Tonight is Hadley's last dose of this awful steroid (for now) and I am thrilled. ☐ I love croissants, I love those buttery flaky layers and I will happily eat two in one sitting, especially when they come from fancy French bakeries. @maisonalyzee ☺ But oh gosh her cravings have been intense. Yesterday she ate 5, we baked every frozen one we had. ☐ Today she woke up crying and then screaming for more. ☐ In a moment of weakness I decided to see if DoorDash could help, which they did, but I'm grumpy about paying so much for them to be delivered, while also feeling privileged that I was able to order them in the first place. ☐ And just look at her face when I presented the box to her. She even let me take a few bites of one! It was delicious. Of course it was. I also showed her a video of how croissants are made so she would appreciate them more. And I guess I understand the cost of these beauties a bit better now. ☐

My anxiety and OCD ramp up to the max on prednisolone so I feel realllyyyy sorry for Alex having to put up with me but steroids don't half mess with you emotionally and hopefully he knows it's not me talking and being a bossy bitch, it's the meds ☐ ☐
