Residents Combine Energies To Stop Drug Traffic

by Maria Girvin
 "Stop the dust!"
 It is not just a cry of a newspaper advertisement but of a community. Charlestown residents are fed up with the crimes, bad publicity and hurt businesses that they feel has stemmed from a mounting abuse of phenylcyclidine (PCP) or as better known "Angel Dust."

 "We think the last two murders and the last cutting were related to dust," said Boston Police Deputy Bill MacDonald at a recent drug awareness meeting at St. Francis de Sales Parish. MacDonald was referring to the recent deaths of John Fitzpatrick, William Kelly and the throat cutting of a woman who resided in the Bunker Hill Housing project.

It was these incidents that struck alarm in residents and sparked impromptu drug awareness meetings by businessmen, parishioners, and community groups. At St. Francis de Sales, over 200 people attended a talk by Drug Control Unit Detective Sgt. Frank Graham and saw a movie on the effects of angel dust.

In addition to this, Station 15's Community Response Team has opened the subject with residents in their monthly meetings, the Charlestown Board of Trade has launched a media campaign against the drug and in particular, its sellers, and residents are being given private phone numbers they can call to anonymously give information on PCP abuse.

Federal officials estimate that nearly 7 million people, most of them between the ages of 12 and 25 have tried dust. Statistics showed at least 4,000 of these

by Anthony Manconi

As I stand at dawn on Bunker Hill
 At the rising of the tide.
 A lonely gull is flying high,
 Circling in the sky.
 The sun just risen from the bay,
 Gives light to a new day.
 From distant seas tall ships appear
 Just as in yesteryear.

No need to sound bells of alarm
 Or fire across their bow.
 They come as friends and comrades
 In peace forever now.
 We welcome them with open arms,
 As they sail straight and true.
 We hope their stay is filled with love
 'Til it's time to say, "Adieu."

District 15 Softball

by T. P.
After losing a close game a week ago to District 2 (the weepers) 8-5, District 15 won a "tooth to nail" game Sunday 7-6 over a well improved District 13. In a pre-season game at the Oily this year we beat 13's team 9-6. The hero of the game with his golden glove is our second baseman Ed Brady. With the bases loaded in the top of the 7th and the score 7-6 in favor of 15, Ed took a line drive that was heading for right field for the final out of the game. Nice going Ed!

Mike Ingemi is hitting the ball so well that manager Tony Pezulo is thinking of moving him to clean-up position. That is not taking anything away from Danny Flynn, who can do it all.

There is a game next week with District 11 which was not scheduled. At what field we do not know as of yet. The following week will be the East-West All Star game which will be played at Walsh Field Dorchester at 10:00 a.m. June 8th. Two players from each team will be representing their divisions Pitchers are chosen by the top three teams in their Division.

users were treated in hospital emergency rooms last year. However, 100 of them did not make it and died through overdose or suicide. This does not include homicidal acts triggered by users of the easy-to-make drug.

Developed by Parke, Davis & Co., PCP was thought to be a good anesthetic for humans. However, its bad side effects caused it to be rejected except for veterinarian use. In the late 60's, the drug showed up in Height Ashbury and was called the "peace pill." Medical organizations and newspapers launched a media campaign against the drug and warned the public of its potential dangers. The drug's use ceased. Not until the mid '70's did the drug show up again. According to Graham, organized crime has since picked up on it, making the chemical in clandestine Rhode Island laboratories. The drug's profit margins entice pushers (sellers) to sell the drug, knowing that $200 worth of PCP can result in approximately $200,000 worth of profits.

Usually sold in one gram bags, for $10, PCP can cause varied reactions, depending on the abuser's psychological make-up and the dose taken. Users can become belligerent and combative or appear listless and drunken. A staggering walk, speech slow down, dilated eyes and concentration difficulties may be signs of PCP use. Prolonged use of the drug can cause permanent brain damage.

Users rarely inject liquid PCP. More likely, they spray the liquid or sprinkle it on marijuana, tobacco, mint or parsley and then smoke it. PCP can also be snorted or pressed into tablets or capsules.

In Charlestown there is help available for parents of PCP users or the users themselves. Both the Kennedy Center and the Bunker Hill Health Clinic have units to make referrals of users to agencies that help reform or to provide information and aid to parents caught in the middle.

