Candidates' Night Brings The People And The Pols Together

by Maria Girvin

With City Council and School Committee elections next Tuesday, November 3rd, the Charlestown Democratic Ward Two Committee presented a Candidates' Night to familiarize residents with the host of candidates they have to choose from. Fifteen out of the 18 candidates for City Council were present with eight out of 10 School Committee candidates showing.

Approximately 100 residents and political affiliates filled the American Legion Hall to listen to each of the speakers give a two minute statement. Following all of the statements, the floor was opened to questions for those candidates who did not leave the hall.

During the question and answer period, Maura Hennigan made the most controversial statement of the evening after being asked what she would do for Charlestown if district representation was passed. Hennigan told the audience she would try to place Charlestown with a neighborhood of equal population so voters would have a chance at electing a city councillor from their own neighborhood. However, she also said she might do this by lumping Charlestown with Beacon Hill and Mission Hill. She claimed the three were contiguous by water (the Charles River).

Hennigan's statement created an uproar in the audience, questioning the geography and logistics of such a district, to which she replied that it was possible to district this way and that she would be happy to show a map in her office to anyone in doubt.

Halloween Face Painting

Due to popular demand, the Charlestown Working Theater will once again be painting faces for Halloween. Painting will begin on Saturday at 3 p.m., and end at 5:30 p.m. Price is $1.00 per face. So come to the theater, located at 442 Bunker Hill Street, and get into the Halloween spirit!

Other candidate comments were as follows:

Ray Flynn—gave a very brief statement, saying he was "no stranger to Charlestown" and promising continued support. He left early to attend a previously committed radio broadcast.

Edmund McNamara—is a W. Roxbury resident and past police commissioner. He saw safety as the number one issue of city politics but recognized that Boston has many other problems.

Craig Lankhorst—also saw personal safety as a main issue. He said he was in favor of districting as it would make the government more responsible. He said the city needs to focus more on

Vote "No" On 1 And 2

Charlestown voters must take a long, hard look at Questions 1 and 2 on next Tuesday's ballot — Questions, which if passed, would institute District Representation for the City Council and School Committee.

The city would be divided into nine districts, with one City Councillor and one School Committee member for each 70,000 people and four would serve at-large. This would increase the City Council from nine to 13 members and the School Committee from five to 13 members.

Charlestown voters, consider these points:

*No dollar estimate has been given for these changes, that would include City Councillor salaries, plus office, staff, and expenses. This figure could be astronomical in light of city budgetary restraints.

*Without Charter Reform and subsequent increase in the prerogatives of the Council and School Committee, an increase simply in numbers would in no way equate an increase in accountability and service from these bodies.

*Each District would have 70,000 people — Charlestown with approximately 17,500 people would be a minority vote in any District. The opportunity to elect a Councillor or School Committeeman from Charlestown would be practically impossible.

*The Districts would not be drawn up until after the election. The citizens are being asked to vote blindly on this plan.

*The City Council elected next Tuesday would be responsible for drawing up the Districts. If, after 90 days following notification of passage of the Questions, the City Council could not reach an agreement on District lines, the Mayor would then be empowered to draw the District lines.

Think carefully, Charlestown voters. District Representation as proposed, will NOT benefit our community.

Vote NO on Questions 1 and 2.

Coppinger Seeks Support Of The People

Francis X. Coppinger, whose name will appear sixth on the Boston City Council ballot next Tuesday, continues to bring his candidacy directly to the people. His strategy has been to get out and meet the voters face to face, at beanos, MBTA stations, shopping centers, candidates' nights, ringing doorbells, and wherever there are voters.

It's A Boy

Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Blaikie, Jr. of Somerville, proudly announce the birth of their son, Donald E. Blaikie III. He was born at Brigham and Women's Hospital, Brighton, on Tuesday, October 17th, 1981, at 7:55 p.m. and weighed 7 lbs. 3 ozs.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William F. Desmond Sr. of Charlestown and Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Blaikie, Sr. of Arlington.

Great Grandparents are Mrs. Ida Blaikie of Charlestown, Mrs. Eleanor B. Glennon of Somerville and Mrs. Marjorie Desmond of Billerica.

"Quite honestly, I don't have the money to carry on a large media campaign through extensive radio or television ads or billboards," Coppinger recently stated. "I must rely on personal contact, in person and with the help of relatives, friends and neighbors, to get my message out, and I feel that we have been very successful in doing that."

"To date, the only endorsements I have received are from the Ward 20 Democratic Committee and the West Roxbury and Parkway Transcripts. Both of these endorsements are from my own neighborhood, the area from which I was elected, and re-elected twice, State Representative. I am proud of these endorsements because they come from those who know me best and know the type of representation that I gave to the people who elected me. It is the same type of representation that I will give to all the people of Boston as a member of the Boston City Council," Coppinger said.

"Further, this means that I am not indebted to anyone but the people. I owe no allegiances and can serve in an independent and unencumbered manner to represent the best interests of the citizens of Boston. All the funds I have raised for my campaign came from family and friends, so no special interests have a claim on me," Coppinger declared.

"The type of campaign I have waged is the kind I prefer. I have got out into the streets and neighborhoods and met the people of Boston and listened to them, what they find wrong with our City, what they want to see changed, and how best to restore their faith and trust in their City government. As a result, I am much more fully prepared to fight for them and their interests and concerns and to discharge faithfully and with dignity the duties of a Boston City Councillor in a manner of which they can be proud. I urge the voters to go to the polls next Tuesday and respectfully ask them to consider Francis X. Coppinger for one of their nine votes. I am sixth on the ballot," Coppinger concluded.

Artists Recycle History In Navy Yard Renovation Project

BILL JACOBSON, one of three artists commissioned to create large-scale, indoor sculptures for Constitution Quarters, stands in his temporary studio in the Charlestown Navy Yard. This unique program, which uses private funding to produce public art, is part of a 5-10 year renovation plan to recycle a major portion of the Navy Yard into a new residential and commercial waterfront community.

The Artists Foundation of Boston is administering a unique and innovative program at the Boston Navy Yard in Charlestown, a program which uses private funding to produce public art. The private developer Immobiliare New England has launched a ten year renovation plan to recycle a major portion of the Navy Yard into a new residential and commercial waterfront community. Budgeted into the cost of renovating Building 42 (renamed Constitution Quarters), the first building at the Yard open for occupancy, were the funds to commission three large-scale, indoor sculptures. The program is the brainchild of Mr. Arturo Ressi di Cervia of Immobiliare New England, and is, in effect, a voluntary, private-sector percent for the arts.

The three artists chosen in a stringent invitational selection process were Chuck Holtzman and Mario Kon of Boston, and Bill Jacobson of New York. The panel members making the selections were Arturo Ressi; Judith Hoos Fox, Assistant Director of the Jewett Arts Center at Wellesley College; and Pheobe Helman, New York sculptor and Professor of Art at Parsons School of Art and design, and Pratt Institute. Work on the sculptures was begun in January of 1981 and installation of the work occurred in June, 1981.

As part of the effort to preserve the Boston Navy Yard's historical context as a major shipbuilding site for well over 100 years, the artists were asked to incorporate into their proposed sculptures some of the 90,000 surplus wooden ship patterns that were used by the Navy as molds for casting metal ship parts. "The artists will be recycling a part of history by using the ship patterns," states Mr. Ressi, "much as the developers are recycling and reshaping old space for use now."

The transformation from conceptual models to three large-scale finished sculptures has taken five months, hours of hard physical labor, and, in some instances, heroic engineering feats.

For Bill Jacobson, the process began by searching through a pile of 90,000 wooden ship patterns in an unheated warehouse at the Boston Shipyard, looking for similarly sized and shaped pieces. Relying on the elements of experimentation and chance involved in using unaltered "found" materials to create a sculpture, Jacobson arranged and rearranged the selected pattern pieces until the patterning and repetitions were pleasingly balanced. Each of the two 8' x 10' walls used approximately 200

Charlestown Community Center News

Well, the fall session is off and running at the Charlestown Community Center. A number of women are enjoying Barbara Maheigan's class, entitled "Making Xmas Gifts for Children." You should see the dolls, hobby horses, aprons, and mobiles they are making. Last week, a woman said that she saw the same gifts at Quincy Market for over $15.00. Hopefully, Barbara will teach this course during the Holiday Session.

Also, on Monday mornings and evenings, women are getting in shape through exercise and aerobic dancing classes. Next session, we hope to continue these and offer post-partum exercise for new mothers. So, all you women out there, get ready to get in shape.

