Foreword

Volume 5 of The Singer's Musical Theatre Anthology applies the approach of all past volumes in the series, the first of which were published in 1987. These books represent extensive research of available material, always juggling a mixture of objectives and aims. Those aims are:

- To provide an interesting variety of musical theatre literature for an assortment of tastes and talents.

Individual and editorial tastes admittedly and inescapably play a part in the compilations, but we deliberately attempt to consider the broader preferences and needs of the thousands of singers, actors and teachers who use these books. What are the needs of the 17-year-old studying voice? Or the 25-year-old female or male ingénue? Or the 40-year-old moving beyond ingénue roles? What about someone looking for pop/rock style theatre music? We try to consider the character actor-singer as well as the handsome-voiced leading man; those with expansive vocal gifts, and those with limited singing voices; comic songs, charm songs, and dramatic songs; young tastes, as well as more mature tastes; singers who are sophisticated musicians, and those who are less musically advanced. The singers who use these volumes range in age from teens to senior citizens. We try to imagine as many of them as possible in choosing songs.

- To deliberately represent songs from various eras and styles.

While it is important to stay current and mine songs from contemporary shows, it is equally important to continue to delve deeper into our shared heritage of theatre music. We have sometimes encountered young musical theatre enthusiasts who only know the latest shows, and have never heard of Carousel or The Most Happy Fella. We are equally perplexed when speaking with voice teachers or singers whose knowledge of musical theatre seems to end with Hello, Dolly! Both perspectives are obviously limited.

- Beyond the most prominent songs, also to present intriguing songs that are not often encountered in other collections, and may not be available elsewhere in print.

Only by working through entire scores of musicals, usually also studying cast albums as well, do we discover less obvious songs which otherwise might not have made it onto the contents lists. A song is not worthy of attention solely because it is obscure, of course. But finding valuable songs that may have been forgotten by most, or never known, is one of the riches of the series.

- To present the music in a responsible, faithful edition.

Standard piano/vocal (or piano/vocal/guitar) sheet music has long been the general format for theatre music, and is an important way for songs to be available for the widest possible uses, including millions of amateur pianists. But these sheet music editions—simplified, often transposed, and usually with the melody in the piano part—are often not the best source for a singing actor. In this series we attempt to present the music as it was originally performed in the first theatrical production, in the original keys, allowing for necessary and practical adjustments in creating an edition of the song. We also provide succinct information about the show, and enough plot synopsis to inform comprehension of the song.

- To categorize songs by voice type for practical use.

Musical theatre is often not composed with traditional voice types in mind. It is sometimes tricky business deciding whether any given song belongs in the soprano or belter volume, or in the tenor or baritone/bass volume. The vocal range of a song only tells part of the story. What is the predominant area of the voice (called the tessitura) in the song? What is the vocal timbre that the song seems to require? What type of voice is on the original cast recording?

Categorizing songs sung by sopranos who also belt is one of the most challenging aspects of the task. This is a different voice type from the naturally lower, more sultry voice that predominantly belts; or a voice of more limited range; or the brassier timbre that has little usable head voice. It is common for a musical theatre role to call for both soprano singing and belting, often times with a mix of approaches within the same song. These parts are usually cast with sopranos who also can belt; at its best it is a natural, unforced belt that is simply part of the vocal equipment of the singer well-suited to musical theatre.

In choosing songs for the soprano volume, we took into consideration whether the singer on the cast album is a soprano, even though she may be belting at times. Kristin Chenoweth is a good example of a soprano who can easily belt, depending on the character and range of the material and how she wants it to sound. Christine Ebersole is also such a singer. Clearly, she is a soprano, and even though her Act II material in Grey Gardens calls for some belting, her vocal instrument still functions as a soprano who belts. Sutton Foster is another current performer whose voice is essentially a soprano that sometimes also belts. At times the choice about where to place songs in The Singer's Musical Theatre Anthology seems impossible, and compromise is inevitable. For Christine's songs from Dirty Rotten Scoundrels (originally sung by Sherie René Scott), the solution was to put one in the soprano volume, and the other in the mezzo-soprano/belter volume, even though they are both sung by the same singer. We make the best judgments possible and know that there is sometimes room for other conclusions.

- Overall, to continue to value musical theatre as a body of vocal literature.

Musical theatre is a respectable body of literature that deserves the same consideration as novels, poetry, plays, symphonies, operas, or any composed and deliberately conceived work.

And, by the way, beyond being a wealth of literature deserving high-minded study, musical theatre is also fun, of course. Here's to having some fun with the songs in this collection.

A four-volume series can't be done alone. I thank Chris Ruck and Joel Boyd for their aid in preparing the music pages for publication. Michael Dansicker was always ready with ideas and musical sources, and I thank him for his interest and help. Some of the composers were gracious in their accommodations. Most of all, I would like to thank assistant editor Brian Dean for his enthusiastic work on "Volume 5." Without him, you would not be holding this book in your hands.

ABOUT THE SHOWS

THE APPLE TREE

MUSIC: Jerry Bock
LYRICS: Sheldon Harnick
BOOK: Jerry Bock, Sheldon Harnick, with Jerome Coopersmith
DIRECTOR: Mike Nichols
CHOREOGRAPHERS: Herbert Ross, Lee Theodore
OPENED: October 18, 1966, New York; a run of 463 performances

Here was a new concept for Broadway—one musical containing three separate one-act musicals, like Puccini's Il Trittico or Offenbach's Tales of Hoffmann. Though the stories in The Apple Tree have nothing in common and, in fact, could be played separately, they are tied together by interrelated musical themes and by the whimsical reference to the color brown. The female and male leads are generally played by the same actors for all three acts; Barbara Harris and Alan Alda were the original Broadway leads. Act I is based on Mark Twain's book The Diaries of Adam and Eve, and deals with the dawn of humanity and the loss of innocence. "What Makes Me Love Him?" is sung by Eve at the end of Act I, about her imperfect man, Adam. This story of Adam and Eve is about the realizations, compromises and forgiveness required to sustain a loving bond in the first ever human relationship. Act II is based on Frank R. Stockton's short story, "The Lady or the Tiger?," in which a warrior's fate, unresolved in the story, is determined by the choice of door he enters. Act III is based on Jules Feiffer's short story "Passionella," a uniquely American take on "Cinderella," in which a female chimney sweep fulfills her dream of becoming a glamorous movie star. A Broadway revival starring Kristin Chenoweth and Brian d'Arcy Jones opened in December 2006 and ran a few months.

