Outperform the market based on value investment principles

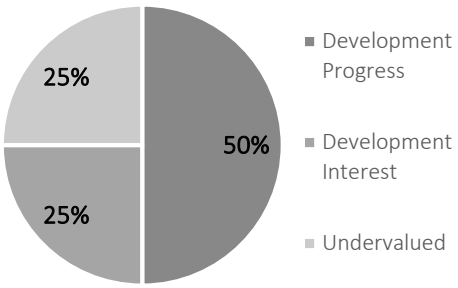

May 13 2018, Edition 2

Numerous cryptocurrencies are still in the early stages of technology development, and the possibilities for development are endless. Technological advances and investments in cryptocurrency are overwhelming. The security and convenience of cryptocurrency will increase the demand for more people.

But why would we hesitate to invest in cryptocurrency? Because it is difficult to know what will become the most promising cryptocurrency. It is also difficult to choose precisely what cryptocurrencies are being developed properly to avoid countless scam cases using cryptocurrency.

To solve these problems, DCbox (Developer's Cryptocurrency box) team was created. We will continue to update our most appropriate portfolio continuously in the following ways to ensure proper cryptocurrency selection and appropriate investment. Based on latest analysis, we have additionally developed the evaluation scores as follows.

1) Development Progress (50%): Based on the status of development in the latest four weeks, we have scored according to the order of the cryptocurrency that are actively developed.
2) Development Interest (25%): We scored the developers' interest in the development items being updated in the latest four weeks to reflect the appropriate weights for the interest.
3) Undervalued (25%): We scored the best undervalued by the difference from the market ranking against the current score.

The above scores are summed together to form the final investment portfolio of promising cryptocurrency. The combined score of these rankings is composed of the final portfolio, which has yielded a high rate of return compared to the bitcoin in many areas. This is because we make the most of the following value investment methods.

This portfolio is characterized by the regular review of the most important technical progress, and the evaluation of the scores for each individual by the developers themselves.