On Wednesday evenings, there are two classes running. A group of people are learning to save lives through C.P.R. And, others are working on Plant Care and Flower Arranging, courtesy of the Bunker Hill Florist.

Every Thursday afternoon, the University of Massachusetts Extension Service is teaching a class on inexpensive meal planning and cooking. The class is learning how to cook for less money with alternatives to meat. If there is sufficient interest, we'll repeat this class in the Winter Session.

Unfortunately, because of limited sign-up, we had to cancel a number of classes, guest speakers, and the potluck dinner. Please, let us know in advance if you're going to participate in an activity.

Right now, we're busy planning the Holiday Session. It starts November 16 and runs for five weeks. We are looking for class ideas and volunteer teachers. If you have a skill or talent (most people have something to share), please give us a call and volunteer your time and energy. We especially need teachers for the following classes: home repair, sewing, Christmas crafts, holiday gift wrapping, making or buying Christmas gifts, and holiday cooking. Also, if you could lead participants in Christmas caroling, please let us know. It's your Community Center and we desperately need your help.

Finally, don't forget the famous Community Center Harvest Bazaar, which is coming up on Sunday, December 13 from 11 to 3. We moved it back a few weeks in order to avoid competition with the other Holiday Bazaars in town. We could still use volunteers to bake, bring things to the White Elephant Sale, make crafts, or volunteer to work on the day of the bazaar. If you want to help, please give us a call.

Adult Film Program

On Monday, November 2, 1981, at 2:00 p.m., the Adult Film Program will continue at the Charlestown Branch Library, 179 Main Street.

This week's film is "America Goes Over," depicting America's involvement in World War I.

What is important is that you start thinking about the impact of drugs in your life. This quiz will increase your awareness of the drugs most often abused or misused and how drugs can affect you. If you have any questions or concerns about the answers, you may want to discuss them with your family physician, counselor, or call a drug information hotline, if your community has one. Awards Grant For Austin Block

Secretary of State Michael Joseph Connolly, Chairman of the Massachusetts Historical Commission today announced that the National Park Service has awarded a matching grant of $50,000 to Historic Boston, Inc., for the redevelopment of Charlestown's Austin Block.

"I am extremely pleased to announce the awarding of this grant. The recognition of these valuable structures shows a great commitment from the people to preservation, tradition and heritage," Connolly said.

Located in the Town Hill Historic District, the Austin Block is significant as one of two stone buildings General Nathaniel Austin constructed in Charlestown during the Federal Period. It is a commercial re-use project that is being restored and will later be sold.

Palladino States Boston Public Schools At Crossroads

Boston Public Schools are at the crossroads, says Boston School Committee candidate Elvira "Pixie" Palladino, and the choice they take will set the stage for events that will either bring them chaos and oblivion or order and stability.

"There is no question that the liberal philosophies of the social engineers have brought the city's school system to its knees," said Palladino in a prepared press statement, Monday. "The discarding of traditional values, the uncontrolled spending of seemingly endless dollars, the interference of an out-of-touch Judicial System in local affairs and, to a large extent, a complacent public has placed the urban school on the brink of moral, fiscal and educational bankruptcy."

In one of her most hard-hitting statements of the campaign, Palladino warned that unless the schools are placed on the right road soon, there will be no saving them. Generations will pass before the public schools will be of value to the people who pay for them unless the process of revitalization starts now, she said.

"We said public education would crumble when the Federal money that held us hostage was withdrawn after they got what they wanted.

We said that confidence in public schools to educate and protect school children would disintegrate if the freedom of choice was denied.

We said that cities singularly put upon by desegregation orders were the least able to support the social theories of the liberal minded and would contribute to fiscal calamity that would not only affect schools but other city services.

"And all this has come to pass. Unfortunately, the liberal power structure that held power then turned a deaf ear to those of us who wanted to turn away from what we knew was a disastrous course. We were like voices crying in the wilderness."

Some of that liberal structure still exists, in the school department says Palladino, but they and their policies have been exposed for the frauds that they are. That awareness gives those of us who have battled against those policies new hope that common sense will prevail.

However, Palladino warned that although it was "... the beginning of the end" for the dominance of liberal policy and politics in Boston Public Schools, those that support that kind of thinking would not withdraw quickly or without a fight."

"They are a formidable foe," said Palladino, "and have incredible power.

"The have, and will, attempt to discredit those who oppose them through the liberal controlled media and the judiciary, and they will spend staggering sums of money to undermine any movement that threatens their existence."

"But, the beginning of their end is at hand, and the City of Boston is as good a place to start as any other."

For her part, Palladino said that she would continue to work for a fiscally responsible budget, stricter code of discipline, student, teacher and administrative accountability and a return to a freedom of choice process for Boston Public School students.

Regarding Tuesday's election,

Palladino said that since she alone stands out as the only conservative voice on the Boston School Committee, her election has particular significance.

"What's needed is a strong mandate that will show others on the Committee, the Council, and the State House that Conservatives are alive and well and are to be taken seriously."

Boston's road to recovery will start with Boston's Public Schools.

Complete Course At BTC

A group of unemployed Boston students are proving that it does pay to get job training. They've just completed a machine tool and welding course at the Boston Technical Center and already most of them are on the job. Forty-two individuals graduated from the Boston Technical Center (BTC) on Wednesday evening October 14, 1981. Paul X. O'Neil, President of P.X. Engineering was the guest speaker.

Two Charlestown residents were among the graduates. Paul LaPointe and Daniel Ring completed the welding course.

The welding curriculum includes the major welding techniques, and all but one of the 21 graduates have managed to get a job in their field.

The Boston Technical Center is operated by the Economic Development and Industrial Corporation (EDIC/Boston), the City's agency for industrial development, and is located at the Boston Marine Industrial Park, 660 Summer Street in South Boston.

DUMP DISTRICT SEATS

Here we go again, next Tuesday, November 3 is Election Day. It seems the more things change, the more they stay the same . . . I urge all Bostonians to dump District Representation as deep as possible into Boston Harbor. Let's give Questions 1 and 2 the Boston Tea Party Treatment. A few years back voters faced this question with a loud "NO" and the forces of reform just keep resurrecting it. It's nothing but a new blanket on an old horse and it's time to put it out to pasture for good. Remember, a district is not a neighborhood!

WHAT SHE SAY?

Maura Hennigan showed up for that Democratic Ward Two Candidates Night last week and proceeded to contract foot-in-mouth disease when giving her reasons for supporting District Representation. She stated her support loud and in general terms, stating Charlestown would benefit by this proposal. However, when questioned by the audience about what the district including Charlestown would look like, she then stuck her tongue a mile in front of her head.

Maura supports a Bunker, Beacon and Mission Hill District, stating such a district was contiguous by water. Many sounds of laughter arose from the audience and Maura still wouldn't back down!

I wonder what she tells North Enders or people in Roslindale or Jamaica Plain? Me thinks she's been drinking too much of that contiguous water binding Mission Hill with Charlestown!

CANDIDATES NIGHT A SUCCESS

Good to see Brian Hickey chairing the above mentioned candidates night. Charlestown residents turned out for this event and heard from most of the candidates running . . . Good to see David Scondras there, remember him well from earlier in the year during People's Fire House No. 2. David is a community activist from the Fenway and I think would make a fine Boston City Councillor for places like Charlestown, South Boston — all of Boston.

He is not a professional politician and isn't out to make a name for himself or anyone. On many city issues like public safety and housing, Scondras speaks for working people!

QUESTION 3 IS ON IRELAND

A group of citizens have formed a coalition supporting passage of Question 3 on the ballot.

Question 3, a non-binding referendum states, "Shall the President of the United States be requested to do all in his power to effect the withdrawal of all English military forces in Northern Ireland?"

A strong show of support on November 3 will provide a clear statement to Washington, D.C. and should influence our elected officials to bring about an end to human rights violation in British Ireland.

Vote "YES" on Question 3!

NOT LAST WORDS!

"No. 14 is either my lucky or unlucky number depending upon your point of view. I was No. 14 on . . . the ballot . . . and the final results showed that I lost by 14 votes. For over a year, I campaigned as best I could. I gave it my best shot. This election just wasn't my time. Tomorrow is another day . . . I'll be back!!"

SAINTHOOD NOMINATION

Theodore Anzalone has been nominated for "sainthood" by Kevin from Heaven.

Anzalone, who purportedly raises money for Kevin White was called - and I quote - "a minor saint" by Hizzoner.