BARNUM

MUSIC: Cy Coleman
LYRICS: Michael Stewart
BOOK: Mark Bramble
DIRECTOR AND CHOREOGRAPHER: Joe Layton
OPENED: April 30, 1980, New York; a run of 854 performances

This version of the story of America's "Prince of Humbug," Phineas Taylor Barnum, doesn't focus on biography or characterization as much as it offers a circus concept musical. The original production had the cast constantly in motion as they tumbled, clowned, marched, twirled, or flew through the air. Jim Dale was the original Barnum on Broadway, and Glenn Close was his wife Charity (Chairy) Barnum defines "humbug" as simply the puffing up of the truth. The show offers a tour of the highlights of Barnum's career from 1835 to 1880. Along the way various acts appear: Tom Thumb, Jumbo the elephant, and Swedish nightingale Jenny Lind, an opera star Barnum presents in her first American concert, whose feature number is "Love Makes Such Fools of Us All." Barnum has a dalliance with her and tours with Jenny, leaving his wife for a time. He tires of the demanding diva and returns to Chairy, who is continually trying to convince her husband to settle down to a more normal life away from show business. Barnum does for a time, until Chairy dies. He realizes that a conventional life is not for him, and makes the deal with James A. Bailey to create "The Greatest Show on Earth" (which after a later merger became Ringling Bros., Barnum & Bailey Circus).

These notes are principally by the editor, with occasional writing by Stanley Green excerpted from Broadway Musicals Show by Show, published by Hal Leonard.

CANDIDE

MUSIC: Leonard Bernstein

LYRICS: Richard Wilbur, John La Touche, Dorothy Parker; additional lyrics by Stephen Sondheim

BOOK: Lillian Hellman; revised by Hugh Wheeler

DIRECTOR: Tyrone Guthrie

CHOREOGRAPHER: Anna Sokolow

OPENED: December 1, 1956, New York; a run of 73 performances

Based on the novel by Voltaire, Candide has had a long history, with various versions of the show emerging. The original version of the show was withdrawn by the writers. Subsequently there was the 1973 Chelsea Version, the 1982 New York City Opera Version, the 1988 Scottish Opera Version (recorded, with Bernstein conducting), and a couple of others along the way. The complex plot is somewhat different in each version. Starting in Westphalia, Germany, described as the "best of all possible worlds," we meet Doctor Pangloss, philosopher and tutor to the virginal royal daughter Cunegonde Thunder-ten-Tronck (originally played by Barbara Cook), her beautiful brother Maximilian, the baron's bastard nephew Candide, and willing servant Paquette. Candide is thrown out of Westphalia, just as it is sacked and burned by the Bulgarian army. They kill all but the gradually promiscuous Cunegonde, who is to be their concubine in order to survive and save herself. She escapes, hones her profession, and through a time-share agreement becomes the ornamented mistress of two rich and powerful men. In Act I Cunegonde has developed a strong taste for the luxury given to her by her benefactors, apparent in this witty spin on the operatic tradition of a "jewel song" in "Glitter and Be Gay." As she undresses for the evening she comments on her "fallen state" while removing her finery and jewelry with the help of her maid servant. Candide, who believed her dead, finds her there. Their reunion is short-lived as Candide inadvertently kills Cunegonde's two masters. The lovers flee to South America, where they come across Paquette and Maximilian, thought to be dead, but are slaves to the Governor of Buenos Aires. Maximilian is happy to hear from Candide that Cunegonde is alive (though at present she has been captured by pirates), but is still enraged by bastard Candide's interest in his sister. To escape arrest for an accidental crime, Candide escapes and stumbles on the gold city Eldorado. After a time he tires of its riches, and leaves to search for Cunegonde, who has become enslaved as a courtesan to a Turk; Maximilian is also enslaved there. Candide buys them, and they seek out Doctor Pangloss, who states that his new philosophy is to abandon the illusion of true perfection, and to work hard and live in rustic simplicity.

DIRTY ROTTEN SCOUNDRELS

MUSIC AND LYRICS: David Yazbek

BOOK: Jeffrey Lane

DIRECTOR: Jack O'Brien

CHOREOGRAPHER: Jerry Mitchell

OPENED: March 3, 2005, New York; a run of 627 performances

David Yazbek's follow-up to The Full Monty on Broadway (2000) was also based on a notable movie. Dirty Rotten Scoundrels takes its name and plot from the 1988 film starring Michael Caine and Steve Martin, which itself was a remake of the 1964 movie Bedtime Story, starring David Niven, Marlon Brando and Shirley Jones. The essential story remains the same. Two con men are initially at their game separately, preying upon lonely, wealthy women vacationing on the French Riviera. The suave, British Lawrence Jameson (John Lithgow in the original cast) wines and dines women out of their money, posing as a rich, deposed prince needing funds to fight revolutionaries. Crass American Freddy Benson (Norbert Leo Butz in the original cast) tries to usurp the female fortune through a sob story. When the two grifters meet, they decide that the small town on the French Riviera isn't big enough for both of them. They choose a mark, Christine Colgate (Sherie René Scott in the original cast), the "American Soap Queen." Whoever gets to her money first will get to remain in town. In the end, after many double-crosses, the two scoundrels learn that they're not the only schemers on the French Riviera. Christine swindles them both. "Nothing Is Too Wonderful to Be True" is sung near the end of Act I, after Freddy tells Christine that he has lost the use of his legs and his only hope is $50,000 treatment from Dr. Emil Shuffhausen in Vienna. Christine is touched (or she pretends she is) and promises to help him. Freddy can't believe it, and she sings to assure him. Christine sings the "straight" version of the song, then Freddy adds a more wisecracking version before they briefly sing together at the end. The song has been adapted as a solo for Christine in this edition. This role includes both belting and soprano singing; Christine's song "Here I Am" appears in The Singer's Musical Theatre Anthology: Mezzo-Soprano/Belter Volume 5.

