you ruled out because the basement felt like a mushroom farm. Some of the houses you visited looked familiar because you had seen them two weeks ago. How can you conserve energy and keep it all straight?

The first step is finding a good agent who knows the area well and can show you only the homes that meet your main criteria. The second step is to invest in a small note pad, and keep a record of the homes you visit. Note the address, style and exterior color, as well as something distinctive about the inside that will trigger your memory. If a house has real possibilities, make a special note. Jot down important pluses and minuses of each property, and be sure to share this information with the agent. This will help to narrow down the houses he or she will select to show you, focusing in on those most likely to have that special appeal you are seeking.

If you are considering a move, contact the professionals at Century 21, Silva Realty Associates. Call us at 242-7470 or stop by our offices at 142 Main Street in Charlestown.

Each office is independently owned and operated.

Life Behind The Wall

by Ronan FitzPatrick

With the white stretch limousine waiting at the foot of Shipways, the bridal party was descending the stairs. A chauffeur, nattily outfitted, was on hand to assist the participants. A first for the complex — a Spring wedding. Dr. and the future Mrs. Edward A. Ryan appeared as though they had just walked out of Vogue. An eagle-eyed photographer was avoiding seagulls as he snapped numerous colorful subjects. As they commence their bonding relationship, we wish them marital bliss.

The sleek invitation was captioned "Set Sail on an Ocean of New Discoveries." Citing the introduction of medical research by Massachusetts General Hospital, the May 13th luncheon was a great kickoff. In conjunction with Mayor Raymond L. Flynn, Boston Redevelopment Authority Director Stephen F. Coyle, Dr. J. Robert Buchanan of M.G.H. and Neil St. John Raymond of Biotechnical Research Associates, Building 149 was in a festive mood. Having first introduced ether at its Fruit Street facility, M.G.H., for operating procedures, is once again making history with a significant and lasting research operation. To all who made the day a success with great expectations for inroads in future medical discoveries, may your sails billow.

Rope Walk 97, bordering Ninth and parallel to Chelsea Street, was the backdrop for the Tobin Bridge Car Crawl 87 on May 7th. On the dawning days of new infrastructure commencement, many a delay was experienced from above. Time is the universal cure — I will report as the project advances.

An impressive site on Second Avenue is the Billings Building, proceeding on schedule under Navy Yard development. Substantial detail has been given to all aspects of the refurbishing. Most notably are the splendid oak doors — they enhance former Building 33 magnificently. Additionally, the polished Frazier Barrack's sign looks great on the Seventh Street site.

On the adjoining corner, Spring has sprung at Blossoms. The shiny yellow canopy was inviting pedestrians to participate in the sidewalk eatery. Prolonged improved weather will increase the food preparation and caloric consumption.

Mullin, Stadtler, Cuneo, a prestigious State Street legal firm, no doubt. As Paul Harvey, the famed radio commentator refrains, "Now for the rest of the story."

Boat organizers, not barristers, are this group. Serving as Harbor Trans Limited, Vice President David Mullin with John Stadtler, Jr. as President, they are actively seeking the birth of a trauma boat to serve the Boston Harbor and adjacent Metropolitan Waterways. On the surface, the proposal has met with mixed reviews. Its cornerstone philosophy is to accommodate injured persons on and around the Harbor area. Their accelerated response and professional medical care aboard their tentatively named emergency vessel Sea Life is unique. City fathers have been briefed recently with partner, John Cuneo. There is no slack in District City Councillor Robert E. Travaglini's rope. With vigor, he has presented legislation to his colleagues to advance the feasibility of this plan. A relative "MASH" unit on water will arrive only with "Townie" and City Fathers' support. For an update, contact Councillor Travaglini.

In keeping with the hoopla and excitement of the Constitution Bicentennial, another constitution was undergoing housecleaning. As Mystic Cleanings' truck engaged its engines, the floor equipment was put in place to dress up the surfaces of the U.S.S. Constitution Museum. A hectic and historical viewing period will be ongoing throughout the bicentennial celebration.

We were encouraged by the Navy Yard residents who attended the May meeting of the Charlestown Neighborhood Council at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Concerned and anxious to be involved in the process was their theme. As always, the Council took their testimony and delegated to the respective committees. For those who missed the contact people, they are Tom Cunha, Moe Gillen and Dennis McLaughlin. Development, basic and human services will be addressed by the aforementioned, in addition to other general needs. All parties look forward to a cohesive relationship.

Great House Site In City Square To Be Saved

Dr. Peter Thorbahn, Director of the Great House Foundation, Inc., has announced that the Massachusetts Department of Public Works (MDPW) has promised to salvage the Great House archaeological site in City Square, Charlestown, late next month.

The Great House site was the home and seat of government of John Winthrop, the first Governor of Massachusetts. It is directly in the path of the new highway and tunnel that will be built through City Square as part of the Central Artery North Area project. James Elliot of the Environmental section of the MDPW says that the Public Archaeology Laboratory, Inc. of Providence, Rhode Island will begin the salvage excavations in City Square sometime late in June.

According to Dr. Thorbahn, the Great House was built in 1629. Governor Winthrop lived there during 1630 before he moved the capital to Boston. The governing council of the new colony met in the Great House. One of their first acts was to create the Great and General Court of the Commonwealth. "This event ranks with the Mayflower Compact and the House of Burgesses in the origins of democratic government in America," says Thorbahn. The compact establishing the First Congregational Church was also signed in the Great House.

The Great House later became an "ordinary," a tavern and inn, called the Three Cranes. It was the center of political and social life in early Charlestown. Prominent citizens like John Harvard built homes on the square around the tavern. It stood until 1775 when the British burned Charlestown to the ground on the day of the Battle of Bunker Hill.