Saint Anzalone, patron saint of political fundraisers?

WHERE'S BOSTON?

Got the feeling City Hall believes Boston begins in Copley Square and ends at the Quincy Market. Boston neighborhoods are nothing more than footnotes! It's about time Mayor White sees the real Boston out here in the neighborhoods.!

TED & RAY SHOW

Teddy Kennedy will have some real opposition next year now that Ray Shamie has publicly announced his candidacy for US Senate as a Republican.

Shamie will keep a safe distance between him and the New Right/Moral Majority forces. Ray is an independent conservative Republican, running because he and not Ted can do more for Massachusetts.

I support the Shamie candidacy and believe he will surprise a lot of people in 1982!

Preservation Society To Discuss Wood And Coal Heat

The Charlestown Preservation Society will hold its next meeting on Sunday, November 1. It will begin at 8 p.m. and be held at the Charlestown Community Center on Green Street.

The topic for this meeting will be "How to cut oil and gas bills by heating with coal or wood, and how to do it without burning your house to the ground." Duncan Smith will chair the meeting and introduce the evening's speakers, Harriet Smith and Billy Sweet.

Harriet Smith is a CPS member who has been in the alternative energy business for five years. She has heated with wood since she moved to Charlestown three years ago. She will talk about how to use coal and wood burning stoves most effectively, and will discuss appropriate floor plans, how to determine what size stove will work best for you, and what not to expect from this method of staying warm.

Billy Sweet is a mason and chimney sweep who hails from Bar Harbor, Maine, and now resides in Boston. He will speak about cleaning and maintaining flues and the consequences of failing to do so. He has built fireplaces and can answer questions about how to make them more efficient.

There will be a discussion period following each presentation. Bring your questions and bring a friend. New faces and prospective members are always welcome!

District Representation Debate

On Sunday

The League of Women Voters of Boston will host a debate on District Representation (Questions 1 and 2 on the November 3rd ballot) on Sunday, November 1st at Faneuil Hall, 2 to 3:30 p.m.

City Councillor Ray Flynn will advocate approval of the ballot questions, and Councillor Frederick Langone will argue against. Questions will be accepted from the audience.

reminded the audience of his 10 years on the council and addressed most of his comment to the Tregor Bill, saying that the new version, handed back the council from Beacon Hill legislators, did not guarantee public safety and exempted Boston from the restraints of Proposition 2 1/2.

Jim Kelly—of South Boston aligned his residence in Southie with living in Charlestown. "We share the same culture, battles and problems, said Kelly, who cited declining of neighborhoods, lack of public safety, crime and drug abuse as problems both neighborhoods have. He wants to see a committee formed to study condominium conversion proposals to determine the affect on a community and which has control over allowing or stopping a particular conversion. "I'm not totally against condos," said Kelly.

Gerry McHale—of Dorchester said he was the only Vietnam Veteran running for a city seat and had four years employment with the city as a Boston Policemen. He too, said he was in favor of districting.

Dave Scondras—told the audience it was time people in the community took back the city. He said that over the years they have learned to rely on each other because of the poor response to their needs from the city. Scondras reminded the audience of his involvement with the People's Fire House during that takeover. In commenting on station closings, Scondras called it a "severe threat to life." "Those cutback were not necessary. It was just done for political leverage."

Maura Hennigan—of Jamaica Plain said she was in favor of districting and said she would want to cut the mayor's term to two years. She also sees a need for a Boston housing policy.

McCormack Speaks Out On The Issues

Michael McCormack, candidate for the Boston City Council, recently detailed his views on many issues. Michael finished 10th in the September primary and political observers give him an excellent chance of winning a seat.

The 34 year old attorney served as Assistant Attorney General for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in the Civil and Criminal divisions. "In my years working with Frank Bellotti, I saw first hand the rise in crime which is threatening the safety of our citizens and making our neighborhoods less desirable areas in which to work and live." McCormack added. "Every fire and police station recently closed is in the neighborhoods, none of the stations protecting the downtown business district were closed."

McCormack is an Associate Professor at Bentley College and has taught in the Boston Public School system. "The Boston School Committee must take the blame for the present financial state of our schools," McCormack declared. "I support measures which would give the Superintendent stronger management responsibilities and leave policy decisions to the School Committee."

McCormack does not believe that the Mayor and present City Council have served Boston's voters well in their initial attempts to implement proposition 2 1/2. "Boston needs new sources of revenue to replace the property tax. The students and suburbanites who use the city must pay their fair share, not just the home owners. City government must regain a degree of professionalism which is currently lacking in its management practices."

McCormack has been endorsed by the Boston Tenants Organization and will lobby actively on housing issues. "Boston is facing a serious shortage of rental units and something must be done to make housing more available to low income tenants and elderly residents on fixed incomes."

McCormack does not believe that the election of new people to office is the complete answer to Boston's problems. "There is a fundamental structural problem with the City of Boston's government. The mayor has too much power in relation to the City Council and many areas of our city do not have representation." McCormack added, "If elected, I will work for a charter reform process which will curb the excesses of a strong mayor form of government."

He Did Not Build Bridges

by Charlie McGonagle

Little Bobby Smith never had an opportunity to score the winning touchdown, to hit a homerun in extra innings, or drop in a deciding basket at the buzzer. He didn't run in marathons, climb mountains, author a novel, or build bridges. No, little Bobby Smith did not do these things. He could not do these things, but he did more, much more.

Rare is the person, indeed, who resides in our town and does not, did not, know little Bobby Smith. He is the little fellow who proudly wore the red jacket of the Special Olympics, and for months supervised the painting of the Mystic River Bridge. Ask any member of that work crew if Bobby's presence was important to them. To a man they would agree that his being there each Saturday morning made things a whole lot easier, a whole lot more enjoyable.

Bobby loved music and was attracted to a band like a moth to a flickering flame. He attended functions at the Knights of Columbus, at St. Catherines, anyplace where he could stand before the orchestra and listen to the music. If you ran a function, Bobby Smith would be there, it was expected. Rarely did he disappoint.

He was a regular visitor at the Bunker Hill Health Center where he was allowed to roam freely, offering advice to the many doctors, dentists, and nurses.

I saw him often in Doctor Goldstein's office. As a patient of the good Doctor. I spent many a Monday afternoon subjecting myself to the wonders of modern Dental Medicine, and in would walk Bobby.

"Hi ya Charlie, does it hurt?"

Unable to answer, with my mouth filled to capacity with tools, clamps, cotton, and Doctor Goldstein's fingers, I could only roll my eyes in his direction, hoping they might convey my message of discomfort.

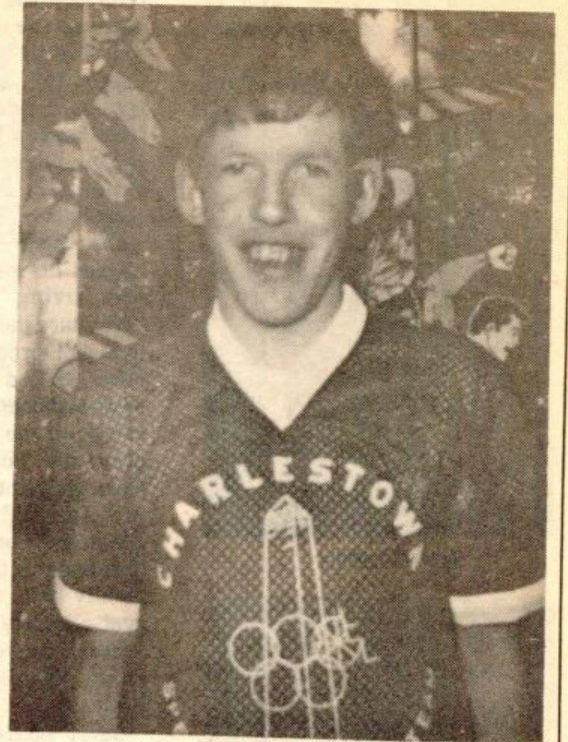

"Fix em good, Doc," he would laugh, and then leave to visit another patient.

At Charlestown High School his attendance record was superb. Through recently enacted public laws, Bobby was allowed to attend his local high school, and it provided a social outlet that, heretofore, had escaped his experiences.

Hector Cosme and Bobby Jackson were his friends. The fact that Hector as a Puerto Rican and Bobby Jackson was Black never occurred to him.

Most days, after finishing his lunch, little Bobby Smith would make his rounds of the cafeteria tables. His unique laughter, and the waves of laughter he was able to create throughout the lunchroom, became his trademark.

