Charlestown Olympics A Success

LITTLE TYKES, ages 6 to 9 get ready and set to run a foot race at the recent Charlestown Olympics sponsored by various Charlestown organizations and churches. The Olympics was coordinated by the Kent Community School.

Annual Tour Will Offer Hidden Gardens

Charlestown was once known as "The Garden City," and Gardens for Charlestown, the town's organization of community gardeners, would like to see it have that name again. On Saturday, September 11, from 10 to 4 p.m. (rain or shine) the group is sponsoring a tour of Charlestown gardens.

The work of their members can be seen every day not only at the community gardens at Sullivan Square and Hathon Square, but also in front of the post office and beside the Bunker Hill Museum. The tour will offer ticket holders an opportunity to view gardens not ordinarily visible, private gardens hidden from the street.

Tickets—$4 in advance and $5 on September 11—are on sale at Bunker Hill Florist (316 Main St.), Kerrigan Florist (223 Main St.) and Victorian Bouquet (53 Charles St., Beacon Hill), or may be obtained by sending check with self-addressed stamped envelope to:

Gardens for Charlestown
Box 44
Charlestown, MA. 02129

For groups of 20 or more there is a special advance ticket price of $3.50. On the day of the tour tickets will be on sale at Thompson Square, where free tour booklets will be distributed to all ticket holders.

Free coffee and fruit juice will be served at gardens along the tour, and the Bunker Hill Museum will be open from 2-5 p.m. for champagne and refreshments.

Bobby Orr To Highlight Life Focus Center Softball Benefit

Bobby Orr will be in town on September 9, leading the NHL All Stars Softball Team in their annual benefit game with the Townie All Stars. The game will be played at the Barry Playground (Oily) on Thursday night, September 9, at 7:00 p.m.

The proceeds of the game, and its accompanying raffle, will be used to help fund the programs for the Handicapped and Retarded at the Life Focus Center.

The Townie All Stars Team is chosen from the ten teams of the Charlestown Softball League under a selection process established by game organizers and Softball League officials.

Playing for Charlestown will be:

- $50.00 Club — Paul Moccia and Danny Castro
- Duffy Club — Jimmy Lynch and Joe Travis
- Townies — Billy Kelly and Charlie Foley

Tsongas Discusses North Area Project With Charlestown Residents

Senator Paul E. Tsongas paid a recent visit to Charlestown and toured the City Square area, the Navy Yard, and other points of interest. Tsongas also met with members of the Charlestown North Area Task Force and 15-20 local community leaders at the home of John Dziamba, 1 Prescott Street.

Tsongas has been supporting efforts to have the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) reverse its decision not to provide $140 million for the construction of tunnels under City Square. He came to the area to get a first hand overview of the type of development occurring in Charlestown and to meet with interested parties about the economic

Community Schools To Celebrate 10th Anniversary

The Boston Community School Program is 10 years old. To celebrate its progress and resilience, the Citywide Board of Boston Community Schools, in conjunction with the seventeen local neighborhood Community Schools Councils, will hold a 10th Anniversary Celebration at the rotunda at Boston City Hall on Friday evening, September 24th from 8:00 to 12:00 p.m. Tickets will be $7.50 each. A band, hors d'oeuvres and a cash bar will be offered.

Tickets are available from any member of the Kent/Charlestown Community Council and staff.

Further information can be obtained by calling the Community School Program daily after 2:00 p.m. at 242-2770.

"The Boston Community Schools Program has met with mixed success in the various Boston neighborhoods," stated Michael Griffin of the Kent/Charlestown. "The program's ability to survive a decade is testament to the commitment many community people have made to the enrichment of their neighborhood. Despite funding cutbacks, and regional reorganization, the Community School Program remains a vehicle by which the neighborhood can address the recreational, educational and social needs of its residents."

"Today, across the City of Boston, local Councils, the Kent/Charlestown among them, have taken a look at themselves and reassessed how they function, what their resources are, how they use them to support what kinds of programs. They have found that the resources they have relied upon in the past are not going to be the ones that will sustain a program designed to meet the neighborhood problems of the eighties. This represents a substantial challenge to each and every one of the seventeen councils responsible for programs in their neighborhoods and this anniversary celebration provides a good opportunity to say thank you to the past ten years and usher in the next."

