Millions Paid to Local Schools from Lottery Money

By Linda Cicoir

More than $202.5 million was spent to purchase Virginia lottery tickets in Accomack County in the last 20 years, according to figures released this week by John Hagerty of www.valottery.com. Meanwhile, in Northampton, the total came to nearly $104 million bringing the total for the Eastern Shore in the last two decades to $306.5 million.

More than $61.4 million in state lottery money has been paid to Accomack and Northampton county schools since 1999, the first year the funds were directed to K-12 education in the state, according to figures.

Accomack County Public Schools was sent a total of $45,260,810 during the last two decades. Northampton County Public Schools, which has fewer students than its neighboring county, received $16,184,591.

"These figures are provided to us each year by Virginia's Department of Education," Hagerty said. "The lottery does not determine how its profits are divided among Virginia's school divisions."

Ticket sales in Accomack were $6,082,963 in 1999, $6,204,849 in 2000, $6,082,927 in 2001, $6,600,957 in 2002, $6,524,968 in 2003,

NORTHAMPTON SCHOOL TO BE RENOVATED

By Stefanie Jackson

Northampton school and county officials have already begun the process of financing $25 million in renovations and repairs needed at Northampton High School, even though the exact work to be done has not yet been determined.

"It looks like after years of debating whether or not we needed ... to do something, we're now moving forward with renovation," said Superintendent Eddie Lawrence at the Aug. 22 school board meeting.

Renovations will be done on the school's 1978 addition, and new construction will be added on the building's south side for Northampton Middle School, which currently occupies little more than a hallway in the high school.

The original 1954 construction on the north side – with the possible exception of the auditorium – will be demolished after the new addition is complete.

The middle section of the school, constructed in 1954 but renovated in 2008, will remain.

It is unknown exactly how much of the $25 million will be spent on the new addition, although the financing application estimates $14.5 million for construction and $7 million for reconstruction and rehabilitation.

More details will be known in a few months after architectural firm Waller, Todd & Sadler, of Virginia Beach, Va., completes its educational study of Northampton High School and determines how the building complex can be modified to accommodate students' learning needs.

For example, more classrooms will be

Hallwood Councilman Calls For More Charges Against Taylor

By Linda Cicoira

Hallwood Councilman Rich Selinsky wants more charges to be filed against Angela Taylor, the former town clerk accused of 65 counts of embezzling from town coffers.

"It seems like there are a whole lot of charges missing from this case," Selinsky told Commonwealth's Attorney Spencer Morgan, the rest of the town council, and Mayor Jackie Poulson at a council meeting last week. "It's almost as if she already has a deal. ... If there were more charges, more of it would stand. Everybody in here knows what I'm talking about."

Selinsky said Taylor received cash payments for taxes and other fees that were never deposited in the bank. He said the proof is in the affidavits residents signed before their bills were waived soon after the town records were destroyed.

Taylor was storing the records in her car in October 2017 just before the long-overdue audit was to be done. She lives about 350 yards from the town office and mostly did work from her home. She was going to deliver the records, including financial documents, to an Atlantic bookkeeper.

The fire occurred about five miles from Hallwood on Wessells Farm Road. The vehicle was then hauled to a local salvage yard, crushed, and taken away before other town officials found out about it.

Selinsky said the town had to re-establish its ordinances because everything was destroyed. He said the charges allege that Taylor took checks and had the payment of electric bills for her home and husband's shop set up for automatic payment by the town through the utility company. But, Selinsky said, the charges don't address "an enormous amount of collateral damage that I don't think can be ignored." The councilman suggested Taylor be charged with destruction of property.

Councilman John Smith wanted to know why she was given a low bond. Taylor, 46, of Hall Street in Hallwood, was arrested Jan. 30. She was released on $5,500 bond.

"I had to post $10,000 for taking a cop's picture," Smith said. "It was a good ol' boys' network," he added.

Taylor was initially prohibited from leaving the state but her bond was later amended to allow her to travel as far north as Dover, Del., for work.

Immediately after the October 2017 fire, Taylor quit her job by leaving a note about her departure and details about the fire in the town office for officials to find.

Morgan came to the meeting to talk about the criminal prosecution but was reluctant to say too much. He distributed the "Virginia State Bar Rules of Professional Conduct" that prohibits him from making statements about a case so a defendant can get a fair trial.

"This has been one of those cases where we've tried very hard to be methodical," said Morgan. He said he has shared the evidence with defense lawyer Carl Bundick. "I can't seek punitive damages. That's civil ... These are criminal charges," the prosecutor said. "It is my hope we will get this set (for trial) before spring."

"It's helpful for the court to hear from the body (town officials) as one," Morgan continued. "Think about what you would say. We're not there yet, but there will come a time in the future."

An Accomack grand jury is expected to look at the evidence next month. Taylor waived a preliminary hearing in August.

Poulson and present town clerk, Danny Shrieves, a local minister, obtained the 2017 town budget from an old edition of the Eastern Shore Post, where it had been advertised. The budget shows the clerk's salary at $4,200. Checks show she was paid $8,585.42 in 2015, $10,367.69 in 2016, and $7,470 in 2017. The charges stem from those years. Poulson noted that occasionally she was paid extra for being at the office to sell vehicle decals. At one meeting, the mayor said, Taylor received $32,000 that she wasn't due.

Painter Man Sentenced in Murder-for-Hire Plot

By Linda Cicaira

Aaron Jamarcus Bowens, who was paid $1,000 for injuring a police informant and was once accused of murdering an Exmore man, will spend five years in prison for his part in an October 2017 murder-for-hire conspiracy.

Bowens, aka Easy and BOBO, 23, of Big Pine Road in Painter, was sentenced to 20 years last week in Accomack Circuit Court for conspiring with a prisoner to commit capital murder. Fifteen years of the term was suspended. Bowens was also ordered to be on probation for three years and good behavior for five years.

Witnesses said Bowens was paid for injuring Nathaniel "Nate" Johnson, an Eastern Shore Drug Task Force informant. Authorities say Bowens didn't actually shoot the informant so he was not charged with that crime. He was one of several people asked to kill Johnson. After the shooting occurred, he claimed responsibility and accepted the money.

Bowens was also identified through cell phone and jail phone records. He talked to Evron Terrell Strand Sr., 44, of Deer Drive in Nelsonia, who was in Accomack Jail when the arrangements were made. Strand got 50 years for ordering the hit and other charges in connection with the scheme. Strand wanted to stop Johnson from testifying against him on cocaine distribution charges. Strand was also fined $202,500 for his part in the murder-for-hire plot.

Bowens' sentence was part of a plea bargain agreement with Commonwealth's Attorney Spencer Morgan that called for the defendant to serve no more than seven years. There was a $3,000 contract for killing Johnson, according to court records. Morgan said Bowens was paid less because Johnson survived.

Former Northampton Commonwealth's Attorney Bruce Jones publicly accused Bowens of murdering an Ex-more man a few years ago although he was never charged with the crime. A search of Bowens' home resulted in street gang-related notes being confiscated.

Jones accused Bowens of the shooting death of Terrell "Juice" Devone Mason, a 26-year-old father of eight, who was killed in 2015. Mason was shot through the window of a shed, where neighborhood family and friends gathered to play cards, in Exmore.

Bowens was also involved in an incident at the former Sage Restaurant soon after that. He was hit in the leg by gunfire, which was followed by a high-speed police chase.

In another case, James Floyd, 56, of Dogwood Drive in Onancock, was convicted of four counts of assault and battery of rescue workers, which are felonies. The victims were Wayne Marshall, Cole Bonniwell, Chris Casaro, and Kevin Holloway. Floyd was also convicted of larceny from a person, Charlene Rowley. The incident occurred on April 2. Sentencing was set for Nov. 21.

Joseph Paul Mullane, 19, of Waltham Street in Norfolk, Va., pleaded guilty to breaking into the home of Cindy Reed, of Pine Drive on Chincoteague, and stealing property belonging to her son. Mullane was remanded to jail to await sentencing set for Nov. 7.

Latrell Rashawn Davis, 39, of Hall Street in Onancock, pleaded guilty to six counts of welfare fraud in connection with incidents that occurred between April 2014 and February 2019. Restitution of $5,960 was ordered. Sentencing was deferred until Nov. 7. Davis was initially charged with 10 counts of fraud.

Allison Elaine Stauffer, 20, of Keller, pleaded guilty to obtaining a credit card by false pretenses, three counts of grand larceny, and three counts of credit card fraud in connection with March incidents. The property belonged to Kathline Stauffer. A presentence report was ordered. Sentencing was set for Nov. 7. The defendant could be sentenced to up to 95 years in prison and fined $17,500.

Dana Rene Boyer, 35, of Black Mallard Way in Onancock, was given a 12-month suspended sentence for petty larceny of property belonging to James Spahn on Dec. 6, 2018. Boyer was ordered to pay restitution of $4,500, report back to the court in a year, have no contact with the victim, and be on indefinite probation. She was initially charged with grand larceny.

“Because the lottery doesn’t determine the amount each school district receives, we don’t track the revenue generated by sales by county,” Hagerty said. “We track the total statewide revenue. So we know, for example, that last year 28.3 percent of lottery sales were profits to school, but that percentage is not necessarily the same from one year to the next. It depends on other factors, such as how much the lottery paid out in prizes to players that year.”

Exmore Considers Sewage Options

By Stefanie Jackson

Exmore has the opportunity to join the Hampton Roads Sanitation District, get out of the sewer business, and remove the burden of billing and maintenance from town staff – but that may not be in the best interest of its citizens, the town council learned Monday night.

“HRSD is probably the best thing ever to happen to the Eastern Shore. It is not a good thing for Exmore,” said Town Manager Robert Duer.