DO RE MI

MUSIC: Jule Styne

LYRICS: Betty Comden and Adolph Green

BOOK: Garson Kanin

DIRECTOR: Garson Kanin

CHOREOGRAPHERS: Marc Breau, Deedee Wood

OPENED: December 26, 1960, New York; a run of 400 performances

A wild satire on the underworld muscling in on the jukebox business, Do Re Mi was adapted by Garson Kanin from his own novel. Hubie Cram, a former gangster, is trying to go legit with a scheme to make a fortune in the jukebox and music promotion business. Gangsters come back into his life, causing chaos. Hubie makes a success of Tilda Mullen, an overly earnest young singer with a flair for melodrama. Tilda Mullen sings "Cry Like the Wind" near the middle of Act I. Reflecting her character, the song is naive, empty and excessively moody. With characters reminiscent of the raffish denizens of Guys and Dolls, the show offered two of Broadway's top clowns of the era: Phil Silvers as a fast-talking would-be big shot, and Nancy Walker as his long-suffering spouse. The stand-out ballad in the show is "Make Someone Happy." Nathan Lane and Randy Graff starred in a 1999 "Encores!" revival (recorded by DRG).

THE DROWSY CHAPERONE

MUSIC AND LYRICS: Lisa Lambert, Greg Morrison
BOOK: Bob Martin, Don McKellar
DIRECTOR AND CHOREOGRAPHER: Casey Nicholaw
OPENED: May 1, 2006, New York

This show-within-a-show features a rather sour character simply called the Man in Chair, who escapes his depression by obsessively playing an old recording of a 1928 musical, The Drowsy Chaperone. Its story is of an actress, Janet Van De Graaff (Sutton Foster in the original cast), indulgent in vanity, engaged to a man she has only recently met. The show, characters, story and songs are an affectionate send-up of stage and screen clichés. Through it all the Man in Chair gets swept up in the action, and comments to the audience. As the introduction to "Bride's Lament," Man in Chair states: "Act II of The Drowsy Chaperone begins with this, a haunting lament from a very depressed bride. Now, when you're listening to this, try to ignore the lyrics. I know it will be difficult, but block them out. They're not the best. But the tune is beautiful, and it truly communicates the bride's state of mind. Just ignore the lyrics." It's a wacky number. Beyond its emphasis on the lost monkey, she refers to Robert, her fiancé. This song and role is for a soprano who can also belt.

FIDDLER ON THE ROOF

MUSIC: Jerry Bock
LYRICS: Sheldon Harnick
BOOK: Joseph Steini
DIRECTOR AND CHOREOGRAPHER: Jerome Robbins
OPENED: September 22, 1964, New York; a run of 3,242 performances

An undeniable classic of the Broadway theatre. Fiddler on the Roof takes a compassionate view of a Jewish community in Czarist Russia, where the people struggle to maintain their identity in the face of persecution. Based on tales by Sholom Aleichem, including "Tevye's Daughters," the theme struck such a universal response that the fiddler was perched precariously on his roof for a Broadway record for its time of over seven years, nine months. The plot is set in the village of Anatevka in 1905, and tells of the efforts of Tevye, his wife Golde, and their five daughters to cope with their harsh existence. "Matchmaker" comes near the top of the show. Hodel and her sister Chava excitedly sing with another sister, Tzeitel, about finding a husband. After hearing Tzeitel's reply as she poses as the matchmaker, Yente, the girls realize that a marriage match might not be a happy one, and they backpedal on their wishes in the second verse. Tevye is deeply devoted to Jewish customs, and suffers as his daughters test this with their romances and marriage plans, disregarding the traditional role of the matchmaker. At the play's end, when a Cossack pogrom has forced everyone out of the village, Tevye and what is left of his family look forward to a new life in America. An acclaimed film version was released in 1971. Of the four Broadway revivals to date, the most successful opened in 2004 and ran for nearly two years.

FUNNY FACE

MUSIC: George Gershwin
LYRICS: Ira Gershwin
BOOK: Fred Thompson, Paul Gerard Smith
DIRECTOR: Edgar MacGregor
CHOREOGRAPHER: Bobby Connolly
OPENED: December 22, 1927, New York; a run of 244 performances

Before becoming a movie star Fred Astaire was a renowned stage performer in vaudeville and on Broadway, part of a team with his sister Adele Astaire. Funny Face was the second musical George and Ira Gershwin wrote for the brother/sister team. Like Lady Be Good!, the first Gershwin show for the Astaires, it was a light and breezy slip of a musical with timeless classic songs and plenty of opportunities for dance. Frankie Wynne (Adele) is the ward of the protective Jimmie Reeve (Fred). She persuades aviator Peter Thurston to steal her incriminating diary from Jimmie's safe. Peter steals a bracelet by accident instead, launching a comic chase to various locales, winding up in Atlantic City. "He Loves and She Loves" is a romantic duet for Frankie and Peter near the beginning of Act II. Though her voice is unknown today, Adele Astaire's light theatre soprano introduced several famous Gershwin standards to the world in the 1920s. Fred Astaire starred with Audrey Hepburn in the 1957 film Funny Face, which retained four original songs, including "He Loves and She Loves," but used a completely different story. This song and five others from Funny Face were incorporated into the 1983 musical My One and Only, which had a new book.

THE GIRL IN 14G

not from a show

MUSIC: Jeanine Tesori
LYRICS: Dick Scanlon

Though not from a show, "The Girl in 14G" is by theatre songwriters, the team who created the stage musical Thoroughly Modern Mille. It is a character song, theatrical in nature. Its inclusion in this collection seems well-justified. The song is signature literature for Kristen Chenoweth, recorded on her 2001 solo CD Let Yourself Go.

GREY GARDENS

MUSIC: Scott Frankel
LYRICS: Michael Korie
BOOK: Doug Wright
DIRECTOR: Michael Greif
CHOREOGRAPHER: Jeff Calhoun
OPENED: November 2, 2006, New York; a run of 308 performances

Grey Gardens, the musical, is based on Grey Gardens, the 1975 film documentary, about an eccentric mother and her equally eccentric daughter who remain for decades in a crumbling mansion on Long Island in East Hampton, New York. After a Prologue, Act I of the musical speculates on the past of the principal characters as they were in July, 1941: 47-year-old mother Edith Bouvier Beale, aunt to Jacqueline Bouvier (later Kennedy Onassis), and her 21-year-old daughter Edith "Little Edie" Bouvier Beale. Their mansion home is refined and cultivated. Little Edie is in a relationship with Joseph Kennedy, Jr. (older brother of the president), but her mother sabotages the engagement. Little Edie sings "Daddy's Girl" to Joe, trying in vain to distance herself from her mother's attacks on her character, attempting to convince Joe that he should still marry her. This is the kind of song that is sung by a soprano who mixes "head voice" and belting. The engagement is off, though the guests are assembled for the party. The mother Edith, a singer, glosses over any trouble, instead taking center stage and performing "one of our all-time favorites," the wistful "Will You?" In Act II of the musical, set in 1973 and most closely based on the documentary, the 79-year-old Edith, and her 56-year-old unmarried daughter Little Edie are faded aristocrats living in filth and ruin, isolated from the world, drifting in time. Their relationship is complex and co-dependent. In "Around the World" Edie rages about living in her mother's house, but she escapes into make-believe with her mementos and memorabilia; the contrasting sections of music reflect the shift from anger to nostalgic retreat. Later, as Edie is once again on the verge of leaving, she reluctantly stays and dreads "Another Winter in a Summer Town." Christine Ebersole, the original performer of Edith in Act I and Little Edie in Act II, is clearly a soprano, though the range of the Act II songs is modest and they call for some belt mix. Ebersole won a Tony Award for Best Actress in a Musical.

