1 NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION

2 PLEASE TAKE NOTICE THAT, on September 30, 2021 at 1:30 p.m., Defendant 3 Facebook, Inc. will and hereby does move this Court pursuant to Civil Local Rule 11-4 and the 4 Court’s inherent authority, for an order disqualifying Warren Postman and Keller Lenkner, LLC, 5 counsel to Plaintiffs, from this action due to a conflict of interest that violates the California Rules 6 of Professional Conduct. This Motion is based upon this Notice of Motion, the Memorandum of 7 Points and Authorities filed herewith, and the Declarations of Aaron Panner and Sonal Mehta filed 8 herewith along with their accompanying exhibits.¹

9 ISSUE PRESENTED

10 Whether Keller Lenkner is disqualified from representing the named plaintiffs and putative 11 class because it hired and failed to timely screen a lawyer who had spent more than 800 hours over 12 the prior six months directly representing Facebook in government antitrust investigations and 13 preparing for subsequent litigation involving substantially the same legal and factual questions 14 raised by the Consolidated Class Action Complaint (“CAC”), Dkt. 87, and did not promptly notify 15 Facebook of this conflict.

16 MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

17 INTRODUCTION

18 In June 2020, Keller Lenkner hired a lawyer who had just spent six months and more than 19 800 hours representing Facebook in government antitrust investigations and in preparation for 20 litigation involving the same course of conduct and many of the same legal theories alleged in this 21 case. Those investigations resulted in two antitrust actions being filed in the U.S. District Court 22 for the District of Columbia, which present many of the same legal questions and factual
23 allegations as the consolidated complaint now pending before this Court—indeed, Keller Lenkner 24 has acknowledged that the government plaintiffs “assert virtually identical theories of harm to 25 competition” as the private plaintiffs do here. Klein Plaintiffs’ Response to Competing 26

27 ¹ Although the hearing on this motion is currently set for September 30, 2021, Facebook 28 respectfully requests that this motion be heard and decided at the earliest time convenient to the Court given the nature of the motion and requested relief.

1 Application for Appointment as Interim Co-Lead User Class Counsel, Dkt. 62 at 8 n.5 (“Keller
2 Lenkner Resp.”). The lawyer Keller Lenkner brought on was deeply involved in the government
3 cases: he wrote legal memoranda for Facebook, responded to a civil investigative demand, worked 4 with Facebook’s experts, and was frequently entrusted with Facebook’s confidential and 5 privileged information including through participation in interviews with potential Facebook 6 employee witnesses and meetings with in-house counsel. Unsurprisingly, then, the lawyer told 7 Warren Postman—the partner leading Keller Lenkner’s own antitrust investigation into 8 Facebook—about his extensive work representing the company the day after starting at the firm.

9 Notwithstanding the obvious conflict of interest created by an attorney switching sides in 10 the middle of these closely related matters, Keller Lenkner did not screen the Facebook lawyer it 11 hired from Keller Lenkner’s investigation of Facebook until November 11, 2020—more than four 12 months after learning of the conflict. And despite being required by the California Rules of 13 Professional Conduct to promptly notify Facebook of that (incurable) conflict, Keller Lenkner 14 failed to do so, acknowledging the conflict for the first time on March 19, 2021. Further, during 15 the lead counsel selection hearing, Keller Lenkner overstated what it had done to address the 16 conflict, falsely asserting that the firm had “promptly screened this lawyer upon his arrival at the 17 firm.” Interim Class Counsel Hearing Tr. 10:4 (March 18, 2021) (“Hr’g Tr.”) (emphasis added).

18 Because of this clear and significant violation of the Rules of Professional Conduct, 19 Facebook asked Keller Lenkner to withdraw from its conflicted representation. Keller Lenkner 20 refused. Thus, Facebook has no choice but to seek disqualification. Under California’s Rules, 21 which govern Keller Lenkner’s conduct here, disqualification is mandatory in a case like this one, 22 where a lawyer has changed sides in substantially related matters after obtaining a client’s 23 confidential and privileged information through substantial work in the first representation. See 24 Flatt v. Superior Court, 885 P.2d 950, 954-55 (Cal. 1994). Nothing less safeguards the duties of 25 confidentiality and loyalty lawyers owe to their clients, both present and past. Facebook can never 26 know which of the firm’s actions are tainted by that ethical violation, which is precisely the state 27 of ongoing uncertainty the duties attorneys owe their clients are intended to prevent. These 28 concerns are exacerbated because Mr. Postman and Keller Lenkner have played fast and loose

1 with this same ethics rule before—having recently been disqualified in another antitrust litigation 2 in this district. As a result of their prior experience, they were or should have been well aware of 3 their ethical obligations. They chose to ignore them. This Court should not.

4 BACKGROUND

5 A. Keller Lenkner Hired A Lawyer Who Previously Represented Facebook In A 6 Matter Concerning The Same Legal And Factual Issues As This Case.

7 On December 9, 2020, the Federal Trade Commission and a group of state attorneys 8 general filed complaints in federal court asserting that Facebook violated the Sherman Act. See 9 FTC v. Facebook, Inc., No. 1:20-cv-03590-JEB (D.D.C.) (hereinafter, “FTC Case”); New York v.
 10 Facebook, Inc., No. 1:20-cv-03589-JEB (D.D.C.) (hereinafter, “State AG Case”). The 11 government plaintiffs allege that Facebook has unlawfully sought to maintain a monopoly over 12 the “personal social networking” market through its acquisitions of Instagram and WhatsApp, 13 among other companies. See, e.g., FTC Compl. ¶¶ 170-72 (FTC Case, Dkt. 51); State AG Compl.
 14 ¶¶ 257-62 (State AG Case, Dkt. 70). The private plaintiffs who are before this Court assert 15 substantially the same theory, alleging that Facebook unlawfully maintained a monopoly in 16 similarly defined social networking and media markets by, among other things, acquiring 17 Instagram and WhatsApp. Compare, e.g., CAC ¶¶ 55-229, with FTC Compl. ¶¶ 6-160, and State
 18 AG Compl. ¶¶ 26-255. As Keller Lenkner previously explained to this Court, the FTC and States 19 “assert virtually identical theories of harm to competition” as the private plaintiffs do here. See 20 Keller Lenkner Resp. at 8 n.5. Because of the substantial overlap between the government cases 21 and the private antitrust litigation, the FTC and States have filed related case notices for nearly all 22 of the actions now consolidated before this Court.²

23 Facebook’s lead counsel in the government antitrust litigation is Kellogg, Hansen, Todd, 24 Figel & Frederick (“Kellogg Hansen”).³ Kellogg Hansen also represented Facebook during the 25 investigations that preceded the filing of the complaints. One of the Kellogg Hansen attorneys

26
 27 ² See FTC Case, Dkts. 4, 10, 28, 31, 44, 45, 52, 53, 54, 55, 57, 58, 60; State AG Case, Dkts. 5, 9, 14, 56, 85, 86, 109, 110, 116.

28 ³ Prior to 2017, the firm was named Kellogg, Huber, Hansen, Todd, Evans & Figel.