The reason? No matter which option Exmore chooses to fix its sewer problems, it will cost millions of dollars, but choosing the HRSD option will sorely limit the funding sources available to the town.

HRSD is a political subdivision that was created by the Virginia General Assembly in 1940 to clean up pollution in Hampton Roads, and joining the sanitation district will eliminate Exmore’s chances of obtaining government funding for its sewer project – no grants, no low-interest loans.

Exmore would have to get a traditional loan from a bank, and with just under $3 million in cash, the town appears to be short on collateral to borrow the estimated $5 million needed to build out its sewer system according to HRSD specifications.

Exmore needs all the help it can get to fund infrastructure. About 73% of Exmore residents are ALICE (Asset Limited, Income Constrained, Employed), compared to 62% of Cheriton, 58% of Nassawadox, and 48% of Cape Charles.

There is another option – a public-private partnership in which the town, its citizens, and a private company would each take financial responsibility for a different part of

Lewis Tours Northampton High

Sen. Lynwood Lewis, of the Virginia General Assembly, toured Northampton High School on Tuesday for a firsthand look at the challenges presented by the building's declining physical condition as Superintendent Eddie Lawrence described the upgrades and additions that will be needed to meet students' future educational needs.

The tour began in the lobby, where high schoolers pour in through a set double doors on the left and middle schoolers enter through the doors on the right every morning.

The high school students have shared their space with the middle school students since about 2012, after Northampton Middle School in Machipongo closed.

Major renovations at Northampton High School will begin next summer. In a future renovation phase, Lawrence wants the distance shortened from the school's front entrance to the main office, where visitors could be granted or denied access to the rest of the school.

He seeks to address parent concerns that an active intruder could enter the lobby and get easy access to students in the hallways and classrooms.

Straight ahead on the right is the middle school hall. It's a small space to fit what's basically an entire school. The 8th grade occupies just four classrooms, Lawrence said.

With little distinction between the middle school hall and the rest of the school, the middle schoolers lack a sense of identity and are just "not themselves," said school board member Maxine Rasmussen.

During a later phase of the building improvement project, a new addition will be built beyond that hall, where the middle school will get its own space with a separate entrance and the Northampton Middle School Golden Bulls will get a brand-new chance to shine.

The new addition will also allow the sixth grade to join the seventh and eighth grades at the middle school. Lawrence is confident the middle school will become fully accredited after the change is made.

Sen. Lewis visits the classroom of history teacher Reuben Quanbeck during his tour of Northampton High School on Tuesday.

The addition will include a new cafeteria to replace the one located in the original 1954 section of the school that will be demolished after the addition is built.

Walking down the school's central hallway and crossing from the 1978 section to the 1954 section, the change in the building's condition is clearly visible, from the water stains on the ceiling to the cracks in the floor.

But after entering the cafeteria, Lewis noted it was "well kept" for its age, a compliment to Director of Operations Chris Truckner, who oversees the maintenance of all Northampton school buildings and their equipment.

The tour circled back around to the 1978 section and crossed the lobby, ending in the gym. Lawrence hopes plans to renovate the gym will come sooner rather than later, because if the repairs are delayed another five to 10 years, the gym won't be worth saving, he said.

Lewis said obtaining funding to renovate old schools and build new schools isn't just a challenge in low-income, rural areas – it's a problem across the commonwealth.

He acknowledged that Virginia has underfunded its public schools and is now struggling to catch up.

The school board looks forward to the upcoming renovations at Northampton High School, and Rasmussen indicated to Lewis that she hopes the improvements will help to remove the "negative connotations" that an increasing number of parents associate with public schools.

Three Eastern Shore residents were charged with felonies recently, according to documents filed in Accomack General District Court.

Brandon James Shrieves Jr., 26, of Parksley Road in Parksley, is being held without bond on counts of attempted malicious wounding, shooting at an occupied dwelling, use of a firearm in a threatening manner, and discharging a gun from a vehicle in connection with incidents that occurred June 22. He was arrested Sept. 1. Deputy C. Hodgson, of the Accomack County Sheriff's Office, investigated.

Alexis Lashawna Press, 21, of Debra Lane in New Church, was charged with stealing a firearm on Sept. 8. She was arrested the same day and told police "she was trying to get her and her son out of the situation," the record stated. A preliminary hearing has not yet been set. An unsecured bond of $1,000 was set. Deputy T. Marks, of ACSO, investigated. Marks recently left the Parksley Police Department.

Deanna Rochelle Sebastian, 35, of Jefferson Street in Exmore, is accused of two counts of a third or subsequent offense of petty larceny, which are felonies, in connection with incidents that occurred on June 27 and Aug. 24, at Walmart, in Onley. A preliminary hearing was set for Nov. 18. Sgt. E.J. Nottingham, of ACSO, investigated.

Woman Charged with THC Oil Possession

A Hampton Roads woman was charged recently in Northampton County with possession of THC oil, which is a felony, according to records filed in Northampton General District Court.

Frances Gabrielle Sanchez, 24, of 16th Bay Street, in Norfolk, Va., is accused of possession of a controlled substance.

Sanchez was a passenger in a vehicle pulled over because the driver was clocked going 77 mph in a 55 mph zone on the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel, Officer R.M. Steele, of CBBT Police Department, stated in the court record. "A strong odor of marijuana coming from the car." Sanchez was arrested the same day.

Exmore Man Uses Bat As Weapon

An Exmore man admitted to police that he bashed out the windows of his mother's car with a baseball bat before hitting the woman in the head with the weapon.

A Northampton grand jury indicted James Jahlil Riley, 30, of Oakland Drive, Monday on a count of malicious wounding with intent to maim, disfigure, disable, or kill in connection with the July 1 incident.

Monica Riley met police at the corner of Oakland Drive and Main Street, in Exmore, to complain about what happened, according to records filed in Northampton Circuit Court. Deputy Jacob Foisey, of the Northampton County Sheriff's Office, then went to the Riley home and found the defendant.

"Mr. Riley admitted to me that he had used a baseball bat to break the windows out in the car and then hit his mother when she came at him for breaking the windows," Foisey wrote in court documents. The deputy wrote that he saw the broken windows and the laceration on the back of the victim's head.

In another case, Aaquil Lamar Stevens, 30, of Woodcock Circle in Cape Charles, was indicted on a count of making a bomb threat to the Food Lion, in Cape Charles, on June 16. Information was offered to the grand jury by Deputy William Garrett, of NCSO. Stevens was arrested June 21.

Tramaine L. Milbourne, 33, of Somers Cove in Crisfield, Md., was indicted on a count of possession of cocaine and a count of possession of ecstasy, also known as MDMA, on March 23. He was arrested the same day. Officer J. Batakis, of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel Police Department, gave information about the alleged crimes to the jury.

William James Gohring, 40, of Bennett Street in Parksley, was indicted on counts of possession of cocaine and possession of oxycodone. The crimes occurred April 8. Trooper J. Shaffer investigated.

Jasmez Cornell Upshur, 24, of Willow Lane in Birdsneest, was indicted on counts of breaking into the home of Robert L. Reed Sr. and stealing property valued at $500 or more on April 7. He was arrested July 17. Officer Brandon Parks, of the Exmore Police Department, investigated.

Christopher Elliott, 47, of Osprey Circle in Hebron, Md., and Bryan W. Clayton, 34, of Guildford Road in Bloxom, were charged with attempting to deliver or conspiring to deliver with another the drug fentanyl to a prisoner at the Eastern Shore Regional Jail, in Eastville. The incident occurred May 7. Deputy Glenn Bailey, of NCSO, investigated.

Nathan Pless, 44, of Union Station in Norfolk, Va., was indicted on a count of possessing heroin on June 8. He was arrested the next day. Officer S.M. Beasley, of the CBBT Police Department, investigated.

Roy Antoine Harris, 35, of Prince Albert Avenue in Colonial Heights, Va., was indicted on a count of possession of cocaine on June 3. Beasley investigated. Harris was arrested June 4.

Tray Von Ryheem Snead, 24, of Exmore, was indicted on counts of credit card larceny and credit card fraud in connection with April 6 incidents. The card belonged to Tamiya Wise, the defendant's child's mother. Snead was arrested April 7. He is accused of making three withdrawals from Wise's account for a total of $549.50. There were also $94.50 in overdraft fees. Snead sent a note to Wise apologizing and promising to pay her back, according to the court record. Information about the case was given to the grand jury by former Sgt. Jason Campbell, of Exmore Police Department. Campbell is now working for the Accomack County Sheriff's Office.

What do you imagine when you think about being restored?

That is a million dollar question.

Is your life unmanageable? Do you feel as though you can't get it all together and you will never be able to climb out of where you are? Stress and burdens all weigh us down. No one person bears the same pain as another. No one person bears the same weight no matter what it is. We all live different lives and all have our own worries of the day.

If you would like to get away for an hour and get together with some people who can make those burdens lighter and worries fade away, one step at a time, day by day, gathering by gathering.

Shore Firefighting Exhibit Kickoff

Shore firefighters battle the fire at the Wachapreague Hotel in 1978.

The prevalence and importance of volunteer firefighting, as well as the later integration of professional firefighters, have inspired Ker Place's fall exhibit, "It All Started with a Spark: The Rise and Evolution of Eastern Shore Firefighting."

The exhibit launches Friday, Sept. 27. It will run through mid-December at the museum, owned by the Eastern Shore of Virginia Historical Society (ESVHS) at 69 Market St., Onancock. The display will showcase major fires from Eastern Shore history; highlight historic artifacts as well as memorabilia; and explore the past, present, and future of firefighting on the Shore.

The opening reception will be from 6 to 8 p.m. that Friday. The general public, particularly volunteer and professional firefighters along with their families and friends, are invited to this free event. Light hors d'oeuvres and a cash bar will be available.