"The action by the MDPW to salvage the Great House is especially appropriate right now," says Thorbahn, "May 10 to 16 is National Historic Preservation Week. The theme for 1987 is 'Landmarks of Democracy.' What could be a better landmark than the place where one of the first democratic legislatures in America was created?"

The Great House will be salvaged as a result of an amendment to the Highway Transportation bill passed by Congress last month. The amendment makes the Commonwealth responsible for saving the Great House before the Central Artery is built. It was introduced by Congressman Brian Donnelly and was sponsored by Chester Atkins and the outgoing Speaker of the House, Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill. Mayor Ray Flynn was the first public official to call for the salvage and restoration of the Great House site when its location was discovered in November, 1985.

David Flanagan of the Public Affairs staff for the Central Artery project says that community groups in Charlestown are strongly in favor of restoring the site as part of a public park in City Square once the highway is finished. The groups include the North Area Task Force and the Charlestown Preservation Society.

tial that the City and the local community be involved in the plans for this nationally significant site."

The Great House Foundation, Inc. is a non-profit educational and research organization that promotes the preservation of archaeological and historic sites. Its work to encourage the salvage and restoration of the Great House site in City Square is supported by the National Trust for Historic Preservation, the Bank of Boston and New England Telephone.

Reconstruction Update Main And Warren Streets

by Kathy Giordano

The paving of Main Street has been done between Sullivan Square and Austin Street. However, manhole covers, etc., are being raised 1 1/2 inches awaiting the finished surface to be laid. Motorists and pedestrians are advised to watch out for these raised covers on the roadway.

Waterlines are still being worked on along Warren Street. The sewer located at the corner of Pleasant and Warren Streets needed major reconstruction work this past week causing additional traffic problems in that area. This work should be completed by the beginning of next week.

The no parking ban continues along Warren Street. Residents are advised not to park their cars in the construction area. Cars will be towed.

The Bunker Hill Day Parade on Sunday, June 14th will travel along a portion of the roadway under construction. All parties involved have assured the Parade Committee that an adequate surface will be laid so that the marching units, vehicles and floats will have no problem on that section of the parade route.

Honored At United Way Centennial Volunteer Recognition Ceremony

The United Way recently held a "Centennial Volunteer Recognition Award Ceremony" to honor volunteers throughout the area by recognizing their efforts in several categories determined by the agency. Selected for these volunteer awards, which were presented at a luncheon held at the Boston Park Plaza were: Volunteer Program of the Year — Samaritans, Volunteer of the Year — Albert "Ben" Cook, Arts and Culture — James W. Conway, Education — Mildred Hilliard, Environment — Dorothy Checchi-O'Brien, Health — Deborah W. Flynn, Human Services — Theodore J. Rubin, Over 65 — Laura B. Jones, and Under 18 — James M. Sullivan, Jr.

JAMES W. CONWAY of Charlestown (center) received an award from the United Way of Massachusetts Bay's Voluntary Action Center as the outstanding volunteer in the category of Arts and Culture. Conway has served as chairman of the Bunker Hill Day Parade and Commemorative Exercises for over twenty years. He has served as President of the Charlestown Historical Society and currently serves on the Board of the Society, which operates the Bunker Hill Museum, as President of the Bunker Hill Monument Association, and Commander of Bunker Hill Post 26, The American Legion. Presenting the award to Conway at the recent ceremony were United Way Board Director John J. Bacon, president of Boston Gas Company (left), and awards ceremony special guest Bruce Rossley, commissioner of Arts & Humanities, City of Boston.

JAMES M. SULLIVAN, JR. of Watertown (center) received an award from the United Way as the outstanding young volunteer. Sullivan, who was nominated for the award by the Boston National Historical Park, Charlestown Navy Yard, is a 14-year-old member of the Sea Cadets who has volunteered hundreds of weekends and summer hours over the past three years to serve as a tour guide at the Charlestown Navy Yard. He has enlivened his tours with information on naval history he gathers during winter research. The presentation was made by United Way Board Director John J. Bacon, president of Boston Gas (left) and Will McDonough, sports reporter for "The Boston Globe" (right).

THEODORE "TED" J. RUBIN (center) was honored by the United Way as the outstanding volunteer in Human Services. Rubin works throughout the South Shore area serving the elderly. He produces and hosts a local cable TV show, "Senior Focus," and writes a weekly newspaper column for senior citizens. He is a volunteer driver for Meals on Wheels and collects books and eyeglasses for schools, hospitals and charities. Rubin also works on a part-time basis for the Family Shoe Store on Bunker Hill Street, Charlestown. Joining Rubin at the awards ceremony were Myer (left) and Harriett (right) Galler, proprietors of the Family Shoe Store.

Massachusetts General Hospital Officially Welcomed To Charlestown Navy Yard

(continued from page one) ary disease, arthritis and kidney disease. According to Dr. Buchanan, the facility will expand MGH's research capacity by approximately 58 percent.

Neil St. John Raymond, in welcoming MGH, noted that Building 149 was "an exciting structure and an exciting building." He referred to the fact that MGH is the largest private employer in the city with a $500 million budget and approximately 15,000 employees.

Raymond stated that Boston is the world leader in research and the commitment by MGH goes a long way to maintaining that leadership. He referred to the fact that Building 149 was a supply building for the Navy and that the defense industry has been an important part of the state's economy. He drew the analogy of "going from swords to plowshares" in that this building would be vital and important in maintaining a strong economy in the city.

"Medical research is probably our best kept secret," said Raymond.

OFFICIALLY welcoming the Research Center of Massachusetts General Hospital to Building 149 in the Charlestown Navy Yard was Neil St. John Raymond, General Partner of Biotechnical Research Associates.

There will be 3,000 people working in this facility and, he noted, "what's going to come out of here (the research facility) in Nobel Prizes and medical discoveries is something extremely important — it is something that will mean a lot to all of us . . . a great contribution."