"The thrust of this Anniversary Celebration is to demonstrate support for the Boston Community School Program. It is designed to bring to City Hall neighborhood residents who support the concept of neighborhood based, neighborhood controlled programming. Many representatives of private philanthropic organizations and the financial community will be invited to attend. These are the groups to whom local councils will be turning to gather the financial support necessary to maintain and expand their programming in the next few years. The Kent/Charlestown is currently very active in seeking these kinds of support. Last week the council received a grant from the Polaroid Foundation for $2,000, to repair and upgrade recreational equipment. A strong neighborhood gathering at City Hall on the 24th of September will demonstrate to foundations and corporations that our programs have substantial community support."

Tickets to the 10th Anniversary Celebration are now available from Monica Auch at 241-8209, Mary MacInnes at 241-8592, Margie Kent at 241-8887, Mary Parker at 242-1922 and Cindy Blaikie, Lori Barrett and Mazie Whelan. All ticket receipts will go toward the Boston Community School Program, its Citywide Board and local Council activities.

Disagrees With
"Rat Corner" Opinion

Letter to the Editor:

As a member of the Bunker Hill Irish Heritage Society, I think Paul Morceau's letter of August 19, 1982, titled "The Rat Corner", was in poor taste to say the least. Mr. Morceau's reference to the red-herring cartoon that appeared in the Boston Globe on July 27, 1982, showing a rat in a Irish hat labeled "The Leprechaun" as being "political" rather than insulting to the Irish race in general, makes me suspect his association with the Irish culture and history he claims to cherish and upheld as a peace-loving Irishman.

In my opinion, it appears from the title chosen to make his criticism, Mr. Morceau wanted to punish John Walsh rather than enlighten or encourage him as to the difference of opinions on the article that appeared in the "Irish Update" column of August 12, 1982, that really was an article from another Boston weekly, namely the Boston Irish Echo, (Aug. 7, 1982) that clearly stated the issue about the cartoon and how it was affecting the Boston Irish communities and organizations with strong Irish sentiments who thought that an apology was in order, and rightly so....!

Further, Mr. Morceau, your statement that the Globe has intimidated the Irish community was correct. I am of Irish descent and was upset by the inference made by the cartoonist. So I exercised my right and protested the malicious and deliberate contempt (sic) by the Boston Globe to defame my Irish heritage today or maybe another race or group tomorrow by indiscriminate news stories, photos or cartoons under the guise of news.

In conclusion, Mr. Morceau, because of your frustration for perfection in this world of editorial propaganda, by-law changes or constitutional trivia, maybe you should get together with your group of friends and form another organization that believe in silent protest, or the need to never say an unkind word whenever a protest or a crisis arrives.

The opinions stated in this letter are my own and I happen to be in a proud league where principle takes precedent over Mr. Morceau's theory that we're all caught up in the red-herring ballyho trap that divide us from those who support the IRA actions, and those peace-loving Irish men and women. The fact is, I think I can tell the difference between as insult and political baloney.

Bernie J. Kelly,
President of the B.H.I.H.S.

Dear members,
I feel that the REAL ISSUES relative to the recent controversy within the Irish Heritage Society are being obscured and distorted by the constant reference to the insulting, infamous "rat" cartoon published in the Boston Globe. The REAL ISSUES within the Society are:

1. Who authorized Bernie Kelly and John Walsh to proclaim that the Society had taken a "stand" on the issue?
2. Can the Society take a "stand", whether authorized or not, on an issue that can be argued to be political?

The answer to the first question is that Bernie Kelly and John Walsh have acted without the knowledge or approval of the Board of Directors. John Walsh's assertion that the Board had been notified is simply not true. Even if it were true how could it be that the Society's Board would be notified by Kevin Murphy of the Hibernians? Neither the Hibernians nor any other organization should be notifying the Board on any internal matter of the Society. I am also unaware of any way that the membership could have been consulted. Therefore, nobody authorized the Society's so-called "stand", taken by Bernie Kelly and John Walsh.

On the second question I will make four points about the circumstances surrounding the controversy and ask the membership to decide for themselves whether the issue is political or not.

1. The Boston Globe published a cartoon depicting a "rat" dressed in Leprechaun's clothing. The cartoon was drawn by a political cartoonist and placed on the editorial pages of the Globe.
2. A member of the Society objects to the so-called "stand" on the grounds that the cartoon is a political, propaganda ploy. The member has been active in Irish-American efforts on Irish politics.