1 who worked on those investigations is Albert Pak. Mr. Pak was an associate at Kellogg Hansen 2 until June 26, 2020. Panner Decl. ¶ 9.⁴ Beginning in December 2019, he was a core member of 3 the Kellogg Hansen team handling the FTC’s and States’ antitrust investigations of Facebook and 4 preparing to litigate if, as happened, lawsuits ultimately occurred. Id. ¶¶ 4-8. Between December 5 11, 2019 and June 24, 2020, for example, he billed 824.5 hours to these matters. Id. ¶ 8. That 6 represented approximately three-quarters of the time he billed over this period. Id. He was 7 involved in many discussions about Facebook’s legal strategy, including with Facebook’s in-house
8 counsel; interacted directly with Facebook’s in-house counsel during those strategy sessions; wrote 9 legal memoranda concerning issues of potential relevance to Facebook’s defense; participated in 10 fact gathering for witness interviews of witnesses who were deposed during the government 11 investigations; analyzed and reviewed document productions; helped Facebook respond to one of 12 the FTC’s civil investigative demands; and was privy to regular communications about strategy
13 directly from Mark Hansen, lead trial counsel, and other senior in-house and outside counsel 14 lawyers developing Facebook’s defense. Id. ¶¶ 5-7. Notably, Mr. Pak also helped a Kellogg 15 Hansen partner lead the firm’s work with consulting and potential testifying experts, through 16 which he became privy to all of the expert teams’ pending projects and discussions among counsel 17 and expert teams regarding defense strategy. Id. ¶ 6. As a result of this significant involvement 18 while at Kellogg Hansen, Mr. Pak learned Facebook’s confidential and privileged information, 19 and its strategy in the event of litigation. Id. ¶ 7. Indeed, a substantial portion of his work consisted 20 of gathering and analyzing that sensitive information so that Facebook could decide how to 21 respond to the government investigators and prepare for subsequent litigation. Id. ¶¶ 4-7.

22 B. Keller Lenkner Learned Of The Conflict In June 2020 But Did Nothing

23 After working more than 800 hours in six months representing Facebook, Mr. Pak left 24 Kellogg Hansen on June 26, 2020. Panner Decl. ¶¶ 8-9. He joined Keller Lenkner just three days 25 later, on June 29, 2020. Mehta Decl., Ex. C (Email from Warren Postman to Sonal Mehta (Apr.
26 7, 2021)). According to Warren Postman, the lead Keller Lenkner partner on the private antitrust 27

28 ⁴ Facebook does not intend to waive its privilege in filing this motion.

1 case, Mr. Pak told Mr. Postman on June 30, 2020 that he had previously represented Facebook and 2 worked on the government antitrust investigations while at Kellogg Hansen. Id. On July 1, 2020, 3 Mr. Pak also disclosed his work on the Facebook antitrust investigations to the firm as part of a 4 conflicts check. Id. At the time, Keller Lenkner was in the midst of its own antitrust investigation
5 into Facebook—led by Mr. Postman. As Mr. Postman told this Court in March 2021, “[w]e’ve 6 spent months and years thinking not about the high-level fact that an antitrust case could exist 7 against Facebook, but the real nitty gritty. I’ve spent many late nights working on the complaint, 8 the memos and before the cases.” Hr’g Tr. at 48:4-8 (emphasis added); see also id. at 47:19-20 9 (“Keller Lenkner worked to develop this case independently from Quinn Emanuel.”); Klein
10 Plaintiffs’ Application to Appoint Quinn Emanuel Urquhart & Sullivan, LLP and Keller Lenkner 11 LLC as Interim Co-Lead Counsel for the User Class, Dkt. 55 at 4-5, 7 (describing the 12 “extraordinary time and resources” the firm spent “identifying, investigating and developing the 13 antitrust theories central to the User Class’s claims” and Keller Lenkner’s “substantial pre-filing 14 investigation” that “commenced . . . two years ago”).

15 Keller Lenkner did not notify Facebook that it had hired one of the company’s lawyers 16 after it hired Mr. Pak. Instead, the firm kept the existence of the conflict to itself. Facebook was 17 not aware that Keller Lenkner was involved in an antitrust investigation of the company until the 18 firm filed its initial complaint in Klein on December 3, 2020. Keller Lenkner then remained silent 19 for months about the conflict and what steps, if any, the firm had taken to address it, even as Keller
20 Lenkner litigated motions to relate later-filed cases, see, e.g., Dkts. 17, 24, 34, filed an application 21 to be appointed lead counsel that touted the firm’s extensive investigation of Facebook, Dkt. 55, 22 and filed an opposition to another such application, Dkt. 62. It was only in March 2021 that Keller 23 Lenkner finally acknowledged the ethical problem and revealed the (inadequate) steps the firm 24 had taken to address it, doing so after Facebook raised the conflict of interest at the hearing on 25 appointment of interim class counsel. Hr’g Tr. at 7:25-9:22. In response, Mr. Postman represented 26 to the Court—wrongly—that Keller Lenkner had “promptly screened [Mr. Pak] upon his arrival 27 at the firm.” See id. at 10:1-4 (emphasis added). Mr. Postman also stated that he would be “happy 28 to provide details” of the “robust screens” Keller Lenkner had in place. Id. at 10:6-7.

1 The following day Mr. Postman emailed Facebook’s counsel in the private cases with new 2 details regarding Mr. Pak’s employment and the conflict of interest. He described Keller 3 Lenkner’s general policies regarding screens and again wrongly asserted that Facebook’s former 4 counsel, Mr. Pak, had been “promptly screened.” Mehta Decl., Ex. A (Email from Warren 5 Postman to Sonal Mehta (Mar. 19, 2021)). Mr. Postman admitted, however, that the screen was 6 not put in place until November 11, 2021. Id. Mr. Postman also attempted to qualify his prior 7 representations to the Court about the length and scope of Keller Lenkner’s investigation of 8 Facebook. He said that as of November 11, his firm “had not been retained by any client adverse 9 to Facebook; Quinn Emanuel and [Keller Lenkner] had not yet agreed to co-counsel on, or file any 10 case against, Facebook, and no [Keller Lenkner] lawyer had yet worked on any draft of the Klein 11 complaint.” Id. Contradicting what he had told the Court, Mr. Postman offered that it was “[o]nly 12 after the screening procedures were put in place” that Keller Lenkner had “agree[d] to join Quinn 13 Emanuel in pursuing claims against Facebook and begin working on a draft complaint.” Id.

14 Facebook then sought to clarify several of Mr. Postman’s representations by sending him 15 a detailed set of follow-up questions. See Mehta Decl., Ex. B (Email from Sonal Mehta to Warren 16 Postman (Mar. 30, 2021)). Mr. Postman responded on April 7, 2021. Mehta Decl., Ex. C. In this 17 second email, Mr. Postman confirmed that Mr. Pak had worked at Keller Lenkner for more than 18 four months prior to the imposition of an ethical screen, despite Mr. Pak having told the firm of 19 the potential conflict immediately after he started work. Id. Mr. Postman next admitted that the 20 first notice provided to Facebook of the potential conflict was his March 19, 2021 email to the 21 company’s counsel. Id. Mr. Postman’s story then shifted again: he explained that he had in fact 22 led a team “consider[ing] the potential matter against Facebook” prior to the imposition of the 23 ethical screen, including “investigating and analyzing the claims in this case [beginning] in August 24 of 2020,” though he averred to having “instructed” those lawyers “not to discuss the potential 25 action or claims with Mr. Pak,” and to having “instructed Mr. Pak not to discuss any potential 26 action or claims against Facebook with anyone at the firm.” Id. Mr. Postman did not say how or 27 when the supposed instructions were given, yet insisted that no “attorney or staff member has ever 28 discussed the substance of the claims” against Facebook with its former counsel. Id. He also noted

1 that at least three of the then six members of Keller Lenkner’s partnership had communicated about 2 the Facebook investigation, but he said those emails were stored only “locally” and were not 3 accessible to Mr. Pak. Id. And while an (unspecified) “file relating to this case was saved” on 4 Keller Lenkner’s “cloud-based document management system,” apparently without any 5 restrictions on who could access it, he asserted that the firm’s “records confirm that Mr. Pak never 6 accessed it.” Id.

