Navy Yard Master Plan Revisions Unveiled At Council Meeting

by Kathy Giordano

Development and public safety issues were the main topics at the March 6 monthly Charlestown Neighborhood Council meeting. Revisions in the Navy Yard master plan and the controversial development of 142-144 Bunker Hill St. commanded the most attention, but the rise in crime on neighborhood streets and the safety of the community brought the emotions of council members to a boil.

Council members attending were Chairman Dennis McLaughlin, Vice Chairman Bill Galvin, Treasurer John Lynch, Moe Gillen, Noreen Ridings, Ken Stone, Nancy Keyes, Peter Looney, Tom Cunha, Mel Stillman, Ed O'Connell, Kate McDonough, Ellen D'Ambrosio, Jim Conway, Bud Coleman, Bob Wallace, Kevin Roche and Jim Mansfield, who acted as council secretary in the absence of Stephen Collins.

The first order of business was Lynch's resignation as Precinct 5 representative on the council, effective March 31. The council will address the process of filling the seat at its April meeting. Any resident of the precinct is eligible to apply for the vacancy. Roche, chairman of the Election Committee, will advertise for candidates, and the council will select a new member at its May meeting.

Cunha, Housing and Development Committee chairman, reported on a Feb. 22 meeting about 142-144 Bunker Hill St. and disposing sliver parcels. He stated that abutters of the Bunker Hill Street property are anxious to see work completed, but the Board of Appeal gave George Georges, the new developer, an August hearing date, which prohibits him from starting work until then. Cunha asked the council to send a memo to the Board requesting an earlier hearing, and the council agreed.

Serious structural problems and safety concerns have been found in the building since the February meeting. Fire Chief William Ahearn has inspected it twice and found several fire code violations. Zoning irregularities were discovered in a meeting between Georges and the BRA. Judy Evers, community liaison from the Mayor's Office of

Fighting Drug Use In Charlestown With Education And Hope

MAYOR RAYMOND FLYNN brought his anti-drug message to Charlestown children and families last week in a well-attended Ice Awareness Night at the Kent Community

School that served to educate and inform residents about the effects of ice, a dangerous new street drug.

by Lynn Peters

Mayor Ray Flynn kicked off his citywide campaign against ice, a highly addictive and dangerous form of speed, in Charlestown last week at Ice Awareness Night.

"This clearly shows that the people of Charlestown are deeply concerned about their children and about the impact that drugs are having on our city," Flynn told the 300 children, parents and community activists who gathered at the Kent Community School. "We have to educate young people and families so they understand the seriousness of drugs."

A 30-minute video, "Ice:

The Chilling Facts," focused on the new street drug ice, which has already become an epidemic in Southern California and Hawaii. The audience watched as the effects of ice use were portrayed and as experts explained the "severe drug-induced insanity," which creates "14-hour time bombs." The video told how the police in San Diego were afraid for their own safety because of violent ice users and that 30 percent of the city's murders were ice-related.

Ice Awareness Night in Charlestown, the first of several planned for Boston's neighborhoods, served to arm residents with information about how dangerous ice and other drugs are.

"Ice is a drug much more serious than crack cocaine and has the capacity to reach more people," Flynn said. "We have to work together as a family so that the people of Boston have the best information," Flynn said.

Members of the mayor's Drug Awareness Committee joined Charlestown activists on an expert panel, stating the importance of drug education and fielding questions from parents and children. The panel included Dr. Eugene Gibbons, director of Health and Hospitals addiction services; Sgt. Robert Tinker, Boston Police officer from the early-education SPECDA and DARE programs; Jay Broderick, ex-addict; John Parker from the National

by Kathy O'Giordano

Two hopeful candidates for Charlestown Mayor, Florence Johnson and Archie Prendable, have been canvassing the neighborhood soliciting votes. If you've seen them, it has most likely cost you money, because this is one election only money can buy. Every vote cast costs the voter $1.

The tradition started in 1983 when the Charlestown-to-Charlestown Committee wanted to enter a young girl from Charlestown, Mass., in the Western Rose Festival in County Mayo, Charlestown, Ireland. Sending this young lassie to Ireland would cost money, so to raise that money, the first "election" took place.

The 1983 field of hopeful candidates was full of promise. Seven potentials came forward and campaigned hard for the right to be the first Mayor of Charlestown. Gender made no difference, nor did close family ties. The candidates that year included Bill Griffin, John Flaherty, June Reilly, Lester Boyce, Lil Boutillier, and mother and son Terry and Danny Ring. When the ballots were counted, Lil Boutillier was the winner.