The Kennedy Center puts much of their emphasis on drug prevention, according to Social Service Director Rosalyn Mamlak. Through their Teen Center in the basement of St. Catherine's Rectory, teenagers are counseled Monday through Thursday on drug use along with other adolescent problems. In addition, a member of their staff, Carmela McCauley, works with the public through Station 15.

In addition, the Center has opened three hot lines for drug abusers or relatives of abusers to call for help. The numbers are as follows:

9:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. - 241-8866
5:00 p.m. - 10:00 a.m. - 367-6368

Monday - Saturday

At these numbers residents can talk to Teen Center Counselor Debbie Fidler, Teen Center Coordinator James O'Brien or Mamlak.

Also drug information and referral is available through the Center's Detoxification Facility 24 hours a day, seven days a week, the number is:

The Board of Trade has chosen a drug awareness rally to get their message across. To be held June 17, at the high school gym, the rally will have various personalities and Charlestown heroes discuss the issue.

As a symbol of neighborhood unity and determination against drug abuse, Charlestown's clergy and a group of concerned parents will conduct a candlelight procession on Friday, June 20. On that day, each church will hold a short service, then begin a procession to Thompson Square.

The organizing committee hopes the procession will rally the support of the community to those groups who are meeting and working for a solution to the problem of drug abuse.

Police have stepped up their surveillance of drug traffic and working closely with the Boston Drug Control Unit. Graham has issued a private number for anyone wishing to attain or give information on drug abuse. That number is 536-5249. "Just give us a call," said Graham, "we don't need your name, we won't even need you in court."

"We were and still can be a proud town," says an ad in the Charlestown Patriot, and the community is out to prove it.

"Stop The Dust" Petition Drive

The "Stop The Dust" petition drive has gained momentum this past week. The Charlestown Board of Trade urges every concerned resident and businessman to support this drive.

We, the residents and businessmen of Charlestown, condemn the sale of illegal drugs in this community.

Residents, young and old, must be made aware of the dangers of the drugs being sold in our town—drugs that are ruining the lives of an ever increasing number of our young people and endangering the lives of innocent people.

Anyone who assists in this activity, by selling drug related items must cease immediately.

All people must totally reject the use and sale of drugs or any other-related materials immediately, if we are to save our young people.

We, the undersigned support this statement condemning drug traffic and use in Charlestown.

Petitions are available at the following locations and the lists will appear in up-coming editions of the Charlestown Patriot: Haligan Club, Bianca's, O'Guy's, Ultimate Touch, Youth Athletic Club, Sister's Beauty Salon, Bunker Hill Glass, Celtic Lounge, Cobblestone Restaurant, Deli Delite, Sully's Coffee Shop, Connolly Coffee Shop, Blowup Haircutters, Doherty's Pub, Tuttle Cleaners, Alert Club, Horseshoe Tavern, Red Store, and Green Store.

STOP THE DUST

We, the undersigned have been no Angels in the past, nor probably now, or in the future — but we realize our sons, daughters, and friends are being destroyed by "ANGEL DUST".

We were, and still can be a proud town. A town again where our mothers, daughters, and wives can again walk the streets both day and night without fear. A town where children and elderly are given a chance in life.

Your Dental Health

by Jeffrey D. Cohen, D.M.D.

Orthodontic treatment is usually thought of as the straightening of teeth, and generally it is. It is usually best to have necessary orthodontic treatment done as a child's permanent teeth come in and the problem becomes evident. Badly placed teeth not only affect appearance. They can also cause other teeth to wear down leaving wide spaces for collection of food debris and often leading to other tooth decay. Adults can also have orthodontic treatment done. Teeth will move with proper braces. Dental technology has realized that the old braces were not terribly attractive. There are now devices which are much less visible.

An attractive smile is important to everyone and your dentist will help you keep yours a smile you'll be proud of. At the office of JEFFREY D. COHEN, D.M.D., 338 Main, 242-3550 we know that to keep your smile attractive you must keep regular appointments and often good dental insurance is a good investment here. You shouldn't have to think twice about keeping regular appointments. We can assist Medicaid patients too in completion of necessary forms. You won't be smiling if you're in pain or if your mouth needs work. We want to help you keep your natural teeth and that natural smile.

DENTAL TIP

Do not ignore decay in first teeth. Problems with gums can follow.

USS Constitution To Lead Tall Ships

A Proud Reminder Of A Grand Past

by Sue Peterson

Resting at her berth at Pier 1 of the Charlestown Navy Yard, she is visited by about 100 thousand people every year who go to see and feel the excitement and adventure of the days when ships were powered by the wind and the United States established itself as a dominant naval power.