7 Mr. Postman’s second email also tried to further walk back his earlier statements to the 8 Court regarding Keller Lenkner’s substantial investigatory efforts. He suggested that when he told 9 the Court about “months and years” of work, he was referring “to the combined efforts of Keller 10 Lenkner and Quinn Emanuel, and the fact that Quinn Emanuel began investigating the claims at 11 issue in this case in 2019,” whereas Keller Lenkner’s independent efforts began in earnest only in 12 August 2020—still three months before the screen of Mr. Pak was put into place. See id. (emphasis 13 omitted); see also id. (noting that Mr. Postman “speak[s] with” Steve Swedlow, the lead Quinn 14 partner on this matter, “regularly” but that Mr. Postman “first spoke with Quinn Emanuel regarding 15 a potential antitrust case against Facebook and the possibility of partnering on such a case on 16 October 14, 2020”). But even then, Mr. Postman did not attempt to square this revised 17 chronology—which still put discussions with Quinn Emanuel concerning the private antitrust 18 action nearly a month before the imposition of the screen—with his representation to the Court 19 that “Keller Lenkner worked to develop this case independently from Quinn Emanuel” and only 20 “once we had in our minds the theories worked through” did they “reach[] out.” Hr’g Tr. at 47:19-21 23.

22 C. Keller Lenkner Has Been Disqualified For Similar Misconduct

23 Facebook’s concerns regarding the conflict of interest were deepened by virtue of the fact 24 that Mr. Postman and his firm were recently disqualified in another antitrust litigation in this 25 district because of a prior representation. In Diva Limousine, Ltd. v. Uber Technologies, Inc., Mr.
26 Postman and Keller Lenkner sought to represent a putative class against Uber. Mr. Postman was 27 previously counsel at the U.S. Chamber of Commerce Litigation Center. There, he had worked 28 with Uber on litigation involving similar questions and obtained the company’s confidential

1 information. Diva Limousine, 2019 WL 144589, at *9-*12 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 9, 2019). Uber moved 2 to disqualify Keller Lenkner based on that prior representation. Judge Chen granted the motion.
 3 He concluded that Mr. Postman’s work on the prior case and the one at bar were “substantially 4 related,” “support[ing] a rational conclusion that he obtained confidential information in the course 5 of that [prior] relationship that is material to his current representation of [the putative class] in the 6 instant action against [Uber].” Id. at *12.⁵ That meant that “disqualification of [his] representation
 7 of [the plaintiff] is mandatory; indeed, the disqualification extends vicariously to the entire [Keller
 8 Lenkner] firm.” Id. at *13.⁶

9 D. Keller Lenkner Refused To Withdraw Voluntarily

10 After Keller Lenkner confirmed that it currently employs and failed to timely screen one 11 of Facebook’s former attorneys, who obtained Facebook’s confidential and privileged information 12 during his representation of the company, Facebook asked Keller Lenkner to withdraw from this 13 case. Mehta Decl., Ex. D (Letter from Sonal Mehta to Warren Postman (May 4, 2021)). Mr.
 14 Postman’s response raised—once more—questions about the adequacy of Keller Lenkner’s 15 conflicts check and supposed preventive measures. He acknowledged that Mr. Pak’s employment 16 potentially created an ethical conflict that could not be cured through the use of even a timely 17 ethical screen. Mehta Decl, Ex. E (Letter from Warren Postman to Sonal Mehta (May 5, 2021)).
 18 But Mr. Postman stated (by now nearly a year after Mr. Pak started working at Keller Lenkner)
 19 that the firm needed to know more about Mr. Pak’s involvement in the government antitrust 20 investigations to determine whether Keller Lenkner had in fact violated its ethical obligations. Id.
 21 On May 6, 2021, Mr. Postman’s partners and Facebook’s counsel then met and conferred to discuss 22 Mr. Postman’s questions and whether Keller Lenkner would withdraw. Mehta Decl. ¶ 8. Keller

26 ⁶ Despite the mandatory language of the California rules, the Court went on to consider whether it 27 was “appropriate to order disqualification, taking into account, inter alia, equitable 28 considerations.” Diva Limousine, Ltd. v. Uber Techs., Inc., 2019 WL 144589, at *13 (N.D. Cal.
 Jan. 9, 2019). But it found no “basis in equity to deny the disqualification motion,” given the “untenable conflict” created by Mr. Postman’s past work. Id.

1 Lenker confirmed that the parties were at an impasse on whether disqualification is warranted, and 2 Facebook filed this motion.

3 LEGAL STANDARD

4 Attorneys practicing in the Northern District of California are bound by “the standards of 5 professional conduct required of members of the State Bar of California.” See Local Rule 11-6 4(a)(1). Courts in this district thus “apply state law in determining matters of disqualification.” In 8 *3. Rule 1.9(a) of the California Rules of Professional Conduct provides that “[a] lawyer who 9 has formerly represented a client in a matter shall not thereafter represent another person in the 10 same or a substantially related matter in which that person’s interests are materially adverse to the 11 interests of the former client unless the former client gives informed written consent.”⁷ As relevant 12 here, California Rule of Professional Conduct 1.10(a) provides that “[w]hile lawyers are associated 13 in a firm, none of them shall knowingly represent a client when any one of them practicing alone 14 would be prohibited from doing so by [Rule] 1.9.” A limited exception to this rule is set forth in 15 Rule 1.10(a)(2), which provides that there is no bar to representation when:

16 [T]he prohibition is based upon rule 1.9(a) . . . and arises out of the prohibited 17 lawyer’s association with a prior firm, and 18 (i) the prohibited lawyer did not substantially participate in the same or a 19 substantially related matter;

20 (ii) the prohibited lawyer is timely screened from any participation in the matter 21 and is apportioned no part of the fee therefrom; and 22 (iii) written notice is promptly given to any affected former client to enable the 23 former client to ascertain compliance with the provisions of this rule, which 24 shall include a description of the screening procedures employed; and an 25 agreement by the firm to respond promptly to any written inquiries or objections 26 by the former client about the screening procedures.

27 ⁷ A matter “includes any judicial or other proceeding, application, request for a ruling or other 28 determination, contract, transaction, claim, controversy, investigation, charge, accusation, arrest, or other deliberation, decision, or action that is focused on the interests of specific persons, or a discrete and identifiable class of persons.” Rule 1.7(e) (emphasis added).