In conjunction with the exhibit, the historical society will host a panel discussion Friday, Oct. 11, from 6 to 7:30 p.m. Officials from the Accomack County Sheriff's Department, the Virginia State Police, and (potentially) branches of the federal government, such as the FBI and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives, will discuss how their organizations operate independently as well as in conjunction with one another during a long, large investigation, such as the 2012-13 arsons. This event will cost $5 for each ESVHS member and $10 for the general public. The location will be the Onancock Baptist Church, 1 Crockett Ave. Purchase tickets at www.shorehistory.org

Also planned Saturday, Oct. 12, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., is a free Family Fun Day revolving around fire safety and firefighting. This will be on the front lawn of Ker Place. Various Shore fire companies and departments will have equipment on display; Sparky the fire dog will be out and about for pictures; and there will be giveaways for the kiddos. The Accomack County Department of Public Safety will be bringing its fire prevention house for kids to tour. ESVHS also hopes to have some contests among firefighters, for example, who can put their turnout gear on the fastest. If you're a firefighter interested in participating in the contest(s), contact Amy Savona, ESVHS marketing director, at 757-787-8012 or email marketing@shore-history.org. Family-friendly lunch items will be available for sale.

Exmore's sewer system.

The private company would build and run the sewage treatment plant, Exmore would build the sewer pipes that run to the plant, and each homeowner would purchase a grinder pump that processes sewage into a slurry and pumps it to the main sewer line.

Nassawadox is considering participating in the project. The wastewater treatment plant could be built in either Exmore or Nassawadox, with a pipeline running from one town to the other.

Duer estimated the public-private option could cost Exmore $6 million – a bit more than the HRSD option, but with the ability to obtain grants and low-interest loans to cover the cost.

Households also would be able to obtain grants and low-interest loans to cover the cost of the grinder pumps, which cost about $6,000 to $6,500 installed.

A resident who earns less than $12,500 annually – for example, a retired widow or widower living alone on a fixed income – could obtain a grant of up to $7,500 from the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) to get a grinder pump for free.

All other residents would be eligible to obtain a USDA loan with 1% interest to buy a pump.

Every customer would be billed monthly for sewer service based on water usage as determined by a water meter. Each bill would include an additional charge to cover the town's cost to construct the sewer pipe system.

Duer estimates the public-private option would cost each customer a monthly sewer service charge of $66.11 for 3,000 gallons of water used.

That's less than the HRSD option, which could cost from $73.61 to $82.61 per month, depending on whether the Eastern Shore localities that join HRSD take on the debt associated with Onancock's wastewater facility, where their sewage would be treated.

If Exmore joins the Hampton Roads Sanitation District, residents could see their monthly sewer bill increase significantly in 10 years, from the $80 range to $100 or even $150. How?

HRSD's standard rate for every 1,000 gallons of wastewater collected and treated is $13.43. That number is expected to more than double by 2029 to $27.97.

By contrast, a public-private agreement would lock in wastewater treatment costs for 10 years.

"And after 10 years, they could double it, and we'd be in the same boat," Councilman Chase Sturgis asserted.

But the private company that would partner with Exmore projects a rate increase of only about 2.5% over 30 years, Director of Utilities Taylor Dukes said.

"My goal with this project, when it gets done, is it works. ... It's not the cheapest built system, but it's the cheapest for Exmore residents.

"It's got to be affordable for our residents because if not, you're going to run widows out of town, you're going to run the widowers out of town."

It's not the low-income households receiving financial assistance that worry him.

"It doesn't matter how high the bill goes. The more the bill goes up, the more assistance they get. They actually come out ahead," Dukes said. The Accomack-Northampton Planning District Commission (A-NPDC) and other organizations have made those assurances, he added.

His main concern is for "blue-collar workers."

He was also concerned about residents who make weekly payments on their monthly bills because they can't afford to pay all at once. HRSD would not offer such flexible payment arrangements.

Sturgis asked what would happen if a homeowner's pump failed after five years. Dukes said as he understands it, anyone with an income under the $12,500 threshold could apply for another USDA grant to replace the pump.

Duer was confident that if a homeowner takes care of the pump and doesn't put objects like eggshells or sand down the drain, the pump will essentially "last forever."

Dukes said improperly disposed items that he's removed from septic systems have included diapers, clothes, and shoes.

The public-private option wouldn't get Exmore completely out of the sewer business, but it would give the town control over sewer rates, and customers could speak directly to town staff or council members about any problems they have with the service.

Another benefit of the public-private option is time. A new sewer system could be up and running in two years, versus three to five years with the Hampton Roads Sanitation District.

"We don't have five years," Duer said.

Time is of the essence for growing businesses and organizations like Shore Christian Academy, which plans to construct a new school building in the near future.

Another motel or apartment building could be built in Exmore. A new restaurant could open. Affordable housing could be built for blue-collar workers like those in the seafood industry. Exmore could partner with the Northampton County School Board and provide affordable housing for teachers, too.

But infrastructure is needed for the town to grow.

"This is it in a nutshell," Mayor Douglas Greer said. "The reason why we're so interested in this is it's time to move the town forward. It's just that simple."

Clarification

In an article on Page 11 last week it said, "Total enrollment at ESCC is 214, down by nine students from 223 last year..." This should be "dual enrollment" not "total enrollment."

needed if the sixth grade is moved from the elementary schools to the middle school.

"I'm just excited about this, because it means we're finally starting to see progress on this issue," Lawrence said.

School board member Maxine Rasmussen agreed. "For years and years, this was just so slow and it seemed like we were making no headway, and suddenly, the committee is ... all on the same page on what's best for the kids," she said later in the meeting.

She was referring to the high school revitalization committee that includes members of both the Northampton board of supervisors and school board, two sides that spent years at odds over the condition of the high school.

When Northampton supervisors met Aug. 27, they discussed which repairs need to be done first and how much they will cost.

Supervisor David Fauber, who is on the high school revitalization committee, said the school's exterior walls need repair. Damaged mortar and steel joints need to be replaced to ensure the brick wall is secured to the concrete wall behind it. The job will cost about $700,000.

The 1978 addition will get a new roof and heat and air conditioning units. The leaky, flat roof will be replaced with a pitched roof, similar to the new roofs on several Accomack schools. That job will cost $3.2 million.

The committee wants both projects done next summer when no students are on campus, and the jobs will easily take three months to complete, which means "we've got to get rolling on it right now," Fauber said.

The projects need to be engineered and sent out to bid so contractors can "hit the ground running" as soon as school lets out in June.

Once supervisors decided it was time to move forward with the high school project, Northampton schools' Chief Financial Officer Brook Thomas had to act fast, since the deadline to apply for financing was in late August.

The $25 million that will be financed isn't a "magic number," she said. The project may cost less or more than that. "We'll just have to cross that bridge when we come to it," she added.

Northampton supervisors decided to take advantage of low interest rates that are staying around 2.5% or 3%, and they will borrow nearly $29 million. The funds will be obtained through the sale of Virginia Public School Authority bonds.

"If you're going to borrow money, now is the time," said Courtney Rogers, senior vice president and financial advisor with Davenport & Company, of Richmond, Va., who reviewed the financing plan with supervisors at their Sept. 10 meeting.

The county will spend $25 million on actual project costs, plus a $500,000 contingency, $250,000 in loan fees, $50,000 to issue the funds, and $3,125,000 in deferred interest.

Neither interest nor principal will be paid for roughly the next three years, through fiscal year 2022. For another three years, through FY 2025, the $3,125,000 in deferred interest will be repaid, $1,036,818 per year.

Principal payments will not begin until 2026, when Northampton's previously acquired debt will drop significantly. Between 2025 and 2026, its annual debt payment will be cut roughly in half, dropping from about $2.4 million to less than $1.2 million.

Northampton County has a policy of keeping its debt service below 12% of its budgeted expenses. That figure is about 7% now and will peak at nearly 8% in 2023, when the first interest payment is made on the new loan for the Northampton High School project.

The county's cash flow will be negatively impacted between 2023 and 2025. There will be a cash flow deficit of roughly $500,000 every year for three years. A temporary tax hike may be necessary to make up the difference during the three-year period.

The cash flow deficit will be nearly $570,000 in 2023. That could be recovered if the real estate tax rate was raised 3 cents. But supervisors cannot predict how high or low the tax hike could be or even if a rate increase will be needed at all.

Spencer Murray, chairman of the board of supervisors, said supervisors will try to make up the deficit with other revenues.

Rogers reminded supervisors that in the event of a capital need emergency that is not related to the schools, the county can tap into its undesignated fund balance, aka rainy day fund, which has more than $10 million.

Supervisors plan to adopt a resolution authorizing the financing of the Northampton High School project Sept. 24, with a public hearing Oct. 8. The bond sale is expected Oct. 22, with a closing date of Nov. 12.

Exmore Brings Shakespeare and the Arts to the Park

Submitted Article

A “triple play” weekend is coming up in the Exmore Town Park—and it’s all free. The fun and entertainment kick off Friday, Sept. 20, with the Broadwater Academy Chorus, under the direction of Ally Tarwater, taking the spotlight at 6:30 p.m. for a free concert that sets the stage for the evening’s main event: a full-length professional production of William Shakespeare’s “Measure for Measure” presented in partnership with Boston’s acclaimed Brown Box Theatre Project. This classic, politically relevant tragicomedy, under the direction of Kyler Taustin, explores what happens when corruption reaches the highest level of court, and invites the audience to balance the price of principle against vice. “Measure for Measure” begins at 7:30 p.m. It is presented outdoors under the stars in the spacious town park.

