

Mojang Announces The Closing Of Its Card Battle Game And Offers One Year More Of Playtime

Mojang means Minecraft. Minecraft servers The Microsoft-owned developer also has other projects. Scrolls was a second project: an online card-based battle game that's accessible on PC, Mac and tablets. The game has reached the end of its run and the developer has announced that it will cease work on the game. While it doesn't provide any explanations for the quiet end, we reached out to discover the reason. Mojang claimed that it won a legal battle against Bethesda by being able to name the game "Scrolls" however was prohibited from naming sequels. Mojang promises to keep the servers running for another year. That means that you'll have twelve months to complete the latest update and levels that were released in the month of March.

Update The following update: A Mojang spokesperson confirmed that the launch of the "Scrolls" beta was a huge success. Tens of thousands of players battled daily , and many are still active today. The game is no longer able to keep pace with the ever-changing game.