1 Each of Rule 1.10(a)(2)'s requirements must be met for a law firm to invoke this exception. See
 2 WhatsApp Inc. v. NSO Grp. Techs. Ltd., 2020 WL 7133773, at *3 (N.D. Cal. June 16, 2020).⁸

3 Although the analogous Model Rule promulgated by the American Bar association 4 “broadly permits screening,” California’s Rule 1.10 “significantly differs” in that it “permit[s] 5 screening only in limited circumstances, i.e., if the prohibited lawyer did ‘not substantially 6 participate’ in the matter at issue.” See State Bar of California, Executive Summary: Rule 1.10
 7 Imputation of Conflicts of Interest, at 1, http://www.calbar.ca.gov/Portals/0/documents/rules
 8 /Rule_1.10-Exec_Summary-Redline.pdf. Rule 1.10’s no-substantial-participation requirement 9 thus protects against the “risk that a lawyer who has acquired sensitive confidential information 10 about . . . former clients is now in the opposing party’s law firm.” Id. at 2.

11 A lawyer’s ethical obligations under the Rules of Professional Conduct are unyielding, but 12 “[t]he right to disqualify counsel is a discretionary exercise of the trial court’s inherent powers.”
 13 Diva Limousine, 2019 WL 144589, at *3. When making such a determination, “[t]he paramount 14 concern must be to preserve public trust in the scrupulous administration of justice and the integrity 15 of the bar.” Id. (quoting People ex rel. Dep’t of Corps. v. Speedee Oil Change Sys., Inc., 980 P.2d 16 371, 378 (1999)). So although disqualification is a serious remedy that “should only be imposed 17 when absolutely necessary,” Concat LP v. Unilever, PLC, 350 F. Supp. 2d 796, 814 (N.D. Cal.
 18 2004), “[t]he important right to counsel of one’s choice must yield to ethical considerations that 19 affect the fundamental principles of our judicial process,” Speedee Oil, 980 P.2d at 378.

20 ARGUMENT

21 Keller Lenkner violated every aspect of the applicable ethical standards and should be 22 disqualified from representing the named plaintiffs and putative class. The government antitrust 23

24 ⁸ The California Rules of Professional Conduct were amended in 2018. Rule 1.9 was previously 25 known as Rule 3-310. See WhatsApp Inc. v. NSO Grp. Techs. Ltd., 2020 WL 7133773, at *3 n.3 26 (N.D. Cal. June 16, 2020). Rule 3-310 also provided that “[a]n attorney may not, without written 27 consent, accept employment adverse to a former client on a matter substantially related to the prior 28 representation.” Plumley v. Doug Mockett & Co., 2008 WL 5382269, at *1 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 22, 2008). Rule 1.10 does not have a direct analogue under the prior Rules, but largely adopted the approach of California courts concluding that ethical screens could obviate conflicts in certain extremely limited circumstances. See Rule 1.10 cmt. 6 (collecting cases).

1 investigations in which Mr. Pak represented Facebook turn on many of the same legal and factual
2 questions at issue in this case. During the course of Facebook's former counsel's extensive 3 involvement in those matters, he obtained Facebook's confidential and privileged information.
4 Keller Lenkner then failed to timely screen Mr. Pak from its investigation of Facebook, and it did 5 not promptly notify Facebook of the conflict as required by the rules. These violations are serious 6 and incurable, warranting disqualification.

7 I. KELLER LENKNER VIOLATED THE CALIFORNIA RULES OF PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT

8 A. Facebook's Former Counsel May Not Represent The Named Plaintiffs And 9 Putative Class

10 In determining whether Keller Lenkner should be disqualified, the threshold question is 11 whether Facebook's former counsel would himself be permitted under Rule 1.9 to undertake this 12 representation. That rule states, as noted, that a client's former lawyer "shall not thereafter 13 represent another person in the same or a substantially related matter in which that person's 14 interests are materially adverse to the interests of the former client unless the former client gives 15 informed written consent." Rule 1.9(a). Facebook has not given its informed written consent, and 16 the interests of the named plaintiffs and putative class in this matter are obviously materially 17 adverse to Facebook. That leaves whether this matter is "substantially related" to the prior 18 representation of Facebook in the government antitrust investigations. There is no credible debate 19 that it is, meaning that Facebook's former lawyer could not represent the named plaintiffs and 20 putative class under Rule 1.9.

21 The "substantial relationship" test looks to whether there is "a substantial risk of a 22 violation" of two duties: the duty not "to do anything that will injuriously affect the former client 23 in any matter in which the lawyer represented the former client" and the duty not to "at any time 24 use against the former client knowledge or information acquired by virtue of the previous 25 relationship." Rule 1.9 cmts. 1, 3. In assessing the relationship between two matters, courts look 26 to "the similarities between the two factual situations, the legal questions posed, and the nature 27 and extent of the attorney's involvement with the cases," Acacia Pat. Acquisition, LLC v. Superior 28 Ct., 184 Cal. Rptr. 3d 583, 588 (Ct. App. 2015), along with "the attorney's possible exposure to

1 formulation of policy or strategy,” Morrison Knudsen Corp. v. Hancock, Rothert & Bunshoft, 81
2 Cal. Rptr. 2d 425, 432 (Ct. App. 1999). See also Trone v. Smith, 621 F.2d 994, 998 (9th Cir. 1980)
3 (“Substantiality is present if the factual contexts of the two representations are similar or related.”);
4 Guifu Li v. A Perfect Day Franchise, Inc., 2011 WL 4635176, at *3 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 5, 2011)
5 (“When the attorney had a direct relationship with the client in the first representation, whether the 6 two representations are substantially related ‘centers precisely upon the factual and legal 7 similarities of the two representations.’” (quoting Farris v. Fireman’s Fund Ins. Co., 14 Cal. Rptr.
8 3d 618, 622 (Ct. App. 2004))). Given the purposes of the Rules, “[c]ourts have counseled against 9 construing the ‘substantial relationship’ test too narrowly.” Oliver v. SD-3C, LLC, 2011 WL 10 13156460, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 4, 2011); see also Trone, 621 F.2d at 1000 (“The substantial 11 relationship test does not require that the issues in the two representations be identical.”).

12 The government antitrust investigations and the private antitrust action before this Court 13 are substantially related—indeed, the “factual and legal similarities of the two representations” are 14 overwhelming. Guifu Li, 2011 WL 4635176, at *3. The government investigations and 15 preparation for litigation in which Mr. Pak represented Facebook involved the same course of 16 conduct alleged in the consolidated complaint, and sought to determine whether Facebook violated 17 the same provision of the same statute invoked by that complaint. Supra, at 3. For example, the 18 government investigators now claim that Facebook has monopolized a social networking market 19 largely defined by the use of “a social graph that maps the connections between users and their 20 friends, family, and other personal connections.” FTC Compl. ¶ 53. The consolidated complaint 21 similarly alleges Facebook has monopoly power in a social networking market, again defined by 22 the use of “a social graph” that “connects users to wide array of people,” including “friends, family 23 members, . . . [and] other acquaintances.” CAC ¶ 57. The government investigations also sought 24 to uncover information about Facebook’s alleged strategy of acquiring, copying, or killing nascent 25 competitors, see, e.g., State AG Compl. ¶¶ 98-231; FTC Compl. ¶¶ 68-128, the very same factual 26 allegations underlying the consolidated complaint in this case, CAC ¶¶ 156-213. And all of the 27 matters center on whether Facebook violated Section 2 of the Sherman Act. State AG Compl.