Over ensuing years, not as many candidates ran for the seat at one time, but the races were full of excitement, and at times, tears. In

Dean's List

Ashley P. Doriss of 299 Bunker Hill St. and Margaret A. McAteer of 82 Russell St. were listed on the dean's list for the fall semester at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst.

Doriss and McAteer are among the top 15 percent who maintain a 3.5 grade point average or above at the school.

Surplus Food Distribution

Surplus food will be distributed by the Kennedy Center on Wednesday, March 21 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at St. Catherine's Hall, 13 Tufts St. Butter, vegetarian and green beans, and peanut butter will be distributed.

Enter Your Poetry

The 1990 Grolier Poetry Prize Competition is accepting submissions through March 15. Manuscripts of original poetry (unpublished work preferred) by writers who do not have a published volume are eligible for two $150 top prizes. They and the four runners-up will be published in the 1990 ANNUAL. For guidelines send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Grolier Poetry Prize, 6 Plympton St., Cambridge, Mass. 02138.

1984 Marty O'Brien Sr. beat Bill Griffin to become the second mayor. Jamsie O'Brien, Marty's son, beat Florence Johnson and Frank Keough in the third race in 1985. Lisa Collins, Ellie McCarthy Marino, Fran Scadding and Joe Crilly fought for the honor of being the fourth mayor in 1986, but when the count came in, Crilly was the victor.

It was a great 1987 race between Jim "Honey Fitz" Fitzgerald and Geraldine "Tootsie" Devlin. Fitzgerald became the fifth mayor. In the closest race of this young tradition, 1988's Mayor Claire Lynch beat out her challenger Jimmy Carroll by only 47 votes. One candidate who dropped out of the race, Chickie Donovan LaPage, was given a special prize for her contribution to the fundraiser.

The 1989 mayor Renie Murphy Walsh will relinquish her duties on Friday when the eighth annual race is held at the Knights of Columbus Hall. Her race was won from challengers Katty Douglas and Helen Mansfield. Walsh will be there to wish her successor well, as her predecessors have done in the past.

In an interview this week, Charlestown-to-Charlestown Committee Chairman Peter Looney praised all the candidates who have sought the coveted position and the people of Charlestown who have supported them. He also expressed the committee's gratitude to the victors who have performed their duties in true Townie pride.

Looney stated that he was looking forward to the March 9 election when either Johnson or Prendable will be elected as the 1990 Mayor of Charlestown and invited the community to attend for an evening full of excitement, entertainment and tradition.

CALLING COMMUNITY VOLUNTEERS

If you've been combining a career as homemaker with community volunteer, you could have developed some important marketable skills. Consider putting them to work as a real estate professional.

As a Realtor, you can help people, and earn a handsome income. Many volunteers are expert negotiators, can keep many balls in the air at once, and are great at working with others to accomplish their organization's goals. These are skills we look for in prospective sales associates. Real estate is not easy work. It requires dedication, the ability to listen and an appreciation of other people, both customers and colleagues. While it's hard to predict who will do well in the business, we have found that many of our area's top producers came into the business with community service experience as an important part of their backgrounds. If you've been considering a new career, and if real estate attracts you, let's talk.

If you are considering a move, contact the professionals at Silva Realty Associates. Call us at 242-7470 or stop by our office at 371 Somerville Ave. in Somerville.

Clougherty Graduates From EDP

Paula Jean Clougherty of Charlestown was among 30 graduates of Boston's External Diploma Program who recently received their high school diplomas.

"I have learned so much from this program," said Clougherty, who received her diploma from Charlestown Community Schools. "I have become more politically aware, and I'd like to thank all the teachers I've had."

EDP is a collaboration between the Boston Public Schools and the Mayor's Office of Jobs and Community Services Adult Literacy Initiative which provides adult students a chance to earn a high school diploma. Classes are offered at Central Adult High, at English High School and eight satellite agencies.

Each year, approximately 60 adults receive their diplomas through EDP, an additional 60 continue working toward their diplomas, and hundreds of others work their way through the adult basic education system to become eligible for the program.

Ted Landmark, director of JCS which provides funding for EDP, delivered the keynote address at the recent ceremonies and congratulated the graduates on overcoming obstacles and persevering to achieve their diploma. Boston School Committee President Daniel Burke thanked the graduates because they "gave the system a second chance, and it was not easy."

New Design Commission Appointed To Review Plans

The Boston Civic Design Commission, a new 11-member body, will advise the city in reviewing developments and new plans. The appointed members are either urban design professionals or representatives from various community and business groups.

The BCDC was created through an amendment to the Boston Zoning Code and has the authority to review large-scale projects of 100,000 square feet or more and projects in a historic district or close to landmark buildings. The BCDC will also review civic projects and district design guidelines adopted by the Boston Redevelopment Authority for both downtown areas and the city's neighborhoods. The BRA will provide staff and technical and administrative support under the direction of Eric Schmidt, director for Downtown Planning.

