A Minecraft Phantom leaves a trail of smoke that is puffy and grey as it circles idly, which can be observed in creative mode, as it doesn't attack. If hit with a sword enchanted by smite or damaged by the instant damage effect, the Minecraft Phantom suffers additional damage. They are not affected by poison and can reverse the effects of instant damage potions.

They attack by swooping down and do not remain in the same location for long, making it difficult to hit the right hit using bows. The best method to defeat the phantom is using the sword. You can also send your tamed Wolf. If all else fails the phantom will disappear from any cat within 16 blocks of it.

Minecraft phantom is spawning

There is a distinction in how Phantoms appear in Java and Bedrock editions. The official Minecraft Wiki has more details.

In the Java editon, Minecraft phantoms spawn in the Overworld during the night, or during a thunderstorm. They will always spawn above you, making it extremely difficult to avoid these malevolent creatures. If you suffer from insomnia and have been awake for three or more days and you hear the hollow cries that a phantom produces as it covers the sky over you. To add insult to injury Phantoms are more likely to appear when you've been able to sleep.

To be able to spawn a phantom you must be just above sea level, and not have a wall overhead that blocks light. The phantom's light capacity is two, therefore it must be below this in order for it to appear in Minecraft. You can anticipate hearing the screech and flapping of wings of phantoms ranging from 1-6, which will spawn 20-34 blocks above your.

Minecraft phantom summoning

In Java edition, you can summon a phantom by using the Minecraft cheater that requires you to turn off cheats in the world. You can summon a phantom from any Minecraft world using the chat window and `"/summon"` command. If you do not want Phantoms appearing at all you must set the `doInsomnia` rule to false.

Of course, you'll want to change the time of day to night otherwise the phantom will appear on fire, just like any other undead mob in Minecraft.