Raymond, in introducing Dr. J. Robert Buchanan, referred to the fact that the Charlestown Navy Yard is 187 years old and MGH has been in its present location for 175 years. He compared the move of MGH's research center from its main facility to the Navy Yard, to "suggesting to the Vatican that Saint Peter's be moved."

Dr. Buchanan paused to reflect a bit on history. He expressed a "kinship" between these two venerable institutions, the Navy Yard

COMMUNITY RESIDENTS and business persons, former Navy Yard workers, and agency representatives were among the guests at Building 149 on Wednesday, May 13, for a press briefing and luncheon welcoming the Research Center of Massachusetts General Hospital to the Charlestown Navy Yard.

DR. J. ROBERT BUCHANAN, General Director and Chief Executive Officer of Massachusetts General Hospital, outlined the plans for the medical research facility that will be housed in Building 149, stating that with the opening of this center, research at the hospital will be increased by 58 percent. Shown (l. to r.) Neil St. John Raymond, Stephen Coyle, Commander Joseph Brown, USN, Dr. Buchanan and Boston City Councillor Robert Travaglini.

and MGH. He also reflected on Bunker Hill, noting that John Collins Warren, nephew of General Joseph Warren who died at the Battle of Bunker Hill, was one of the co-founders of MGH and was Chief of Surgery at that institution for more than three decades. He continued, pointing out the service and commitment of the Bunker Hill Health Center to the Charlestown community for the past two decades.

Looking ahead, Buchanan said that he is looking forward to an extension of energies and resources and the enhancement of the research facilities. He said that MGH has a commitment for 175,000 square feet of space and expects that they will exercise their option to increase the center to 388,000 square feet.

Buchanan stated that this move from a land-locked, overcrowded research facility to an ocean-locked but much less congested area, will allow them to double their space commitment to research. He noted that currently MGH is spending $70 million a year on research but with their new emphasis on cancer research, he anticipates that there will be a budget increase of 30 to 40 percent in this area alone within five years.

Buchanan also noted that 100,000 square feet of space will initially house an administrative facility with the complete management computer system connected to the main facility by microwave transmission and fiber optics.

Buchanan told the gathering that "the future of biomedical research is bright."

In commenting on the new MGH facility, Mayor

Flynn said, "The strong and successful tradition of research established by Massachusetts General Hospital during its 175 years in Boston speaks for itself. The hospital's Navy Yard expansion is yet another step in these research programs which underscores MGH's commitment to Boston and the global medical community."

The Mayor also noted the importance of jobs. He stated that "despite a strong economy, it is unfortunate that there are still too many people in Boston's neighborhoods that are not and have not participated in Boston's economy." He continued, "You don't have to go very far, for the community we are in now hasn't received its fair share of benefits from Boston's economic boom."

The Mayor related that 6,000 or 7,000 jobs will be coming into the area. He also noted that there are a number of people in the area that are not trained for these jobs. Thus, he said, the city is "extracting $500,000 in job training money so that young people in this area can participate in this economy and these jobs."

"What we have tried to do in the city is that when we are working on the mega-projects, we don't lose our contact with the people who would be impacted in the neighborhoods," continued the Mayor. He referred to the Charlestown Neighborhood Council, complimenting the members on fighting for the interests of their community.

Stephen Coyle, Director of the Boston Redevelopment Authority, noted that this was "a special day for Charlestown and for the Charlestown Navy Yard." He stated that this project is important as it is bringing

Emergency Access Major Concern Of Residents At City Council Hearing

The Charlestown High School Auditorium was the site of Tuesday night's public hearing by the Boston City Council's Committee on Transportation and Commerce, chaired by City Councillor Robert Travaglini.

At the outset, Travaglini stated that the purpose of the hearing was to "send a clear message to each and every state and city official who has a role and a responsibility in the coordination of the various phases of construction that it is the intent of this committee and its chair to continue to monitor the progress of this project and the problems associated with it to insure a constant dialogue as a mechanism to preserve and protect the integrity of this community."

Travaglini noted that the committee should provide a forum to exchange ideas and solicit recommendations "not in an attitude of confrontation but in a spirit of cooperation." He said that "it is necessary to address the needs of the city, keeping in mind the concerns and the integrity of the neighborhood, working to strike a balance."

Those public officials on hand to present testimony and respond to concerns of the community were Commissioner Rick Dimino of the City Transportation Department, Francis Sholock of the Massachusetts Department of Public Works (MDPW) and Sergeant William Pugsley of the Boston Police Department.

The Boston Redevelopment Authority, Massport, the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority and the MBTA had been requested by the Councillor to attend this hearing, but no representatives of these agencies were present.

City Councillor Joseph Tierney was the only committee member present. Councillor Albert L. "Dapper" O'Neil was in attendance.

MDPW representative Frank Sholock reviewed the closing of the Charlestown exit ramps that went into effect on May 7 for the construction of the Central Artery North Area roadways. He expressed satisfaction after having observed traffic patterns for the past few days, despite a few "glitches," which he said were mostly signs not in place. He said that he does not anticipate severe traffic problems in City Square.

Sholock stated that traffic counts had been done prior to the closing of the ramps and are being done again now, so figures would be available shortly for comparison. He pledged to honor the commitment to the community for continual dialogue during the construction phase.

City Transportation Commissioner Rick Dimino stated that the city has been "very much involved with the planning of this project and took substantive steps to make sure there was a Construction Management Plan in place that represented both outside and community concerns of traffic and parking disruption. He said that the city has assurances from the state, working with the Boston Police Department, that there will be adequate police at the various impacted intersections. Dimino also stated that there is a mandate that emergency vehicles be provided here in Charlestown and there is a Health and Hospitals Ambulance in the community during the morning and afternoon peak traffic periods.

