It is VERY SAD to have heard the news recently that Leah Sharibu has allegedly given birth to a child for a top leader of the group that have held her captive for 2 years.

Recent understanding makes it obvious that it wasn't a COINCIDENCE that she was the only one (being a Christian) that wasn't released among 109 captives.

From the extracted statements below by her father, one can imagine the emotional trauma the family has been through.

It is a shame, from the words of her father, that the Government abandoned her and her family. It is even a BIGGER shame that in several major Christian gatherings in the country not even a minute could be dedicated to praying for her.

Was this the attitude of the Early Church when Apostle Peter (the First Pope) was imprisoned? (Acts 12:1-24).

It is comforting to know that she would one day be commended by the Lord Jesus even more than many we celebrate today.

Recent understanding makes it obvious that there are undertones to several of these happenings in the nation and globally (see REFERENCE links below).

"Wednesday, February 19, 2020 marked two years since Leah Sharibu and 109 other girls were kidnapped from their school in Dapchi, Yobe State by Boko Haram. Leah is the only one of the abducted pupils still being held by her abductors since February 19, 2018 on account of her Christian faith. Her father, Nathan Sharibu, tells HINDI LIVINUS he believes his daughter has not renounced her faith..."

"The government was in touch with the family in Dapchi shortly after the incident and after the release of the other girls. The President sent a delegation led by three ministers, who met with the family in Dapchi. The delegation assured my family of the President's promise to secure the release of Leah. But since that visit, the government has not been in touch nor has there been any communication with my family...."

"When I heard the news, I was sad. But then, I received the news with all pleasure. I even said all I wanted was to have Leah Sharibu back, with or without the baby. The Federal Government knows the whereabouts of Leah Sharibu, and I want the government to know there can be no price too high for the government to pay for her release. Leah is more valuable than any price. On this, I will like to see President Muhammadu Buhari, plead with him and remind him of his promise to my family..."