On Saturday, Sept. 21, the park fills up with more arts and entertainment with the 2nd Annual Artisans Festival, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Artists and makers of all varieties, from hobbyists to professionals, from across the Eastern Shore, Maryland, and Hampton Roads, will be exhibiting and selling their works.

“The Town of Exmore is proactively focused on bringing quality events and entertainment to our community and making them accessible to everyone, whether residents of the ESVA or visitors,” said Exmore’s Mayor Douglas Greer. “Our overall goal is to elevate the quality of life and the image of our town, our county, and the entire ESVA.”

Greer adds that the benefits of arts are concrete. Both in terms of strengthening the social fabric of communities and in adding to the economic vitality of the region. “As we build our event calendar larger each year and continue bringing the classics to life with productions such as Free Shakespeare in the Park, we are hoping to establish Exmore as a cultural and entertainment anchor for the Eastern Shore of Virginia.”

The Exmore Town Park is located at 3339 Main St. For more informa-

Off the Shelf: News From Eastern Shore Public Library MAKE THE MOST OF YOUR LIBRARY CARD

Submitted Article

September is Library Card Sign-up Month. Make the most of your library card account with features built into the Eastern Shore Public Library's online catalog system. As always, library cards are free.

The first step is to call or visit any of the four ESPL libraries in Chincoteague, Accomac, Nassawadox, or Cape Charles to register for or update your library card. Be sure you know your PIN number in addition to your library card number. Contact library staff to add a PIN number if you forgot it and need a new one. Next, visit www.espl.org and log in with your library card number and PIN by clicking the small blue "My Account" link in the upper right corner of the screen.

Once logged in, the account summary screen provides an overview of your library account and serves as a dashboard to access the various tabs of account activities and preferences. The "Items Checked Out" tab lists all items currently checked out, on hold, and ready for pickup. If you have opted to retain a history of previously checked out items under "Account Preferences," a list of your prior checkouts will be available under this tab as well. This is helpful to recall which books you read in the past. Ask staff whether your retained history option is selected as this feature is not an automatic setting.

While viewing the list of items currently checked out, it is easy to renew any that are overdue or nearing their due date. Check the box next to each of the items you'd like to renew and then select "Renew Selected Titles."

The main screen dashboard will also display any current fine balance, with a detailed breakdown of fine charges and past payments. The "Holds" tab lists all items that you have requested, along with information about how many copies are currently available in the library catalog. For items with a waiting list, the number of holds ahead of yours is displayed.

The "Account Preferences" tab is where you can update your PIN and email address. You can also select your preferred method of being contacted for notifications of holds ready for pickup. Choices include by phone, email, or text message. Adding an email address to your account will also allow advance notification of items about to be due and items that have become overdue. This can help with avoiding or minimizing library fines. You can also opt to receive emailed checkout receipts, useful in keeping track of the item's due date. Additionally, you can select which ESPL branch you prefer when picking up requested items.

While logged into your account, searching the catalog is now enhanced by the "Basket" feature, the green basket-shaped icon in the top right corner of the screen. When browsing, simply click the box to the left of each item you are interested in. The items will be automatically added to your basket. The list of which can then be viewed, printed, emailed, or placed on hold by clicking the drop-down menu "Basket Actions." Once the basket has items in it, clicking directly on the icon will allow you to take an additional step of adding the list of items to a permanent "Saved List" that can be accessed at a future date.

Be sure to give these tips and tricks a try. As always, if you have any questions, or need help getting started with a new library card, searching the catalog, or accessing your account, library staff are happy to help.

For more information about how to sign up for a library card, please visit your local public library in person or call the library at 757-787-3400. The Eastern Shore Public Library System has libraries in Accomac, Cape Charles, Chincoteague, and Nassawadox. Your ESPL library card can be used at any of the four libraries. To learn about the regional library building project and ESVA Heritage Center in Parksley, opening in 2020, or to donate, visit www.shorelibrary.com. For more information about your library services, hours of operation, or your library account, "like" us on Facebook and Twitter, visit www.espl.org or call the library at 757-787-3400.

Arcadia Takes A Loss But Remains Positive

Story and Photos by Matthew Yoder

Two themes emerged from Arcadia's 35-14 loss to Stephen Decatur Saturday in Berlin, Md. The Firebirds, their coaches, and spectators all described a first half marked by timid play in all facets of the game. But the sport of football allows for adjustments and redemption, and the Firebirds used the break at halftime to rally as a team and mount an impressive second half comeback against a larger, deeper team.

This was the opening game for Stephen Decatur, which also unveiled a new turf field. They established the run early with big gains by Devin Waters running into the teeth of Arcadia's defensive line. Some strong tackling by Ryan Rose and Tiair Bibbins halted their first drive, but a three and out by the Firebirds offense put their defense right back to work and the Seahawks wasted little time moving the ball downfield. A great open field tackle by Bibbins on Waters saved a long touchdown, but sweeps by Zimere Handy, Teron Wright, and a quarterback keeper from Ashton Snelsire put the Seahawks within the five-yard line. On the ensuing play Waters took the direct snap and followed good blocking to the right side for the first score of the game.

Arcadia's second possession was met with a strong pass rush by Decatur. Costly penalties and a botched punt quickly left the Seahawks with possession of the ball again, and they only needed three plays to find the end zone for a second time. A 14-yard run by Austin Airey gave the Seahawks a 14-0 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Arcadia's defense found themselves on the field a majority of the first half, fighting a running offense that was often schematically one-dimensional but nonetheless physically relentless.

"Our line is learning a lot," said Arcadia's assistant coach Dan Macca. "The defense has played their hearts out, they've been on the field a lot."

Decatur got big runs by Branden Manuel and Zimere Handy, but on this day simply running the ball up the middle with Waters behind center Zach Hickman was routinely effective.

Scores by Snelsire on the ground and a jump ball completion in the end zone to Koby Higgins drove the score to 28-0.

In the first half Arcadia's offense was repeatedly hampered by penalties and a breakdown in blocking. Quarterback Lethon Williams seemingly scrambled all half against a pass rush defended by physically difficult matchups from DeCameron McAfee and 6-foot, 10-inch, 350-pound Gabe Aluma. Ultimately, however, Williams praised another Seahawk defender, sophomore Austin Airey, as presenting the biggest challenge.

"Number six contained really well," Williams said.

Arcadia coach Alan Hall admitted that Airey came out of nowhere and they didn't scout him out against other formidable defenders.

Echoing Williams' sentiment, Airey said, "I think I contained pretty good, trying to keep the quarterback to the inside instead of outside."

Airey recorded one sack in the first half playing his first-ever varsity game.

Coach Hall walked with his team into halftime sporting a stunned look saying, "This is totally different than last week, let me get my composure and make adjustments."

Hall's kids didn't let dejection take over. Tiair Bibbins in particular could be overheard saying "put pads on them."

"The team just needs focus," Bibbins said.

In the stands his father, Calvin, also remained optimistic.

"They came in a little flat, there's still plenty of hope and they need to know that," Bibbins said.

Arcadia's fans remained quite invested in the game and Regina Finney said, "If they can just score that will shake Decatur."

Out of the break Arcadia did not look like a team that believed the game was over.

Ryan Rose, who left the game in the second quarter with a suspected concussion, said of the second half, "it's a fight to show them what we have."

The fight of the Firebirds in the second half was encouraging. The defense returned to its strong gang tackling of a week ago, with stops by Keith Grinnage and Brandon Bibbins. The game took a decidedly more intense feel altogether.

On offense Arcadia started to move the ball behind strong runs from Williams and Brandon Bibbins. They moved the ball into Seahawk territory but an interception towards the end zone halted the drive. On the ensuing drive Snelsire connected on a 73-yard touchdown pass to Higgins, pushing the score to 35-0.

Williams, who tirelessly eluded rushers all afternoon, felt the interception slowed his team's momentum.

"I under threw it in the wind," Williams said.

Even so the Firebirds and Williams didn't quit. On their next possession Williams connected on a pass to Airey Finney and Finney ran 77 yards for a score.

Great tackling by Demonta Copes gave the ball back to Arcadia and they drove the ball effectively again with another touchdown pass for 15 yards from Williams to Tevon Bunting.

Arcadia rode the excitement of the crowd to a successful onside kick recovery by Collin Marshall but had their drive slowed by a fumble, thus ending the game.

The coaching staff was still pleased with the second half effort and was quick to praise their kids.

"We won the second half," Macca said. He credited his players intuition.

"We made changes based on what kids told us," Macca said. "We give them credit."

Brandon Bibbins, who played particularly physical on both sides of the ball, said of the second half, "We came out hitting them."

Coach Hall was quick to take blame for not making adjustments sooner, saying, "I'll take this one on my shoulder." By the evening he was likely back to work scouting this week's game with Nandua.

"Next week we find out if these kids have bounce back," said Hall.

The sting of the loss and a home matchup with Nandua this week should supply plenty of fire for the team.

"This will make us want to go harder," said Airey Finney.

TROJANS GAIN VICTORY, 55-16

by Brennan Waldorf

Broadwater Vikings fell 55-16 to a much larger Kent County team. The Vikings were fighting from behind from the start of the game. The Kent county offense proved to be too much as it overwhelmed the Vikings defense, moving the ball effectively both in the air and on the ground.

The Trojans received the ball and quickly made their way into Vikings territory with a 40-yard run by junior running back Ty Wilson. Wilson would punch a 1-yard touchdown in on the next play and with the extra point being successful the Vikings were down 7-0. The Vikings first offensive possession resulted in a turnover on downs when a rush up the middle fell inches short on fourth-and-2. Kent County would capitalize on good field position, scoring their second rushing touchdown of the day on only two plays.