Recently passed state legislation Bill H2925 allows local design professionals to sit on the BCDC while continuing to do business in the city, but members receive no compensation from the city.

If the BCDC is dissatisfied with a proposed project it can advise the BRA to request a redesign of the project. If the mayor or BRA disagrees with its recommendation and decides to approve the project, reasons for approval must be made in writing to the BCDC.

John de Monchaux, dean of the School of Architecture and Planning at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was appointed by the mayor and will serve as chairman for two years.

The BCDC members are: Karen Alshuler, Skidmore Owings and Merrill; Nancy Collidge, director of the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities; S. Joseph Hoffman, chairman of Ingalls, Quinn and Johnson; Syvalia Hymann III, president of the United South End Lower Roxbury Development

Corp.; Carol Johnson, Carol Johnson and Associates; Alex Krieger, Chan, Krieger & Levi; William Pineo, vice president of Cygna Consulting Engineers Inc.; William Rawn, William Rawn Associates; Robert Thault, regional director of the International Masonry Institute; and Donald Stull, Stull and Lee Associates Inc.

The BCDC has already started meeting on the first Tuesday of every month. At the March 6 meeting the BCDC received presentations on the draft master plan for Yard's End in the Charlestown Navy Yard.

School of Nursing Open House

An open house will be held at the Somerville Hospital School of Nursing, 125 Lowell St., Somerville on Tuesday, March 27 from 7 to 9 p.m. for people interested in a career as a professional registered nurse.

Faculty and nursing students will be available to provide information about the program and conduct tours of the school and hospital. The school offers full- and part-time programs, and graduates are eligible to write for licensing.

For more information, call Patricia Dineen, 666-4400, ext. 245.

Will There Be A Second Democratic Caucus?

by Kathy Giordano

William J. Galvin Jr.'s challenge of the Feb. 3 Ward 2 Democratic Caucus was one of 10 such complaints heard by the Democratic State Committee's Compliance Review Committee on March 3. Galvin, who was a candidate for delegate, petitioned the State Committee for the hearing, on what he claimed, were "irregularities" at the Charlestown caucus.

Attorney James Wexler, Compliance Review Committee member and chairman of the hearing, allowed testimony from both sides of the dispute. Galvin, referring to his Feb. 5 memo addressed to Compliance Review Committee Chairman James Roosevelt, outlined at least eight areas of concern regarding the caucus proceedings. Ward 2 Democratic Committee Chairman Kevin Roche testified on behalf of the local committee.

Galvin's grievances included the election procedure, and in particular, electing all categories of delegates at one time instead of voting for each male delegate, female delegate, male alternate, female alternate and additional delegate individually.

Other issues that Galvin cited were that delegates registered voters, registration ended late, the way that ballots were issued, and in one case, allowing one voter to cast her ballot before the proceedings began.

Roche reaffirmed his position that the caucus was run in accordance to the rules of the State Democratic Party, as translated by the Ward 2 Democratic Committee. He stated that the results of the hearing will be known within two weeks, when each party receives official written notification by the Compliance Review Committee.

Roche said that if the State Committee agrees that Galvin's challenge is valid, another caucus would be held in Ward 2 to determine which delegates will attend the June Democratic Convention in Springfield.

We're So Proud . . . of the Charlestown High School Hockey team. Although they lost their game to Bellingham by a score of 3-2, their performance on and off the ice was highly commendable. We hear from those who were in attendance that they conducted themselves with class and received a standing "O" from all 300 or so at the arena. They showed true Townie Pride. . . . The Neighborhood Council enthusiastically voted to endorse a public commendation to the team for their performance. Great job, fellas!

It Was Quite Noticeable . . . at Tuesday's Neighborhood Council meeting when certain residents stood up and walked out while the discussion on public safety took place! Seems only development issues are important to these people. Peter Looney hit the nail on the head when he said, "It's time we got our priorities in order!" . . . Those who felt no need to listen to the REAL problems in our community had their names duly recorded.

What A Good Papa . . . Papa Gino's took the fifth grade class from the Harvard-Kent School to lunch last week after they toured the USS Constitution and Museum in the Navy Yard. Navy Yard Master Plan Revisions Unveiled At Council Meeting

(continued from page one) Neighborhood Services, has stated that she could not endorse the project before the Board of Appeal unless all code violations are corrected.

The council voted in favor of the committee's recommendations that the developer meet all city regulations, give a prepared engineering report to the Board of Appeal, correct all fire-related hazards and meet monthly with abutters until the project is completed.