JUBILEE

MUSIC AND LYRICS: Cole Porter
BOOK: Moss Hart
DIRECTOR: Hassard Short
CHOREOGRAPHER: Albertina Rasch
OPENED: October 12, 1935, New York; a run of 169 performances

This Cole Porter/Moss Hart show takes place in a fictional European country. The royal family is threatened with revolution, and in response they give up on ruling the country and instead take individual paths of making their longheld personal dreams come true. Of course, the royals find new romances, who teach them some lessons in humanity from the perspective of the common folk. The Prince meets singer Karen O'Kane, who beguiles him as she is performing the song "Begin the Beguine" at their first acquaintance. The revolution turns out to be a hoax. The now wiser royals return to their court with their romances intact. "Begin the Beguine" became a classic, recorded by many artists. The song appeared as a lavish number in the film Broadway Melody of 1938, danced by Eleanor Powell and Fred Astaire, in a 1943 Deanna Durbin picture He's to Hold, and in the highly Hollywoodized 1946 Cole Porter biopic Night and Day.

KISMET

MUSIC AND LYRICS: Robert Wright, George Forrest (based on music by Alexander Borodin)
BOOK: Charles Lederer, Luther Davis
DIRECTOR: Albert Marre
CHOREOGRAPHER: Jack Cole
OPENED: December 3, 1953, New York; a run of 583 performances

The story of Kismet was adapted from Edward Knoblock's play, first presented in New York in 1911 as a vehicle for Otis Skinner. The music of Kismet was adapted from themes by Alexander Borodin in such works as the "Polovetian Dances" from the opera Prince Igor. The action of the musical occurs within a 24-hour period, in and around ancient Baghdad. A poor, scheming, gypsy-like Public Poet assumes the identity of Hajj the beggar and gets into all sorts of Arabian Nights adventures. His conniving gets him elevated to the position of emir of Baghdad, and as a result, his beautiful daughter Marsinah weds the handsome young Caliph. In the lead up to "Baubles, Bangles and Beads" in Act I, Marsinah has previously been sent by her father to steal oranges for their breakfast from stall merchants in the bazaar. The fruit vendor victim of her theft pursues her, and her father steps in just in time to give the vendor some money just craftily acquired. The Poet gives Marsinah some cash, and she strolls the bazaar, looking at the jewelry and singing "Baubles, Bangles and Beads," accompanied by ensemble. The dashing Caliph first spots her as she sings the number. The film version was directed by Vincente Minnelli and released in 1955, with soprano Ann Blyth as Marsinah.

LADY, BE GOOD!

MUSIC: George Gershwin
LYRICS: Ira Gershwin
BOOK: Guy Bolton, Fred Thompson
DIRECTOR: Felix Edwardes
CHOREOGRAPHER: Sammy Lee
OPENED: December 1, 1924, New York; a run of 330 performances

Fred Astaire, teamed with his sister Adele, were vaudeville headliners and minor players in revues on Broadway before the Gershwin brothers featured them in the light and breezy musical Lady, Be Good! and made them stars. This was the first of 14 musicals George and Ira Gershwin wrote for Broadway. Originally titled Black Eyed Susan, Lady, Be Good!, written specifically for the Astaires, has a simple story about Dick Trevor (Fred) and his sister Susie (Adele), a carefree vaudeville team, orphans living in New England. Dick is in love with well-off Shirley, but can't ask her to marry him because he's broke. The brother and sister are evicted, which was actually encouraged by the wealthy Jo Vanderwater, in love with Dick, who wanted him to hit bottom and realize the advantages of marrying a woman with money. For the time being Dick and Susie are on the street. They go to Jo's party, mainly for the free food. "Fascinating Rhythm," from Act I, is performed as an entertainment at the party by Susie and Dick. Considering his financial situation, Dick reluctantly agrees to an engagement to Jo, which makes Susie furious and breaks Shirley's heart. A supposed bum Susie met on the street turns out to have inherited a fortune. After lots of shenanigans, Susie is engaged to him, and her prospects allow Dick to break his engagement with Jo and go back to Shirley for the happy ending. "The Man I Love," originally sung by Adele Astaire, was cut from the show during out of town tryouts. For a time the song was included in the score of the 1928 Gershwin musical Rosalie, sung by Marilyn Miller, but it was cut before Broadway. The third strike was in the 1930 Gershwin show Strike Up the Band, sung by Vivian Hart, but it was cut during pre-Broadway tryouts. (The song was later put into a version of Strike Up the Band sometimes performed.) It seems an unlikely beginning for what became one of the biggest torch songs of the 20th century. Though her voice is unknown today, Adele Astaire's light theatre soprano introduced several famous Gershwin standards to the world in the 1920s. The 1941 film Lady, Be Good! (without an exclamation point) bears little resemblance to the stage musical: it includes "Fascinating Rhythm," but only one other Gershwin song.

THE LIFE

MUSIC: Cy Coleman
LYRICS: Ira Gasman
BOOK: David Newman, Ira Gasman, Cy Coleman
DIRECTOR: Michael Blakemore
CHOREOGRAPHER: Joey McKneely
OPENED: April 26, 1997, New York; a run of 466 performances

The Life is set on and around 42nd Street of New York City in the 1980s, when the area—before its dramatic revitalization—was still the seedy but lively domain of pimps, hookers and topless bars. Among several principal characters, Queen is one of the hookers on the street, there to earn money to support her man, Fleetwood, a directionless Vietnam veteran pimp. After saving money with plans to leave "the life," Queen discovers that Fleetwood has spent half of it on drugs. Queen later finds out that Fleetwood has been sleeping with a newcomer to the street, Mary, and ends their bond, singing "I'm Leaving You" to him. Queen later finds herself hopelessly trapped in service to another pimp, Memphis. She shoots him after he kills Fleetwood. One of her street sisters, Sonja, says that she will take the rap for Memphis' murder, portraying it as self-defense, allowing Queen to board a bus and get out of town, finally finding her freedom from "the life."