1 ¶¶ 256-262; FTC Compl. ¶¶ 169-174; CAC ¶¶ 260-307. These common factual allegations and 2 legal issues establish a substantial relationship.⁹

3 SC Innovations, Inc. v. Uber Techs., Inc., 2019 WL 1959493 (N.D. Cal. May 2, 2019), is 4 instructive. In that case, the court found a substantial relationship between two actions “relat[ing] 5 to the same services provided by” the defendant, even though the matters concerned “different 6 markets,” id. at *7, just as in the case before this Court the representations concern the same service 7 provided by Facebook, albeit in social networking markets defined slightly differently. As in SC 8 Innovations, the government investigations “required at least some degree of discovery into and 9 analysis of the same [Facebook] operations at issue in this case,” which further supports a finding 10 of a substantial relationship. Id. Finally, the information that Facebook’s former counsel obtained 11 working on the company’s responses to the government investigations is clearly “material” to this 12 representation, id. at *5—the cases overlap to such a degree that the States and FTC have filed 13 related case notices and the parties in this case are presently negotiating how to coordinate 14 discovery between the actions, Mehta Decl. ¶ 9.¹⁰

15 The facts here thus “support a ‘rational conclusion that information material to the 16 evaluation, prosecution, settlement or accomplishment of the former representation given its 17 factual and legal issues is also material to the evaluation, prosecution, settlement or 18 accomplishment of the current representation given its factual and legal issues.’” WhatsApp, 2020 19 WL 7133773, at *4 (quoting Jessen v. Hartford Cas. Ins. Co., 3 Cal. Rptr. 3d 877, 887-88 (Ct.
20 App. 2003)). Because Facebook’s former lawyer “acquire[d] information vitally related to the 21 subject matter of the pending litigation” during his prior representation of the company, he could

24 ⁹ That Mr. Pak’s representation involved an investigation and preparation for litigation, rather than 25 the litigation itself, does not affect the analysis. See Foster Poultry Farms v. Conagra Foods
26 Refrigerated Foods Co., 2005 WL 2319186, at *6 (E.D. Cal. Sept. 22, 2005) (“The distinction 27 between antitrust litigation and preparation for antitrust litigation has no place in this conflict of 28 interest analysis. . . . For disqualification purposes, it is the representation of a client that matters; the fact that the representation did not involve litigation is immaterial.”).

¹⁰ See FTC Case, Dkt. 4 at 1 (stating that the cases “involve[] common issues of fact” and “grow[] out of the same event or transaction”); State AG Case, Dkt. 5 at 1 (stating that the cases “involve[] common issues of fact”).

1 not represent the named plaintiffs and putative class without violating his ethical obligations.
2 Trone, 621 F.2d at 1000.

3 B. The Conflict Of Facebook’s Former Counsel Is Imputed To His New 4 Employer Keller Lenkner And No Exception Applies

5 Because Mr. Pak may not represent the named plaintiffs and putative class, Keller 6 Lenkner’s representation is also prohibited. Rule 1.10(a) states that “[w]hile lawyers are 7 associated in a firm, none of them shall knowingly represent a client when any of them practicing 8 alone would be prohibited from doing so by rule[] 1.9.” Rule 1.10(a)(2) provides a limited 9 exception to this bar, but Keller Lenkner cannot meet any of that provision’s three prerequisites, 10 much less all of them.

11 1. Facebook’s Former Counsel Substantially Participated In A Substantially Related Matter

12 To invoke Rule 1.10(a)(2), Keller Lenkner must first show that “the prohibited lawyer did 13 not substantially participate in the same or a substantially related matter.” That is because Rule 14 1.10(a)(2) precludes the use of ethical screens outside of “narrowly defined circumstances” in 15 which there is not a “significant risk that a lawyer who has acquired sensitive confidential 16 information” ends up at “the opposing party’s law firm.” Executive Summary: Rule 1.10
17 Imputation of Conflicts of Interest, supra, at 1-2. The situation here does not fall within that narrow 18 category. For the reasons described above, Mr. Pak represented Facebook in a substantially related 19 matter. His participation, moreover, was substantial. Comment One to Rule 1.10 says “a number 20 of factors should be considered” in making this assessment, “such as the lawyer’s level of 21 responsibility in the prior matter, the duration of the lawyer’s participation, the extent to which the 22 lawyer advised or had personal contact with the former client, and the extent to which the lawyer 23 was exposed to confidential information of the former client likely to be material in the current 24 matter.” See also Talon Rsch., LLC v. Toshiba Am. Elec. Components, Inc., 2012 WL 601811, at 25 *2 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 23, 2012) (“Courts must differentiate between lawyers who become heavily 26 involved in the facts of a particular matter and those who enter briefly on the periphery for a limited 27 and specific purpose related solely to legal questions.”); Guifu Li, 2011 WL 4635176, at *4 (“The 28

1 Court should consider the time spent by the attorney on the earlier cases, the type of work
2 performed, and the attorney’s possible exposure to formulation of policy or strategy.”¹¹ Mr.
3 Pak’s participation in the government antitrust investigations and associated preparation for 4 litigation was thus substantial within any meaning of the term.

5 Start with the work Mr. Pak performed for Facebook. He had frequent and direct client 6 contact, taking part in meetings with Facebook’s in-house counsel and closely interacting with 7 those lawyers. Panner Decl. ¶ 7. As a result of those meetings, his review of legal memoranda 8 and privileged communications discussing Facebook’s litigation strategy, and his writing of 9 memoranda concerning issues potentially relevant to Facebook’s defense, Mr. Pak was privy to 10 Facebook’s strategy for the government investigations and for potential litigation on the same 11 subject matter as this case. Id. ¶¶ 5, 7. He also spent a substantial portion of his work directly 12 accessing Facebook’s confidential and privileged information when working on the company’s 13 responses to the government investigations. Id. ¶ 7. Further, Mr. Pak assisted the Kellogg Hansen 14 partner leading Facebook’s work with consulting and potential testifying experts, through which 15 he learned “all of the expert teams’ pending projects” and participated in conversations between 16 counsel and expert teams on defense strategy. Id. ¶ 5; see also Advanced Messaging Techs., Inc.
17 v. EasyLink Servs. Int’l Corp., 913 F. Supp. 2d 900, 907 (C.D. Cal. 2012) (observing that “[c]ourts 18 emphasize shared communications in determining whether there was a direct relationship” with a 19 prior client). This was not an insignificant or incidental representation—Mr. Pak spent more than 20 six months and 800 hours working for Facebook on a wide-range of important and sensitive aspects 21

23 ¹¹ As noted above, Rule 1.10 was adopted in 2018. But courts interpreting the California Rules of 24 Professional Conduct have long considered the degree of an attorney’s participation in a prior 25 representation when assessing whether an ethics violation has occurred and disqualification is 26 warranted. See, e.g., Acacia Pat. Acquisition, LLC v. Superior Ct., 184 Cal. Rptr. 3d 583, 588 27 (2015) (assessing the “nature and extent of the attorney’s involvement with the cases”); Farris v.
28 Fireman’s Fund Ins. Co., 14 Cal. Rptr. 3d 618, 621-22 (2004) (“[W]hen ruling upon a disqualification motion in a successive representation case, the trial court must first identify where the attorney’s former representation placed the attorney with respect to the prior client,” and “[i]f the court determines that the placement was direct and personal,” disqualification is required when “there is a connection between the two successive representations”).