3. The chairman of the AOH Political Education Committee writes the Patriot to state that the activity to protest the "Rat" cartoon is not political.

4. John Walsh referred to the demonstration on Morrissey Blvd. as a controversial cause.

The basis for the Bunker Hill Irish Heritage Society was that of a Charlestown based Irish society to promote Irish heritage and culture. It was agreed by the founders that the Society should be non-political in any manner so that members of other Irish organizations could join without the fear that their ideals would be compromised. There had already been in place, a Charlestown organization geared towards Irish politics and it was felt that we would not step on their toes if we, as an organization, refrained from politics. Many members of the Society belong to other Irish organizations that deal with politics, therefore the Society would be strictly a social organization. In fact anyone could join, whether Irish or not.

If Bernie and John were truly interested in supporting the effort at the Globe in the most effective manner possible they should have notified the Board with their intent. Then, even if the Board felt it would be improper to use the Society's name they could still act as individuals and encourage members to participate. I know that I, personally, would have liked to have been part of the protest if I had been informed of what was going on. Instead Bernie and John kept the Board and the membership in the dark so that nobody really understood what was going on.

I fell that Bernie and John by their actions have done a disservice to the Society and to those people who organized the protest.

Yours truly,
Dennis McLaughlin
1st Vice President
Bunker Hill
Irish Heritage Society

In Support Of North Area/
Central Artery Construction

Mr. Raymond A. Barnhart
U.S. Dept. of Transportation
Federal Hwy. Administration
Washington, D.C. 20590

Dear Mr. Barnhart:

For five years the people of Charlestown have expended time and money toward the realization of a project that not only would have rectified a history of poorly planned federal road construction in the area but from a more positive perspective would also have catalyzed the transformation of a depressed city into a thriving, vibrant community. Since the FHWA had declared the $140 million Central Artery North Area Project to be eligible for interstate funds in 1977, had authorized the expenditure of $2 million of these funds for an Environmental Impact Study, and had encouraged the replacement of the overhead structures by the City Square tunnel as the link between I-93 and the Mystic Bridge (knowing of the $100 million cost of the tunnel from the 1980, 1981, and 1982 Cost Estimates), the citizens of Charlestown had been led to believe that they would be working with the state and federal government to begin work on a safer and newly beautiful Charlestown.

To our consternation, the FHWA, based on a very questionable interpretation of the Federal Highway Act of 1981, has ruled that the tunnel is to be eliminated from the project.

It is to be recalled that Section 4B of the Act provides for "construction necessary to provide a minimum level of acceptable service on the Interstate System," "pavement design to accommodate the types and volumes of traffic anticipated for the 20-year period from date of authorization of initial basic construction contract," and "essential environmental requirements." The geometrically faulty S-turn on the Charlestown side of the Mystic Bridge is notorious as the most dangerous segment of interstate highway in Massachusetts if not in all of New England.

Since all of the over 25 competing design proposal concluded that only a tunnel could solve the problem, and since safeguarding the lives of pedestrians and motorists has always been considered a prerequisite for minimum acceptable service, building the tunnel is but the least we can do for the Interstate System in the North Area. Without FHWA funding, the project as originally envisioned has little or no chance of being completed. The idea of simply patching the new interchange ramps into the Mystic Bridge would be an inadequate afterthought and would require another costly EIS at the taxpayers' expense, of course.

Since Paul Revere's ride and the Battle of Bunker Hill, the citizens of Charlestown have served the nation. From 1800 to 1974, they build many of America's ships. Fifty thousand Charlestown workers labored several shifts per day during World War II to launch one ship per month. Charlestown has suffered for, as well as at the hands of, the national government. Let us at least right the wrong that is the rusty tangle of overhead highway that is choking off the vitality of a once prosperous community.

And if we do, there is every indication that the benefits will multiply through new investment in the area. The Charlestown North Area Task Force has estimated that completion of the entire project could attract $490 million in new investment, thereby generating jobs to mitigate the presently unacceptable unemployment rate in Charlestown (twice the national average) and expanding the tax base.

The alternative suggested by the current FHWA position, on the other hand, would leave the ugly overhead structures, as well as build new ramps over the B & M yards, and thus continue to cut Charlestown off from both a view of Boston and its historic, newly refurbished waterfront. Years of messy construction would bear so little tangible fruit that as much as $387 million of the projected new investment would be jeopardized.