Down 14 to 0 the Vikings would switch to a pass heavy offense that showed glimpses of the playmaking ability the young team is capable of. Brant Bloxom and company were facing an uphill battle after they committed a 5-yard penalty followed by a sack that had the Vikings facing third-and-15. On the next play, Bloxom delivered a strike over the middle to Gunnar Gustafson who had blown by his defender and took the catch to the house for a 65-yard TD. Gunnar would then go on to complete a pass to Clay Wardius on a 2-point conversion putting the score at 14-8.

Back on defense the fatigue of having to play both sides of the ball set in for an undersized and undermanned Vikings squad. They stood their ground and made the Trojans work for their gains but the strong rushing attack was successfully persistent with an array of running backs finding the end zone. The Viking defense was unable to record a single stop in the first half, putting themselves in 35-8 hole. The fatigue from defense quickly set in on offense as the struggling line missed blocks and fourth downs weren't converted. The last score of the half for the Vikings came with nine minutes on the clock when Bloxom hit Gustafson in stride for a 78-yard TD. Bloxom and company would then convert for 2 with a completed pass to Walt Etheridge.

With the last whistle of the first half, the score was 48-16 and the Vikings were gassed. The clock was set to run and both teams pulled starters allowing their younger players to finish the game. The Vikings move to 1-1 on the season and will travel to Powhatan, Va., on Sept. 13 to face Blessed Sacrament-Huguenot.

Local Street Hockey League Game Summaries

By Michael Garbacz

Game 1: Blues 2, Delmarva Soil and Concrete Red Wings 8

A new season is upon us, and the first game started off with a bang, as the Wings sailed over the Blues. The Red Wings potted three in the first and never looked back, while the Blues shook off summer's rust. Ethan Ayer led the charge for the Wings, notching four goals and two assists; the Huntsman (Brandon Stapleton) contributed two goals and an assist; George Smith rang up a goal and an assist; Michael Garbacz scored; Devon Corbin tacked on a helper. For the Blues, TR Hoyt recorded both goals, each assisted by Guy Shover.

Game 2: K&E Marine Capitals 3, EZ Loan Bruins 3 (shootout)

Last season's marquis teams pick up right where they left off from the championship series, battling each other to a standstill. The Killer B's, led by the Smooth Criminal (Donnie Williams Jr.), leapt out to a 3-1 lead after one period but could not hold on to seal the win. Pat Luckenbach

(the Pat Trick) got his squad crawling back into it bit by bit until the tying goal forced overtime. In the shootout, Cabe Morgan and Pat Christman each stood tall, allowing no goals. In regular time, Garrett Baylis struck twice for the Bruins; the Smooth Criminal scored the other goal; Pat Cornwell and Chris Potter each recorded helpers. For the Caps, Sharkey Parks opened up the season with a pair of goals and a helper; the Pat Trick registered a goal and an assist.

Game 3: 3 Knots Taphouse Whalers 1, NeuBeam Harambe 5

Harambe charged out of the gate this season ready to come hard and were rewarded with a four-goal cruise to victory, as the Whalers look to find an identity and shake a bit of rust of their own. Preston Shover led the way for Harambe, potting a hat trick; Luke Webb and power forward Jennie Rice each recorded a goal and an assist; Zach Webb and Robbie Washington chipped in two helpers; Josh Taylor added an assist. For the Whalers, it was Brandon Morgan who scored the lone goal, unassisted.

Game 4: Thornton Services Renegades 5, Blues 4

In their second game of the day, the Blues were much sharper, but it was just not enough to overcome a Renegades squad looking to make some noise. A wild first two periods found the game tied at four; the difference maker came in the third off the stick of the Onancock Kid (Danny Miller) to seal it. For the Blues, TR Hoyt registered two goals and an assist; Guy Shover potted a goal and an assist; James Haley tickled the twine; the Parksley Original (Mark Stapleton) and McKaley Parks each picked up an assist. On the Renegades' side, Miller and CJ Jones each found the back of the net twice; Cliff Windsor scored the other goal; Austin Gregory picked up two helpers; Dustin Aigner, Trey Lodge, and Ray Johnson each recorded an assist.

Game 5: Delmarva Soil and Concrete Red Wings 2, K&E Marine Capitals 5

The Wings never seemed to be able to establish their game this time around, and while they lead through two periods, the Caps stormed back in the third, scoring four goals to steal the win. The Huntsman scored both Wings goals, assisted by Ethan Ayer, Matt Sullivan, and Devon Corbin. For the Caps, the Pat Trick rang up a hat trick plus an assist; Brett Morgan put up a goal and an assist; Keith Hagler scored; Dalton McDaniel threw in two helpers; Sharkey Parks added an assist.

Game 6: EZ Loan Bruins 7, 3 Knots Taphouse Whalers 4

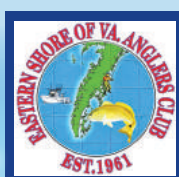

The Whalers looked a bit sharper in this one compared to their first game, but it wasn't enough to overcome the Killer B's. The game was closer than the score would indicate, with shots 16-15 in the Bruins' favor, but the Smooth Criminal made it his business to put this one away, burying a "pace yourself" hat trick along with two assists. Not to be outdone, Garrett Baylis also registered a hattie; Gabe Nock picked up a goal and two assists; Pat Cornwell registered two assists. For the Whalers, Scott Millikin and Brandon Morgan each put up two goals and a helper; Cory Chance added an apple.

Game 7: NeuBeam Harambe 3, Thornton Services Renegades 2 (shootout)

In easily the most intense game of the day, Harambe and the Renegades battled fiercely through two periods, and, even though the former outshot the latter 27-17, the game could not be decided in regulation. There, captain Zach Webb made the most of his long reach and was able to pot the only shootout goal, all that his team needed to pick up the victory. For the Renegades, the Onancock Kid and La Boca (Jesse West) were regular-time goal scorers; Ray Johnson picked up an assist. Zach Webb also scored both of Harambe's goals in regulation; Preston Shover threw in an apple.

On The Road Win For Nandua

Brennan Waldorf

After a tough loss at home, the Nandua Warriors get their first win of the season on the road. After the loss to Rappahannock, the Warriors went straight to work during practice, placing an emphasis on the team's deep passing game. The Warriors knew that it was Washington High School's first game and knew conditioning would be an issue. With that knowledge, they wanted to get things going quick on offense with a fast pace that would set the tone of the game.

"They say you improve the most as a football team between week one and week two and I feel like we did that," said head coach Rotkowski, who saw significant improvements on both sides of the ball during the game.

The Warrior's offensive line dominated early on, controlling the line of scrimmage, which allowed for more passing time. With more time in the pocket and better routes from the receivers, the Nandua passing game was much more polished compared to opening week. Senior Joe Teasley ended the game with two passing touchdowns on offense, one of them a 63-yard TD pass to Tyler Greene on third down. The other was a 44-yard touchdown to Zykeese Davis, who also had a 6-yard rushing touchdown.

On defense the Warriors came out with a physicality that forced several turnovers including a 44-yard pick six by Joe Teasley. The stifling defense was very effective in the passing game as they gang tackled and flocked to the ball allowing only three completed passes the entire game. "I'm happy with the effort and physicality we played with," said Rotkowski of the Nandua defense that let only one score on the board.

This week during practice the Warriors set their sights on their first district game on the road against Arcadia. "We still have a long way to go, we're just trying to get better everyday" said Rotkowski who will be looking to refine his team's game during practice with a focus on reducing penalties.

Jahiem Bailey (21) had another great game with 103 rushing yards on 10 carries including this untouched rush up the middle for a TD.

Chincoteague Rattles Arcadia Out Of A Victory

The volume of a spirited rivalry reverberated through the packed gym. The intensity on the court helped supply it. Chincoteague took a commanding two-set lead but only just managed to hold on to defeat Arcadia in girls volleyball action Tuesday night.

"That's what we do, make things interesting," said Chincoteague coach Jimmy Bloxom.

They did just that. The Ponies gave the impression that this match would be a runaway by handily outworking Arcadia in the first two sets, winning them 25-13 and 25-12 respectively.

To their credit the Firebirds, who started two freshmen, never backed down. They took a 9-4 lead in the third set behind a determined spike by Haley McDaniel. The Ponies called a timeout but they continued to press too hard in the frame and went on to lose the set 25-19.

Both sides of the stands spent the night attempting to out-vocalize one another in support of their teams and Arcadia began to feed off the energy of their contingent.

Arcadia's players were smiling and really believing in themselves, while Chincoteague's players looked rattled and uncharacteristically out of position from their dominating play earlier in the game. A late rally in the set by the Ponies could not slow the inspired play of Emani Press, and this match was fated for a deciding fifth set.

Arcadia entered the gym for the fifth set exuberant, while Chincoteague's players looked a bit shocked and tense. Miscues on Arcadia's serve and strong play at the net by Chincoteague's Caroline Shelley helped fuel a rebound for the Ponies, and a well-fought victory, taking the set 15-9.

Shelley was particularly able at the net all night for the Ponies. Through the ups and downs she appeared particularly poised and focused.

"I never get mad," Shelley said. "I just keep it together, it's the only way."

There was plenty of praise to go around following such a captivating, action-filled night.

Arcadia's coach Anna Williams was really proud of her team's effort.

"They fight really hard," said Williams.

While Bloxom believes his team often lets opponents back into matches, on the flip side Williams said her girls are slow starters. The night then seemed tailor-made to go long, but Williams credits the effort of her players in practice to perform well in longer matches.

"They work hard in practice and condition for it," said Williams.

Bloxom looked relieved following the contest. Setting such a commanding early lead it seemed as though he sensed the tide would turn and the lead would be needed to secure victory.

Against Arcadia he said, "We throw records out, Arcadia showed fight, hats off to them."

Hats off to everyone on this night, players and fans alike, for bringing the intensity.