On the subject of sliver parcels, small lots only suitable for adding square feet to adjacent property for off-street parking or a yard, Cunha commented that interested residents contact Jim Sullivan, Boston Redevelopment Authority Charlestown community coordinator, for more information on the locations of available parcels and the proper procedure to acquire the land. Call Sullivan at 722-4300, ext. 5661.

The council also decided to work with the BRA to set guidelines on the development process of BRA property by developers after they receive designation. A request for guidelines came as a result of the Lawnwood Place development team's difficulties in following through with its original plans. Council members would like to determine how long it should take a developer to start work and finish a project.

Land banking was the term used by council members, who wanted such property returned to the BRA for readvertisement if a developer fails to act in a reasonable amount of time. A report on the BRA development process was requested for the next monthly meeting.

Revisions to the Navy Yard master plan were outlined by Paul Barrett, assistant director of Harbor Planning and Development, and an entourage of BRA personnel stood ready to answer questions. He requested that the council vote on the master plan and the Harborpark Zoning for Charlestown at the March 13 council meeting.

According to Barrett, the changes in the plan have been made at the request of BRA Director Stephen Coyle and include community input from neighborhood workshops. Heights, for the most part, have been scaled down on certain parcels, and housing and open space issues are addressed. Copies of the new plan are available at the BRA Navy Yard office, the Charlestown Branch Library and the Patriot office.

Stillman, Public Safety Committee chairman, reported on a Feb. 13 meeting with Community Relations Officer Joe McNulty that was co-chaired by Anne Considine of the Bunker Hill Tenants Task Force. The meeting addressed concerns of residents of the Bunker Hill Housing Development. Stillman said that residents can call 247-4600 to voice complaints about calls to 911. The next committee meeting will be held Tuesday, March 20 at the Kent School, 50 Bunker Hill St., at 7 p.m.

McLaughlin stated the importance of more interest in public safety issues. "I'm beginning to sense an uneasiness in the community on the increase of crime in the neighborhood. Women are expressing fear on walking alone in their own neighborhood," he stated. He and other council members urged residents to get involved and start by attending the monthly Public Safety meetings.

Looney, Basic Services Committee chairman, requested residents to attend a hearing at the State House on March 28 at 1 p.m. in Room 138 about the proposed closing of the Charlestown District Court.

Looney also reported that the city and Charlestown Against Drugs' Feb. 28 drug forum was a success. He spoke on how CHAD is interested in the prevention of drug and alcohol abuse in young people by giving them alternative avenues to explore. Looney stated that "keeping the kids off the streets and involved in an activity will help keep them away from the temptation of drugs."

Looney also stated that Healthy Heart Day will take place at Johnnie's Food-master in May, and attempts to keep Camp Bunker Hill operating will be discussed at an upcoming meeting.

Looney raised some concern when he asked that Public Safety and Basic Services Committee reports be given at the beginning of the monthly council meetings "when people are still in their seats."

He and others noticed that as soon as development issues were addressed, half the audience left the meeting. "What could be more important than the safety of our community?" he asked after the meeting. "I think this town better get its priorities in order."

Stone, Billboards Committee chairman, reported that negotiations between Ackerley Communications and the community have begun about removing the billboard atop Roughan's Hall and another one at the end of Chestnut Street. He stated that a written agreement from Ackerley has been requested that would guarantee that the Roughan's billboard come down in 1992 and that the community reap benefits from the company for as long as the sign remains.

Stone said that his committee will hold a public meeting outlining the agreement, but no date had yet been set.

The next monthly council meeting will be April 3 at the Knights of Columbus Hall at 7 p.m.

CHIROPRACTICS AND YOU

By Dr. Kevin J. Loughlin
North End Chiropractic

THE "YUPPIE" BACK

It should surprise no one to learn that the average young professional today puts in more office time than did his predecessors. Ten-, 12-, even 14-hour days are not uncommon among highly motivated contemporary workers. Unfortunately, many of those hours are logged at a desk, often in front of a computer, and frequently in tense and uncomfortable positions. Long periods of sitting not only create obvious back problems, they can also generate fatigue, digestive disturbances, and headaches.

Ideally, you should take frequent breaks to stretch and realign your back. But if your schedule does not include repeat trips to the water cooler, there are ways to make periods of protracted sitting less damaging.

Lumbar supports, such as seat wedges that tip the pelvis forward, help prevent low back pain, and arranging working materials so that they stand upright rather than lie flat on a desk can relieve a great deal of neck pressure. But more important than practical measures is constant awareness of how you move and sit.

If your profession has you desk-bound, discuss ways to protect your back with your chiropractor. He or she may be as important as your broker.