Dimino told the gathering that there is currently a traffic study underway in light of the impact this road construction will have on the community's parking resources and that the department would be willing to implement a residential parking program once approval is obtained from residents. He said that they are also looking to make some circulation changes as well as to improve public transit and water transportation "to keep traffic off your streets."

Sergeant Bill Pugsley gave a brief overview of the police assignments. He said that the police are attempting to move traffic in and out of the city as quickly as possible for if there is a back-up, traffic is more apt to use the city streets. He pointed out there are tow trucks assigned to the community that can be moved in quickly in case of a problem.

Councillor Tierney pressed Commissioner Dimino as to whether the city had an emergency contingency plan if the "worst case scenario" gridlock occurs.

City Officials Continue To Monitor Traffic Impacts In Charlestown

Councillor Robert Travaglini
District One, Boston City Council
New City Hall
One City Hall Square
Boston, MA 02201

Dear Councillor Travaglini:

This is in response to a request from your office dated April 22, 1987 to review three (3) separate traffic related issues within Charlestown to see if the Boston Transportation Department (BTD) could help resolve them. I have reviewed your request with the appropriate BTD personnel and have been informed that the following action will be taken:

Main Street, Charlestown: Upon the completion of the resurfacing of Main Street, the Department will post appropriate speed associated signs to help ensure that this street doesn't become the next "Indy Speedway." Increased traffic enforcement will be crucial, however, as signs alone may not totally eliminate this problem. I approve of your plan to request extra traffic enforcement, especially during the immediate post-resurfacing phase.

Pleasant Street, Charlestown: The BTD is going to review the use by trucks of Pleasant Street in Charlestown. If the street does indeed carry an excessive number of trucks, the Department will post the appropriate truck exclusion signs in this area.

Austin Street and Route 99 Intersection, Charlestown: The BTD will review the traffic signals at this intersection and will make the appropriate timing changes. It should be noted however, that this intersection has multiple approaches and because the controller mechanism (which regulates the signal changes) has fixed intervals, it is difficult to reduce the timing without serious consequences. This situation however, will change in the near future. The BTD has ordered a new controller mechanism for this intersection and when it is delivered, installation of the equipment and associated loop detectors will be done. This new equipment will allow for better signal timing at this intersection.

Thank you for bringing these situations to my attention. If I can be of any further help, please contact me.

Sincerely,
Richard A. Dimino, Commissioner,
City of Boston Transportation Department

Charlestown Neighborhood Council Acts On Several BRA Parcels

Stephen Coyle, Director
Boston Redevelopment Authority
Boston City Hall
Boston, MA 02201

Dear Mr. Coyle:

I am writing to you to report several actions of the Charlestown Neighborhood Council taken at its last meeting relative to your agency.

Parcels R23-B2 and R59-D2 (Belmont Street and Rutherford Avenue). The Council approved the Requests for Proposals on the above named parcels as presented to it.

Parcel R-87 (Prospect and Tremont Streets). The Council voted to restate its previous position that this parcel should be divided into lots no more than 3,000 square feet for private home ownership. The Council added the additional provisos that '689' housing be built if possible and as appropriate, that linkage funds be used to support as many affordable homes as possible and that BRA provide support to prospective homeowners throughout the development process.

Thank You, Charlestown

Dear People of Charlestown:

We want to thank you all for making the First Annual Benefit Dance for Camp Bunker Hill on April 24, 1987 such a success. It was wonderful to see such a turnout of people even on a rainy night, and to see the number of people who gave not only of their money but also of their time to make the Dance happen.

We raised over $3,000 from the Dance this year and want people to know that that money will go toward making Camp Bunker Hill possible for several troubled and needy children. We knew we could count on you. Thank you again.

Sincerely,
Mark McCormick, M.D., Chief,
Community Mental Health/
Social Service Unit
Thomas Panowicz, M.Ed.,
Director, Camp Bunker Hill

Parcels 96 and 107 (High and Walker Streets and Lawnwood Place). The Council voted to request that it be allowed to review the final Requests for Proposals before issuance of same. I have made arrangements to accomplish this with Larry Brophy.

Parcel P15B-1 (Bunker Hill Community College). The Council voted to request that your agency immediately execute a lease of at least five years with the College and that you also execute a Land Disposition Agreement with the College relative to said Parcel. This vote was unanimous and reflected the sense of the Council that such a disposition would help solve many traffic and parking problems in the community.

Main Street Reconstruction. Finally, the Council voted to support the Charlestown Merchants Association in its request to include existing "neckdowns" in a re-built Main Street. A majority of the Council felt that traffic flow and other safety concerns of the merchants would be better served by a wider street.

On behalf of the Council, I urge you to accept our recommendations on these issues. If I can be of any further assistance, please let me know.

Sincerely,
John L. Tobin, Chairman
Charlestown Neighborhood Council

Preservation Week Activities Open With Party At The Schrafft Center

The Charlestown Preservation Society began a week-long series of events celebrating "Charlestown Preservation Week" with a black tie reception on Friday, May 9 at The Schrafft Center in Sullivan Square.

The series of events that continues through Sunday, May 17 were designed to focus on some of the open areas of the community, with special emphasis on the artists, artisans and tradespeople.

All proceeds realized from the opening reception and from donations received throughout the week will be applied to a fund that will provide maintenance for the park slated for construction in the center of Thompson Square. The park, which has been funded by a $175,000 grant from the Browne Fund has the maintenance of the site as one of the conditions of the grant.

Under the chairmanship of Annette Tecce and Alice Connolly, the lobby of The Schrafft Center was the setting for the opening reception. The event was catered by Sorelle. Decorations for the lobby area were designed and executed by Karin Stanley, complimented by plants and floral arrangements by Joe Shadrouti of Bunker Hill Florist. Music was provided by The Dean Earl Trio.