But to some, she can become a landmark so familiar that it is taken for granted. Her comfortable proximity in Charlestown's front yard may lead some to forget that she has fought both enemy ships and the salvage yard in her long history, but tomorrow, when she leaves her berth to lead the parade of Tall Ships, she will remind all that the USS Constitution has survived many hardships and entered an era when all sailing ships are recognized and appreciated for their swift, quiet grace on the sea.

Operation Sail '80, the main part of the celebration of Boston's 350th birthday, will begin as the Constitution, commanded by Charlestown native Robert L. Gillen, greets over 85 sailing ships for a spectacular parade into Boston Harbor.

The six hour parade will be the longest sail — over 11 miles — of the Constitution since the Bicentennial celebration in 1976, said Gillen. "Old Ironsides" will take a few guests along for the ride, about 400, Gillen said, including such officials as House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neil, Jr., Governor Edward J. King, and the Secretary of the Navy.

Once the guests have boarded, the Constitution will sail to the navigational light off of Deer Island which marks the entrance to Boston Harbor. "We will meet and join the ships at 10 a.m. and fire a four-gun salvo (salute) to indicate to everybody that the parade of sail has commenced," Gillen said.

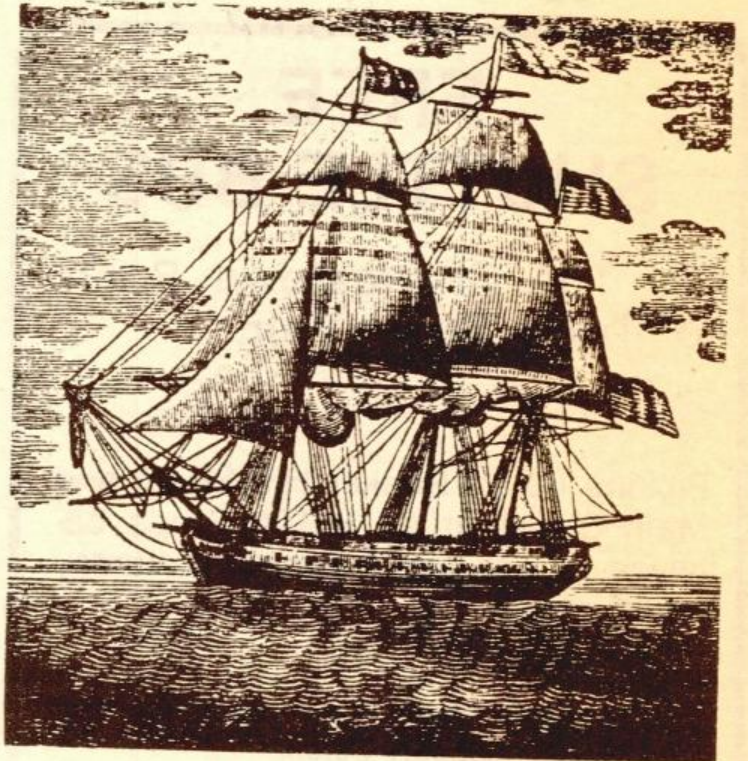

"As we pass the Kennedy (aircraft carrier), the Constitution, on behalf of all the Tall Ships, will fire a salute to the dignitaries on the Kennedy." The ship expects to return to Charlestown and dock at her pier next to the Charlestown Street Fair. The Constitution will be open to the public, Gillen said, from 2 - 5 p.m.

The Constitution was first launched in 1797, and when the war of 1812 broke out, it was stationed in Boston. On August 19 of that year, the Constitution fought the English frigate the Guerriere. In the battle, which lasted one half hour, the Guerriere suffered 79 casualties, and was so badly damaged that it was burned and sunk. The Constitution lost only 14 men in the fight, which proved to the naval fleets of the world that the United States could fight effectively and defeat the best equipped navy of the day, the British.

It was during this battle, the story goes, that shots from the Guerriere made no impression upon the strong oaken sides of the Constitution. When one of the shots fell from the side and into the sea a sailor cried "Hurrah! Her sides are made of iron!" giving the ship its nickname "Old Ironsides."

After a distinguished career as a fighting vessel, the Constitution was declared unseaworthy in 1830 and plans were made to break her up. But Oliver Wendell

U.S.S. CONSTITUTION

Holmes published his poem "Old Ironsides," and the public clamor raised for the ship saved her from destruction. After the Naval Academy used her for several years as a training and practice ship, she was decommissioned in 1881.