The federal government has the power and the resources to galvanize an entire community behind a well-thought out plan for the future without having to impose sacrifices on other communities. On behalf of Charlestown, Boston, and Massachusetts, I urge you to give the entire project your approval.

Sincerely,
Paul E. Tsongas
United States Senator

When two "proud Townies," healthy, neat looking young men, late teens or so, walk along the sidewalk and open a brown bag and drop it on the sidewalk - open so the breeze can carry it along - then unwrap a sandwich and drop that paper too - in it's flattened expanse, and walk right over this with no consciousness of what they are doing. How in God's name can they call themselves "PROUD TOWNIES?"

I am not a "Townie" and have had nothing but bad impressions of the filth in the streets and on the sidewalks. Don't you parents care? You young people who should know better? Filthy, slovenly habits that are so disgusting! What an impression you make for the casual visitor or traveler through this historic old City. The original townspeople must be lying uneasy in their graves - no doubt also covered with your filth. They had pride. Why don't you people wake up!!! Clean up!!! Care a little about what YOUR Charlestown looks like. Then you can brag that you are "Proud Townies" without it being a lie!

Obviously, I dare not sign a name other than, Disgusted!

Macdonald Announces 5-Point Elderly Anti-Crime Program

Lloyd Macdonald, the Democratic candidate who is opposing Newman Flanagan for District Attorney of Suffolk County today announced a 5-point plan "aimed at making the District Attorney's Office a vital force in combatting crimes against the elderly."

The centerpiece of his plan, Macdonald said, "is the creation of a special career criminals division modelled on the Major Violators trial unit that Newman Flanagan disbanded which would single out the most violent offenders for swift and effective prosecution." Macdonald emphasized that "the fact of a victim's being elderly would be an aggravating factor serving to qualify the case for expedited treatment."

In addition, Macdonald, in proposing a white collar crime unit which would focus on consumer fraud and sophisticated swindles hit out at Flanagan's record in this area. "Without the District Attorney assuming a proactive role in the investigation and prosecution of such cases, the criminals who prey on the elderly are given a license to do so without fear of prosecution."

Macdonald's plan also included proposals for directly involving the District Attorney's office in elderly crime prevention; the advocacy of full compensation for the elderly crime victim; and

"the active concern on the part of the District Attorney's office to ensure for the proper treatment of elderly witnesses along with the careful preparation of them as witnesses for trial."

Macdonald emphasized that Newman Flanagan has failed to focus his attention on the significant increases in violent crime and burglary against the elderly in neighborhoods such as Dorchester, Brighton, Allston, the South End, and the Fenway.

"The exploitation of our elderly-oriented criminal cannot be tolerated by the District Attorney's Office. The revived Major Violators trial unit would deal with the problem.

Newman Flanagan has repeatedly said that he is interested in an office of prosecutors, not investigators. As anyone with experience in law enforcement well knows, unless a Chief Prosecutor's office is affirmatively involved as a partner in the investigation of a crime, that crime will go unsolved since the fear of detection and punishment is absent. By running an office that is structured in such a way as to be unable or disinterested in sustaining serious investigations of fraud against the elderly, the District Attorney sends a signal to those practicing it that they can carry on their schemes without fear of the District Attorney."

Macdonald emphasized that "our elderly must be allowed to again walk the streets of the very neighborhoods they helped to build."

Think About It.

Isn't it pathetic that Newman Flanagan's greatest victory in 3½ years was his election as head of a D.A.'s trade organization?

And doesn't it seem unbelievable that Flanagan still insists that "justice prevailed" in the Debbie Smith murder case?

And wouldn't you be embarrassed to call yourself "a man of convictions" given Flanagan's record of blown cases and incompetent administration?

Is it any wonder a Boston newspaper has described Flanagan's performance as "a disaster"?

If you think you deserve better. . . you're right!

DO IT RIGHT!

The Colonel may do chicken right but the Patriot does local news better. I've been associated with the Charlestown Patriot for some four years now and also write for a host of other papers but this is still my home base.

This has to be the tops in community newspapers and its independence has much to do with it. It remains a family-owned and operated journal that really covers Townie news whether its the uproar over the Kennedy Center, forced busing a few years back or the latest controversy surrounding the Bunker Hill Irish Heritage Society. Everyone gets their chance to tell it like it is. Much - NO - all of the credit goes to Gloria and Jim Conway who are the Patriot.