Society President John

Tobin outlined the week's activities for the guests. The highlight of the evening was the unveiling of a prototype of a poster that is being created as the Society's fundraising effort for the coming year. Co-chairmen Annette Tecce and Alice Connolly, along with Boston City Councillor Robert Travaglini removed the covering revealing the poster.

The poster, depicting Charlestown Doors, is in the preliminary stage of design, according to Tecce. She, along with Thomas Wedell, are designing the poster.

Tecce stated that the rains these past few weeks have impeded their progress in photographing Charlestown doors. The photographs used in this prototype were the work of student interns Shakeel Houssain and Ashwani Vassishth, hired by the Boston Redevelopment Authority to document architecture in Charlestown. Ken Raynor and Geoff Fosbrook from the photo-design studio of Skolos, Wedell & Raynor, located in The Schrafft Center, will take the photographs for the poster. Tecce said that they are still seeking suggestions on doors in Charlestown to be included on the poster.

The Society's activities continue this week with an exhibition by Charlestown Artists through Sunday, May 17 in the Preble Room, Building Five in the Charlestown Navy Yard. Displaying their works are Anthony Abarti, Erik Anderson, Patricia Andreotti, Joseph Connolly, Al Fisher, Anndale Flemming, Dana Fox, Jack Gensemer, Ellen Hardy, Frederick Johannson, Joan Poe, Sandra Swan and Pierre Tresfort.

On Friday evening, May 15, Charlestown resident James Busby will present an Organ Recital at 8:00 p.m. at Saint Mary's Church, 55 Warren Street.

The clean-up of Doherty Playground on Bunker Hill Street is slated for Saturday morning, May 16 from 9:00 a.m. to noon — rain or shine. Everyone is invited to take part in this project and should meet at 9:00 a.m. at the corner of Saint Martin and Bunker Hill Streets. There will be T-shirts for the first 50 volunteers.

The activities will conclude on Sunday, May 17 at 1:00 p.m. on Pier Four at the Charlestown Navy Yard with the Annual Meeting of the Society followed by a cookout, entertainment by a reggae band and a sail in the harbor aboard the Glad Tidings. All are invited to attend.

The events are free of charge. Donations will be gratefully accepted.

THE UNVEILING of the prototype of a poster featuring the doors of Charlestown was the highlight of the black tie reception marking the opening of "Charlestown Preservation Week" by the Charlestown Preservation Society held Saturday, May 9 at The Schrafft Center. Shown (l. to r.) Annette Tecce and Alice Connolly, Co-chairmen of the event, and Boston City Councillor Robert Travaglini, who took part in the ceremony.

CHARLESTOWN PRESERVATION WEEK 1987

The Board of Trustees of the Charlestown Preservation Society is pleased to announce its scheduled activities for National Preservation Week, continuing through May 17th, 1987. Mark your calendars! All monies raised will be donated to a maintenance fund for the new Thompson Square Park.

ORGAN RECITAL

Date: Friday, May 15, 8:00 p.m.

Place: Saint Mary's Church, 55 Warren Street

Synopsis: The Music Committee of the Preservation Society is planning an organ recital to be performed by Charlestown resident James Busby. The Music Committee, under the direction of F. Lee Eiseman, has organized many successful chamber music series and concerts in the past. The music of Franck, Dupre and Karg-Elert will be featured.

Sponsored by Jim Adams.

PARK CLEAN-UP

Date: Saturday, May 16, 9 a.m. to noon

Place: Doherty Playground, including back slope

Synopsis: The Doherty Playground was designed by Frederick Law Olmstead in 1891. Its historic name is Charlestown Heights. Although the upper portion of the park has been greatly altered from the original plan, that part of the park still fulfills the original intention of providing recreation for the neighborhood. The back, or steep slope, however, has become totally overgrown. It is our intention to clear out as much growth as possible in one day's time, thereby drawing attention to the park's significance and enhancement to the neighborhood.

Sponsored by Historic Boston Inc.

The Tapist

by Charlie McGonagle

The catcher handed the ball to the umpire. It had short-hopped in front of him, hitting the dirt, and the resulting smudge caused the umpire to replace the ball with a new, unmarked one.

I am sure I could still tape a baseball with the best of them, but it has become a lost art. In the days before organized youth leagues, a taped baseball was standard equipment in any game, whether it be scrub or a more important Elm Street versus Polk Street matchup at the old Prescott Schoolyard on Elm Street.

Although black friction tape was often used, Johnson and Johnson white adhesive tape could turn a beat up old baseball into the Cadillac of sandlots. It looked more like the real thing because of its color, and it would make a more realistic sound as it met the bat. The black friction taped ball made more of a "thud" than a "crack." Yes, the ball taped with Johnson and Johnson adhesive was the Creme de la Creme of rebuilt baseballs.

Taped baseballs, though, have followed the dinosaurs into extinction, but for anybody who ever spent a seven hour Saturday at the "Oily" or the "Neck" playing "Three Flies In" or "Rollies At The Bat," the taped baseball is a valuable piece of folklore.

A new baseball was a rarity that was reserved for special games, such as Sister Mary Alfred's Seventh Grade versus Sister Trinita's Seventh Grade at "The Park." The winning team's reward was no homework for a couple of nights. Now these were big stakes, and for something this important, a new ball was used.

"The Park," though, was a hard top, and if a ball lasted more than three innings without losing its cover, it usually meant the pitching was outstanding that day.

Once the stitching began to break, the cover was doomed. Even the best hit ball with a flapping cover would die quickly in flight, and corrective surgery became necessary. The worn and torn horsehide was removed and Johnson and Johnson was put to work.

Taping a baseball was not just a haphazard attempt at saving a wilting piece of necessary equipment, it was an art form. Just as most teams had a best pitcher or a best hitter, most also had an expert tapist.

