

Anonymous Operations: A press release #OpISIS

Who is Anonymous?

Anonymous is a leaderless collective, nothing more than an internet gathering. Once a majority of us agrees on a certain topic, we put our collective effort in operations. Where Anonymous doesn't have leaders, operations are always carefully coordinated by its operatives. We have been using this unique concept for over 5 years now, and we are constantly improving through trial and error.

What is Operation ISIS?

Anonymous has been waging Operation ISIS for more than a year now, but due to its recent surge in activity, we feel the need to clarify our views and communicate our message to the media. This operation is the result of multiple key players working to disrupt recruitment of the terrorist organization ISIS.

The key players

Ghost Security Group: <http://ghostsecuritygroup.com>

Ghost Security is an Anonymous spinoff dedicated to gathering intelligence and taking down terrorist social media accounts. Their involvement with the government is frowned upon by many of our supporters but their efforts seem the most coordinated.

AnonOps IRC: <https://webchat.anonops.com> (channel #OpParis)

After the terrorist attacks in Paris, the Anonymous supporters on the Internet Relay Chat (IRC) network AnonOps gathered to verify and fact-check all the information on news articles about ISIS, after the facts were gathered they acted as independent journalists on social media. Their efforts now also include gathering information on terrorists, as well as taking down recruitment websites and social media profiles.

WikiLeaks: <https://wikileaks.org>

With intelligence gathered on Syria and multiple governments over the years, you can dive into the archives of WikiLeaks to unravel the political games which led to the formation of ISIS and the involvement of the western world.

YourAnonNews: <https://twitter.com/YourAnonNews>

With its 1.5 million followers, YourAnonNews is doing its best to verify sources and fact-check information, as a result this twitter account will give you some of the best news when it comes to Anonymous and AnonOps