When plans were again made to destroy her in 1905, the public again came to her rescue, and she was partially restored. The ship deteriorated with time, however, and in 1925 funds were raised, largely by school children, for a complete restoration.

The Constitution returned to Boston in 1934 and was opened for the public. In 1940 her full commission was restored. Since that time, millions have visited the ship's wide wooden decks for a sense of the naval tradition that existed in the time of the sailing ships. She has survived many of the twists of fate, and she now symbolizes both the sailing enthusiasts' love for the large sailing ships of the past, and Americans' pride in their military.

As she leads the parade of Tall Ships tomorrow, she will escort in the best birthday present Boston ever had: the tall masts and full sails of many sailing ships, a reminder of Boston's and the Constitution's great seaborne past.

BHCC To Have Exhibit At Street Fair

Bunker Hill Community College in Charlestown will have an exhibit at the Street Fair near the USS Constitution in the Charlestown Navy Yard during the visit of the Tall Ships May 30-31 and June 1.

Members of the faculty, staff and students will assist at the exhibit to hand out material and provide information about the college.

Sponsored by the Charlestown Board of Trades, National Park Service, City of Boston, and the US Navy, the fair will feature amusements, continuous entertainment, music, food, fun, exhibits and much more.

Harbor Spout To Be Unveiled At Street Fair

by Maria Girvin

What is a Harbor Spout?

Contrary to rumored explanations, it is not a surfacing whale, or a fireboat display, or a new city fountain.

Instead, a Harbor Spout is a marvelous form of environmental art created by the endeavors of 25 persons from all walks of life. Jeff Stetson is head coordinator of the project and he describes it as "art for the public, as opposed to the elitism in art museums."

The project has taken a year of planning which magically coincided with Boston's Jubilee 350 festivities. Stetson said he threw together a proposal for Harbor Spout in two days and was awarded $3,000 to finance the project which will be unveiled Saturday, May 31, about 300 feet off the Charlestown Navy Yard docks.

When it begins, audiences can expect several hours of "water performance." It will spout in two one hundred feet high columns from a pump powered by a 150 horsepower truck engine. Then, depending on Stetson and his group's esthetic preference, the columns will be "sculptured" through 12 innovative nozzle complexes and two major nozzles, one of which comes off a fireboat. Dyes will be added to the water, adding to the colors of rainbows which will no doubt dance in and out of the spout's mist. The Harbor Spout's rig will float on a 16 foot square raft made of styrofoam and decking along with fifty-five gallon drums for bouyancy. It will be manned by about six persons at a time dressed in protective weather gear to guard against the 45 degree water temperature.

Stetson is quite proud of his group's masterpiece created by what he calls the "good will of many and a culmination of all things in this world that have become specialized." While the city gave him a budget, Stetson said that only initiative and hard work have allowed the Harbor Spout to stay within that budget and become a reality.

"If you tell someone you need a bilge pump with a float switch, they don't stand there and ask you a bunch of questions. Instead they go out and research it; find out all the specifications they need to look for the pump. Then two days later they'll come back with the pump and tell you they got it for nothing. They'll be so proud of themselves.

"You don't need a degree, to work on this, rather a skill and a desire to complete a common goal. There's great unity in this project; a single-mindedness." The group consists of nurses, students, lawyers, doctors, a choreographer and numerous other blue and white collar workers. Stetson is a teacher of Environmental Arts at the Museum School of Art.

It was he who organized the mural painting that turned drab plywood surrounding the Red Line extension construction in Cambridge into colorful walls entitled "Shadows of People."

Recently his group won an award for their kite creation presented at the annual Boston Kite Festival held in Franklin Park. That creation involved weather balloons floating at various heights connected with mirrored streams of plastic that dazzled with the sun's reflection.

In addition, Stetson can boast himself as one of New Year's Eve "First Night" founders and a protege of artists who unveiled water spouts at the 1972 Olympics in Germany and in Boston during the Bicentennial year.

Harbor Spout's meager budget has sparked imaginations of its creators in making and saving money. Much of the equipment being used has been salvaged, borrowed, donated or custom made. Stetson held up a crudely cut wrench saying, "if we don't have the right size wrench, we make one." Money to defray the cost is also being made through projects like the "kite day" presentation and Harbor Spout buttons which are being sold.