With the skill of a true artist, the tapist would carefully wrap the Johnson and Johnson around the naked spheroid until it sparkled in whiteness. Done correctly, the tape would pass over opposite ends of the ball with each rotation, resulting in a not so perfect roundness. A good pitcher could perform magic with the ball by utilizing the small projections at either end that were formed naturally by the layers of tape.

A really good tapist could complete the task between innings with only a slight delay in the proceedings.

A taped ball was lighter than its new counterpart, and maybe that is why I do not remember sore arms being much of a problem back then.

Organized Little Leagues and Babe Ruth Leagues have replaced the scrub games of those days, and covered baseballs are the only type deemed acceptable today. No kid dares play without a uniform, and now many of the fields have scoreboards. All this may be good, I don't know. What I do know, however, is when taped baseballs were in vogue, the parks were filled each Saturday with kids trying to squeeze out a piece of property big enough for their game. Outfielders from one game would collide with outfielders from another, and balls were constantly running through the infield of a different contest.

And out of these Saturday sandlots of the taped baseball came high school and college stars, all-scholastics, and even professionals. The ninth inning did not signify the end of a game, it simply meant the start of another. Most often darkness ended a game, or maybe rain, but nothing short of a deluge.

Most of us began playing baseball within minutes of learning to walk, and continued to do so right into our twenties before switching to softball. None of us, though, wore a uniform before high school, and all of us could tape a baseball.

Bunker Hillbillie News

by Steve Coyne

During the past month the "new" Bunker Hillbillies have been very active with practices and performances. Due to their continuing efforts, the "Top Ten" Junior Wranglers have been officially promoted to Bunker Hillbillies. The new Bunker Hillbillies are John "Hoss" Clougherty, Erin "Candy" Blaikie, Kelley "Shorty" Wedge, Pat "Redeye" Walsh, Mike "Daniel Boone" Macpherson, Jill "Sunshine" LaVallee, Joey "Chuck Wagon" Black, Karen "Bluejeans" Black, Dennis "Diamond" Elwell and Scott "Six Foot" Clougherty.

Additionally, two Junior Wranglers have been promoted to Sub-Hillbillies and are allowed to travel to shows with the group. The new Sub-Hillbillies are Colleen "The Sundance Kid" Fitzgerald and Kellie "Moonshiner" Walsh.

A number of Junior Wranglers showing promise at this time are Christine Edwards, Kathy Dabilis, Erin Powers, Mike Sullivan, Brendan Sullivan, Mike Martin and Erin McDonough.

A Junior Wrangler becomes a Bunker Hillbillie based on talent, attendance, behavior, knowledge of songs, timing, and responsibility.

In the past, the Bunker Hillbillies were the Goodwill Ambassadors of Charlestown and the new Bunker Hillbillies are beginning to regain that title once again. During the past month, the group has brought their show to the Soldier's Home in Chelsea, the Middlesex-Fells Nursing Home in Melrose, the Winter Hill Nursing Home in Somerville, and was the sole entertainment at the Boys and Girls Clubs of Boston Recognition Dinner at the Harvard Club in Boston.

Other shows are being planned with a few public performances being worked on for June, including the Bunker Hill Day Parade.

As an added bonus, the old "ranch" on the second floor of the Club will become available for practices during the month of May. This will allow more room for more Hillbillies to practice together.

the previously stated traffic plans. He said that the police are making sure grid-lock doesn't occur by moving traffic through. Tierney insisted such an emergency plan should be in place.

Jim Conway asked Dimino if the department was planning to impose a residential parking plan on Charlestown, even though strong opposition to such a plan has been expressed at several community meetings. Dimino responded that if there is neighborhood support, such a plan would be implemented but there would have to be approval of over 50 percent of the residents in the area.

Conway also expressed concern with the increased traffic on Bunker Hill Street, especially in the mornings. Tom Cunha also pointed out that the danger will increase when schools are out in a month. Dimino said he would follow up on this.

Asked as to what contingency plan there was to get health and injury victims to the hospital, such as the utilization of helicopters, Dimino said that they are in the process of creating a public emergency plan for the remainder of this project.

Travaglini added that the city is presently exploring the feasibility of utilizing the existing waterways and have been exploring a proposal for "Sea Life," a water emergency unit.

Grace Pizzuro expressed her family's fears of not being able to get emergency medical care for a child with a medical problem, while another resident voiced concern about the elderly.

Ken Stone pointed out a traffic study which indicated that cars would go from 200 now to 1740 in number on Chelsea Street by 1988. He said that this traffic is not being considered in the expansion of the Navy Yard. Dan Jaffe agreed with Stone and suggested that there should be a slow down on the project.

Councillor Tierney suggested that a petition be drawn up and circulated through the community asking for a two year moratorium on increasing density in the Navy Yard.

Frank Saccardo asked officials whether their plan "is really going to work." He said that when the Navy Yard was in operation, cars couldn't get out. Now, in an emergency, he felt this community would be just like Seabrook.

The proposed locating of the equipment transfer facility by the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA) on Piers 48, 49 and 50 was brought up.

Christine Amasano stated that according to her husband's calculations, 300 trucks a day transcribes into one truck every 30 seconds.

Dimino stated that his department provided testimony to the MRWA totally opposed to any inner harbor activities of MWRA.

Councillor Tierney suggested that Point Shirley in Winthrop should be used as the transfer site by MWRA instead of the authority avoiding that area. Tierney noted that even though it will impact the residents for a short time, in the end Winthrop will benefit the most in that they will no longer have the prison.

Jim Conway complemented Dimino, Charlestown's elected officials, and Massport for their strong letters of support in opposition to the MWRA proposal. However, he told MDPW's Sholock that the letter sent to MWRA from that agency was "wishy-washy" and showed "no courage." He stated, the MDPW says they want to plan and work with the community and listen to our input, why couldn't they have stood up and said "we have a project going, there are other impacts on Charlestown, we as a responsible state agency don't feel you should have it in Charlestown."

