

The Black Tide is a organization of draconians, pirates, and outlaws across the sea. We oppose the rule of any order on any island.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS

The Black Tide is allowed to null the contract at any point for breaches of contract: Submitting to any opposer of the Tide. The price for the breach of contract is life (as agreed). Providing a fake name makes the contract void. Your name will be the same one you have as your main account on P3D.

Confidentiality

There will be little to none confidentiality. The King and Captain reserve the right to use your name and any other information to conduct business. Your soul and any other information will become property of the King, and by extension the Captain in some circumstances.

In Case of a Breach

In the event of the client (Which Is You, Dumbass!) submits henceforth to any other entity other than the Tide, you, the client, agree to imminent termination. All your weapons, armor, and power will be removed following termination. All terminations must be approved by the Pirate King.

Your Role

The Tide reserves the right to make you do anything. Disobedience of commands from any form of authority will not be tolerated. You will be expected to defend the Tide whenever necessary.

Salary

You will be paid in the most literal sense, which is empowerment, money, and respect. Pay will be awarded not because of joining, but because of action. Loyalty and diligence is rewarded.

Possessions

You agree by engaging in the agreement outlined in the contract that all your possessions, strength, achievements, and memories belong to the Tide and can be used in any way it so wishes even to take them all without permission. No permission is needed for anything and you agree to this by signing hence.

Fate

If Fate strikes and the highest ranks die and there is no longer any King or Captain, you agree to Die with the Tide and let the seas part away. You will take as many down with you as possible.

Sign away!