THE LIGHT IN THE PIAZZA

MUSIC AND LYRICS: Adam Guettel
BOOK: Craig Lucas, based on the novella of the same name by Elizabeth Spencer
DIRECTOR: Bartlett Sher
CHOREOGRAPHER: Jonathan Butterell
OPENED: April 18, 2005, New York; a run of 504 performances

Finding inspiration in the same country as his grandfather Richard Rodgers' Do I Hear a Waltz?, Adam Guettel's The Light in the Piazza follows Americans abroad in Italy. The story, after a novella by Elizabeth Spencer, concerns a wealthy North Carolinian mother, Margaret Johnson (2005 Tony Award winner Victoria Clark in the original cast), and her beautiful, childlike 26-year-old daughter Clara (Kelli O'Hara in the original cast) on extended vacation in Florence and Rome in the summer of 1953. Soon after their arrival in Florence, through a chance encounter Clara meets Fabrizio, a 20-year-old Italian man who speaks little English. Though there is a spark between them, Margaret protectively takes Clara away. As Clara strolls among the great art in the Uffizi Gallery, the paintings speak to her about herself, Italy, and her romantic yearnings as she sings "The Beauty Is." Fabrizio is determined, and with the help of his father, finally is able to spend time with Clara, though Margaret continues to attempt to discourage the romance. Margaret finally reveals the reason for her concern: due to being kicked in the head as a child by a pony, Clara has had arrested mental and emotional development. Margaret takes Clara to Rome to get her away from Fabrizio, but Clara's feelings for him remain fervent, and after much struggle she convinces her mother not to object to their marriage. Other obstacles emerge. Finally, just before the wedding Clara says to her mother that she cannot bear to leave her, but Margaret reassures her. At the end of the musical, left alone, Margaret sings "Table," revealing her worries and unfulfilled wishes, concluding that the hopeful opportunity for real love is worth any risks.

LITTLE WOMEN

MUSIC: Jason Howland
LYRICS: Minda Dickstein
BOOK: Allan Knee
DIRECTOR: Susan H. Schulman
CHOREOGRAPHER: Michael Lichtefeld
OPENED: January 23, 2005, New York; a run of 137 performances

The musical is based on the famous 19th century American novel by Louisa May Alcott about the close-knit March family of Concord, Massachusetts, during the Civil War. Four sisters (Jo, Meg, Amy and Beth) and their mother (Marmee) make the best they can of their lives while the patriarch of the household is serving in the U S Army as a chaplain. Among several plot twists involving various sisters, Jo lands in New York, where she is an aspiring writer. She returns to Massachusetts when she hears that Beth, always weak, has contracted scarlet fever. As Jo attends to her dying little sister, a still cheerful and peaceful Beth sings “Some Things Are Meant to Be” with her, eventually asking Jo to “let me go now.” Though devastated, the family carries on after Beth’s death. Amy marries Laurie, Jo’s one time best-friend who surprised her with a proposal she turned down. Jo matures as a young woman and a writer, and has a loving relationship with the older Professor Bhaer. The story ends with the announcement that Jo’s book, Little Women, about her life with her sisters, has found a publisher. There have been several non-musical films made of the story. The most often encountered are the 1933 film starring Katharine Hepburn, the 1949 film starring June Allyson and Elizabeth Taylor, and the 1994 film starring Winona Ryder, Susan Sarandon and Christian Bale as Laurie.

MARY POPPINS

MUSIC AND LYRICS: Richard M. Sherman and Robert B. Sherman, with new songs and additional music and lyrics by George Stiles and Anthony Drewe
BOOK: Julian Fellowes
DIRECTOR: Richard Eyre
CHOREOGRAPHER: Matthew Bourne
OPENED: September 18, 2004, London; November 16, 2006, New York

The magical and prickly character of the British nanny Mary Poppins was created by author P.L. Travers in eight books published from 1934 to 1988. Mary mysteriously arrives, blown by the wind, at 17 Cherry Tree Lane in London to care for the children of the Banks family. Though stern, Mary Poppins creates fantastical adventures and lessons for the children, often with the company of her chimney sweep friend Bert. Through Mary Poppins’ influence, each member of the dysfunctional and disconnected Banks home gets set on the right path, though she leaves for a time to teach them a lesson. Julie Andrews starred in the 1964 Disney film musical, with songs by Richard and Robert Sherman. The stage musical, based on the movie and books, first opened in London in 2004. Nine songs from the movie were incorporated into the stage score, with the addition of seven new songs, including “Anything Can Happen” and “Practically Perfect.” Soon after her arrival at the Banks household, Mary immodestly cites her credentials and describes herself to Jane and Michael in “Practically Perfect,” and promises that after a time under her care, the children also will meet the same standards. Near the end of the show, after father George Banks has been suspended without pay from the bank of his employment for supposedly making the wrong choice about investments with a client, he learns that his choice actually has made the bank a fortune and all is well. Mary looks on with the children, teaching them that “Anything Can Happen” if you let it. With all happy and in order, Mary Poppins realizes that the Banks no longer need her, and she leaves them.

MR. PRESIDENT

MUSIC AND LYRICS: Irving Berlin
BOOK: Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse
DIRECTOR: Joshua Logan
CHOREOGRAPHER: Peter Gennaro
OPENED: October 20, 1962, New York; a run of 265 performances

Irving Berlin’s last Broadway score was Mr. President, a story about a fictional American president and his family during their last days in the White House. President Henderson has lost re-election after a politically disastrous visit to the USSR. After retiring to civilian life, he is bored and decides to run for the US senate. In Act I the president’s young adult daughter, Leslie, complains of the constraints on her life and her lack of privacy in “The Secret Service.” The show was considered old-fashioned by critics and audiences of 1962, a year when the Kennedys were the more captivating and glamorous occupants of the real White House.