Stetson believes that people of all ages have a fascination with water in powerful motion. He thinks that the Harbor Spout will be a "graceful symbol and gentle reminder of Boston's historic rivers, harbors and ponds."

This will be very spontaneous," he said, a little concerned over the initial thrust of the water which could shove the styrofoam raft into the water. "But we're going to have fun."

While Harbor Spout is not a whale, a fireboat display or a fountain it is an artistic endeavor that combines the best of all three and can be enjoyed by all.

Navy Yard To Host Ships For Celebration

by Sue Peterson

It promises to be the biggest celebration on the sea since the Bicentennial, and, appropriately, the Charlestown Navy Yard will host the core of Boston's 350th birthday present.

Along with the USS Constitution, four ships will dock at the yard, the modern Navy Frigate the USS Garcia, the racing schooner the Bluenose II, the research vessel the Regina Maris, and another research ship, the Albatross IV.

The changes and development of over two hundred years of naval fighting vessels will be in sharp contrast when the USS Garcia, a modern navy frigate, docks near a frigate of the earliest navy of the United States, the Constitution. The Garcia is over twice the size of the Constitution and carries a crew five times as large, 226 sailors, as the Constitution. While the Constitution fought other warships of her time, the Garcia is primarily equipped for anti-submarine warfare, with helicopters, rocket launchers, torpedotubes, and two five-inch guns.

The Garcia is larger than some of the world's destroyers in size, and anti-submarine capabilities, but her single propeller puts her in a class with other frigates of the US Navy.

The Garcia arrived at the yard early this morning, and tomorrow will join her elder, "Old Ironsides," for the Tall Ships parade. The following day she will be open to the public from 1-4 p.m.

The Canadian schooner Bluenose II, symbol of the friendly rivalry between the New England and Nova Scotian fishing fleets, will arrive on Monday to exhibit her racing history and will host a reception for Canadian and American Government officials that evening.

The Bluenose will be open to the public through next Friday.

A Boston-based ship, the Regina Maris, has been designated as one of 11 lead ships in the parade of sail. The ship, which has just returned from a research expedition studying the habits of whales and dolphins, will dock at Pier 2, across from the Constitution, after the parade. The Regina Maris is owned by the Ocean Research and Education Society which uses the 144-foot barkentine for educational purposes.

The last ship, the Albatross IV will be open until Monday. The Albatross is a research vessel, and plans to exhibit her facilities and research results on the vessel.

At the heart of Boston's naval tradition, the Charlestown Navy Yard offers the most interesting and varied ships for Boston's 350th.

Charlestown High School Crew Vs The Tall Ships

More than two hundred years ago the men of Charlestown faced the British forces on the battlefields of Bunker Hill, Lexington, Concord, and elsewhere during the American Revolution. On Saturday morning, May 31, there will be a renewal of this rivalry, but the battlefield will be a much more peaceful one. The Charlestown High School Crew, along with boats from several other City of Boston schools will engage the British sailors from the Tall Ships in a rowing regatta on the Charles River. Charlestown High School Coach, Mr. Charles Welch reports:

"We stand an excellent chance of winning our heat, and a more than even chance of being declared the overall winner. Our greatest obstacle will lie in the type of boat to be used. Saturday we will use a Monomoy Life Boat which weighs nearly one thousand pounds more than our pulling boats. As for the foreign crews pull this type of boat on a regular basis, they certainly would seem to have a decided advantage. However, to our advantage, the City Crew Teams are trained to compete over a seven-eighths of a mile course, Saturday's race will cover only eight hundred yards. I'm hoping our endurance will be the deciding factor."

The Charlestown High School Crew, made up entirely of local residents, is the strongest in the school's history. Steve Barnes, Andy Ferreria, Dan Considine, Ed Considine, Paul Junta, Ed Cahill, Mike DiCicco, Dan Junta, Billy Rochford, Jim Harrington, Fred Aroyo, Paul Barrett, and Joe Cannata, give not only strength but depth to a fine group of oarsmen.

As participants in the regatta, the Charlestown Crew will be invited to attend a gala post-race celebration sponsored by the Operation-Sail Program. This event will allow the local boys the opportunity to meet their counterparts from abroad and exchange ideas and experiences. In terms of cultural enrichment, they could not be afforded a finer opportunity.

Charlestown holds a position of prominence in history. On a smaller scale, against international competition, these young men hope to add to their town's prestigious reputation.