Many chained-owned neighborhood papers sometimes shy away from issues that are hot but the Patriot welcomes them. If you're reading this you already know that I urge you to spread the word to your neighbors who still don't purchase one. Help make the Patriot a household name in every household because an independent neighborhood newspaper is a premium nowadays!

LT. GOVERNOR'S RACE
Listening to all those radio commercials for lieutenant governor you'd swear the job was an important one. Talk about embellishment or hyperbole!

John Kerry tells listeners that he will make the position the second strongest elective office in the Commonwealth and that's pure hogwash! There is no power or authority in this office except that which the governor grants. Example Number One: Tom O'Neill. Dukakis gave him lots of authority: King none!

No one runs for lieutenant governor except as a stepping stone to higher office-Governor or U.S. Senator. but letting candidates build up the office they seek has become acceptable distortions or hyperbole. Lip service is paid the truth in most campaigns as to the power in the office sought. Someday, someone honest enough to admit it, will tell voters just how insignificant the "second strongest office" is and they'll win in a landslide!

SPEAKING OF...
Speaking of Lt. Governor... Evelyn Murphy's commercials relate the fact she was a business woman who has met a payroll and that is a good reason to vote for her...But her commercials don't give any details. After the recent Lakianism, I hope details bare out the commercial.

CENTRALIZED POWER
Ever see that those pushing centralized authority in government or business are usually at the center of power! The old golden rule. Those with the gold, make the rules!

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES
When are the Republicans going to start nominating candidates who sound like Republicans and represent Republican-type views...Lots of Republicans will be voting for Ed King because he takes more stands that are acceptable to Republican as well as Democrat and Independent voters!

CLARIFICATION
In my column last week, I urged Republican gubernatorial candidate John Lakian to withdraw from the race because of what I, personally, believe was an inadequate explanation of charges revealed by Globe reporter Walter Robinson who had been interviewing candidates for governor.

I waited to hear John Lakian rebut the charges but he actually didn't. Instead I heard an attack on the Boston Globe for deceiving its readership and trying to destroy his candidacy. As a reporter, I believe Robinson did a good job of investigative journalism.

However, I did not mean to imply by my article that I was speaking for the ward committee as a whole and apologize for making the implication. I only meant to say that I, as an active Republican, believe Mr. Lakian wasn't up front with either the electorate or his fellow Republicans. I regret that I threw my chairmanship title around when I just should have said Republican voter. I am sorry I confused the issue of where the ward committee stood. As of yet no official stand has been taken.

BOTTOM LINE
Together, we the people can make the difference if we keep on keeping on!

Tsongas Discusses North Area Project

development potential of City Square. In a recent letter to the Federal Highway Administration on this subject, the Senator wrote: "Members of the Charlestown North Area Task Force have estimated that initial investment in the area could run as high as $490 million. This is more than three times what the tunnel would cost! The number of jobs that would be created from this capital infusion, in effect, would offer a stable future for the residents of this community and enhance the City of Boston's investment potential."

Senator Tsongas has a number of people on his staff who work with local groups, community leaders and organizations to foster revitalization of older urban areas. He was accompanied on Friday by his aide Stephen Johnson who has been working with the Charlestown North Area Task Force and other interested parties on the City Square project.

Don Jackson of the Task Force supervised the Senator's tour of City Square, the Navy Yard and other areas of Charlestown. Bill Rizzo of the Executive Office of Transportation and Construction of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts was also present for the tour and meeting.

"We were pleased to have Senator Tsongas in Charlestown," said Don Jackson.

"It's comforting to know that he along with all our other governmental officials are really behind us in this endeavor."

Senator Tsongas pointed out that "the revitalization of urban areas is something to which I have devoted a lot of time and effort during my public life. Charlestown is one of Boston's most historic neighborhoods. I welcome the opportunity to meet with area residents who share this interest with me and I'm happy to help in any way possible." He encouraged the people at the meeting to continue to work with Johnson of his staff and pledged to continue efforts to have the Federal Highway Administration decision reversed.

Law Requires Seat Belt For Children

Ms. Suzanne Palma, Harbor Area Director at the Harbor Area Office of the Massachusetts Department of Social Services, wants to inform area residents of a new State Child Passenger Safety Law, effective January 1982, which states that "all children under the age of five must be fastened in a properly adjusted car seat or seat belt" when traveling as passengers in cars.