1 of a related matter, stopping only days before he joined Keller Lenkner. See Panner Decl. ¶¶ 4-5 2 (describing Mr. Pak’s “significant[.]” and “heav[y]” involvement in the related matters).

3 Courts have found disqualifying conflicts based on far less. In Wausau Business Insurance 4 Co. v. Diamond Contract Services, Inc., for example, the Court concluded that an associate who 5 had lateraled between two firms had a disqualifying conflict because he “did substantial legal 6 work” for a prior client by spending 9.8 hours reviewing documents and preparing a privilege log, 7 2010 WL 11549716, at *4 (C.D. Cal. Sept. 23, 2010) (noting that “[a]n attorney is possibly exposed 8 to strategy or policy along with confidential information when reviewing documents for 9 privilege”).¹² And in Advanced Messaging Technologies, Inc. v. EasyLink Services International 10 Corp., the Court found that an associate had a disqualifying conflict based on his prior 11 representation of a client while at a different law firm, for which he had billed “234.7 hours of 12 work,” or “about ten percent of his billing” during the time in question, 913 F. Supp. 2d at 903.
13 The associate had worked on motions, reviewed client documents, and sent, received, or was 14 copied on more than 120 emails to the client’s in-house counsel. Id. at 904. As a result of this 15 “direct relationship” with the former client, which “touched issues related to the present litigation,” 16 the Court concluded the associate had a disqualifying conflict. Id. at 907-909. Mr. Pak had 17 precisely that kind of direct relationship with Facebook, having spent three-quarters of his time 18 over six months working closely with the company throughout an investigation—and preparing 19 for potential litigation—premised on the same legal theory alleged in the consolidated complaint.
20 See supra, at 3, 12-13; see also Talon Research, 2012 WL 601811, at *3 (attorney’s “participation” 21 in a prior related matter was sufficiently “direct and personal” to support disqualification despite 22 billing only “approximately 150 hours”).

23 In another case, this Court found a disqualifying conflict based on exposure to “company 24 documents related to [the subsequent] litigation” along with several client communications in 25

26 _____
27 ¹² The associate had also performed a significant amount of additional work on other related 28 matters but the court concluded that the 9.8 hours he billed preparing a privilege log on a case “virtually identical to this action” “alone is sufficient to grant [the] Motion to disqualify.” Wausau
Bus. Ins. v. Diamond Contract Servs., Inc., 2010 WL 11549716 at *4-5 (C.D. Cal. Sept. 23, 2010).

1 which “confidential information would normally have been imparted.” Guifu Li, 2011 WL 2 4635176, at *4. Here the over 800 hours Facebook’s former counsel spent representing the 3 company involved accessing thousands of documents “pertinent to the present litigation,” not 4 “several,” and he “obtained nonpublic information” on numerous occasions. Id.; see also Bryant 5 v. Donahoe, 2012 WL 12884904, at *2 (C.D. Cal. Oct. 10, 2012) (disqualifying lawyer based on 6 a prior meeting with a potential client “[a]lthough the consultation was brief and [the client]
 7 ultimately decided not to retain [the attorney’s] services”); Farhang v. Indian Inst. of Tech., 2009 8 WL 3459455, at *3 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 27, 2009) (“While 19 hours [billed] is not a large amount of 9 time, it is certainly enough time for confidential information to be passed.”).¹³

10 Because the first of Rule 1.10(a)(2)’s requirements is not satisfied, the exception does not 11 apply here. As a result, Mr. Pak’s conflict is imputed to Keller Lenkner, and it may not represent 12 the named plaintiffs and putative class regardless of any effort to impose an ethical screen. See 13 Rule 1.10(a).

14 2. Keller Lenkner Did Not Timely Screen Facebook’s Former Counsel Or 15 Promptly Notify Facebook Of The Conflict

16 Even setting aside Keller Lenkner’s inability to meet Rule 1.10(a)(2)’s first requirement, it 17 is independently barred from this representation because it failed to comply with the Rule’s two 18 other provisions. As an initial matter, Keller Lenkner’s screen of Mr. Pak was untimely. See Rule 19 1.10(a)(2)(ii) (stating the conflicted lawyer must be “timely screened from any participation in the 20 matter”). “Screening is a prophylactic, affirmative measure to avoid both the reality and 21 appearance of impropriety,” In re Complex Asbestos Litig., 283 Cal. Rptr. 732, 745 (Ct. App.
 22 1991), so “a firm must impose screening measures when the conflict first arises,” Kirk v. First Am.

23
 24 ¹³ Rules 1.11 and 1.12 govern the ethical obligations of former government lawyers and those 25 having served in judicial roles. Both preclude successive representations when a lawyer previously 26 “participated personally and substantially” in a matter. See Rule 1.11(a); Rule 1.12(a). The 27 comments to Rules 1.11 and 1.12 define “substantial participation” differently than does Rule 1.10 28 cmt. 1. The divergent language of the Rules and comments makes clear these standards are not the same—a result of the different policy considerations behind the Rules, and the California courts’ preexisting acceptance of screens of former public servants. Of course, Mr. Pak’s involvement in the government antitrust litigations would be substantial under any formulation of the standard.

1 Title Ins. Co., 108 Cal. Rptr. 3d 620, 645 (Ct. App. 2010). Said otherwise, “screening should be 2 implemented before undertaking the challenged representation or hiring the tainted individual.”
3 In re Complex Asbestos Litig., 283 Cal. Rptr. at 745.

4 Here, Facebook’s former lawyer was not screened until November 11, 2020, despite being 5 hired on June 29 of that year and disclosing the potential conflict the next day. Although Keller 6 Lenkner asserts that it had no obligation to impose a screen until it actually “decided to initiate a 7 case against Facebook,” Mehta Decl., Ex. C, the Rules apply to “matters,” not filings. Rule 8 1.10(a)(2)(ii). And a “matter” includes an “investigation . . . that is focused on the interests of . . .
9 a discrete and identifiable class of persons,” Rule 1.7(e) (emphasis added). That broader sweep 10 is necessary because the duty of confidentiality protected by a screen runs not to the clients that 11 Keller Lenkner currently represents but to the client that Mr. Pak previously represented—12 Facebook. And the interests of a former client are jeopardized as soon as an adverse representation 13 is contemplated. Keller Lenkner’s apparent interpretation would completely defeat the 14 prophylactic purpose of a screen by allowing a client’s former lawyer to provide information up 15 until the moment his new firm formally decides to file a complaint, to say nothing of leaving the 16 firm with absolute discretion over when a screen is implemented through its control over when to 17 make that filing. And while Keller Lenkner represents that Mr. Pak did not provide any 18 information to Keller Lenkner, Rule 1.10 is clear that that is ultimately irrelevant. Facebook should 19 not be left to wonder whether the duties that it is owed have been met—especially where the 20 shifting representations to the Court and Facebook highlight concerns that Keller Lenkner has, 21 once again, not acted in compliance with its obligations.