Yes, laughter followed little Bobby Smith, but fate stalked him. And this past Tuesday the inevitable occurred. Little Bobby Smith died, but not before he left his legacy.

BOBBY SMITH

With the tiniest of hands he reached out and gently touched the heart of an entire town. He was given the power to bring a smile to the lips of the sad, a ray of sunshine to an otherwise dark day. And he did both with an expertise I know I will never see again.

He was never physically strong, but in many ways he possessed a greater strength than any of us will ever know.

Little Bobby Smith's powers were not physical, but they were extraordinary, magnificent. The things God was able to teach us through him in the few years he gave little Bobby Smith were immeasurable....

No, Little Bobby Smith did not build bridges, he did more, much more.

Editor's Note: Bobby Smith, the son of Robert and Judy (Marcella) Smith of Belmont Street, is also survived by sisters Darlene, Karen and Judith and brothers David and Wayne. Bobby's grandparents are Thomas and Dora Marcella and Irene and the late Thomas F. Smith. The funeral will be from the John H. Sawyer Funeral Home, 329 Bunker Hill Street on Friday, October 30 at 8:10 a.m. A Funeral Mass will be at St. Francis de Sales Church at 9:00 a.m. Relatives and friends are invited. The Parents, Students, Teachers Association of Mount St. Joseph Academy is sponsoring an old-fashioned Country Store on Thursday, November 12, 1981 from 7:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m. at the Academy, 617 Cambridge Street, Brighton.

Proceeds from the Country Store will benefit the PSTA special projects, among which is the scholarship program for the Washington, D.C. Close-up event for the students in the spring. All City Councillor Joseph M. Tierney has called for public hearings to examine administration attempts to slash human service programs under the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program.

Calling the White administration move "cold and underhanded" Tierney stated he has gone to court to subpoena city and HUD officials before the committee on Government Finance, of which he is Chairman, in order to rectify the situation.

According to Tierney, the mayor acted without City Council approval and forwarded to the Department of Housing and Urban Development his original application for funding, disregarding all Council amendments.

"In neighborhood hearings the Council held this past summer the people turned thumbs down on the mayor's proposal. They asked the Council to recognize the needs of neighborhood programs, and we answered that request. Now it seems the mayor has turned a deaf ear to the pleas of the neighborhoods," said Tierney.

According to Tierney, the City Council was able to more than double the mayor's proposed funding for human service programs by cutting "bloated administrative payrolls." The mayor's proposal called for $1.5 million in funding for human service programs through the CDBG program, while the Council amended this figure to over $3.75 million.

"Through our amendments the Council has attempted to restore needed funding particularly for elderly, day care and community school programs. The mayor has chosen to ignore these needs," said Tierney.

"The mayor may have succeeded in this shell game in the past, but he's got a fight on his hands this year," Tierney concluded.

gifts have been donated by parents or local merchants.

Chairperson is Mrs. Francis Lawson of Vineyard St., Cambridge. The committee includes Mrs. Treece Mullan of Charlestown.

The monthly meeting of the PSTA of Mount St. Joseph Academy will be held on Thursday, November 5, 1981 in the Academy cafeteria at 7:30 p.m. President Daniel Barton, Brighton, will conduct a brief business meeting and the Board will complete plans for the Country Store for November 12 and the College Financial Aid Seminar to be held on December 3. A Social Hour with refreshments follows the meeting. All members of the Mount PSTA and interested friends are invited to attend.

Foster Parent Day

Governor King has declared November 1, 1981 Foster Parent Observance Day. Foster parents provide an invaluable service to the children of this Commonwealth. In recognition of these dedicated and selfless people, Suzanne Palma, Area Director, and the Department of Social Services Harbor Area Office are inviting foster parents from Charlestown to a reception. These foster parents will be publicly honored for their role in caring for children in an awards ceremony.

Refreshments will be served and a general discussion of foster care will follow. Also invited are any persons interested in becoming foster parents. The reception will be held Wednesday, November 4, 1981 at 7:00 p.m. at the Department of Social Services, 115 Gove Street, East Boston.

DON'T BE MISLED

The advocates of District Representation would have the voters believe that their plan would give Boston's communities more representation. They conveniently fail to inform you of some very important facts if their plan passes. The following are facts that the Pro-District Representation people can't deny.

FACT: If passed the new district plan of electing city officials will cost the tax payers more money. That money could be better spent to rehire police and firemen.

FACT: The plan will increase the size of both the City Council and the School Committee.

FACT: Under the present At Large system of electing the City Council legally - every citizen has nine Councilors to represent them. Under the new plan, at most, each citizen will have five Councilors to go to for assistance. While the new plan will give Boston more City Councilors less of them will be accountable to you and it will cost you more. If passed all neighborhoods will have less access to the City Council Body.

FACT: Many of those who are pushing for this plan to change the election process of Boston - Do not live in Boston.

FACT: The same proposal was defeated by the voters of Boston on two other occasions.

FACT: If the plan passes Boston will be divided into 9 Districts with approximately 70,000 people in each. Neighborhoods must be combined to create these Districts. You won't know how the Districts will be drawn until after you vote.

needing no introduction, said he was opposed to district representation calling it a farce. He reminded the audience that he was a full-time councillor and promised to help if districting was passed. O'Neil also said he would take the U.S. Marshall job if appointed. O'Neil says Boston has adequate revenues and would not want to see a commuter or parking tax, and that fiscal mismanagement is responsible for Boston's budget problems.

Pam Gillman—one of Kevin's Seven, who allegedly received campaign help from Mayor White's political machine, told the audience she is an independent thinker. She has worked for the administrations of Governor King, President Gerald Ford and Governor Mike Dukakis. "I know how to get results," said Gillman. She thinks the city needs more women in government and plans on creating a neighborhood network for accountability. A housing policy and a place for senior citizens on the city council are two of her goals.

Fred Langone—of the North End is an 18 year member of the City Council. He touched on the subject of the Navy Yard, telling residents that he is watching it very closely as he is concerned about who reaps the development benefits of that area. "I want to make sure Charlestown gets a fair share of the money," said Langone. He agrees with O'Neil that Prop. 2 1/2 can be augmented by "cutting the fat out of the budget."

Candidates' Night

breath, he reminded the audience he was a state representative for Ward 20, (W. Roxbury) and would see that political issues were not "mis-priorities."

Candidates not present for the Candidates Night were Bruce Bolling, Chris Iannella and Pat McDonough.

In the School Committee segment of Candidates Night, heated questioning resumed over the recent layoff of Boston teachers. The sensitivity on this issue was involvement from the judge as it could have become one more area in which he might take strict control, such as in forced busing. However, she stated that she believed the quality of teachers should have been the determining criteria for the layoffs.

Other candidate comments were as follows:

Felix Arroyo—an Hispanic involved in community affairs for a number of years, sees better in deep trouble which could lead to the system's creditation being taken away.

Rita Walsh-Tomasini—would return the KI programs back to the school system. She, too, would demand accountability on the budget, citing an example of the school system computer's failure to locate a particular teacher and student.

Jean Sullivan McKeigue—mother of four children who attend Boston Public Schools insists on excellent education, accountability for the school department and support for all members of the school staff. She sees long-range planning as a priority and wants the code of discipline enforced. She stressed parent participation.

Elvira "Pixie" Palladino—sees the $210 million school budget large enough for the school system. She reminded the audience that she was the only candidate still publicly against forced busing. She is also against district representation, saying it will further confuse parents who live in one school district and send their children to another district. "Whom do parents go to?" asked Palladino.

Kevin McCluskey—a former employee of the Charlestown Boys' Club said he was committed to strengthening education and has disliked the budget cuts he has had to make. At one point of the meeting McCluskey told the audience he did not want to layoff teachers but had to because of the lack of money.

Jean McGuire—stressed accountability and uniform bookkeeping for the school system and would work at creating a citizenry willing to pay for a quality education, calling education the "cornerstone of democracy." McGuire found resentment in the audience when she said she would keep her job if elected as director of METCO, a busing program which buses black children, only, to suburban schools. "I have a family to feed" said McGuire, who also did not see her job as a conflict of interest, as one resident accused.

John Tierney—has served in numerous governmental agencies; in the city council for 2 terms, as chairman on the school committee, and as Park Commissioner for Boston and the MDC. He said, "The whole system is in chaos," complaining about teacher layoffs.

Not present were John McDonough and John O'Bryant.

very obvious in the raised voices of incumbent school committee members and the argument which ensued between candidates and the audience.