If taking care of bodily balance and optimum health is important to you, call North End Chiropractic at 742-5797 to make an appointment with Dr. Kevin Loughlin. Let my years of knowledge and experience serve you. My practice is located at 350 Hanover St. in Boston.

Children's Films

The Film Program for Children will be presented at the Charlestown Branch Library, 179 Main St., on Tuesday, March 13 at 10:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

A lovely mermaid rescues a ship-wrecked prince in "The Little Mermaid," shown only at 3:30 p.m.

The suggested readings in conjunction with these films are: Penguins in the Wild by Cliff Moon, The Little Mermaid by Hans Christian Andersen and I Know an Old Lady Who Swallowed a Fly by Nadine Bernard Westcott.

'Les Miserables' On Stage
At The Shubert Theatre

"Les Miserables," an award-winning musical, begins performances at the Shubert Theatre on Friday, March 16 for a limited 10-week engagement.

"Les Miserables" opened on Broadway in 1987 and went on to win eight Tony Awards, including Best Musical. The show has received Best Musical honors from the New York Drama Critics' Circle, The Outer Critics' Circle, The Drama Desk, and it won a 1987 Grammy Award for Best Original Cast Recording which went gold.

Based on Victor Hugo's classic novel, "Les Miserables" is about three turbulent decades in 19th-century France. The show is the story of one man, the fugitive Jean Valjean, who is pitted against the cruel and self-righteous Inspector Javert in a lifelong struggle to evade capture.

Presented by Cameron Mackintosh, "Les Miserables" was written by Alain Boublil and Claude-Michel Schonberg and adapted from the French by Herbert Kretzmer, with additional material by James Fenton. Set design is by John Napier, costumes are by Andreane Neofitou, and lighting is by David Hersey. This same design team was responsible for the look of such Broadway smashes as "Starlight Express," "Nicholas Nickleby" and "Cats."

Aids Brigade; and Charlestown's Joseph Porter, Kim Campbell, Carolyn Wrenn Shannon of Community Schools and Hil Ohrstrom from the Kennedy Center. Jerry Steimel, co-chairperson of CHARlestown Against Drugs and director of the Boys & Girls Club, moderated the evening's activities.

"The number of people here tonight sends a message to the dealers in the streets of Charlestown and tells them that we haven't given up in Charlestown," Steimel said. "The real solution is going to come from us and whether we have the hope in this community to fight this battle against drugs."