Snow Hill Eagles Soar Over Chincoteague Ponies

Snow Hill displayed little resemblance to a team that was winless last season in the opening game defeat of Chincoteague Monday night.

The Eagles scored 36 points all of last season, but put that same number of points on the board in the first half en route to a 36-6 victory against the Ponies.

The game started with an encouraging sight for Pony fans as Dakota Bowden joined his teammates midfield for the coin toss. He walked off the field in crutches urging his team passionately. Bowden broke his leg in the second half of Chincoteague's game vs. Windsor a week ago.

"Y'all better get this, hit somebody," said Bowden.

Chincoteague did play physical but Snow Hill responded early with indefensible speed and athleticism. Ira Baine and Darius Dale ran the ball expertly on the Eagles' first drive, leading to a touchdown on a quarterback sneak by Chris Waters. Dale sat alone in the endzone to receive a pass on the rollout from Waters to complete the 2-point conversion and quickly the score was 8-0.

The Eagles were off and running and never looked back. TJ Johnson intercepted a pass on third and long from Giovanni Rosanova III and returned it to the red zone of Chincoteague. On the ensuing play, Davion Ayres cut through the Ponies defense for a 12-yard touchdown run. On the 2-point conversion attempt Chincoteague contained Baine up the middle, but he used his speed to swing to the right putting Snow Hill up 16-0.

Chincoteague's second possession ended in a three and out with Dale and Bryce Purnell sneaking through the line to force an intentional grounding on Rosanova.

A great punt by Rosanova and then teamwork on a sack from Ayden Leonard and Kyle Willis put Snow Hill in fourth and 21. They inserted Skyler Blank, a kid with a big arm at quarterback, and went for it. He dropped back and found a wide open Baine for a long touchdown pass. Lucas Turner made a strong effort to deflect the pass on the 2-point conversion attempt but the Ponies found themselves in a 22-0 hole at the end of the first quarter.

Chincoteague coach Tony Nock sensed that Snow Hill was going to enter the game hungry for a win, eager to brush aside last year's results.

"They wanted it a little more," Nock said.

Penalties on the offense and good tackling by Leonard pinned Snow Hill on occasion but time and again they converted on long yardage situations. Baine broke out a long run on the Eagles' fourth possession. A touchdown from him was saved only by a determined effort by Wes Britton to track him down near the goal line. Dale ran the ball in from there and Snow Hill upped their lead to 30-0.

Dale was unstoppable on defense and offense all night. He thought last season probably gave Chincoteague reason to doubt the ability of his team. An accomplished student-athlete, Dale talked chiefly of this year's squad.

"We came in with the mentality to bring it all four quarters," said Dale.

He credited offseason work in the gym and team building as keys to Snow Hill's success moving forward.

"Conditioning is the key," said Dale. "We gotta work and build together more as a family."

His sentiment was shared by an infectiously smiling head coach Deitrick Downing.

"We have leaders, we're binding, we want to be a family," said Downing, a 1988 graduate of Arcadia High School.

Downing played on Arcadia's 1987 District Championship team and believes he and his coaching staff are beginning to foster a winning mentality to the Eagles play.

"This was our first opening game victory since 2010," Downing said, and he has his eyes set on more this season.

Chincoteague did not let up in the second half. They competed until the end. Ayden Leonard intercepted a Snow Hill pass and dragged defenders on the return into Eagle territory. A well-placed pass from Rosanova to Leonard in the corner of the end zone led to Chincoteague's only score of the night.

Nock was encouraged by his team's effort coming out of halftime.

"The kids played with a lot of pride in the second half," Nock said.

"We played some sloppy ball but we are going to regroup."

Chincoteague is back in action tonight at 7 p.m. for a matchup with Middlesex in Saluda, Va.

Jackets vs. Broncos

by Brennan Waldorf

Jackets dropped their home opener in four sets to the Franklin Broncos (19-25, 20-25, 25-23, 7-25). The Jackets lost only one senior last season and are led by all-district Yeats James and Jada Giddens. The Jackets move to 1-1 on the season and will continue to adjust to the faster pace play with the team having three freshman on the varsity roster.

The Jackets made several forced errors as they faced a very tall Franklin front line that dominated the net. "We played tough in the very close third set and pulled that one off with grit and determination," said head coach Cathryn Doughty. Northampton will be working on receiving serves and deflected balls off the block in practice this week before traveling to Northumberland, Va., Sept. 13.

Fishing from the Shore

By Bill Hall

The Eastern Shore of Virginia fared well with the passing of Hurricane Dorian and except for the period when Dorian's outer bands of wind and rain approached our coastline, the storm appears to have also left a minimal effect on the area's fishing. Before the weekend was finished, red drum and cobia were back to being caught in the lower bay. Cobia numbers were increasing along the Virginia Beach oceanfront, a sign that the fall migration out of the Chesapeake Bay has begun. The bayside speckled trout fishery also rebounded quickly following the storm with some anglers reporting an even larger class of fish. Small rockfish numbers also increased in the shallows of the upper part of the Chesapeake Bay. I do expect the summer's excellent run of Spanish mackerel to follow along with the cobia's gradual exit from the waters of the Chesapeake Bay. The large swells generated by the passing system did limit access to much of the ocean waters, but I expect that the good flounder fishing on the inshore wrecks as well as the blue water billfishing to be even better than before Dorian's appearance.

Upper Shore — Captain Matt Abell, at the Sea Hawk Sports Center, reported that anglers were still finding red drum and a few cobia along the channel edge off Nassawadox Creek. One group of anglers released four red drum out of six hookups as well as landing a couple of cobia early in the week. The speckled trout bite in the upper bay shallows was still in progress following the storm, with anglers fishing just above the Maryland/Virginia state line finding speckled trout, small rockfish, and puppy drum. Fishing on the inshore wrecks showed an improvement right before Dorian, but Matt had not heard of anybody fishing since the storm's departure.

Chincoteague — Donna Rae Roeske, at Captain Bob's Marina, reported catches of "nice-sized" croakers early in the week from the town pier by anglers using live and artificial bloodworm baits. Anglers targeting flounder from the pier managed to land a few keeper-sized fish. Ribbonfish and undersized black sea bass were the primary catches inside of Chincoteague Channel following Dorian's departure. Roeske commented that there was not a mass exodus of fish as often happens following a major late season weather incident. The only real immediate effect from the storm was the dirty water, which impacted flounder fishing success. High seas prevented any attempts to fish the structures on Blackfish Banks and beyond into the early part of the week.

Jimmy Vasiliou, at Captain Steve's Bait & Tackle, reported that spot, kingfish/whiting, and a few speckled trout have been caught in both the back bay and the surf. Surf fishermen, using cut mullet as bait, were also treated to a run of bluefish on Monday morning. The pier at Tom's Cove has produced a few keeper flounder since the storm. Sharks and rockfish have been caught around the structure at the Queen Sound Bridge, with rockfish also hitting artificials off the nearby marsh points. Leo Lagunas won the shop's croaker tournament with a hardhead weighing 17.18 ounces!

Lower Shore — Jeb Brady, at Bailey's Bait & Tackle, reported that Hurricane "played havoc" on fishing for the greater part of last week. Anglers were worried about the storm's potential effects on the run of mid-sized speckled trout and undersized puppy drum. However, it appears that their worry was for naught as anglers found limits of even larger trout in the bayside creeks beginning just a few tides after the storm's departure. Brady said that the Cape Charles Pier had been seeing catches of spot and croakers.

Chris Snooks, at Chris' Bait & Tackle, said that the speckled trout are biting "pretty good" and finding clean water is the key to catching them. A few red drum are still being caught in the evenings. Flounder fishing has been tough due to the water conditions created from the storm. Ribbonfish are still being caught off the pier at the Kiptopeke State Park. Snooks said she has received lots of comments and concerns from her customers regarding the impact of the new striped bass regulations.

State Record Swordfish — A 466-pound swordfish caught by Tony Gower Jr. aboard the Virginia Beach-based charter boat Rebel with Captain Randy Butler has been certified as a new state record for the species. Gower caught his fish while drifting a tinker mackerel along the Norfolk Canyon on August 16. The previous swordfish record weighed 446 pounds and was caught by Joseph T. Harris in 2012.

Bill Hall was the first Eastern Shore resident to achieve Virginia Salt Water Master Angler Status. He has been named Virginia Saltwater Angler of the Year and Virginia Saltwater Release Angler of the Year. Bill is an I.G.F.A. International Committee Representative and a longtime member of the Virginia Saltwater Fishing Tournament Committee. He is the Virginia Recreation Fishing representative on the ASMFC Striped Bass Management Panel and is a past recipient of the CCAVA Virginia Outdoor Writer Conservation Leadership Award.

Nandua Has Losing Streak

by Brennan Waldorf

Nandua volleyball falls in back-to-back games at home to open the season. The Warriors kick-started their season with a home loss to Holy Grove falling behind after splitting the first two sets with the Eagles (17-25, 25-16, 16-25, 22-25). Lyric Sampson led the way for the Warriors recoding six blocks at the net while also delivering three kills. Shelby Zink and Harley McNure would lead their Eagles team to victory with both recording four kills and a block.

The Warriors who went 15-7 last year and lost in the regional quarter retired six seniors. Five out of those six were starters including standouts Baylee Justis and Gena Pryor who moved on to play at the collegiate level.

This year Nandua has a lot of young talent with seven new players on the varsity squad. The only returning starter the Warrior squad has is 2018 Libero of the year Nicole Stravino. With all that young talent developing team chemistry will be vital for the Warriors this season. "Because we have so many new players, we are working on trust and playing together as a team," said head coach Le'Andra Metzger.