Sholock's response to Conway's statement was — "no comment."

One resident stated that the signage on the Expressway and I-93 should be more specific in moving traffic through to the Exit at Assembly Square Mall or beyond. He indicated that the sign for the detour should be Charlestown only so through traffic would remain up on the expressways. Terry Murray, of MDPW Traffic Management, said that she would look at the existing signs.

Ellie Marino expressed frustration with the start of another road project before the Main and Warren Street reconstruction was completed. She said that she "feels Charlestown is going to sink in" there are so many holes. Marino stated that people are afraid to come out, especially the elderly, afraid that they will fall.

Mike Donovan asked about the reconstruction of the Sullivan Square underpass and overpass to which Dimino responded that a request was put into the state a year ago. The repair has been advertised for bid and the $1.1 million project is supposed to be completed within this work season. Jack Millerick questioned the safety of the overpass. Dimino stated that it is safe or it wouldn't be used, but he would have inspectors look at it to allay concerns.

Representative Richard Voke stated that the community is facing an "outrageous situation that will get worse" when the Mystic Bridge is narrowed to one lane. He updated the gathering on health emergency issues and assured residents that this is being addressed.

Councillor Tierney said that although Dimino has been most cooperative, he didn't think that the city did proper planning for this project and that the commissioner "got caught with his slip showing."

Grace Pizzuro, a plaintiff in the recent class action suit filed on behalf of Charlestown residents, reminded the MDPW that they were under court order to provide police and emergency plans and that the community would be watching and if need be, they would be back in court.

Community Groups Play An Increasingly Important Role In Future Of Our District

If you want to bring attention to community problems in City Hall, you start in the community. Anthony "Skip" Picarello, Democratic candidate for District City Council, has always believed that the only way to get a true pulse on the needs of a district you are going to represent is to spend as much time in the district as you can with the local community groups. This is where the issues that affect our everyday life are discussed, analyzed, debated, and further actions are agreed on or the issue is dismissed. These issues involve such things as zoning, traffic, parking, police protection, housing and condo conversions.

Over the last four months, "Skip" Picarello

has attended numerous meetings of the North End Council, Waterfront Council, Charlestown Neighborhood Council, the Charlestown Development Corporation, Land Use and PZAC groups.

Picarello wants to get a solid understanding of the needs of the district so as a full time councillor, he will be better prepared to work in City Hall for the people of District One.

If anyone would like to talk with candidate Picarello on specific community issues, he can be reached at 569-4621. He promises to always be accessible to the people of East Boston, Charlestown, and the North End.

Picarello, a life-long district resident, graduated from Boston College in 1966. He is married and the father of three teenage children. He presently owns and operates a family business in East Boston. His political experience is highlighted by three years working as a senatorial aide dealing with everyday problems of residents of the district and an additional three years of experience in Boston City government as a liaison in business and community issues in East Boston and the North End.

City Seeks To Prevent I-93 Construction Disruptions

The city, in a cooperative effort with the state, has developed a comprehensive series of measures designed to minimize the disruption that the $250 million dollar design project of the Central Artery could cause. The planning of the project, which has been in the works for most of the past ten years, has been coordinated with the Charlestown community through the North Area Task Force.

- At least 50 police officers are controlling critical intersections in order to facilitate the flow of vehicular and pedestrian traffic in and around the impacted area.
- Additional signage was posted on appropriate highway approaches as well as along the detour routes.
- City and State tow trucks are available to remove vehicles that become disabled so that the flow of traffic is not disrupted and emergency vehicles have public access.
- A North Area Project Team is being convened by the city to work in coordination with the state to maintain the city's active involvement in mitigating the impacts of this project and to ensure, upon completion, that the city's and the neighborhood's interests are met.
- Future ramp closings and detours will utilize the Sullivan Square overpass even more than the current detour. To accommodate the increased traffic volume, the city, with state support, is initiating a $1.1 million series of improvements to the overpass and underpass that will take approximately 120 working days. These improvements will be completed before the second phase of ramp closings occur. Every phase of the project will be controlled by a City Traffic Maintenance Plan negotiated between the city, state and all contractors engaged in the work.

Not For Nothin' . . . But Have You Heard . . .

• S.O.S. . . . Save Our Spenser campaign has been successful since word has it that the weekly television series filmed in Charlestown will be renewed for next season. Over 17,000 letters were sent to ABC in support of the show from Boston viewers.

• Clean Streets? . . . It has been reported by a source in "the know" that the street sweeper has been unable to clean posted streets due to parked cars! Meter maids will start ticketing in the near future, but in the meantime residents are asked to have their vehicles out of the posted areas and allow the sweeper to do his thing!

• Clean Lots? . . . Get those vacant lots cleaned up this year. Residents may call the Mayor's Office of Neighborhood Services at 725-4500 to report a vacant lot in your area that needs cleaning. The city will also enforce laws making owners of private lots to maintain their property and catch violators of illegal dumping.

• Country Roads . . . The streets between City and Thompson Squares, especially Warren and Main Streets, are reminiscent of country roads due to all the construction work going on in that area. Walking is difficult — driving is worse!

• D-Day . . . has come! Last Thursday marked the first day of the Central Artery North Area construction project in City Square. Although everything went smoothly the first morning, quite a few tie-ups have occurred since then. It's only just begun, folks!

• OOoops . . . In last week's column we reported that Steve Spinetto spent a week in Seattle surveying the handicapped ramp system there. Well, our source — "Deep Ramp" — was mistaken and we apologize to Steve for the error! Would you like to spend a week in Seattle, Steve?