In compliance with this law and in an effort to promote awareness of child car-safety, DSS has purchased 121 child passenger car restraints. These restraints will be used by the Department

Social Workers and will ensure that all children transported under the auspices of DSS will be transported safely.

Help Raise Money For Easter Seal

Two Charlestown softball teams helped raise money for physically disabled children and adults at the Greater Boston WCOZ/Easter Seal Softball Marathon held recently. A record breaking $89,000 was raised for the Easter Seal Society's programs and services in the area.

In the Northeast Region, games were played at Linden Park in Malden involving some 38 teams which raised a total of $8,700 for Easter Seal programs locally. The top money raising team playing Linden Park was New England Tea and Coffee of Malden which raised $544 under manager John Kaloyanides. Other "500 Club" money raising teams included Bayside Association of Boston with $510, G.E.'s "Who Cares" team of the G.E. Good Neighbor Fund with $500, and Moran's Marauders of Charlestown with $500. Moran's is a division of Massport-Maritime.

Close and exciting games were played all day during the two-day marathon with men's, women's and co-ed teams competing for the winners' trophies.

Sunday's activity was just as hot and heavy with games all day until 8:00 p.m. Among the participants were the Charlestown Townies, coached by Officer Bill Connell of WHDH.

Managers whose teams raise $500 or more qualify for drawings for many prizes including a weekend for two at the Kelley House on Martha's Vineyard, dinner for two at Boston's Hampshire House, City Side Restaurant, and Brown's Steak House in Brookline, among others.

Community Center Schedule

Now that the summer session is coming to an end, it's time to think about things that we probably neglected over the past few months, such as diet and exercise. On Thursday nights beginning September 16, Diet Workshop is making it's comeback to Charlestown. Registration and Weigh-in will be at 7:00 p.m. and the lecture will follow.

Many other classes are in the planning stages: Bazaar crafts taught by Linda Masse, who's been active in this field for years through her involvement with the Muscular Dystrophy Carnival and other community events; prenatal and newborn care classes; and others.

Dates To Remember:

- Sunday, September 26th - 10:00 a.m. - Apple Picking Trip

TOUGHLOVE

If you feel helpless and unable to cope with your teenagers' behavior or if you feel victimized by them, disappointed in yourself as a parent, guilty because you think you have done a rotten job and are frightened by the potential for violence in yourself and your children, then you need the help and support of "Toughlove," a self-help program for parents troubled by teenage behavior.

Now in its fifth year, this effective organization was founded by family counselors Phyllis and David York of Pennsylvania, and is based on the following ten beliefs:

1. Family problems have roots and supports in the culture.
2. Parents are people too. (Don't you just love that one?)
3. Parents' material and emotional resources are limited.
4. Parents and kids are not equal.
5. Blaming keeps people helpless.
6. Kids' behavior affects parents; parents' behavior affects kids.
7. Taking a stand precipitates a crisis.
8. From controlled crisis comes positive change.
9. Families need to give and get support in their own community in order to make change, and;
10. The essence of family life is cooperation and consideration, not togetherness.

Perhaps you've seen their emblem (a clenched fist, interlacing a heart) and wondered what it was, or perhaps you know because you've read of their success in Family Circle magazine and/or the Ann Landers column...but do you know that they have over 150 branches throughout the U.S.A., with 20 to 50 participants in each? Too, the parent organization has a manual available (at minimal cost) entitled "TOUGHLOVE: Self-Help Manual for Parents Troubled by Teenage Behavior." To obtain a copy, write for further information to TOUGHLOVE, Community service Foundation, P.O. Box 70, Sellersville, Pa., 18960, or call (215) 766-8022.

It is heartening to know that the very real and very serious problems which have developed among our young in this era of "anything goes," or "if it feels good, do it," (coupled with the drinking-drug culture, and the rampant promiscuity and violence portrayed in all forms of the media) are being addressed...through parents and the family unit, and in such a positive way.

Please consider heeding the following words from the Yorks, who said, "We realize it is difficult for you to reach out at a time like this, but we have seen the lives of many who join a TOUGHLOVE parent support group change dramatically. Take a risk and come to a parent group so you can judge for yourself."

Amends Condo Conversion Law

Mayor Kevin H. White has signed an ordinance amending the City's condominium conversion law to allow more tenants to come under its protective wing. The ordinance expands the definition of housing accommodations subject to the notice provisions to include buildings which were converted from a non-housing use to housing or substantially rehabilitated after January 1, 1982.