Adding local flavor to the English High School Crew, which will also take part in the competition, is the Blue and Blue coach, Pete DeRoeve, a Charlestown resident.

The day's schedule reads as follows:

- 10:00 a.m. - MIT to BU - Class A
- 11:00 a.m. - BU to MIT - Class B
- 12:00 noon - MIT to BU - Coast Guard/Navy/Maritime
- 1:00 p.m. - BU to MIT - Boston Public Schools
- 2:30 p.m. - MIT to BU - Overall runoff between winners of above four heats.

Pack a lunch and come out to the Charles River this coming Saturday, it should prove to be exciting and highly enjoyable event.

WHO SAID MONEY CAN'T BUY HAPPINESS?

For over a century, Charlestown Savings has been putting smiles on a lot of faces by putting our time and money where it does the most good. Right in our own back yard.

A short time ago we helped turn an abandoned warehouse on Boston's waterfront into one of the city's most popular community attractions. Museum Wharf. Home of Boston's Children's Museum and the Museum of Transportation. We've helped with the expansion and renovation of nursing homes and hospitals. Inner city restorations. Dinners for elderly. Art contests for Boston school children. We contributed our original office at One Thompson Square to the community, and helped fund its restoration as a landmark community center.

These are just a few of the community projects we've helped with through the years. And we'll continue to help. Happy 350th Boston.

Bluenose II Docks In Charlestown On Monday

by Sue Peterson

She is probably most familiar to Americans as the schooner pictured on the back of the Canadian dime, but the Bluenose II of Nova Scotia has visited Boston twice before, in 1974 and 1976.

The Bluenose II has special significance to Boston as she is a recreation of the original Bluenose which won the International Fisherman's trophy time after time in the '20s and '30s.

The Bluenose represents the friendly rivalry which has existed between the New England and Nova Scotia fisherman since the beginning of this century. At that time, the New England fleet boasted the fastest schooners ever to sail the Atlantic waters. To encourage the Fishermen of Nova Scotia to challenge this boast, a newspaper publisher offered a massive trophy and large cash prize for the winner of a race between the top deep-sea fishing schooners of the rival fleets.

But in the first race in 1920, the American Schooner Esperanto beat the Canadian ship, the Delawana.

The loss prompted the design and launch of the Bluenose. At the next race in 1921 she out-sailed the Gloucester schooner, the Elsie, and won every race after that year. She was defeated only once in another race, held off of Gloucester, by the American schooner the Gertrude L. Thebaud. In 1938 she had a return match with the Thebaud and defeated her. It was the last race for the Bluenose, and her last victory. The Bluenose was later sold to a trading company as a freighter and was sunk in a storm off Haiti in 1946.

The Bluenose II does not race, but she is an exact exterior replica of the original, and has been used to promote tourism for Nova Scotia and Canada.

She will arrive this Monday at the Charlestown Navy Yard and will be open to the public from 2-4:30 p.m. on that day.

The most striking feature of the ship is her huge mainsail, the largest working mainsail 4,100 square feet of canvas.

As the fastest fishing schooner in the North Atlantic and one of the world's best known sailing ships, the Bluenose II carries on the tradition of Nova Scotia and the sea.

"Let Them Eat Cake" At The Board of Trade Fair

by Maria Girvin

This weekend Charlestown will partake in the 350 Jubilee festivities in grand style - and that includes a half ton birthday cake that will feed a good 5,000 persons.

The Charlestown Board of Trade has contracted with Cake Land of Lynn to create this culinary masterpiece which will be distributed during the weekend long Board of Trade Fair being held in the Charlestown Navy Yard. There the cake will be distributed freely on Sunday to anyone wishing Boston a "Happy Birthday."

Thirty-two-year-old Cake Land entrepreneur Arthur Strasnick is the baker and is a top authority on making "big" cakes. It was he who pulled together the 20 feet high, 7,000 pound cake used May 1st at Boston City Hall to formally open the Jubilee 350 events. "That was a challenge," said Strasnick. "My brother-in-law (Tom Burns) was the support specialist in that," Strasnick said after explaining that 120 feet of small wooden dowel was inserted through each tier of cake to keep it from collapsing under its weight.