Taking a vote on who was in favor of laying teachers off according to seniority and not according to affirmative action guidelines, all candidates raised their hands except McKiegue and McGuire.

McKiegue said she voted to go with Judge Garrity's order to lay off the teachers according to affirmative action guidelines to "get him out once and for all." McKiegue feared further in-fiscal management and accountability for the school department a priority. Arroyo also said he wants to see more programs implemented in the schools to unite cultures saying, "If we do not know each other then we can not deal with each other."

David Sheehan—said he was endorsed by the Boston Teachers Union and the Greater Boston Labor Council. A professional educator, he sees a need for a city-wide curriculum, adaptable to school needs, and that the current budget does not support the city's educational needs. Sheehan said Boston Schools are

Understanding Financial Aid

To assist potential students in understanding financial aid, including the various types, the application process and student rights and responsibilities, Bunker Hill Community College in Charlestown has prepared a new booklet to help ease some of the financial burdens incurred and related to attendance at college.

It includes information on grants and scholarships, loans and work study programs.

The preferred financial aid filing deadline for the Spring semester is December 1 or by May 1, 1982 for the fall semester.

Applications for Massachusetts State Scholarships should be filed by March 1, 1982 for first time applicants or by April 1 for renewals.

Copies of the BHCC booklet are available by calling 241-8600, ext. 275 or by writing to the college, Rutherford Avenue, Charlestown, MA 02129.

Columbus Wins Overtime Defensive Thriller!

by Bob DeCristoforo

If '80' was the year of the "Big O" for Christopher Columbus High School, then '81' might just be the year of the "Big D," and it might just be illustrated by Sunday's classic league battle against St. Clement. For Columbus it was a heart stopper, for St. Clement's it was a heart breaker . . . the final a 6-0 overtime Columbus win upping their league record to 3-1-0, and an overall record of 3-2-1.

Injuries caused some quick adjustments since the Charlestown 6-6 tie, and all worked well. Quarterbacking for this one was junior Michael Yandle with Captain Angelo LaPaglia moving into the backfield.

Up and down the field both teams moved, but every drive was stopped by superb defense by both sides, but give the glory to the Friars, because just about every defensive pop was a stinging team defensive blow. Ed Garvey, Ron Curry, Bob Buckley, Enrico Ricci and Paul Graham are names St. Clement players won't forget. From start to finish they led the defensive attack.

And what a finish! Four hardhitting quarters gone, and now each team would take four more downs from the ten yard mark to score . . . OVER TIME! For Columbus their very first. It didn't take long. The Friars needed an offensive hero and the call went to Captain Angelo LaPaglia, who has the knack of doing the right thing at the right time, and baby this was the right time! Play one, Yandle to LaPaglia for 5 yards. Play two, Yandle to LaPaglia 5 yards . . . OT TOUCHDOWN!

But remember in High School OT, each team has a chance to score, so now St. Clement took over, or better recorded Columbus' defense took over. Play one down! Play two down! Play three down! Play four down!

Coach Campea summed it up best in the locker "It was a tremendous total team victory."

The Friars now travel to Newton Catholic for another big league game on Sunday at 1:30 p.m. and yes that league title is still up for grabs.

Beckner Retains Magic Touch With Bara Ray

You can't fall in love with your own breeding or you'll go bankrupt in the greyhound business.

That's Skinny Beckner's belief even though he has bred most of his talented stable at his farm down in Lee, Florida, where he keeps about 100 dogs and 12 brood bitches.

Two of his ace sprinters recently arrived at Wonderland for the current $100,000 World Sprint Championship. They are Bara Ray and the pup Barbi Gal.

Bara Ray is out of Tara Boucher-Canyon. If you're a breeding afficiando, you'll recall that Canyon is out of Rock A Dee who set the Wonderland record which still stands of 15 straight wins in 1966 for Beckner. "This is a real nice dog," Beckner admitted while on hand for the first round, "but he's not in the class with Rock A Dee. If the track is firm and we're lucky 'nuff to draw a rail spot, watch out."

Winner of more than 30 races this year, Bara Ray was track champion with 18 at the Tampa winter meet and captured the Purina Grand Prix Championship at Derby Lane. He then won a couple at West Memphis before returning to Tampa. He broke in last year in the Great Race at Seabrook and won a couple of qualifying heats but didn't make the final.

Barbi Gal is a 27-month-old brindle out of Onie Jones-Barb and never has been worse than fourth in seven starts.

"Dog racing is getting better every year," Beckner concluded, "mainly because track owners and kennel owners have learned to work together. It's a grand sport as well as industry."

Second-round action went Monday and Tuesday and the entire 54-dog field returns Friday, October 30 for the third round.

N.E. Patriots Garner $28,000 For Boys' And Girls' Club

Although the N.E. Patriots are having trouble getting into the win column, they are managing to win dollars for the Boys' and Girls' Clubs of Boston.

With the season at the mid-way mark, the Patriots have garnered $28,300 for the Boys' and Girls' Clubs of Boston. Every time the Patriots score a point it means $100 for the Boys' and Girls' Clubs of Boston, a non-profit organization of more than 5,000 youngsters.

The Patriots have been averaging about 23 points per game in their four pre-season and eight season clashes so far this year. Last season the Patriots tallied 545 points against opponents which meant $54,500 for the Boys' and Girls' Clubs of Boston from Frito-Lay, maker of Lay's and Ruffles brand potato chips and Fritos brand corn chips. This is the sixth year that Frito-Lay has teamed with the Patriots in this worthy community project, according to Phil Thomas, Frito-Lay Division Sales Manager. Over the past five years Frito-Lay has contributed $227,300 to the Boys' and Girls' Clubs of Boston for the points scored by the Patriots.

To equal last year's sum, the Patriots will have to average 33 points a game for the balance of the season. So, in addition to rooting for the Patriots to win, the more than 5,000 youngsters of the Boys' and Girls' Clubs of Boston are cheering the team to cross the goal line more often for this worthy project.

THE ALMOST INSTANT GAME

You buy your $2 ticket and, about 30 seconds later, you see if you've won.

The game: run like a son-of-a-gun for 1/16 of a mile. The field: 64 of the greatest greyhounds in the world. The prize: the $100,000 invitational World Sprint Championship.

Rounds 1, 2 and 3 narrowed the field to 32 contenders. Round 4 decides the final 8 dogs now racing for the title of "the fastest sprinter in the world."

One thing's for sure: every dog out there will give you a great run for your money. And at close to 42 miles per hour, it's about the fastest return you could make on a $2 investment.

Boys' And Girls Club News

by Charlie McGonagle

In a recent edition of "Inside Sports," I read, with a great deal of interest, of Sports Tip Sheets. These publications and telephone services allow the general public to become the recipients of certain valuable information which will assist them in transforming their meagre collection of "Funny Money" into untold hordes of ready cash. There is, of course, a fee for these services, and in most cases the fees run into the hundreds of dollars.

investing a shilling or two on a Monday Night Football Game, I would suggest tossing a coin. The team the coin decides upon will cost you considerably less than the one selected by the football touts, and its chances of picking a winner are 50 percent, a figure many of the tipsters struggle to maintain.

In order to prove the ordinary layman is as accurate, if not more accurate, than the professional advisors, I would like to take this opportunity to make a few sport by sport predictions.

These predictions are the result of months of intensive study, interviews, and common sense.

As the professionals strive for a sixty to seventy percent success rate, I will guarantee my predictions to be 100 percent accurate. In fact, I will go a step further. If any person, place, or thing — animal, vegetable, or mineral — man, woman, or child is successful in making a wager on any of my predictions and loses, I will return the amount of the wager in triplicate. That's right folks, I am that sure of my forecast. And what, you ask, do I charge for this service? In the way of money, absolutely nothing, silch, zip, zero, nada! I do, however, ask a favor. (So here's the catch, you say.) Please, please if you are successful in finding a bookmaker who might take a small risk on one of my many predictions, forward his phone number to my home, immediately. Thank you.

As we are in the midst of the World Series, I will begin with a Baseball Forecast.

1. At the conclusion of this year's World Series competition, even in the event of a Yankee sweep of the Dodgers, Casey Stengel will not be named "Manager of the Year."

2. In spite of the fine showing by the Red Sox this year, I predict a consecutive season record will remain intact. Since coming to the Red Sox in the 1950's, Don Buddin has never led the American League in hitting. I predict he will not lead the League next year either, keeping his string alive.