MYTHS AND HYMNS

MUSIC, LYRICS AND BOOK: Adam Guettel

DIRECTOR: Tina Landau

OPENED: March 31, 1998, New York; a run of 16 performances

The source material for Guettel's Myths and Hymns is just that—mythological figures such as Icarus, Pegasus and Sisyphus, and old texts from a Presbyterian hymnal of 1886 that Guettel found in a used book store. The composer stated, "I used these dissimilar cosmologies as points of departure and discovered as I went along that they have a lot in common—a desire to transcend earthly bounds, to bond with something or someone greater." The song cycle for the theatre premiered Off-Broadway under the name Saturn Returns, but was later changed to the present title. Tina Landau, director of Guettel's Floyd Collins, helped conceive this night of music, a staged concert which focuses on the divine and profane in everyday life and uses musical language from straight-up pop to lush theatrical writing. The final version of the score was recorded on a cast album by the composer (a tenor) with various artists.

OKLAHOMA!

MUSIC: Richard Rodgers

LYRICS AND BOOK: Oscar Hammerstein II

DIRECTOR: Rouben Mamoulian

CHOREOGRAPHER: Agnes de Mille

OPENED: March 31, 1943, New York; a run of 2,212 performances

Oklahoma!, based on the Lynn Riggs play Green Grow the Lilacs, is a recognized landmark in the history of American musical theatre. The initial Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II collaboration, it not only expertly fused the major elements in the production—story, songs and dances—it also utilized dream ballets to reveal hidden desires and fears of the principals. Oklahoma! captured the Americana values of the U.S. during World War II, a distinct change from the urbane, edgy wit of the musicals of the 1930s. Set in Indian Territory soon after the turn of the century, Oklahoma! spins a simple tale mostly concerned with whether the decent cowboy Curly or the menacing farm hand Jed gets to take farm girl Laurey to the box social. Though she accepts Jud's invitation in a fit of pique, Laurey really loves Curly. When he finds out that Laurey is going to the social with Jud, Curly tries to convince her to change her mind. Not yet able to fully confess their feelings, they exchange a flirtatious warning in "People Will Say We're in Love." Each sings a verse; this solo version for soprano presents Laurey's lyrics only. At the social Jud lashes out at Laurey when she doesn't return his feelings. She fires him; he threatens her. She turns to Curly for comfort and they finally admit their feelings for one another. At their wedding they join in celebrating Oklahoma's impending statehood, then—after Jud is accidentally killed in a fight with Curly—the couple rides off in their surrey with the fringe on top. With its Broadway run of five years, nine months, Oklahoma! established a long-run record that it held for 15 years, until being overtaken by My Fair Lady. None of the three revivals to date of Oklahoma! on Broadway have enjoyed long runs. The movie version, the first film made in the Todd-AO process, was released in 1955, starring Gordon MacRae and Shirley Jones.

ON THE TWENTIETH CENTURY

MUSIC: Cy Coleman

LYRICS AND BOOK: Betty Comden, Adolph Green

DIRECTOR: Harold Prince

CHOREOGRAPHER: Larry Fuller

OPENED: February 19, 1978, New York; a run of 449 performances

Based on the 1932 Ben Hecht play Twentieth Century and the 1934 Howard Hawks film of the same title, the musical On the Twentieth Century takes place on a train traveling from Chicago to New York in the early 1930s. On board is an array of characters, each with a predicament. The show, in the spirit of the nostalgia craze of the 1970s, is a screwball comedy that also lampoons operetta at times. Oscar Jaffe (John Cullum in the original Broadway cast) is a megalomaniac theatre producer out of cash after a string of flops. He ducks out of Chicago to avoid paying bills and actors for a failed production and books a ticket on the Twentieth Century Limited to gain access to film star Lily Garland, traveling with her annoyingly jealous and self-absorbed movie actor boyfriend, to persuade her to return to the stage. Lily detests the idea of returning to her former Svengali, and makes her reply to Jaffe's cronies who deliver the offer in "Never." But the battle between Oscar and Lily goes on all the way to New York. The role of Lily was originally played by Madeline Kahn, taken over after two months by Judy Kaye. Other notables in the cast: Kevin Kline (Lily's boyfriend Bruce Granit), and Imogene Coca as a wealthy religious fanatic, who actually is discovered to be an escaped mental patient.

PETER PAN

MUSIC AND LYRICS: Leonard Bernstein
PLAY: J.M. Barrie
DIRECTOR: John Burrell
OPENED: April 24, 1950, New York; a run of 321 performances

J.M. Barrie's play first appeared in London in 1904, and in New York the following year Peter Pan was revived five times on Broadway between 1906 and 1928. In 1950 veteran film and stage actress Jean Arthur played Peter on Broadway to Boris Karloff's Captain Hook. Leonard Bernstein and director/choreographer were initially asked to make a musical of Peter Pan, but plans changed when it was discovered that star Jean Arthur couldn't sing. Instead, incidental music and Bernstein songs were added to the Barrie play, but the result was not a musical. Wendy, oldest of the children in the Darling family, sings "Who Am I?" early in the play before going to bed. She discovers Peter Pan, a fairy-like "boy who wouldn't grow up." After he teaches Wendy and her two brothers to fly, he takes them to Neverland, land of the lost boys. Wendy is blown out of the air by a cannon, and Peter and the boys offer to build a house for her, the sole girl there, for recuperation. She describes her dream abode in "My House." A full-fledged musical, with a score by Jule Styne and others, opened on Broadway in 1954.

ROSALIE

MUSIC: George Gershwin, Sigmund Romberg
LYRICS: P.G. Wodehouse, Ira Gershwin
BOOK: William Anthony McGuire, Guy Bolton
DIRECTOR: William Anthony McGuire
CHOREOGRAPHER: Seymour Felix
OPENED: January 10, 1928, New York; a run of 335 performances

Sigmund Romberg was busy writing The New Moon as well as Rosalie, so George and Ira Gershwin, just finishing the musical Funny Face, were asked to add songs to the incomplete Romberg score. The story was "inspired" by recent news events: Lindbergh's solo flight to Paris, and the U.S. visit of Rumania's Queen Marie and her princess daughter. In the musical, after West Point ace Richard Fay has flown to the mythical kingdom of Romanza to be near the Princess Rosalie, the royal family goes on a state visit to the U.S. They encounter the plucky Mary O'Brien (the second female lead), who shows the royals New York. Her character had the one song from the show that survived to become a standard, "How Long Has This Been Going On?," sung to a friend whom she suddenly realizes is her true romance. The verse of the song refers to kissing booths at bazaars, a common charity fundraiser of the period. A 1937 movie, starring Eleanor Powell and Nelson Eddy, retained the basic story but had a completely new score by Cole Porter.

