No to Trump's Push to War with Iran

Donald Trump's withdrawal from the nuclear deal with Iran risks igniting a regional war in the Middle East. It has encouraged further aggression from Iran's enemies. Since Trump's decision, Israel has launched its biggest attacks so far on Iranian positions in Syria. The deal with Iran was one of the few successful attempts to reduce the tension in the Middle East. Foreign military interventions from all sides have had a disastrous impact on the region. We call for further negotiation, and an end to threats and warmongering.