22 In this case, Keller Lenkner has represented to the Court that an investigation focused on 23 the interests of a discrete and identifiable class of Facebook users had begun “months and years” 24 before the first complaint was filed. Hr’g Tr. at 48. As Mr. Postman himself explained, those 25 “months and years” were spent “thinking not about the high-level fact that an antitrust case could 26 exist against Facebook, but the real nitty gritty.” Id. So at the absolute latest, the obligation to 27 screen Mr. Pak attached as soon as Mr. Pak told Mr. Postman—the day after Mr. Pak started work, 28 no less—that Mr. Pak had represented Facebook in the government antitrust investigations. That

1 obligation became even more pressing in August 2020, when Mr. Postman admits he began 2 “investigating and analyzing the claims in this case.” Mehta Decl., Ex. C. And it grew stronger 3 still on October 14, 2020, when Mr. Postman began discussing the terms of a potential joint 4 representation with Quinn Emanuel. Id. Yet despite Mr. Postman’s representations to the Court 5 about having acted “promptly,” each of these events came and went without the imposition of an 6 ethical screen.¹⁴

7 Making matters worse, Keller Lenkner did not “promptly” give the company the “written 8 notice” required by Rule 1.10(a)(2)(iii). The notice requirement exists to give the former clients 9 whose confidences are threatened the opportunity to “ascertain compliance with the provisions of” 10 Rule 1.10, and to “inquir[e] or object[.]” to screening procedures. Rule 1.10(a)(2)(iii). As Keller 11 Lenkner’s course of conduct in this case demonstrates, that opportunity is vital to ensuring that 12 firms respect their ethical obligations. Keller Lenkner did not notify Facebook to acknowledge 13 the conflict and describe any screen until March 19, 2021, after making numerous filings in this 14 litigation. See supra, at 5. That undermined Facebook’s ability to probe whether, when, and to 15 what extent a screen had been put in place, and to take steps to protect its confidential and 16 privileged information during the many months that Keller Lenkner had been impermissibly 17 working on this matter while conflicted. And here, Mr. Postman only belatedly complied with the 18 Rule’s notification requirement because Facebook had discovered and raised the conflict on its

19 20 ¹⁴ Keller Lenkner’s small size increased the necessity of a timely screen. In a leading case on 21 screening procedures, the court observed that “[i]n some cases, particularly where the attorneys 22 work closely together in a small office, complete isolation” from attorneys working on the 23 conflicted matter “may be necessary to satisfy a court that the presumption of disclosure has been 24 refuted.” Kirk v. First Am. Title Ins. Co., 108 Cal. Rptr. 3d 620, 646 n.33 (2010). Given that 25 Keller Lenkner presently employs around 30 lawyers, such a screen was necessary to prevent the 26 risk of inadvertent disclosures, making the delay in imposing any screen all the more egregious.
27 Indeed, Mr. Pak is currently co-counsel in another action raising claims under Section 2 of the 28 Sherman Act with Mr. Postman and a Keller Lenkner partner who appeared on the initial Klein complaint. See Keller Lenkner Joins as Co-Counsel in Antitrust Class-Action Lawsuit Against Live Nation and Ticket Master (Feb. 10, 2021), <https://www.kellerlenkner.com/keller-lenkner-joins-as-co-counsel-in-antitrust-class-action-lawsuit-against-live-nation-and-ticketmaster/> (noting that “Warren Postman, Ben Whiting, and Albert Pak of Keller Lenkner LLC and Frederick A. Lorig, Kevin Y. Teruya, and Adam B. Wolfson of Quinn Emanuel Urquhart & Sullivan LLP” represent the putative class). The risk of sharing information in that context, even with a “screen” in place, is obvious.

1 own. This violation provides a third, independent reason that Keller Lenkner breached the Rules 2 of Professional Conduct.

3 II. DISQUALIFICATION IS THE APPROPRIATE REMEDY FOR KELLER LENKNER'S
4 VIOLATION OF ITS ETHICAL OBLIGATIONS

5 Because Keller Lenkner violated its ethical obligations, this Court “must determine 6 whether it is appropriate to order disqualification,” taking into consideration the nature of the 7 violation and circumstances of the case. Diva Limousine, 2019 WL 144589, at *13; see also id. at 8 *3 (“The right to disqualify counsel is a discretionary exercise of the trial court’s inherent 9 powers.”). Here, disqualification is the proper remedy for Keller Lenkner’s misconduct both 10 because Mr. Pak substantially participated in a substantially related matter and because Keller 11 Lenkner failed to timely screen Mr. Pak from its work adverse to Facebook.

12 As an initial matter, disqualification is the presumptive result when a firm takes on an 13 adverse representation in a substantially related matter. See id. at *6 (“Generally, when there is a 14 substantial relationship between the two representations, courts disqualify counsel from 15 representing the second client.”); Epikhin v. Game Insight North America, 2015 WL 2229225, at 16 *7 (N.D. Cal. May 12, 2015) (“As the Court finds a substantial relationship between [counsel’s]
17 prior representation . . . and her representation of Plaintiffs in this action, [she] must be 18 disqualified.”); see also Flatt, 885 P.2d at 954 (collecting cases). Indeed, California courts have 19 held that in substantially related representations, disqualification is not just presumed—it “is 20 mandatory” under the Rules. Diva Limousine, 2019 WL 144589, at *13.

21 Federal courts applying California’s Rules of Professional Conduct have repeatedly 22 disqualified firms in such circumstances, regardless of whether a firm attempted to screen the 23 attorneys creating the conflict. See SC Innovations, 2019 WL 1959493, at *10; WhatsApp, 2020 24 WL 7133773, at *3 (interpreting Rules 1.9 and 1.10 and holding that “[o]nce the substantial 25 relationship is established, access to confidential information by the attorney in the course of the 26 first representation is presumed and disqualification of the attorney’s representation of the second 27 client is required”); Lennar Mare Island, LLC v. Steadfast Ins. Co., 105 F. Supp. 3d 1100, 1109
28 (E.D. Cal. 2015). As the court in MD Helicopters, Inc. v. Aerometals, Inc., 2021 WL 1212718, at

1 *10 (E.D. Cal. Mar. 31, 2021), explained when disqualifying a firm that had set up an ethical wall
2 that—unlike in this case—was timely and effective, “[a] number of California courts have found 3 vicarious disqualification of a firm to be required where a substantial relationship is proven, even 4 if the firm erects an ethical wall around the attorney who possesses the opponent’s confidences.”

5 Courts, moreover, have disqualified firms based on conflicts nearly identical to the one 6 here, even when the firms have taken steps to comply with their ethical obligations beyond those 7 taken by Keller Lenkner. In Hitachi, Ltd. v. Tatung Company, 419 F. Supp. 2d 1158 (N.D. Cal.
8 2006), for example, the Court disqualified a firm on the basis of a conflict created by the hiring of 9 an associate. The associate had, while working for a different law firm, represented Hitachi in a 10 patent infringement action, billing 340 hours over a six-month period. Id. at 1159. He then joined 11 the firm at issue. Id. at 1160. The new firm sought to represent a defendant in a separate patent 12 case brought by Hitachi, and “immediately” implemented an ethical wall between the associate 13 and the lawyers taking on the new representation. Id. at 1160, 1164. The Court concluded that 14 the matters were substantially related and disqualified the firm, expressly holding that the new 15 firm’s prompt and extensive procedures to screen the associate failed to cure the conflict.¹⁵ Id. at 16 1164. The Court based that holding on the extent of the similarities between the cases, the 17 associate’s significant involvement in the prior matter, and the small size of the office handling 18 the subsequent representation, id. at 1164-65, factors that are all also present in this case. And 19 unlike in Hitachi, here Keller Lenkner failed to “promptly recognize[] and attempt[] to resolve the 20 ethical conflict” by “immediately initiat[ing] an ethical wall.” Id. at 1164. Indeed, the Court in 21 Hitachi found that the conflicted firm “could not substantially improve the efficacy of their ethical 22 screening procedures.” Id. Yet “balancing the relative interests of the parties with the need to 23

24 ¹⁵ The Court noted the “the established rule” that “where an attorney is disqualified from 25 representing a client because that attorney had previously represented a party with adverse interests 26 in a substantially related matter that attorney’s entire firm must be disqualified as well, regardless 27 of efforts to erect an ethical wall.” Hitachi, Ltd. v. Tatung Co., 419 F. Supp. 2d 1158, 1161 (N.D.
28 Cal. 2006). But it nevertheless held that “[e]ven if California law permitted ethical walls to prevent disqualification where an attorney moves from one private firm to another,” the close relationship between the representations and the small size of the office handling the subsequent matter compelled disqualification. Id. at 1164-65.

