Tips to prepare for your next website design project

Before hiring a freelance web designer in Singapore, you can prepare these simple steps for your website so you do not get lost in the website design process.

Objective: Determine the purpose of the website

Looking for Customers for your business?
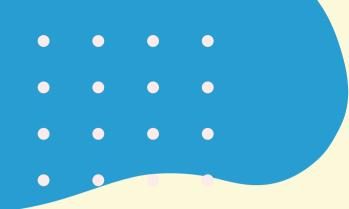

Online Store to sell your products?

Is it to give online services to your customers?

🤩 Good to first determine your objectives clearly

Site Map: Get your website sitemap, content ready.

Website contents are crucial for any website; it is essential to provide relevant information about your business, products or services to your website visitors. Determining what you want your customers to know is necessary; if you are unsure of this process, you should speak with the freelance web designer to seek some advice.

🤩 Quality content helps to change your website visitors to loyal customers.
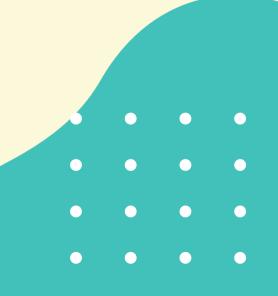

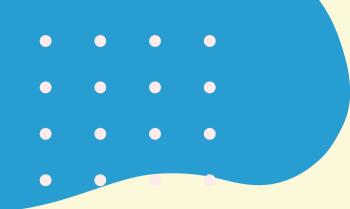

Technology: Content Management System or Static Informational Websites

Your website should be device friendly and based on the frequency of website updates and budget; you can determine whether you are going to opt for a content management system in WordPress or a static website. Speak to Subraa, a freelance web designer in Singapore, if you are unsure of the purpose.

🤩 Websites that are device friendly rank well in Google