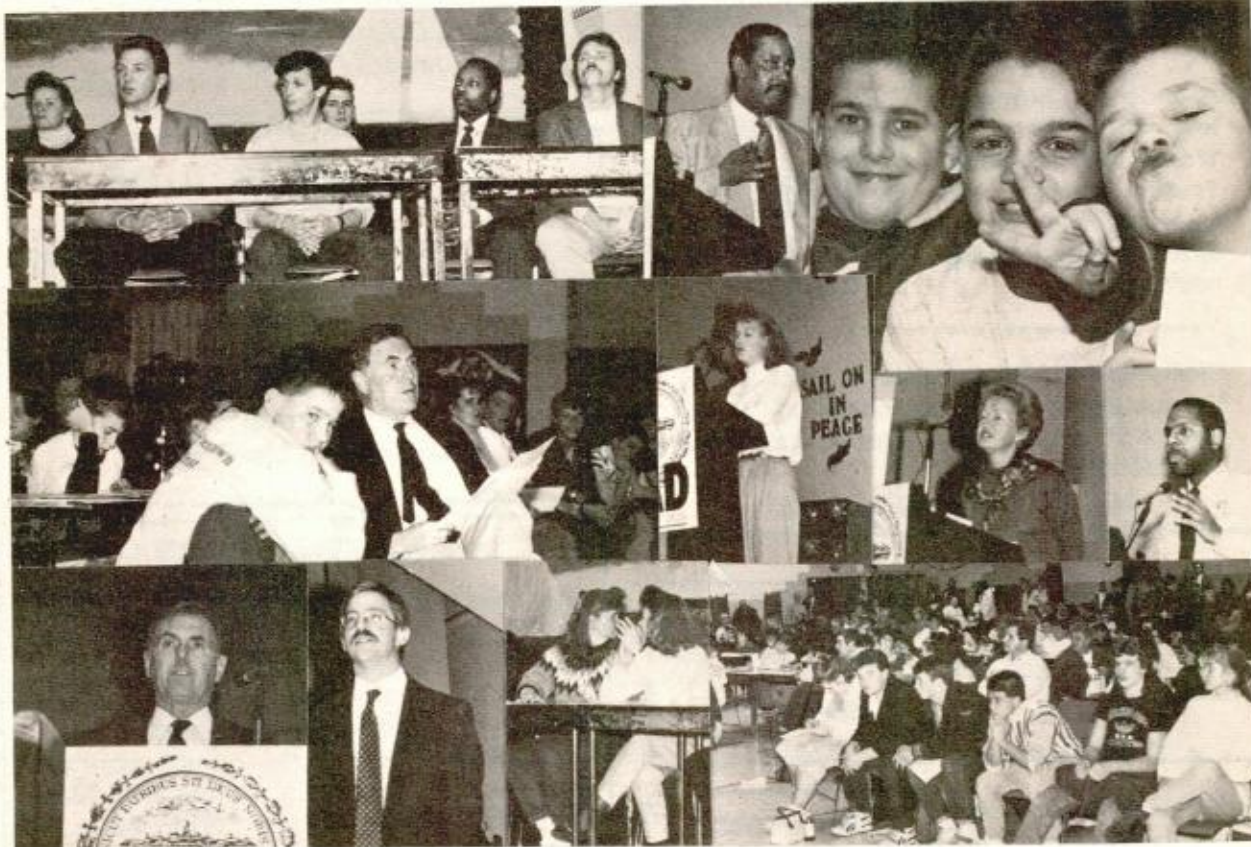

According to Flynn, ice poses a potentially serious drug problem in Boston because it is sold cheaply on the street, smoked rather than injected or snorted and made easily from legal ingredients. Broderick said, "Half the chemicals you can find under the kitchen sink," and that ice can be manufactured virtually unnoticed without chemical smells.

Users are attracted to ice because the high makes them feel powerful and can last from 10 to 24 hours, compared to a crack high of 15 to 20 minutes. The ice crash, however, creates intensely depressed people who feel suicidal. In order to avoid the depression there is a need for more ice, creating an addiction that works to destroy the body by literally burning it up.

"We're not just trying to scare the kids," Flynn said. "These effects do actually happen."

While some residents said they thought that the video could have included more frightening images of ice addicts and their violence, children and parents took home an armful of educational pamphlets, and antidrug posters and flyers. Boston Against Drugs/CHARlestown Against Drugs T-shirts were given out, and children signed up for their laminated BAD

Drug-Free Pledge Cards and subscriptions to a BAD newsletter. The children signed their cards for a life-long pledge to be drug-free.

"We're going to fight (drugs) with education and hope," Steimel said, "and we have to share our hope with each other and share our hope with our children."

About Dementia

Dementia is a group of symptoms characterized by memory loss, disorientation or confusion. It is associated with growing old and, as such, many people call it senility. But, what is so often seen as senility is merely a cover for a variety of treatable medical conditions.

Dementia is not a normal and expected part of aging. It is a medical condition that grows more common with age. The symptoms of dementia may be caused by something as simple as trauma, kidney or liver infection, the malnutrition that is common among many elderly or a drug interaction. Dementia like this can be easily treated, and one out of four people medically diagnosed with it are cured.

If these symptoms do occur, don't ignore them. Seek medical attention.

What is seen as dementia might only be memory loss from depression, or it can be the more serious Alzheimer's Disease.

With Alzheimer's, there is no known cure, but if it is diagnosed by competent medical authorities, there are medications available which may help.

Should you notice subtle changes in an older family member, don't assume that what's happening is natural and normal. All too often, memory loss, lapses and feebleness are actually symptoms which can start improving after a visit to the doctor. Early detection and competent medical attention are the key ingredients in helping the Alzheimer's or dementia patient.

NO GIMMICKS AND TRICKS

Many churches today try to lure people into their church services with many different gimmicks and tricks. With all the fanfare going on in the churches from week to week, it must be hard to determine where one will go to church. You might find some saying, "Should we go see a movie, hear a concert, listen to a christian psychologist, or go see a healing service?"

Reader, let us invite you to a place, where you can come and find that at every service good old hymns are sung by the congregation, and where the Bible is preached verse by verse. A place where we study God's Word and teach people what God says. Where we use the King James Version of the Bible. We interpret it literally and dispensationally. Dispensational teaching means if a scripture passage talks about the Israelites, or concerning the Tribulation or Millenium periods we do not make it apply to the Church-age saints. We teach salvation by faith in Christ alone and that your salvation lasts forever and is not dependent upon your ability to keep from sinning. We teach that believers, though not perfect, ought to live for the Lord.

Cirame Is All-Time Scorer At Suffolk

Ed Cirame of Charlestown capped his four-year career as a Suffolk University basketball standout by finishing fourth on the men's all-time scoring list.

Cirame, who enrolled at Suffolk after earning Boston Herald All-Scholastic honors at Matignon High in Cambridge, scored 1,404 points. Earlier this season, the 6-foot, 2-inch forward became the 13th player in Suffolk University men's basketball history to reach the elite four-digit mark when he canned 33 points in a thrilling 94-85 victory over Bridgewater State.