The Warrior squad got back in to action on Sept. 10 this week against Greenbrier Christian. They fell in three close sets (24-26, 10-25, 22-25) as the Gators' Rachel Castine delivered 12 kills and Tori Mills served nine Aces on the young Warrior squad. Abigail Killmon had 8 kills, Deanna Pryor served 6 aces and 2 digs, Alana Shea delivered 2 aces and 8 assists, and Nicole Stavino with 1 ace and 10 digs. Nandua will open up district play Thursday, Sept. 12 at Chincoteague high before traveling to The Endless Summer tournament being held at the Virginia Field House Sept. 14.

'Before the Lighthouse' The Early Days of Chincoteague Island

Story and Photos by Linda Cicoira

Actors, makeup experts, writers, camera operators, and others gathered at the edge Assateague Channel this week to begin filming the historical full-length movie, "Before the Lighthouse," set to be released in the fall of 2020.

The script was written by Gary Hubb, who is also directing the film. It focuses on the first 100 years after the arrival of permanent European settlers on Chincoteague and Assateague.

"This was untamed land and they chose to live here in harmony," said Hubb, a Pennsylvania native who has been visiting the area since he was a child.

The Tasley Fair Was A Young Girl's Heart And Soul

By Linda Cicoira

The sophisticated Washington, D.C., attorney Raenelle Humbles Zapata got her assertiveness from the Eastern Shore community where she grew up.

"Everybody would tell you how great you are," she said. "What kind of confidence does that give a kid? That gives you the confidence to slay dragons. I'm very proud to have grown up when I did. Because you really did try to do your best. Always. That was excellence."

She says her heart and soul still belong to the former Tasley Fair where she spent memorable childhood days adoring her grandfather, J. Edgar Thomas, who owned and operated the place in the 1950s.

The 48-acre site is now farmland near the busy traffic circle and is still in the family. The grandstand and other buildings are long gone. But those who attended the fair can still picture it all as they ride by.

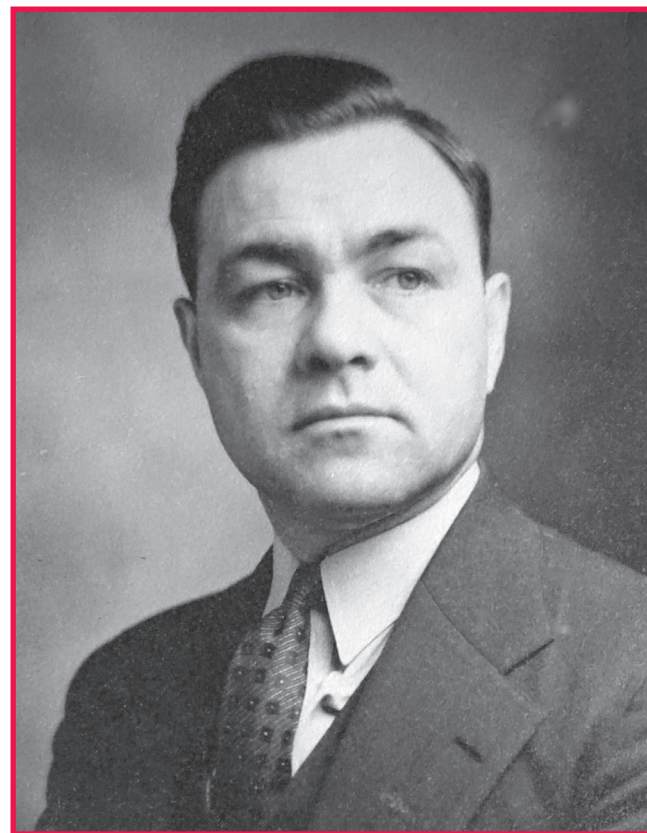

It was famous for "people coming together and having a good time," said Zapata. "It was famous for making sure folks would always be able to congregate. Families would have their reunions that week. Everybody would be home." People came from places as faraway as New York City and Florida. "We had a friend who was a pianist. He worked on St. Thomas, Virgin Islands. When and if he came home he would fly in for fair week."

Zapata spent so much time with her grandfather in the early days when she was "five, six, and seven" that she had a cot in his office at the fairgrounds. Her mother and grandmother were teachers and when they weren't working at school, they were busy working at the fair, doing household chores, or cooking meals for the family.

"I would sit on a handkerchief on his shoes while he was conducting business," she said reminiscing. "It was really the golden era of the fair." There was harness racing, a Russian bear trainer and his son, a fortune teller, a photo booth, beer gardens, games, food, and rides.

"I would ride with my grandfather all over the county, Accomack, and Northampton, and to Dewey, Del., to put up place cards," she said. "We did legitimate harness racing" overseen by a judge who "looked just like Colonel Sanders — string bowtie, white hat, and white suit. He and his daughter, who was the tallest woman I ever saw in my life, would come up from Kentucky."

The colonel came to a formal dinner at her house where champagne was served. She remembers drinking ginger ale in her glass. "They would discuss fair business and family stuff." His daughter "was very kind to me. She would give me puzzles to keep me occupied during the day. I would help her to get ready for the races. I basically had an unusual childhood. So many interactions for growing up on the Eastern Shore."

J. Edgar Thomas

Above are sections of a poster that were framed by Zapata

There was "The Man from Borneo, a crazy white guy throwing a dead chicken around," and "Sam the Ice Cream Man, an Italian from New Jersey. He had the best frozen custard." Another guy sold fried hard-shelled crabs, which she never tried.

An old-fashioned medicine man came every year driving a big Cadillac with a trunk full of snakes, she said. "Rattlesnake Bill from Vinegar Hill. He never got bit and he never will. He wore a big hat with a feather in it. A big guy. Part Native American with two long braids. He sold snake oil, liniments and stuff."

There was also a sideshow, she remembered, with conjoined twins who were 13 or 14 and were attached at the hip and side. They sat in a tent and people would come to gawk at them.

"My mom had a novelty stand. She sold novelties and balloons. She and another teacher. Whistles and all. I used to pump up the balloons." Another family stored their stand at the fairgrounds. "They would come in and do nothing but sell french fries," she said. "I know they made tons of money because the lines were always there."

Local people had stands that sold lunch and dinner. The beer garden was in a one-story barn with booths and a huge jukebox. "It was like a nightclub. Oil cloths were put on the tables and everything would be painted up every year. I was not allowed to go in there after 5 p.m.," said Zapata. The "hootchy-kootchy" show amounted to dancers and was set up at the far end of the fair and was for adults only.

"The same carnival came every year. The carnies' name was Sylvester. They had the midway. I used to go during the day when nobody was there," she said. "They had this little roller-coaster. You would have thought it was King's Dominion." She pestered the ride operators so much, one man "put me up at the top of the Ferris wheel and left me there for 20 minutes," she remembered.

"It was like the shows you would see on the 'Ed Sullivan Show,'" she said of the fair's entertainment and the Sunday night TV program that everyone in America watched back then. "I got to meet all kinds of people."

"We had fireworks. When I say fireworks, I don't mean little fireworks," she said. "We had these huge rings. I could see them from the house" about a mile away. "They were over the trees. They were up in the sky. My grandfather, he was a first-class kind of a guy."

Although it sounded like a melting pot of people, the fair was especially important to her community because in those days blacks were not welcome at local firemen's carnivals or at movie theaters where white folks socialized. The schools were still segregated and people were not always cordial, to put it mildly.

"I really look back on those days and say, 'We really had it going on,' despite that they were ugly times," she continued. "There were those KKK (letters) written on black churches. People would come and ask my grandfather to help to vote because they would get turned away because they couldn't write their name, they could only make their mark," she said.

When Zapata "got to a certain age, I didn't want my mother to drop me off" at school. "I wanted to start riding the bus with my friends." But while she was waiting for her ride, a bus with white children would go by and kids would yell out the window. They called her the N-word and this and the other. "I was oblivious," she said.

But her neighboring girlfriend wasn't. "Don't let them call you that," she would tell Zapata. "Tell them to kiss your butt." So when the bus came by again, "We would turn around and pat our buttocks. Growing up was interesting there. It is kind of ironic. It was some of my great memories."

Now she brings her young grandson back to the family home on weekends so he can appreciate the area and the camaraderie.

The fair was started decades earlier by a conglomerate of people. Her grandfather bought it from them. "He started with the board as far as I know," she said.

The fair was held on the third week in August starting after church on Sunday. "It was Gospel Day," said Zapata. "The purse was given to local churches. Monday night was free to get in but after that, you paid every night. During the week most people came in casual clothes. Thursday night was like homecoming night. That was the big night. Everybody who moved away to the city came home. They were dressed to the nines, high heels in the dirt. The sheriff's department came to direct traffic. People parked to the entrance out to J. Edgar Road."