1 preserve ethical standards favor[ed] disqualification,” because only that remedy sufficed “to 2 adequately protect” the former client’s “confidential information and prevent the appearance of 3 impropriety.” Id. at 1165; Beltran v. Avon Prod., Inc., 867 F. Supp. 2d 1068, 1083 (C.D. Cal.
 4 2012) (when a firm hires a lawyer that previously represented the opposing party in a substantially 5 related matter, “an ethical wall is insufficient to overcome” disqualification).¹⁶

6 Disqualification is even more appropriate in a case, like this one, where the conflicted firm 7 has not taken any of the preventive measures called for by the ethics rules. Courts “routinely” 8 disqualify firms that fail to implement timely screens. See, e.g., Export-Import Bank of Korea v.
 9 ASI Corp., 2019 WL 8200603, at *11 (C.D. Cal. Jan. 16, 2019) (“Courts routinely disqualify 10 counsel for failing to implement ethical screens before representing a prospective client.”); j2 11 Glob. Commc’ns, Inc. v. EasyLink Servs. Int’l Corp., 2012 WL 6618609, at *10 (C.D. Cal. Dec.
 12 19, 2012) (disqualifying firm when screen was untimely). Indeed, although “[t]he specific 13 elements of an effective screen will vary from case to case,” a “necessary” element of every screen 14 is that it “be timely imposed.” Nat’l Grange of Ord. of Patrons of Husbandry v. California Guild, 15 250 Cal. Rptr. 3d 705, 714 (Ct. App. 2019). Keller Lenkner’s screen was not imposed for more 16 than four months after the conflict arose. Supra, at 6. That is untimely under any measure, and 17 does nothing to mitigate the harm caused by the firm’s breach of its ethical obligations.

18 Whether or not Mr. Pak actually or advertently shared information with his colleagues who 19 were investigating Facebook is immaterial. “The attorney-client privilege is a hallmark of our 20 jurisprudence that furthers the public policy of ensuring the right of every person to freely and 21 fully confer and confide in one having knowledge of the law, and skilled in its practice, in order 22 that the former may have adequate advice and a proper defense.” SpeeDee Oil, 980 P.2d at 378.

24 ¹⁶ Although Hitachi and Beltran were decided before the 2018 amendments to the Rules of 25 Professional Conduct, both courts considered the same factors relevant under Rule 1.10 in 26 assessing the ethical violation and need for disqualification. See Hitachi, 419 F. Supp. 2d at 1164-27 65 (relying on the degree of overlap between the matters and the “significant amount of time” the 28 conflicted lateral hire had “billed . . . on the earlier matter”); Beltran v. Avon Prod., Inc., 867 F.
 Supp. 2d 1068, 1083 (C.D. Cal. 2012) (relying on the “over 300 hours” the conflicted lateral hire had billed to the prior matter in “substantive and wide-ranging work” and that the matters involved the same legal claims and overlapping facts).

1 In order “[t]o protect the confidentiality of the attorney-client relationship,” the ethics rules
2 prohibit successive representations in substantially related matters. Id. That avoids a situation, 3 like this one, wherein a former client “is left to speculate what information its former attorneys 4 shared with their colleagues.” SC Innovations, 2019 WL 1959493, at *10. To make Facebook—5 having relied on its lawyer’s confidence to engage in the frank exchanges necessary to obtain legal 6 advice—second guess whether those communications were kept confidential as promised “would 7 undermine the public trust both in the scrupulous administration of justice and in the integrity of 8 the bar.” Id. Nor can Keller Lenkner excuse its breach by asserting “that confidential information 9 was not conveyed or that the disqualified attorney did not work on the case”; even assuming that 10 an effective and timely screen could obviate the conflict here, the ethics rules require “the 11 imposition of preventive measures to guarantee that information will not be conveyed.” Nat’l 12 Grange, 250 Cal. Rptr. 3d at 714. The need for such preventive measures is heightened at a small 13 firm like Keller Lenkner, given the risk of even inadvertent disclosures among a tightknit group 14 of attorneys. See Kirk, 108 Cal. Rptr. 3d at 646 n.33 (noting stricter screening measures may be 15 required when “attorneys work closely together in a small office”). The ineffective and post hoc 16 measures employed by Keller Lenkner, in contrast, were no more than belated reactions—leaving 17 Facebook “to speculate what information its former attorney[] shared with [his] colleagues.” SC
18 Innovations, 2019 WL 1959493, at *10.

19 Taken together, disqualification is warranted in light of the circumstances of this case.

20 III. DISQUALIFICATION WILL NOT PREJUDICE THE PRIVATE PLAINTIFFS

21 When deciding whether to disqualify counsel, courts also consider the prejudice to the 22 party that stands to lose its lawyer. See SpeeDee Oil, 980 P.2d at 377-78; Beltran, 867 F. Supp.
23 2d at 1084 (“In a motion to disqualify, it is also proper to consider such factors as whether 24 disqualification would result in prejudice to the nonmoving party.”). But disqualifying Keller 25 Lenkner would not cause the kind of “substantial hardship” or “financial burden” that weighs 26 against disqualification. See FlatWorld Interactives LLC v. Apple Inc., 2013 WL 4039799, at *9 27 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 7, 2013) (finding prejudice because of “the difficulty of finding” counsel 28 sufficiently “sophisticated” to take on the specialized patent litigation at issue and “the delay

1 disqualification would cause”). The present litigation is at an “early stage,” with the operative
 2 complaint only recently filed. See Beltran, 867 F. Supp. 2d at 1084 (minimal prejudice given stage 3 of litigation). And “no discovery has been conducted nor any dispositive motions litigated.” Diva 4 Limousine, 2019 WL 144589, at *14 (collecting cases finding prejudice when a motion was filed 5 near discovery deadline or “the brink of class certification”). Further, the named plaintiffs and 6 putative class will remain represented by numerous other firms regardless of Keller Lenkner’s 7 involvement; indeed, Keller Lenkner is not interim lead counsel. As a result, disqualification here
 8 would occasion no material prejudice, much less harm significant enough to excuse Keller 9 Lenkner’s clear breach of the standards of professional conduct.

10 CONCLUSION

11 Disqualification is reserved for serious violations of the ethical rules. Keller Lenkner’s 12 conduct unfortunately meets that bar. The Court should, accordingly, grant Facebook’s motion.