The ordinance, passed by the City Council on August 11, directly addresses the problem of tenants of a building at 479, 481-483 Beacon Street, who had allegedly been told by the owner they must vacate the premises by August 31 to make room for a conversion from rental apartments to condominiums.

Now, under the new ordinance, these tenants will be given the same protection as tenants who had come under the previous condo-conversion law. This protection mandates a minimum one-year eviction notice, and longer notices to tenants in special categories, such as low income, elderly and

WHAT IS HUMANISM?????

We are asked that question as often as any other, and now a publishing house in Minneapolis, Minnesota has made available a pamphlet entitled "What is Humanism? And How You Can Help Your Child." It's our back-to-school "freebie" special, and we'll gladly send a copy along to all those providing a small, self-addressed, stamped envelope to S.T.O.P., P.O. Box 133, So. Boston, Mass. 02127-0133.

ATOMIC AGE ADVICE...

Periodicals we peruse from the West Coast and the Midwest often print information regarding the U.S. Warning System, particularly the differences between siren messages for emergency situations. Nuclear freeze or not, "to be forewarned is to be forearmed," so we print it here for the first (but probably not the last) time:

"A wavering tone of 3 to 5 minutes - attack against the country has been detected - take protective action immediately.

A steady tone for 3 to 5 minutes - TORNADO or other non-attack alert - take protective action.

An alternating high-low tone for 3-5 minutes. Turn on television or radio for an emergency message or announcement, and;

Tenants of the Beacon Street building, owned by Hamilton Realty, had not been eligible for this protection previously because the building had originally been commercial property and was later converted to residential use.

The ordinance originally was sent from the Council to the Mayor with technical defects in it. The Mayor vetoed that ordinance and assigned staff members to work with Council representatives to perfect the ordinance, which he signed late Friday.

Appointed Legal Services Director

R. Peter Anderson formerly of Charlestown, has been appointed Executive Director of Greater Boston Legal Services, according to a recent announcement issued by William B. Tyler, President of the non-profit legal services organization which provides assistance to low-income people in the Boston area.

Anderson, previously an Associate Director of GBLS, has been with GBLS and related Boston-area programs since 1969, except for a two-year research fellowship with the Legal Services Corporation in Washington from 1977 to 1979. A summa cum laude graduate of Oberlin College, he received his LL.B from Yale Law School in 1969.

"The Post of Executive Director of GBLS poses a particular challenge in these times of diminishing resources for both legal services programs and their clients," said Tyler.

"We interviewed many superb applicants from all over the country, and were delighted to find that, in Peter, we had within our own organization an individual with just the combination of relevant experience and skills needed to do the job with great effectiveness."

Anderson succeeds William J. McNally, who resigned in June to assume the post of Executive Director of the Ireland Fund, a non-profit organization supporting projects of peace, culture and charity in the Republic of Ireland.

Anderson lives in Newton with his wife and three children.

BHCC To Participate In Unique Welfare Program

In an effort to make welfare recipients self supporting, The Board of Regents announced today that Bunker Hill Community College and the State Department of Public Welfare will provide a unique education program free to qualifying adults.

State run community colleges across the Commonwealth will participate in the program, and are offering two free courses to adults on welfare who have either a full or part-time job. "The idea," explained John B. Duff, Chancellor of Massachusetts Higher Education, "is to get people off the Welfare rolls and into jobs that are responsible, satisfying and productive."

Studies clearly demonstrate, he said, that citizens who have attended college rarely apply for welfare. "This program is also a very definite effort on the part of state government to introduce adults to higher education," Duff continued. "I think it also demonstrates the commitment public higher education has in Massachusetts to educate and train as many people as possible for gainful employment," he said.

As a result of a $1 million grant from the Department of Public Welfare, qualifying individuals will be free to select courses in basic skills, vocational training and post-secondary education. Advisors, an integral part of the program, will help participants to make the right decisions, Chancellor Duff said.

Individuals who believe they may be eligible for the special program are urged to apply to the Work and Training Program, at the Department of Public Welfare immediately.

Part of the grant money will be utilized to pay salaries of special advisors. "These advisors," said Duff, "are a prerequisite of the program," Chancellor Duff explained. "As the program gets underway we will also be determining exactly what the needs of these people are, and once identified we will offer courses that are relevant to their lives," he concluded.

arts college for women, and Honeywell in Waltham cooperated to develop and run the program.