SHE LOVES ME

MUSIC: Jerry Bock
LYRICS: Sheldon Harnick
BOOK: Joe Matsteroff
DIRECTOR: Harold Prince
CHOREOGRAPHER: Carol Haney
OPENED: April 23, 1963, New York; a run of 302 performances

The closely integrated, melody-drenched score of She Loves Me is certainly one of the best ever written for a musical comedy. It was based on a Hungarian play, Parfumerie, by Miklos Laszlo, that had already been used as the basis for two films, The Shop Around the Corner (1940), and, adapted to an American setting, In the Good Old Summertime (1949). Set in the 1930s in what could only be Budapest, the tale is of the people who work in Maraczek's Parfumerie. To demonstrate her sales skills, the job-seeking, quick-thinking Amalia Balash (originally played by Barbara Cook) successfully uses an original approach with a music box, instead of portraying it as an elaborate candy box with a gentle musical warning about over-indulgence. As the music box plays (the piano accompaniment), Amalia sings "No More Candy" to a customer and makes a handsome sale. The store owner is very impressed and hires her. Amalia and Georg, the senior clerk, are soon squabbling regularly. They don't realize that they are actually anonymous, amorous pen pals who met in a Lonely Hearts newspaper ad. A few months later Amalia and Georg agree to meet one night at the Café Imperiale, though neither knows the other's identity. That evening Georg realizes that it is Amalia who is waiting for him at the restaurant, but he doesn't let on. She is so disheartened over being stood up that she calls in sick the next day. Georg brings her ice cream and is especially gentle to her, while also planting doubts about her "dear friend" pen pal. Could he be bald, or fat, or old? Amalia suddenly realizes that Georg isn't so bad, despite their arguments, and when Georg reveals his true identity as her correspondent, the two let down their guard and embrace romance. She Loves Me, which would have starred Julie Andrews had she not been filming Mary Poppins, was one of Barbara Cook's most magical portrayals. A Broadway revival opened in 1993. The same basic story was adapted for the 1998 film You've Got Mail.

1600 PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE

MUSIC: Leonard Bernstein
LYRICS AND BOOK: Alan Jay Lerner
DIRECTORS AND CHOREOGRAPHERS: Gilbert Moses, George Faison
OPENED: May 4, 1976, New York; a run of 7 performances

The address of the title is of the White House. The musical focused on the building and its inhabitants, including presidents, first ladies, staff and servants, assaults on the White House in its early years, as well as exploring class and racial issues through the eyes of servants. From Act I, "Take Care of This House," the stand-out ballad from the score, was sung by first lady Abigail Adams as the term of her husband ends and Thomas Jefferson's presidency begins. 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue was Leonard Bernstein's last Broadway musical. Although it was not a success, and he withdrew the work from his canon, he remained fond of the score and used some of its themes in later works. A one-hour concert version, A White House Cantata, was created after Bernstein's death.

SONGS FOR NEW WORLD

MUSIC AND LYRICS: Jason Robert Brown
DIRECTOR: Daisy Prince
CHOREOGRAPHER: Michael Arnold
OPENED: October 26, 1995, New York; a run of 27 performances

In 1994, Daisy Prince, daughter of Broadway legend Harold Prince, went to hear a 24-year-old Greenwich Village coffeehouse pianist named Jason Robert Brown play some of his original compositions. A collaboration and a friendship were born when she heard he was working on a concert evening of songs that played like offbeat short stories. Originally conceived as a straight-forward collection of Brown's theatre and cabaret songs, a more theatrical concept for Songs for a New World began to take shape, though it still was without a conventional plot. The piece was developed at a summer festival in Toronto. It played Off-Broadway in 1995 on a unit set reminiscent of both a ship and a playground. Though its run was brief, the show has gained a fervent following in musical theatre circles. Musically distinctive and precocious, the songs look at life from unusual angles. In the New York production "The Flagmaker, 1775" was performed before a large American flag hanging above the stage. The song portrays the worry and dread of a wife and mother sewing the flag during wartime.

SPRING AWAKENING

MUSIC: Duncan Sheik
LYRICS AND BOOK: Steven Sater
DIRECTOR: Michael Mayer
CHOREOGRAPHER: Bill T. Jones
OPENED: December 10, 2006

This rock musical, 2007 Tony Award winner of Best Musical, is based on the 1891 German play by Frank Wedekind, which was banned for decades because of its frankness about teenage sex and suicide. The setting is a provincial German town in the 1890s. Teenagers struggle against strict morals of adults and the lack of instruction and communication about sex and emotion. Wendla Bergmann is a girl discovering her sexuality and sensuality in a time that forbids such things. By chance she meets Melchior in a secluded forest and they surrender to their desires. Melchior's friend Moritz is so distraught that he kills himself, and the headmasters of the school blame Melchior and expel him. Meanwhile, Wendla has become pregnant. In Act II, Wendla sings the ponderous "Whispering" about her difficult predicament and her baby. Though the range of the song is limited, the original cast recording (sung by Lea Michele) demonstrates that it is for an amplified rock soprano timbre, not a theatre belting voice. Wendla's mother finds someone who will perform an abortion in secret, but Wendla dies as a result of it, though officially her death is attributed to anemia. Melchior considers suicide, but the spirits of Wendla and Moritz comfort him and he continues on.

STRIKE UP THE BAND

MUSIC: George Gershwin
LYRICS: Ira Gershwin
BOOK: Morrie Ryskind (based on a libretto by George S. Kaufman)
DIRECTOR: Alexander Leftwich
CHOREOGRAPHER: George Hale
OPENED: January 14, 1930. New York; a run of 191 performances

Strike Up the Band was first scheduled for a 1927 Broadway opening, but the original George S. Kaufman book was so uncompromisingly grim in its antiwar sentiment that the show closed on the road. Morrie Ryskind then rewrote the story, putting most of the action in a dream, and lightened up the tone. The revised script is set in and around the Horace J. Fletcher Chocolate Works company, with scenes also in Switzerland. The story deals with a war between the United States and Switzerland over the issue of tariffs on imported Swiss chocolate, with plenty of room for barbs aimed at jingoists, politicians, and White House advisors. This was the first of a number of shows of the 1930s that, influenced by the Depression and the growing threat of another World War, were emboldened to make satirical observations. But there is also light romance. In Act II, the characters Anne Draper and Timothy Harper sing "I've Got a Crush on You." Though the original performance style was gently rhythmic, from the 1950s on the performance tradition of this standard became slow and earnest. Such love songs were less sentimentally performed in the 1920s and 1930s. Doris Carson, the original performer of the role of Anne Draper, later starred as Frankie Frayne in On Your Toes. The 1940 Busby Berkeley/Judy Garland/Mickey Rooney movie Strike Up the Band is a completely different story; only the show title and title song of the Gershwin stage musical were retained.