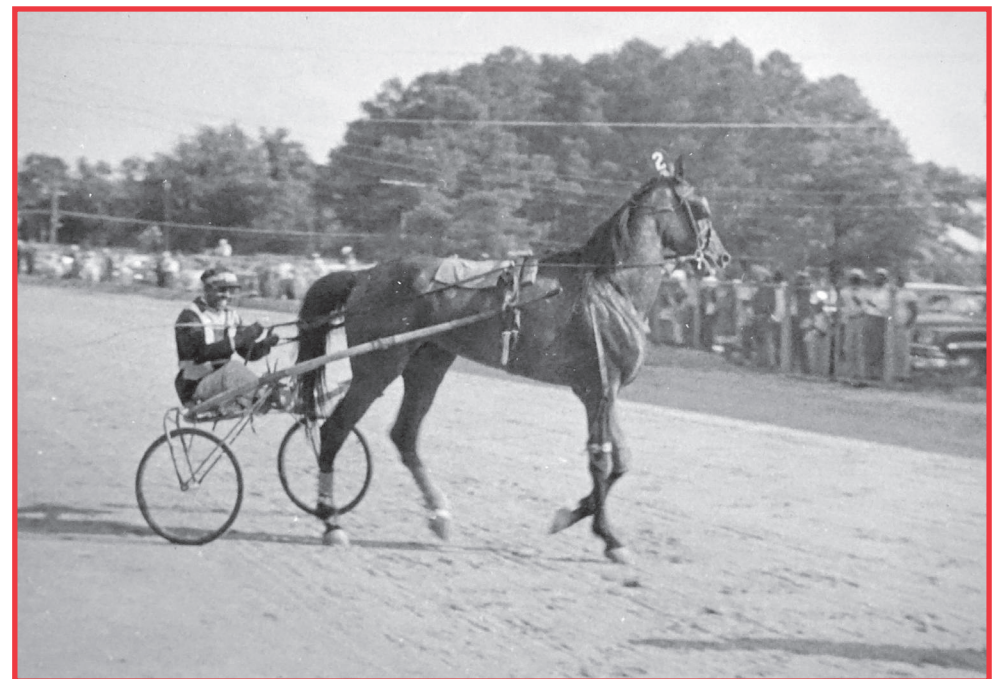

The fair closed between 1966 and 1968. "My grandfather passed in 1960. My father ran the fair for a few years, Clifton Humbles, who started a funeral business," she said. Then her grandmother, Justine Thomas, took over. But, Zapata said, "It was too much for her to handle. My grandmother could be very stern about things. She would get on the loudspeaker and say, 'so and so you need to come up here and pay your lot fee now.'"

Zapata said when she was in the eighth grade she worked for her grandmother and supervised the high school boys who whitewashed fences at the fair. "She paid me $5 a day. She was paying everybody else a little bit more. We scraped bird poop out of the grandstand. I put my blood, sweat, and tears in it. Believe me, I loved that place."

After the fair closed, Zapata's grandmother held car races at the site for at least four years. "Then the insurance got to be too high" and that closed too.

"My grandmother was a very dynamic woman. Very smart. She raised a lot of money for the high school (Mary Nottingham Smith) and chartered two airplanes she took her science class to the Tennessee Valley Authority," a power plant. She also took a group to the Boston Science Museum.

Zapata is gathering fair memorabilia. If anyone has any pictures to share send her a message at raenellezapata.law@gmail.com

Veterans Transition Survival Guide: I recently came across an all-encompassing but straightforward how-to book when it comes to understanding what do now that you are civilian. In the online guide, it provides a timeline checklist for those service members considering transitioning out of the military. It covers life after the military, discussing in detail education, VA Benefits, job hunts, entrepreneurship, where to live, spouses, and my favorite: Civilian Life 101. To view this electronic book go to <https://www.militarytimes.com/2019/09/10/veterans-transition-survival-guide> for additional information.

GI Bill Changes

GI Bill students enrolled in courses that combine distance and in-class learning will soon get paid a full housing allowance thanks to a change by the Department of Veterans Affairs.

The change impacts "hybrid courses," which the VA defines as any course that combines both classroom training and distance learning, often conducted online.

Starting Aug. 15, hybrid courses will be considered residence training for GI Bill purposes, generating the Monthly Housing Allowance (MHA) that is paid accordingly. In the past, students enrolled in hybrid classes were eligible for only half the national average MHA, a much lower amount than the full-time rate in almost all cases. The MHA amount is allocated to the location where they take the majority of their classroom training.

With hybrid courses, there must be at least one classroom session every two weeks.

The total amount of classroom sessions for a term must have been equal to at least the credit hours multiplied by the weeks in the academic session. For example, a three-credit-hour class meeting over a 12-week quarter was required to meet in classroom for at least 36 hours over the entire quarter.

It's important to note that the new change is not retroactive; it applies only to classes that began on or after Aug. 15.

Veterans Workshop: Workshops are held every third Tuesday of the month, from 10 a.m. to noon, at the Virginia Employment Commission in Onley. All service members, veterans, dependents, and survivors are welcome to attend. The next meeting will be Tuesday, Sept. 17.

Members of Accomack's Economic Development Authority were the captive audience of a Maine man Tuesday who could turn out to be their greatest mentor in creating an effective county industrial park and airport in Melfa.

Steve Levesque transformed an abandoned Naval base, which had terrible Superfund clean-up issues, into the thriving Brunswick Landing Center for Innovation that in eight years has lured 120 businesses that have about 2,000 workers.

Airport traffic has grown there by about "10 percent a year as aviation businesses and pilots discovered Maine's newest and friendliest airport," said Levesque. And some of the companies are from foreign countries. Levesque did it all in an area more rural than the Eastern Shore.

Can't figure out how the two areas could possibly compare? Well, we have our natives and comeheres on the Shore. Maine has what it calls boomerangs. Not a curved piece of wood that returns, but people who are born in Maine, move away, and then come back to live and flourish. Levesque is a boomerang and he is trying to get others to be like him.

He surveyed high school students in his area to get their ideas on what is needed at his center. "These kids blew us away," he said. "They were all about the future, having opportunities." A couple of the students have already gone to college and set up their own business at the Brunswick center.

Levesque said if he oversaw the Accomack Industrial Park, he would construct spec buildings and make a plan in which all the properties for lease and sale were priced ahead so customers could be reeled in at a moment's notice.

After years of being unprepared, the local EDA is now working on that plan. This week, the members, who are mostly new to the board, have also gotten all the papers signed with VDOT to clear the way for a traffic light at the entrance. It's a safety measure that will be good for the park, the airport, the Eastern Shore Community College, anyone driving on that portion of Lankford Highway, and the Eastern Shore Chamber of Commerce, which is right at the entrance. Yippee!

The relatively new EDA chairperson is Stella Rohde, a former member of the Accomack Planning Commission, and a realtor, who should have no problem selling the concept of businesses coming to the area. David Lumgair is the vice chairman. He knows Levesque and got him to offer his presentation. Other members are former Mayor Jack Tarr, of Chincoteague; entrepreneur Ace Seybolt; real estate broker Andy Mason; Del. Rob Bloxom, who owns several businesses; and Iravon Ashby-Hope, a government worker. Deborah Christie is the executive director of the authority. Supervisors Paul Muhly and Harris Phillips are the liaisons.

If you see any of those people, tell them what you want to see at the industrial park. Give them your ideas or contacts. It could just bring in clean green business that would provide great jobs.

Promoting Constitution Week

Dear Editor:

There are two documents of paramount importance to American history: the Declaration of Independence and the United States Constitution. While Independence Day is a beloved national holiday, fewer people know about Constitution Week, an annual commemoration of the living document that upholds and protects the freedoms central to our American way of life. The annual celebration begins September 17, 2019.

The Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) initiated the observance in 1955, when the organization petitioned the U.S. Congress to dedicate September 17-23 of each year to the commemoration of Constitution Week. Congress adopted the resolution, and on August 2, 1956, President Dwight D. Eisenhower signed it into Public Law #915. The celebration's goals are threefold: to encourage the study of the historical events that led to the framing of the Constitution in September 1787; to inform people that the Constitution is the basis of America's great heritage and the foundation of our way of life; and to emphasize U.S. citizens' responsibility to protect, defend, and preserve the Constitution.

DAR has been the foremost advocate for the awareness, promotion, and celebration of Constitution Week. This annual observance provides innumerable opportunities for educational initiatives and community outreach, two mission areas of crucial importance to the National Society's work. By fostering knowledge of and appreciation for the Constitution and the inalienable rights it affords to all Americans, DAR helps to keep alive the memory of the men and women who secured our nation's independence, whose bravery and sacrifice made possible the liberties we enjoy today.

Thanks From The Arc

Dear Editor:

The 46th annual Fish Fry at Edwards Seafood was a huge success! What a tremendous turnout we had, on August 10, 2019! The Onancock Rotary served over 600 meals! The Arc is so grateful to the Onancock Rotary for cooking and serving and we send out a big "Thank you!" to our many local sponsors who generously contributed financially! Its success wouldn't have been possible without the gracious support of our community! We extend a special thank you to Edwards Seafood and their generosity of space, labor, and cooking duties; to Onancock Business & Civic Association for the ice cream; to our many cake bakers; to the Broadwater Academy students, Eastern Shore Community Services Board staff, and the many volunteers who participated and tirelessly worked to help make our annual fundraiser such a success! We are so very grateful for our faithful attendees who purchased dinner tickets and our supporters who offered additional donations. What a blessing this community is to The Arc! Congratulations to our raffle winners! They are as follows: Airplane Tour, Claudia Harmon; Airplane Tour #2, Deb Brown; Broadwater Ecotour, Robin Sexauer; Homemade Savory Basket, Ed Griggs; Homemade Sweet Basket, Charlotte Selby; Peanut Butter/Chocolate Cake, Terry Swain; Crab pot & Treasures, Ruth Granger; Bread Board, Anna Matthews; Davis original painting, Barbara Haynes. The success of the day belongs to all of you and for that we send our sincerest thanks! The money raised will help The Arc to continue to be a voice, resource, and friend to the intellectually and developmentally disabled here on the Shore; to provide ongoing support for present and future programs and services for "A Life Like Yours."

Johnson Clarifies Stance

Dear Editor:

I resent that fact that your article said I was "opposed" to Rails and Trails. I am not. I wanted to make sure that the project was not begun and abandoned like has happened in other areas. I wanted to know what could be done to make it more attractive and who was going to foot the bill. I was looking for facts and clarification. I stated that someone else had told me that they would like to see the land returned to the landowners and used for widening the highways. I AM FOR ANYTHING THAT LEAVES THE WAY OPEN FOR A RAILROAD TO RETURN TO THE SHORE and Rails to Trails does that. I was looking for facts. I got them. I volunteered to help with Rails to Trails at the end of the meeting and will be glad to help with it in any way I can.
