THE GAME OF BLACKJACK

CARD VALUES

= Face Value
 = 10
 = 1 or 11

The way the dealer plays is much different than that of the players. The dealer plays his hand with little strategy. The dealer must always stand on a 17 and will hit on 16 and below or a soft 17.

A soft 17 is when the dealer's hand contains an ace. It is considered a soft hand because the ace can be counted at a one point value or an 11 point value.

Money - Environmental Element

The objective of blackjack, and gambling in general, is to win money. In casinos, money is being won and lost left and right. Whether a player is up or down, the loss of their pockets is going to affect their judgment.

HIT

"To hit" means to draw another card. Players calculate their point value. If the value is 16 or below the player will typically want to hit. If the value is 17 or above they will typically stand, depending on the dealer's hand.

STAND

17-20

The player chooses to stand when they have a 21 or feel that they have a hand closer to 21 than the dealer. When a player chooses to stand his/her turn is then completed.

NATURAL

21

A natural is when the player or dealer receives a 21 within the first two cards they are dealt. This means that they received an ace and a 10-value card. In this situation the dealer pays the player odds of 3 to 2.

BUST

A bust is when the player hits and receives another card and then has a card value totaling over 21. At this point in the game the player's turn is over and they have lost their initial bet.

Insurance

Can Be Played: When the dealer has an Ace showing

Strategically Played: Under no circumstances

Insurance is only offered to players when the dealer turns up an ace. Insurance bets are placed by betting half of the amount of the player's original bet. When the dealer turns up an ace, the player has a 10-value card, in which case the player will win twice the amount of their insurance bet and still lose their original bet because they also lose their original bet. They will break even. If the dealer does not have blackjack, the player loses their insurance bet but possibly wins their original bet.

Time - Environmental Element

In efforts to keep players gambling longer and every time, casinos are filled with clocks. This keeps player's attention on the game and not about how long they've been playing.

Split Pair

Can Be Played: When a player is dealt a pair

Strategically Played: Pairs of Eights, Nines, or Aces and never with Fives or Tens.

The player can split pairs when they are dealt two of a kind. The minimum a player would want to split a pair of eights or nines because they are unlikely to win with a 14 or 18 but being dealt another card will likely result in a bust. When a player splits a pair they are then treated as two separate hands and the dealer deals to them separately and following the other. Upon splitting the player has to match their previous bet giving them the possibility of winning four times the amount of their original bet.

Double Down

Can Be Played: With any hand prior to game action

Strategically Played: When dealer is showing a six or below and a player holds eleven.

Doubling Down is one of the more profitable options for players, when played correctly. Typically when the dealer is showing a 3 or 6 and the player holds a hand totaling 11 the player wants to double down. What this means is that they double their bet, and the dealer gives them only one additional card. Assuming the card is a 10, their hand totals 21 thus doubling the stake and being awarded four times the amount of their original bet.

Surrender

Can Be Played: With any hand prior to game action

Strategically Played: When dealer is showing a ten and a player holds a fifteen or sixteen

This is one of the least common decisions made in blackjack. This decision must be made before any other choice about playing your hand, before the player splits, doubles down, or draws a third card. When a player surrenders they are making the choice to fold their hand, at the cost of half of the original bet they placed.

There are two types of surrendering, early and late. An early surrender, which is very uncommon, is when the player has the option to surrender before the dealer checks his cards for a blackjack. The other type, is late surrender, is when the dealer is able to check for a blackjack first and then only allows the player to surrender if he does not have a blackjack.

Alcohol - Environmental Element

This plays a large factor in casino games in general. Many casinos will provide free, if not very low-cost alcohol in order to keep players happy, playing, and less focused. Whether a player is drinking or not, distractions will be a major distraction.

Smoking - Environmental Element

Smoking in casinos is generally welcomed and encouraged. This is to keep players relaxed and playing the game rather than being stressed and/or leaving the casino. Smoke will be around players at any time and of any volume. This is not only a health risk but it can cloud a player's judgment.

Socializing - Environmental Element

Casino scenes are overlaid with environmental distractions. It's not only the flashing lights, sounds, and the noise of the machines, and money being tossed around, it's the people. Whether interested or not, casinos is full of people looking for a good time. This becomes the distraction and the noise. The people become most of a player's attention.

Push

When a hand results in a tie between the player and the dealer it is called a push. The result of this is that the player receives the amount of their initial bet, meaning even.

Win

When the player beats the dealer's hand, turning a value of 21 or closer to 21 than the dealer, they receive double their initial bet. When the player's hand is better than the dealer's, they split a pair or double down they have the possibility of winning four times their initial bet.

Loss

When a player loses they lose the amount of their initial bet. The only exception is when the player places an insurance bet, allowing them to lose. This player then back track of their initial bet.