3. Although the sensational Fernando Valenzuela of the Los Angeles Dodgers is an exceptional Athlete, I predict he will not lead the National League in home runs during the 1982 Season.

4. In spite of a tremendous amount of public support, at least locally, for the Red Sox efforts in this proposed move, the New York Yankees will not trade Babe Ruth back to the hometown ball club.

5. We have all heard of the Tinkers, to Evers, to Chance doubleplay combination. In spite of their past heroics on the baseball diamond, I predict the trio will not execute a single twin killing during the 1982 season.

6. And finally, I predict Joe DiMaggio will never again threaten his own consecutive game hitting streak.

And now Basketball and Hockey.

1. Should Eric Fernstien be successful in making the Celtics team this year, he will not lead the League in rebounding, despite his height advantage over Johnny Most.

2. Even though Wilt Chamberlain is the only player in the history of the N.B.A. to score one hundred points in a single game, he will not be named to the 1981-82 All-Star Team.

3. The Charlestown Youth Hockey League will not have a team representing their organization at the 1982 World Cup Championships.

4. The Bruins Uke Lir... of Bronco Horvath, Vic Stasiuk, and Johnny Bucyk will not be intact this year.

5. Despite governmental guidelines and pressures, the Bruins will not adopt affirmative action hiring policies.

And because we are now midway through the Football season, I will make my current season predictions in that sport.

1. Although the athletic department at Boston College would welcome the additional income, the Eagles will not accept an invitation to the Sugar Bowl, even if one was forthcoming.

2. The Chicago Bears will not play the Washington Redskins in the upcoming Super Bowl.

3. Patriot Quarterback Tom Owens, despite a perfect zero for zero pass-completion record, will not lead the NFL in total yardage.

4. In spite of the ineptitude of Patriot punting throughout the course of the team's history, NFL Headquarters will deny owner Billy Sullivan's request of two kicks per each fourth down play.

5. If Penn State and Pittsburgh complete the current season without suffering a loss or tie, the NCAA will officially declare both teams undefeated and untied. A single blemish to either Eleven's record could possibly alter the NCAA's thinking.

6. The team scoring the most points in this year's Super Bowl will win — double up on this one.

Well there they are folks, my one hundred per cent guaranteed predictions. Remember, you heard it here first.

Artists Recycle History In Navy Yard

pattern pieces, and each piece had to be sanded, glued to plywood supports, cleaned and oiled. The support pieces were then reassembled like a giant jigsaw puzzle and bolted into the wall. The results are two massive entryway walls, covered with pattern pieces of various sizes, providing an entry not only into the building, but also into the maritime history of the Shipyard.

The process for Chuck Holtzman was similar. Employing large pattern pieces for volume and more intricate pieces for outside detail, Holtzman stacked, glued, and cut the pieces, forming a 10' x 10' x 5" wedge shape. The sculpture was then transported across the Shipyard via crane and maneuvered into place using heavy-duty dollies. Once in place, the sculpture was cleaned and oiled, and lighting was installed to further increase the sculpture's ship prow presence.

For Mario Kon, construction and installation of his 700-foot long hanging sculpture were almost synonymous since the major portion of the actual fabrication took place in the airy atrium of Building 42. Kon, with his two assistants, hoisted scaffolds which served as walkways in getting from balcony to balcony, the places from which they installed the sculpture. The undulating, floating feeling of the piece which softens and enlivens the geometric interior of the building is produced through its design and engineering. The entire structure is suspended by a series of thin tension guidewires which use bamboo sticks as foils to stretch the translucent orange and blue fabric panels taut. The feeling of motion inherent in the piece is particularly effective when viewing the sculpture through the glass fronts of the moving elevators. The translucent character of the piece changes throughout the day with the changing quality of light filtering through the atrium's skylight.

The Artists Foundation anticipates the success of this project will be the harbinger of future private-sector involvements with commissioning public art work.

The City Scene

by Dick Sinnott

IT HAS BEEN PERHAPS THE MOST BORING ELECTION CAMPAIGN IN THE HISTORY OF MAN.

There has been no snap, no crackle, no pop.

Even the candidates look like they couldn't shake another hand, hang another sign, evade another question.

True, non-mayoralty elections usually are hum-drum, but this one has left many of the electorate in a coma.

The only sliver of excitement tingles when you calculate who might top the ticket—Ray Flynn, Chris Iannella or "Dapper"

O'Neil.

The other incumbents appear to be in no danger although Fred Langone, Joe Tierney and Pat McDonough may not finish as high Tuesday as they did in the Primary. It's just possible one might be knocked off.

Of the remaining dozen contenders who has the best chance?

I'd chalk up one for Maura Hennigan both in this column and when I go to the polls. The lady is a champ. Jim Kelly also looks good to me as does Bruce Bolling, but both Kelly and Bolling have to get out their vote. David Scondras also looks strong.

Nor should you dismiss any of the "Three Macs"—popular former police commissioner Edmund L. McNamara—gutsy ex-asst. Atty. Gen. Mike McCormack and/or strong vote getter Terry McDermott.

The rest of the field is a loose as an undone omelet, but if I were betting longshots I'd plunk down some green on Gerard P. McHale, Charles C. Yancey and/or the very capable Francis X. Coppinger.

That leaves Pamela J. Gillman and Craig Lankhorst and we won't know how successfully they've put it all together until around 10 o'clock Tuesday night. Gillman, a charmer, and Lankhorst, a hard worker, should be watched.

Looking now at the School Committee contest: John D. O'Bryant continues to display amazing strength and might very well be Boston's first black mayor a few years hence. Jean Sullivan McKeigue, who ran second in the Primary, also appears certain of re-election. She will be a major force in Boston politics for years to come.

Rita Walsh-Tomasini, Number One on the Committee ballot, should come in third or fourth Tuesday and incumbent Kevin McCluskey has also picked up speed. McCluskey is a credit to his city, his family—himself.

How badly incumbents John J. McDonough and Elvira Palladino have been hurt—or perhaps helped—by recent publicity remains to be seen. The candidate to keep your eyes on in this race is John J. Tierney, Jr., a proven vote getter and leader. He could score. So, too, could Jean M.

McGuire.

Many observers think the class of the field is David F. Sheehan, teacher, coach, humanitarian. Felix D. Arroyo could also surprise. His credentials are impressive and his attitude upbeat.

Now let's examine once more this "district representation" issue we're being asked to vote on—Questions 1 and 2 on the ballot:

I'm voting "NO" on each and I'll tell you why:

First of all, no one including all its sponsors, can tell you what will comprise a "district." Would you buy a home, an auto, a car, even a TV set, without first seeing it? Of course not.

Secondly, many of the folks who want to bring us "district representation" are the same liberal folks who brought us forced busing. Next they'll want to bring back Pearl Harbor.

Finally, we already have "district representatives." We call them state senators and state representatives. They are supposed to represent their districts—not themselves.

Don't you agree Channel Four's Gary LaPierre is coming along fine as a co-anchor on the noon news?

Way to go, Gary...

Query to this region's liquor store owners:

With 30 different brands of bourbon whisky why must you always feature Jim Beam on "bargain days"?

Jim Beam is a sour mash and most of us rough, tough bourbon drinkers don't go the sour route, we want it straight.

Thank You, Charlestown

To the people of Charlestown:
On behalf of the Muscular Dystrophy Association, I'd like to thank all of you in the Charlestown area for helping to make the 1981 Jerry Lewis Telethon and the fund-raising events surrounding it our most successful ever. Your generosity, compassion, and hard work will enable the Association to continue its fight against neuromuscular diseases, and bring us closer to the day when these crippling disorders are no longer a threat to those we love. Once again, you've proven that Charlestown is vitally important to MDA's nationwide effort. It's clear to us that you're united in your stand against neuromuscular disease, and the result this past Labor Day was just tremendous. Your commitment to winning the war on muscular dystrophy and related diseases will surely lead us to victory one day soon.

Again, thank you for your terrific support. It's great to know we can count on you!

Letter To Charlestown Residents And Voters

The "Jim" Kelly Committee would like to take the opportunity to address the Charlestown people via the Charlestown Patriot on their support for James M. "Jim" Kelly, candidate for Boston City Council. "Jimmy" Kelly is not a new face to the people of Charlestown. Jim has been involved in the problems of our town. Jimmy has marched with our leaders in Charlestown during the anti-busing protest marches of 1974, when our children were forced to attend schools across the city - even when they lived a street away from the neighborhood school, mainly because the social scientists thought it would create a balanced education.