"Ed Cirame has elevated himself to the elite in Suffolk University men's basketball annals, not only by means of his outstanding scoring prowess, but also in the all-around abilities, which coaches throughout New England have come to appreciate," said Suffolk head coach and athletic director Jim Nelson.

Cirame, who played in exactly 100 games for Suffolk, led the team in scoring this past season and was the second leading scorer on the squad during his sophomore and junior years. The Suffolk tri-captain scored a career-high 463 points for the 9-17 Rams in the season just concluded, hitting 189 field goals, 83 foul shots and 2 three-point baskets for a 17.8 average and the highest norm of his career.

That performance came on the heels of his junior year when he scored 433 points for a 17.3 average. He tallied 356 points as a sophomore for a 14.7 norm and 152 points for a 6.1 average as a freshman, when he alternated between a starting role and sixth man. His four-year scoring average is an impressive 14.4.

The Division III star also played on the Metro team in the Baystate games last summer with several teammates of Division I caliber.

Individual career highlights include two 36-point performances during his junior year, one in a victory over the Coast Guard Academy and the other in a 106-104 overtime win over Clark University, a contest in which he tied the game with a three-point shot at the buzzer.

CHS Hockey — Back Where It Belongs

by Bob DeCristoforo

History will note that at 3:14 p.m. on Sunday, March 4 the Charlestown High School hockey season ended in the quarterfinal round of the State Tournament. The Townies were defeated by Bellingham in a 3-2 thriller before an enthusiastic crowd at Watertown Arena.

History will also record that CHS goals were scored by junior Ed Castronova and sophomore Tony Matson. Credited with assists were Matson, freshman Jim Gillen and junior Bill Kempton, and sophomore Todd Fisher was in the nets.

Before Bellingham, the Townies celebrated their first win in the tournament since 1983 as they clobbered Martha's Vineyard 8-2. Junior Jamie McLaughlin had a hat trick and assist, junior Joe Fitzgerald scored a pair, sophomore Derek O'Brien had a pair of goals and four assists, and Kempton had a goal and two assists. Credit also went to sophomore Rich Centola, junior Marc Dollosa and junior Bobby LaPorte with one each, and Fisher tended goal. Backing the scorers were juniors Donny Kelsey and Chris Rizzo, sophomores Mike Carroll and Mike Doherty, and freshman Billy Lynch. Seniors Mark Moreno and John Johnson supplied veteran strength, and sophomore Jamie Poole added to the stellar lineup.

CHS finished its regular season with an impressive 12-1-1 record, for a tie at the top of the Boston Large School Division. Coach Jack Morris called the shots from behind the bench, ably assisted by John Grzelczyk.

Thanks to the efforts of these young men and their coaches, CHS hockey is back where it belongs, strange haircuts, February bus trips to the Cape, newspaper reporters, television cameras, crowds in the stands, new stars in Charlestown's countless list of hockey heroes, a revived Charlestown-Southie rivalry and a whole town buzzing about their team.

Right now, the camp teaches passing, dribbling, shooting off the backboard and conditioning skills. Thanks to the help of the Charlestown Community Schools staff and members of the Charlestown Pride basketball team, the camp is a success.

Participating are Kirk Titcomb, Jim Tu, Vinnie Tamburello, Billy Egleson, Shawn Carrington, Brendan Brennan, Tommy Tu, Jimmy Yandle, Jennifer Rodriguez, Laura

Sullivan, Kristine Murphy, Jim Mento, Brian Houlihan, Joe Scadding, Frank MacDougall, Bob Yandle, Mark Kempton, Kyle Egleson, Tim Sullivan, Phil Carey, Shannon Martell, Thong Tu, Matthew Stein, Kristine Burke, Anne Martell, Frank McPherson, Mike Murphy, Luis Rodriguez, John Fabiano, Aileen Gorman, Clifton MacDougall, Corey Hollien, Greg Stein, Marilyn Rodriguez, Mike Sweeney and Andrew Brennan.

The camp is an all-volunteer effort with a limited funding source. Any donations to Charlestown Pride through the Andy Puopolo Club of Boston are most grateful. For more information, call Bob DeCristoforo at Charlestown Community Schools, 242-2770.

CYHA UPDATE

by Peter Golden
MITES

The Woburn Mites have made great strides this season, under the direction of Coach Ed Lynch, and their efforts proved rewarding with a Saturday 4-1 victory over Lexington. Goals were scored by Jack Garvey with 2, and Ray Ortiz and Fred Arroyo. Ryan Connolly was an all-star in the goal.