SUNSET BOULEVARD

MUSIC: Andrew Lloyd Webber
LYRICS AND BOOK: Don Black, Christopher Hampton
DIRECTOR: Trevor Nunn

OPENED: July 12, 1993, London; a run of 1,529 performances; November 17, 1994, New York; a run of 977 performances

Based on the 1950 Billy Wilder film which starred Gloria Swanson and William Holden, Sunset Boulevard provided London's West End and Broadway with a great diva vehicle. In 1950 Hollywood, Norma Desmond is a demented, aging and forgotten movie star of the silent era, living in eerie isolation in a mansion on Sunset Boulevard. Young screenwriter Joe Gillis stumbles into Norma's life and she falls in love with him; he reluctantly accepts her lavish attention. Norma has a pathetic plan to return to the screen with her own hopelessly overwritten script adaptation of Salome, which she wants Joe to edit. She thrills when the studio calls her, but she's then crushed to learn they don't want her—they want her vintage car as an antique prop. Joe despises himself for playing gigolo to Norma. He has a budding romance with Betty Schaefer (first played on Broadway by Judy Kuhn), a young woman his own age interested in him and his writing. At first Betty helps Joe by editing a script he's written. Trying to hide his life with Norma, he does not reveal much to Betty, who becomes confused. She is engaged to Artie, but Joe's kiss changes her feelings. She is "Too Much in Love to Care," a duet with Joe adapted as a solo for this edition. Joe finally tells Betty the truth. When he tries to move out of Norma's house and life, the star's sanity quickly falls apart. She shoots and kills him. When the police come to take her away, Norma is so deluded that she believes the media crowd gathered is a movie crew, and utters the famous line, "Mr. DeMille, I'm ready for my close-up."

WEST SIDE STORY

MUSIC: Leonard Bernstein
LYRICS: Stephen Sondheim
BOOK: Arthur Laurents
DIRECTOR AND CHOREOGRAPHER: Jerome Robbins
OPENED: September 26, 1957, New York; a run of 732 performances

West Side Story is loosely based on William Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet. Gangs rule the streets of the west side of New York City in the 1950s, before the area was revitalized with the construction of Lincoln Center in the 1960s. The Jets are tough Americans, in hate-filled rivalry with the Sharks, tough Puerto Ricans. Tony (Larry Kert in the original cast), a former Jet trying to go straight with a regular job, meets Maria (Carol Lawrence in the original cast), sister to one of the Sharks, at a dance held at a gym. They instantly fall in love, drawing anger from Maria's brother, Bernardo, leader of the Sharks. Riff, leader of the Jets, challenges the Sharks to a rumble. Tony later secretly visits Maria's fire escape balcony, where they confirm their love, uniting as one the next day, after business hours, in the bridal shop where Maria works. That evening Tony goes to the rumble to try to stop it, but when Bernardo stabs Riff, Tony instinctively stabs and kills Bernardo. As this is happening, before she knows of Bernardo's death, in her bedroom Maria confesses to her friends her emotions at being in love in "I Feel Pretty," which opens Act II. Maria learns from Chino, a Shark, that Tony has killed Bernardo just before Tony steals into her bedroom. First enraged and bitter, she settles down in Tony's embrace, and they dream of a safe and peaceful place away from the gang-ridden existence in the city. After a ballet representing this dream a character simply called A Girl sings "Somewhere." Chino later shoots and kills Tony, and Maria grieves over his body. The 1961 film version retained most of the score, but made significant shifts in song and scene order. At this writing the musical has had two fairly short-lived revivals on Broadway, in 1964 and in 1980. The London production opened in 1958.

WICKEDMUSIC AND LYRICS: Stephen SchwartzBOOK: Winnie Holzman, based on the novel Wicked: The Life and Times of the Wicked Witch of the West by Gregory MaguireDIRECTOR: Joe MantelloCHOREOGRAPHER: Wayne CilentoOPENED: October 30, 2003, New York

Stephen Schwartz's return to Broadway came with the hit musical Wicked. Based on Gregory Maguire's 1995 book, the musical chronicles the backstory of the Wicked Witch of the West, Elphaba, and Good Witch of the North, Glinda (Galinda), before their story threads are picked up in L. Frank Baum's The Wonderful Wizard of Oz. As the musical begins, the citizens of Oz celebrate the death of the Wicked Witch of the West, led by Glinda singing "Let Us Be Glad." A flashback begins that tells the story of the complex relationship between the misunderstood Elphaba Thropp (the Wicked Witch of the West) and the ambitious Galinda Upland (Glinda, the Good Witch of the North). Near the beginning of Act II Glinda and Madame Morrible hold a press conference to announce Glinda's engagement to Fiyero Tiggular, a Winkie Prince, in the song "Thank Goodness." Glinda and Elphaba form a friendship in secret and unite against the duplicitous Wizard. Fiyero winds up with Elphaba, whose staged death at being melted is actually a hoax. The original cast included Kristin Chenoweth as Glinda, Idina Menzel as Elphaba, Norbert Leo Butz as Fiyero, and Joel Grey as the Wizard.

The guest of honor—she's missing in action! Nerves, I'm sure But she won't be gone for long, I just know it

The first system of the musical score. The vocal line is on a single staff with a treble clef and a key signature of one flat. The lyrics are: "The guest of honor—she's missing in action! Nerves, I'm sure But she won't be gone for long, I just know it". The piano accompaniment consists of two staves (treble and bass clefs) with a key signature of one flat. The music is in a 4/4 time signature.

Why, just look at the garden—the sound of the ocean, and all of you here, all of you come to celebrate Edie. My little Edie.

poco rall a tempo

The second system of the musical score. The vocal line continues with the lyrics: "Why, just look at the garden—the sound of the ocean, and all of you here, all of you come to celebrate Edie. My little Edie." The piano accompaniment includes performance directions: "poco rall" (poco rallentando) and "a tempo".

I have no doubt any minute she'll come breezing down the stairs, or surprise us, maybe, through the patio doors.

dim cresc poco a poco

The third system of the musical score. The vocal line continues with the lyrics: "I have no doubt any minute she'll come breezing down the stairs, or surprise us, maybe, through the patio doors." The piano accompaniment includes performance directions: "dim" (diminuendo) and "cresc poco a poco" (crescendo poco a poco).