Well, here we are seven years later, and these same social scientists - leaders of the National Educational Committee - along with the Dept. of Education in government - are now agreeing that busing hasn't worked throughout the country to desegregate a school system. Let the new administration of President Reagan take the credit for the new changes being discussed, but let us not forget the grass root workers who fought in the trenches back in 1973-74; who marched and took ridicule for their stand against forced-busing. One such soldier who proudly took a stand then - and has never changed his stand since was "Jimmy" Kelly, the South Boston strong boy-and City Council candidate.

Seven years ago, "Jimmy" Kelly was not politically astute; since then, his continuous involvement in problems and challenges effecting many Boston neighborhoods, (problems that Councillors in City government choose to turn their backs on), including Charlestown, found "Kelly" taking a stand on behalf of the people on such issues as the closing of the police station, and fire barn; the closings of the Bunker Hill and Holden schools; living conditions in the housing projects throughout the entire city; and his stand on affirmative action jobs that were nothing but reverse discrimination at best; with a total disregard to firemen and policemen who happen to be not in the minority.

Jim Kelly is the only candidate in both the Council and School Committee races who emphatically states that "he will never vote for Affirmative Action in its present form because it gives preferential treatment to one group at the expense of others.

Jim also will demand periodic street cleaning and he further indicates that should the city fail in their responsibility to clean streets and maintain roadways, this function would be awarded to qualified private contractors.

Jim Kelly's endless energies were displayed during the recent protest march for Northern Ireland on September 27th, which commenced at the Bunker Hill Monument and concluded at the Congress Street bridge where he participated amidst an array of eloquent speakers denouncing the fallacy of 200 years of English rule.

Charlestown's local political aspirant, Brian Hickey, stated in the October 1st edition of the Charlestown Patriot that "the 'Townies' needed new blood on the Boston City Council and a Voice representing Bunker Hill town"—and we agree on both counts.

"Jim Kelly will be that new blood, that new Voice that has been missing since 1950. Kelly's pledge to represent Charlestown was voiced long before the primary.

Certainly Kelly's interest in our town makes him the logical Council candidate to support, as he knows our problems and he answers our call whenever our causes need a leader or to carry our banner to the halls of our City or State government.

Sincerely yours,
Charlestown Committee to elect
James M. "Jim" Kelly
City Councillor
P.S. - Jim Kelly is No. 16 on the ballot

Open Letter To Charlestown Residents

(BECAUSE WE HAVE TO BE INFORMED)

After attending the District Representation meeting this past Tuesday, October 20, 1981, I just could not believe this QUESTION could be taken so lightly, especially by OUR voters. If passed, four new City Councillors would be elected in 1983. The cost to have these new Councillors and their aides would be an expensive price to pay. Proposition 2½ was meant to cut the fat out of the budget not to add new costs to the taxpayers of Boston (which this plan will do.)

It was also stated (the punch line) that more than likely Charlestown would NOT have

In a recent interview Councillor Rosemarie Sansone stated that 'No one on the City Council really understands the needs of people in Charlestown.'

We urge all Townies to vote for the candidate who has marched with our residents, fought for our school children - and, when elected to the Boston City Council, will represent our neighborhood.

Halloween Spooks Museum Of Science

A costume parade with prizes for the most creative outfits, the well-equipped witch bending over her steaming cauldron, and the eerie light of St. Elmo's Fire flickering against a ship's mast.

That is Halloween Night for visitors to Boston's Museum of Science Friday, October 30, from 6 to 10 p.m.

Judging of costumes takes place in the Great Well of the Museum's West Wing from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Prizes are awarded for categories of under five, five to 12, teenagers, and adults.

The witch's program on The Science of Sorcery is given in Cahners Theatre at 6, 7, and 8 p.m. Free tickets are available in the Lobby before each program on a first-come, first-served basis. Surrounded by a collection of wild plants, including tree branches and herbs gathered on a moonless night, the witch explains their magical properties. Her familiar black cat sits beside her.

The Museum's demonstration of electricity in the Thomson Theatre at 7 and 8 p.m. includes illustrations of the electrical discharge that sailors long considered an omen of good luck.

The demonstration also produces a 15-foot-long bolt of artificial lightning and an ear-crackling clap of thunder, symbols of terror in horror films and novels.

Halloween Night activities are free with Museum admission, reduced Friday nights to $2 for adults and $1 for children, students, and senior citizens. Children under five and members are free.

Fight At High School

Leads To Arrest

Suspensions

One student was arrested and several others were suspended from school Tuesday morning as the result of a fight involving about 25 students at Charlestown High School.

A spokesman for the School Department said the fight at Charlestown High began between two students on the fourth floor, and the other students joined later. One student, who was not identified because he is a juvenile, was arrested and charged with assault with a dangerous weapon after he swung a pipe-like device and struck two persons, the spokesman said.

Answers to Drug Quiz

- 1. ALCOHOL. It is estimated that about 10 million people in the United States are dependent on alcohol. About two-thirds of all adults are occasional drinkers of either wine, beer, or some other alcoholic beverage. About half of all junior high school students have tried some type of alcoholic drinks.
- 2. AVOID WITHDRAWAL. When heroin addicts are deprived suddenly of the drug, they develop physical withdrawal symptoms. These symptoms may include shaking, sweating, nausea, runny nose and eyes, muscle spasms, headaches and stomachaches. Sudden withdrawal from certain drugs can be dangerous. For instance, a person who has been using barbiturate sedatives for a long time should not attempt withdrawal without a physician's assistance.
- 3. MARIJUANA. Marijuana was legally declared a narcotic in the past but it is not now. The way the drug works on a person's mental and physical system differs from the effects of narcotics.
- 4. 18 - 25. The findings from the 1979 National Survey on Drug Abuse showed that of the three major age groups surveyed (12-17, 18-25, and 26 and over) illicit drug abuse was more prevalent among young adults, ages 18-25.
- 5. PEYOTE. The active ingredient of the peyote cactus is mescaline, a hallucinogen. Physical dependence on this class of drugs has not been verified.
- 6. THROUGH THEIR FRIENDS. The pressure from friends to experiment with drugs can influence many people to try drugs, especially young people. Being accepted by friends is strong pressure. But showing friends that you care when they feel bad about themselves and their lives, and helping them solve problems can prevent them from becoming involved with drugs.
- 7. PHENCYCLIDINE (PCP). This illicit drug can produce unpredictable, erratic, and violent behavior in users. These actions can be directed at themselves or at others, and, in some cases, have led to serious injuries and death. Drownings, burns, falls from high places, and automobile accidents have also been reported. Since the drug is usually manufactured illegally, users cannot be certain of its purity.
- 8. METHAQUALONE. This is a non-barbiturate sleep-inducing drug called a "lude" or "sopor" on the street. Abuse can lead to convulsions or coma.
- 9. CHILDREN. Inhalant abuse is rising among children between the ages of 12 and 17. These substances are readily available in household products, often found in aerosol sprays. Inexpensive and available aerosol products can cause irregular heartbeats, breathing problems, and sudden death.
- 10. CIGARETTES. There are over 50 million cigarette smokers in the United States. It is estimated that 300,000 deaths each year are related to tobacco use. Some of the long-term effects of smoking are emphysema, chronic bronchitis, heart disease, and cancer of the lungs, mouth, larynx, and esophagus. Women who smoke during pregnancy run the risk of having babies that weigh less, or of losing their babies through stillbirth or death after birth. Therefore the health risks associated with tobacco are exceptionally high.

Student Government Delegate To Be Elected

Senator Francis D. Doris announces that elections are to be held in Charlestown High School on November 3, 1981, to select that school's delegate to the thirty-fifth Annual Student Government Day Program.

The program was established in 1947 by the Massachusetts General Court in order that secondary school students of the Commonwealth would be able to learn about state government by participating in an unique and meaningful experience. This idea has developed into a six-month program which explores all aspects of our state governmental system and includes a one day "take over" of the state administration by the students.

Student Government Day occurs on the first Friday in April. On this day, students will participate in all aspects of the administration of state government in the place where it happens, the State House.

Ensemble To Play At C.H.S.

AT C.H.S.: On Tuesday, November 3, Gary Rosen and Bill Shontz, commonly known as RosenShontz, will perform at assemblies at Charlestown High School. The duo plays a unique blend of folk, jazz and humor with original and well-known songs. The program will include American musical history in an unique engaging style. The program is presented through Young Audiences of Massachusetts and is funded by the high school's business partner, Liberty Mutual Insurance Company.