The Greater Boston League's Mites thrashed Pembroke 8-1 on Saturday, having lost twice this season to the South Shore skates. Later that day the Mites dropped a tied game to Needham in the last 19 seconds of play for a 4-3 loss. Standouts for Coach Dave Bryson's team were Jim Kane, Ed Prince, Jack Kelly, Rob Celata and Bob Krol. Starring in the net was Mike Machado.

SQUIRTS

The S squirt A's split their two Saturday games, beating Dedham 5-3 and then losing to Pembroke 5-1. Dan Awbrey's 2 goals in the first game led the way, and his lone goal against Pembroke prevented a shutout. Bill Burke, Mike McPherson and Joe Lawler each had goals, and Pat Lacey and Mike Upton did a great job in the goal.

The B team led a quick 5-1 start over Somerville on Saturday, got through the Hilltoppers' third-period tying rally and emerged victorious 5-4 late in the third. A 3-2 loss to Belmont late on Saturday split the games for the S squirt B's.

IN-HOUSE

In the In-House Playoffs on Saturday, the Wings and the Flyers won their semi-final series with aggressive offense and stout defense. The Wings II-1 victory over the Hawks was led by Matt Stein's 5 goals, and Mike McPherson, Jim McIssac, Bill Burke, Greg Stein and Ed Hoey followed suit with goals of their own.

The Flyers overwhelmed the Bruins in a nine-player scoring attack for a 13-2 win. Terry Smith, Jeff Fidler, Chuck Tamburello and Peter Golden scored 2 each. Chuck Hollien, Kevin Golden, Chuck Ferreira, Pat Kane and Jim Kane all scored single goals.

NOTES

The Championship In-House game has not been officially scheduled. Please check at the rink during tryouts for next year's travel teams.

The GBL Mites will be defending their two-year title and will travel to Billerica with the Woburn Mites for the Hallenborg Tournament. The Woburn Mites will be playing on the C level in the tourney.

Grateful To Patriot And Its Staff

Dear Gloria,

A very warm, sincere thank you to reporters Kathy Giordano and Lynn Peters for their coverage of our Honorable George L. Ruffin dedication here at the Charlestown District Court. The story and pictures were beautifully done, and we are all very grateful to the Patriot and its staff.

Sincerely,
Dr. Barbara Burke

Thank You All

My wife and I would like to take this opportunity to thank so many wonderful people who remembered me while I was in Mass. General and Spaulding Rehabilitation hospitals.

The cards, flowers and fruit baskets made my illness a bit easier to handle. Knowing people were praying for me and thinking of me helped so much.

A special thank you to the clergy and staff of St. Catherine's parish. They were great, and especially our pastor, Father Reilly for his prayers and just being there.

So many did so much and are still helping us. To our young neighbors Mary and Paul, who have kept our walk shoveled all winter, and Marie, who cleaned the snow from our car, thank you.

We are lucky to have such nice neighbors and friends. A big thank you and God bless you all.

Sincerely,
Alex and Dorothy Jarvie

21st Annual Michael P. Quinn Scholarship Dinner Dance

The Lt. Michael P. Quinn Scholarship Fund has awarded $23,250 to outstanding college-bound young people of Charlestown since its first dinner dance at Memorial Hall on April 4, 1970.

Join us on Saturday, April 7 at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 75 West School St., for the 21st Annual Michael P. Quinn Scholarship Dinner Dance.

Daniel J. Marsden, last year's recipient and the first to receive the $1,500 award, will be presented a plaque from Mayor Raymond Flynn. Marsden is in his second semester at Wentworth Institute of Technology and majoring in building construction technology.

Thirteen young men and seven young women, representing 16 colleges and universities, have been most successful because of our supporters since the scholarship's inception on Sept. 8, 1969.

Perpetuating the fine character of our departed great friend, Lt. Michael P. Quinn, USMC, and helping the youth of our community will make for an enjoyable evening.

We look forward to a superb evening of dining and dancing at the Knights of Columbus Hall. This will be the fifth Michael P. Quinn Scholarship Dinner Dance held under their fine stewardship.

Tickets are $25 per person, and may be purchased by call 242-5493 or 242-5445, or writing: P.O. Box 216, Charlestown, Mass. 02129.

Board Of Appeal Decision

At its Feb. 27 public hearing, the city Board of Appeal voted to approve the request of James DeVillis, proprietor of the Donut Maker at 44 Parker St. to legalize the occupancy of the structure. The Boston Redevelopment Authority cited concerns on parking safety hazards.

The Mayor's Office of Neighborhood Services recommended approval, and a letter of support was submitted by City Councillor Robert Travaglini.

The approval was granted subject to design review by the BRA.