• Vandalism A Problem . . . The residents of Constitution Co-op have been the victims of vandals the past few weeks. A large rock was thrown so hard through a window last Friday night that it became wedged in the wall of the apartment! The Senior Response Team of the Boston Police Department has been notified and will patrol the area in the future.

• Happy Anniversary . . . David and Linda Flanagan celebrated their second wedding anniversary this past week.

• First AID . . . Seems Larry Brophy of the BRA Charlestown office has been singled out for his contributions to the community but no one seems to know the source of this distinguished honor! Stay tuned!

• Bunker Hill Day . . . is fast approaching! Support the parade — buy a booster and/or a chance. Better still, send your contribution - big or small - to P.O. Box 376, Charlestown and watch the monument that appears weekly in the Patriot fill up! All donations of $25 or more will be listed in the paper. At present, there are some 27 musical units slated to join the line of march on June 14th for THE Parade. It should be a grand day for Charlestown.

• Spring HAS Sprung . . . Tulips are in full bloom at the Shipyard Park in the Navy Yard! The colors are magnificent! And we had our doubts that Spring would never get here!

Massachusetts General Hospital Officially Welcomed To Charlestown Navy Yard

the economy of the city back to the neighborhoods. He reflected back to the 1950's when most jobs were centered in a one square mile core in the city and as a result of the city being engrossed in that downtown core, people moved out of the neighborhoods, jobs were lost, shops closed and neighborhoods deteriorated.

To reverse that trend, stated Coyle, required finding places to develop, places like the Navy Yard. He said that bankers brought in from New York said that no one would ever come to the Navy Yard — it was warehouse space, but, Coyle said, they were from the "world is flat school of thinkers." He noted, the Charlestown Navy Yard is "the place things are happening."

Coyle referred to the new masterplan of the Navy Yard, noting that he "wants to see the Navy Yard part of the Charlestown community." He said that the BRA is "jointly going to masterplan the Navy Yard" and "jointly going to come up with revised zoning policies for Charlestown" with the Charlestown Neighborhood Council "for the mission of this administration is to say Boston must control its future if and only if the plans are shaped by the people who live here. The people of Charlestown will set the rules as to how this place will grow out."

Coyle pointed out the changes that will be occurring in the Yard — increased public access, park and recreational opportunities, specifically with the "Courageous" sailing in this summer and the creation of the Courageous Sailing Center and community boating programs.

He also stated that with the development of affordable housing in the Yard — some 500 out of a proposed 2,400 units, people from the community and those that had been displaced would be afforded housing opportunities. He said that groundbreaking for the affordable housing being built by the Bricklayers'

Union will take place in a few weeks. He noted that the need for such affordable housing was demonstrated by the call for almost 1,800 applications for that affordable housing in a recent ten day period.

He noted that the MGH-Building 149 relationship is a commitment by one of the leading institutions in the world to the space in the Navy Yard — "this is the outer limits of medical research" to make our lives and those of our children better.

Boston City Councillor Robert Travaglini spoke of the "world wide" as well as local implications of the expansion of MGH to the Navy Yard. He said that the "Charlestown Navy Yard is going to have national attention as one of the most desirable locations."

During the event, Commander Joseph Z. Brown, USN, Commanding Officer of the USS Constitution, presented Dr. Buchanan with a replica set of medical instruments that were used by the Chief Medical Officer of the USS

SPECIAL GUESTS at the ceremony and luncheon welcoming the Research Center of Massachusetts General Hospital to Building 149 included a group of former Navy Yard employees. Among the former employees present were Sam Moreau (left) and Leo Nunzio (right). Moreau, 91 years of age, was a welder and worked in the Navy Yard for over 30 years. When he arrived at Wednesday's reception, there was no name tag for him, so he looked over the table full of name tags and selected one to wear and thus, for the day, he was known as Governor Michael Dukakis.

Constitution in the era of Issac Hull. The instruments, which are owned by the Harvard Medical School Library, are currently on display at the Constitution Museum in the Navy Yard. Brown expressed delight at what is happening in the Navy Yard, noting that they expect 750,000 visitors to "Old Ironsides" this year and that many of them will have the opportunity to see what the BRA has done in the Yard.

The noontime press briefing and luncheon, which was held in the atrium of Building One Forty Nine at the Navy Yard, was also attended by community residents and business persons, elected officials, former Navy Yard workers, and agency representatives.

The John F. Murphy Oratorical Award Fund

The Edwards Middle School has recently experienced a great loss. John F. Murphy, a teacher for 21 years, passed away suddenly on February 5, 1987. Mr. Murphy will be remembered most for his efforts in stimulating his students in Classical reading. He was an active person in the Oratorical Society and his interest for public speaking left a great impression on present as well as former students.

As a former student, I recall Mr. Murphy's class as highly motivating. He was truly a fine teacher and friend, having extended himself above and beyond time and time again to each of his students.

In memory of the late John F. Murphy, a scholarship fund has been set up in honor of his name and spirit. Any past or present students, as well as old friends, can send donations to:

The latest in the chain of Kentucky Fried Chicken Restaurants, under the franchise of Scott's Food Service, opened recently in the Bunker Hill Mall. Scott's presently operates 180 restaurants throughout the United States, 28 of which are in the Greater Boston area.

Jim Fullam, District Director of Franchise Services for Kentucky Fried Chicken, stated that this store is unique in that it is located within a mall. Generally the restaurants are "free standing." He said that the decor, termed "Reynoldsburg," is being used in the Northeast. He said that this restaurant provides a larger seating capacity than is usual to accommodate the walk-in and eat-in trade in the Charlestown area.

Fullam relates that Colonel Sanders started the first Kentucky Fried Chicken in Corbettville, Kentucky over 35 years ago. From this first restaurant, which is no longer in operation, the firm has grown to 4,650 restaurants in this
