Under the title 'Les Années 50' about thirty attire are grouped together, organized in line with the instant for which they were designed. There are rooms with designs of day, night, afternoon, cocktail, night, prom, gala, as a result of there was time wherein it was normal to change outfit six or seven times a day. Christian Dior's work is the most represented. His legacy dates back to the decade among 1947 and 1957. He was the king, dressed European and American women, "he sold greater than half of French trend exports," says Saillard. Dior always marked a trend, from his first couture collection wherein he made his wide skirts ring in the spacious salons of Paris. The models wore narrow waist attire, rounded shoulders, improved bust and dancer's skirt.
