Hold on, I just have to make this call.

Yes, it is Mojang editorial. What does it mean to say "not the Netherlands, but you imbecile?" I've just put on my clogs and... I can see. My apologies.

Prepare to be sucked into the lava. There's a lot of lava! The Nether Update, Minecraft's next big adventure, will be available on June 23rd on Xbox One, PlayStation 4, Nintendo Switch, iOS, Android, Windows 10, and more. The update will also be available on the Java version and will be released on Windows, Mac OS, and Linux during the same day.

If you're like me - that is to say, totally terrified excited for the Nether and can't wait to learn more about Minecraft's lava-fueled sauna - then you must head over to the official Nether Update website. This site has a wealth of information about the new blocks, items and dangers that await you on the other side. You may prefer to dive in with reckless risk. You can also do that, but we will not tell you.

Now, that's not all. If you're curious about the sounds of the Nether we've added a 20-minute track composed by the talented Lena Raine, to Spotify to make sure you can get in the mood before you start your journey. We're still working on the other senses, such as smell.

The Nether awaits you. Are you ready for the challenge?
