

How to Control a Cat In Minecraft

Building homes, farms and dungeons with Minecraft is a blast - but what's a fantasy world without your favorite feline friend? You can train a stray kitten if you're seeking a pet to play with, or stay with you at home after a long day mining diamonds.

Where to find cats What is the best way to manage the cat

Cat behavior

Difficulty

Raw raw salmon or raw cod

Taming a cat in Minecraft is fairly easy as well, but just like any other task in the game, it isn't explained for you to follow.

Here's our guide to how to manage cats in Minecraft, including where to find cats in the wild and what to do after you have adopted them.

How to create Minecraft servers? Minecraft server

The most effective Minecraft mods

Where can I find cats?

There aren't any animal adoption centers in Minecraft - you're going to have to find a stray cat to take home in the wild. Luckily, cats are accessible to locate. Stray cats are a common sight in villages that have at least one villager, and four bedrooms. For each four beds in a village cats will produce (up to 10) and you'll have a variety of colors to choose from in an average village.

Black cats can also be seen around witch huts in swamps.

In the Bedrock Edition of the game (the most popular, modern version of the game on Xbox One, Windows, iOS, Android, and Nintendo Switch), black cats are more likely to appear when there is a full moon.

How to control a cat

Step 1: To tame the cat, first gather some cod or raw salmon from the nearby river or lake.

Step 2: Prepare the fish and slowly approach the cat. Use the raw fish on the skeptical kitty.

Step 3 Continue feeding the cat raw fish until it has hearts above its head. This is a sign that it is being controlled. It is likely to require feeding several times before it begins to like you. So, make sure you stock with fish before attempting this.

Step 4: When the cat has eaten enough food, the hearts will disappear. The cat will be given an appropriate collar. Now you own a pet cat.

Cat behavior

Once you've successfully tamed your cat and it follows you wherever you go. You don't have to lose your cat if you move 12 blocks away. They are able to teleport to another player if they become lost. Cats who are trained to do so will not sit still unless they are instructed to. They will wander around the surrounding area until they are directed to. If you would like an indoor cat to stay with you, for instance, you can tell it to sit.

When in a house, cats will climb up on furniture on their own accord. Cats are often sitting on top of furnaces, beds, and chests. As real-life cats, Minecraft cats can sometimes hinder your furnaces and chests. If they get into something you don't want them messing with You can get them away and lure them away using raw fish, or take away blocks underneath them to get them to move.

A tamed cat may be seen near an athlete as they fall asleep at night. There's a chance that a cat from your pet will bring you a treat when they wake up. They may bring string, raw chicken and a rabbit's feet, among other things.