Carey is a program manager for poverty programs in Boston. He is looking for a career change because "federal cutbacks are reducing, and in some cases eliminating the poverty programs I manage."

The computer training program is partially funded by the Bay State Skills Corporation (BSSC), an organization created by the Massachusetts Legislature in 1981, with an original budget of $3 million. The BSSC's objective is to determine which occupations are in high demand and to encourage the development of training programs in those areas. This encouragement takes the form of grants to educational and training institutions. Under the conditions of the grant, a private corporation must match the funds, this creating a relationship between the educational institution and the private company.

This is the second year that BSSC has awarded a grant to Regis College for the computer programming course, and that Honeywell has matched the grant. Regis administers the program, and Honeywell provides trained personnel to conduct classes and workshops and also provides equipment for hands-on experience.

Thirty-five students are enrolled in this year's course — an introduction to the programming language COBOL (Common

Views On Dental Health

by Jeffrey D. Cohen, D.M.D.

DENTURES - HANDLE WITH CARE

When is the most dangerous time in the life of dentures (sometimes called false teeth - but not by dentists)? The most dangerous period is when your dentures are out of your mouth!

Dentures should be handled carefully when they're out of your mouth. Dropping them even a few inches into a washbowl can break them. Hold your dentures over a towel or a basin half-filled with water. Then, should they slip from your hand, there will be a cushion to help prevent damage.

When dentures are out of your mouth for any length of time, they should be placed in water or a cleansing solution. If they become dry, they can warp. Dentures should NEVER be placed in hot water. Hot water can warp the plastic.

If your denture does break, do not try to put it together yourself. Solvents found in some glues can damage denture plastics and irritate your mouth. It is almost impossible to precisely align broken parts. If you try, the denture will fit poorly and be useless or, even worse, harmful. Go directly to your dentist for repair.

A public service to promote better dental health. From the office of Jeffrey D. Cohen, D.M.D., 338 Main Street, 242-3550.

Business-Oriented Language)—which runs from April 5 through November 12. Students spend five hours a week in a classroom at Regis and two hours in a workshop at Honeywell. By the end of the course the students are prepared for entry-level data-processing positions. Because Bay State Skills and Honeywell underwrite the program, tuition is a nominal $150.

The program also tries to place as many students as possible in internships, which give the students exposure to the field while they are still in class. Any corporations that are interested in an intern from the program should contact Regis College, said Project Director Jenifer

Lippincott.

Bay State Skills hopes the Regis/Honeywell Program will serve as a model for similar cooperative efforts. George Kariotis, Massachusetts secretary of economic affairs and chairman of BSSC said, "The Regis/Honeywell Program is one of the best examples I have seen of how the public and private sectors can work together for economic development." A total of 88 companies have worked with the Bay State Skills Corporation, training 1354 people. Currently, $3.7 million is available to develop new training, according to Kariotis.

Besides the course work the program includes a career development segment. Four 3-hour workshops help the students in the areas of resume writing, interview techniques, individual skill assessment, goal-setting and career transition issues.

Although completion of the program does not guarantee the student a job, many of the students from last year's program are now working in technical positions. Of the 20 graduates in the first advanced class, 14 sought careers in data processing and 13 found them.

Al Atkinson, director of internal systems and services at Honeywell, is pleased with the Regis/Honeywell relationship. "Graduates of this program have added computer skills to their humanities backgrounds. This combination gives them tremendous potential in today's job market," he said.

There are several good reasons to vote for RICHARD L. WALSH for Clerk of the Supreme Judicial Court for Suffolk County:

- His outstanding record as a state legislator
- His reputation for honesty and integrity
- His education at Boston College and Boston College Law School
- His commitment to a change in our court system.

But if you need one more reason, just ask John E. Powers the present clerk:

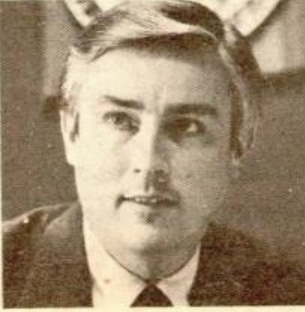

"Powers using his political abacus, recently figured out that his pension will equal his salary because of longevity if the voters force his retirement 'I AM GOING TO WIN EVEN IF I LOSE,' said Powers." (Boston Sunday Globe, July, 1982)