Number 9
On The Ballot

"Thank you one and all, for the wonderful vote I received in the Primary Election. Once again, I will ask you for one of your nine votes on November 3, 1981."

1. Full time Councillor — No other income.
2. 100% attendance record (10 years).
3. Attend all Committee hearings.
4. Attend all the regulatory Board hearings for all the people of Boston. Appeals Board, Zoning Board, Licensing Board, Boston Redevelopment Board.

Member: V.F.W., American Legion, Silver Star Post D.A.V., Amvets No. 1, Boston Lodge of Elks, National Veteran Boxers Association, 101st Infantry Veterans Association, Emerald Society of the Boston Police Department, National Rifle Association, South Boston Irish American Society, Fraternal Order of Eagles, Hyde Park.

Note: Please, do yourself a favor and Vote NO on Questions 1 and 2 to change the number of Councillors from NINE to THIRTEEN, and the School Committee from FIVE to THIRTEEN. I say this, because the social planning, liberal do-gooders that are behind this scheme, refuse to tell you what the districts will be, and want your vote now, and do damage to you after the election.

Here we are laying off Police and Firefighters, have no public works service, or Parks and recreation service, and they want to spend close to another million ($1,000,000) to put four new Councillors on this Council. I have never conned people, and I can honestly say, we don't need four more. When you go in to vote, you won't see just what the districts are, and they won't tell you. So trust me, it is just another rip-off of your money. VOTE NO on Questions 1 and 2.

"I know that I have been a thorn in the side of this Administration, and shall continue to be."

their own elected Councillor from the town. Why? Because it is District Representation - not Neighborhood Representation. The districts have NOT even been drawn up as yet. That's the job of the new Councillors elected on November 3, 1981 (if it passes), and if the Councillors do not draw up these districts in 90 days - it goes to the Mayor! Yes, the Mayor!

And if the Mayor and Councillors cannot come to a decision (which has happened before) then this new Referendum could end up in a certain Judge's Court, and we being from Charlestown KNOW what that could mean!

After this meeting Tuesday evening, I was in a state of shock to see "Townies" pushing for this question because they WORK for the Mayor or the Sheriff. I personally believe they should take 10 minutes or maybe 3 or 4 days to study themselves; because of their greed to get ahead, they are SELLING OUT the rest of the town - and they know more than anyone, Charlestown will NOT have Representation!

I must have still been delirious, because I went back for MORE Wednesday evening for Candidates' Night. I hear a variety of NEW news that evening. Some candidates must have stayed up all night Tuesday night thinking about a district Charlestown can be teamed up with.

One council candidate thought

(because it had a nice ring to it) Bunker Hill, Beacon Hill and Mission Hill. I guess she lives on a Hill somewhere!

Another council candidate stated it wouldn't be all that BAD teamed-up with East Boston and the North End. THAT'S A DISTRICT CHARLESTOWN COULD BE HAPPY WITH? Another stated, and mentioned, Roxbury! on which this writer would rather not comment.

Let's face it Charlestown, some of these candidates can team our town with almost anyone (if Referendum passes). But Charlestown will NEVER have their own! This Referendum is now being voted on for the third time, and the way I feel, three strikes and you're out!

It seemed the body of candidates that were for District Representation heavily outnumbered those AGAINST. I believe they are for it because of their overall plunge to make the finals across the City. Yet they can come to our little CORNER of Boston and tell us it can work. Chances are they do not know our community, (and just visiting because they are running for political office) or they are trying to snowball in what I feel is the most knowledgeable area for population size in the City of Boston. If elected they may be back in 1983. We will see!

The real TOPPER came today, Saturday, when I went to the doorstep to get my newspaper (to read upon the latest scandal) to see a FLYER or should I say a political NEWSPAPER, pushing the Referendum question in November.

I just could NOT believe the Political names across the City ("the whole City") that are grouped together that favor this change in the City, after they told us the chances of having a Charlestown resident as City Councillor in the future in very unlikely. If you get a chance, steal one out of any doorway. I don't think the resident at home would mind! The names are too numerous to list, but I can tell you a few names of Councillors and council candidates, because we still have "Freedom of the Press" - thank God! and they have opposed this Referendum; and some have debated it across the City with those members of the first part. And they are NOT too numerous to name, and they have stood up AGAINST it at the Candidates' Night in Charlestown.

They are: Albert "Dapper" O'Neil, James M. "Jim" Kelly, Frederick Langone, Joe Tierney, Rita Walsh-Tomasini, John Tierney and Elvira "Pixie" Palladino.

Now! Charlestown, we have to make the decision. But FIRST make it a point to find out more - it is important before you pull the lever - you have to be informed!

Pope John H.S. News

Edward Grace, a Pope John senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Grace of 15 Auburn Street, Charlestown, attended the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown, Va. He also took part in the reenactment of the march of the Souissonnais (a French regiment under Rochambeau) from Providence, R.I. to Yorktown, Va. At Yorktown, he participated in the recreation of battle scenes which caused the British to call for parley and surrender terms. President Reagan viewed the surrender of the recreated British regiments which finally afforded America its independence. Edward was impressed with the pagentry of the celebration and inspired with a renewal of patriotism.

Flynn Says Son Of Tregor Removes Vital Restraints On City Spending

"The Boston legislative delegation's redraft of the Tregor bonding proposal ignores the central reality in Boston's fiscal crisis," stated Boston City Councillor Raymond L. Flynn in urging rejection of the package when the City Council takes it up on Wednesday. "Meaningful restraints on city and school spending must be established as the first step toward restoring fiscal sanity and essential public safety services in Boston," Flynn noted. "Boston residents are demanding accountability from their elected officials in order to see a responsible resolution to the city's financial and public safety crisis. They want to see meaningful spending controls to prevent a recurrence of the overspending and mismanagement which led to the present situation."

Flynn cited four specific spending restrictions which were eliminated in the legislature's redrafted version:

-prohibition of "year-end" transfers by the Mayor;

-strengthened administrative provision to ensure more accountability in School Department spending;

-statutory power of the City Council to obtain access to city financial records; and

-restoration of funding to the watch-dog Boston Finance Commission which the Mayor had cut earlier in the year.

In related action, Flynn announced that he would file a home rule bill at Wednesday's Council session to place the public safety "no fire" provision contained in the legislature's version in a separate bill that could go before the legislature and the governor for immediate consideration while the other provisions of the bill are being debated. "We cannot afford to let pride of authorship or back-room political deals interfere with the financial integrity and public safety concerns of Boston residents. The City Council has worked endlessly during the past six months to establish meaningful spending controls and public service protection for Boston neighborhood residents. If the City Council, the Mayor and the legislative delegation are really committed to seeing police and fire protection restored, this bill could be signed into law and Boston residents can begin receiving the public safety protection they deserve without being held hostages to the continuing political disagreements over necessary spending controls in city and school departments."

Judge For Yourself

Following the recent Candidates' Night and subsequent meeting of the Ward Two Democratic Committee, the Committee concluded that any endorsement of incumbent City Councillors and School Committee members was inappropriate in that each has a record to stand on and should be judged on the merits of his incumbency.

Of the non-incumbents, three candidates for City Council and two for the School Committee made a favorable impression upon the Committee. The Ward 2 Committee suggests that the voter take an extra look at these candidates, for it is our opinion that they will give the Charlestown community all the attention we deserve should they be elected to office.

They are: James M. (Jim) Kelly, a South Boston resident and director of the South Boston Information Center. Based on the preliminary vote received by Kelly it is evident that he has a strong constituency here in Charlestown and we are confident that Jim Kelly will ably represent Charlestown at City Hall. Michael J. McCormack, a Brighton resident. Mike McCormack impressed us being highly articulate, informed and capable. As a former Assistant Attorney General for the Commonwealth we realize that McCormack has what it takes to be a fine City Councillor. Francis X. Coppinger, a West Roxbury native with Charlestown roots. Frank Coppinger is a former member of the State Legislature, an accountant and attorney. We believe he will make a fine addition to the City Council. Kevin A. McCluskey has served approximately half a term as a School Committeeman. Kevin is a former employee of the Charlestown Boys' Club and has shown a keen awareness for Charlestown's problems relating to School Committee matters. John J. Tierney Jr. Former member of both the City Council and School Committee. John Tierney has a proven track record as a municipal officeholder. We would like to see him returned to the School Committee.

Whether you agree with our observations or not, take time to vote on Tuesday, November 3rd.