While Charlestown's cake will be only half the size of Boston's, it will stagger the imagination in ingredients alone. One thousand pounds of flour, 500 pounds of sugar, 330 pounds of shortening, 150 dozen eggs, 125 quarts of milk, five pounds of salt, 25 pounds of baking powder, and about one and a half gallons of vanilla will be used. When completed, the cake will stand three feet wide, a foot high and 16 feet long.

New Hours At Pavilion

The Bunker Hill Pavilion has announced new summer hours for showings of its popular presentation "Whites of Their Eyes". The Pavilion is located next to the U.S.S. Constitution on the waterfront in Charlestown.

Starting Friday, May 30, the 30-minute presentation of "Whites of Their Eyes" will be shown continuously from 9:30 a.m. with the last show beginning at 6:30 p.m. The Pavilion is open seven days a week and will remain open on the Fourth of July and Labor Day.

The show itself uses more than 1000 color slides, 14 screens, 22 life-size costumed figures, and a 7-channel, all-around sound system to surround the audience with the sights and sounds of the battle.

"Whites of Their Eyes" and the Bunker Hill Pavilion are attractions on the Freedom Trail, which includes the Bunker Hill area and the Boston Historic Park along the Charlestown waterfront. The Pavilion, which was opened by the Raytheon Historical Foundation on Bunker Hill Day in 1975, will remain a permanent attraction open to the public 12 months each year.

It will be completely designed in icing. This includes an edible hand portrait of Mayor Kevin H. White, the Park Service logo, the Board of Trade seal, 15 tall ships, including the U.S.S. Constitution, and the Bunker Hill Monument and Museum. Of course the color theme of the icing will be red, white and blue.

Strasnick has been in the cake business since he was nine years old and worked in his father's bakery in Chelsea. At 19, he opened his own bakery in Peabody. Strasnick owns Broadway Pastry Shop in Chelsea in addition to Cake Land which is operated out of the basement of his Lynn home. Strasnick said his cakes are baked in sections in Chelsea and then decorated, section by section, in his Lynn kitchen. "It's better this way and helps keep my marriage together," said Strasnick.

Monumental birthday cakes for cities is not all Strasnick does, but all his cakes are tailor-made to suit the client. Many are made unique by portraits in icing, a "Strasnick specialty." In this technique Strasnick hires an artist to outline the main features of the celebrity and then Strasnick traces the outline and shades it in with icing. The portrait is then placed on the cake as a final touch.

Strasnick also has a quiet reputation for making "porno cakes." "They're nothing offensive," said the baker, showing a picture of his "pornographic creations," "they're cute." The designs are simple, humorous and unoffensive caricatures in icings.

Strasnick said Charlestown's cake will be delivered in sections where they will be put together with icing in time for the community festivities. He will have started the cake a week in advance baking it along with the additional 20 or so wedding cakes he usually has orders for during the weekend.

So while Charlestown Board of Trade has found someone to build their huge birthday cake this author has only one question, "Who will blow out the 350 candles?"

CAKE LAND'S ARTHUR STRASNICK'S 20 years practice as a baker allows him to forego measuring cups when mixing ingredients for frosting. "I make it according to 'feel'," said he. (photo by Maria Girvin)

New Exhibit For USS Constitution Museum

On May 29 the USS Constitution Museum in Charlestown will open an exhibit called "A Salute to the Tall Ships" to honor the seven of the Tall Ships which will be arriving in Boston on May 30.

The exhibit, comprised of photographs and other information sent from the participating countries: Spain, Argentina, Germany, Denmark, Norway, Ecuador, and Uruguay, will show an overall exciting picture of these Tall Ships including many worthwhile historical facts. The Boston Herald American newspaper is supplementing the display with award winning photographs of the 1976 Tall Ships visit. This montage captures the graceful design of the vessels and brings to life this glorious voyage at sea. As a highlight to the exhibit, a short, colorful film, a gift from Argentina depicting the life of a sailor on A.B.A. LIBERTAD, will be shown periodically. The film is in Spanish but pamphlets written in English, will be available. Janet Hentschel, a senior intern from Boston University, has coordinated and organized the exhibit from the response of memorabilia sent from the foreign embassies and navies.

"Designing this display has been an exciting project," says Janet, "and I know that the exhibit will be of interest to anyone who is eagerly awaiting the arrival of the Tall Ships."

A touch of international color will be spread throughout Boston Harbor when these ships of various designs and sizes parade in on May 30. The largest is the Juan Sebastian De Elcano from Spain and proudly the "tallest" of the Tall Ships is the USS Constitution which will lead the parade.

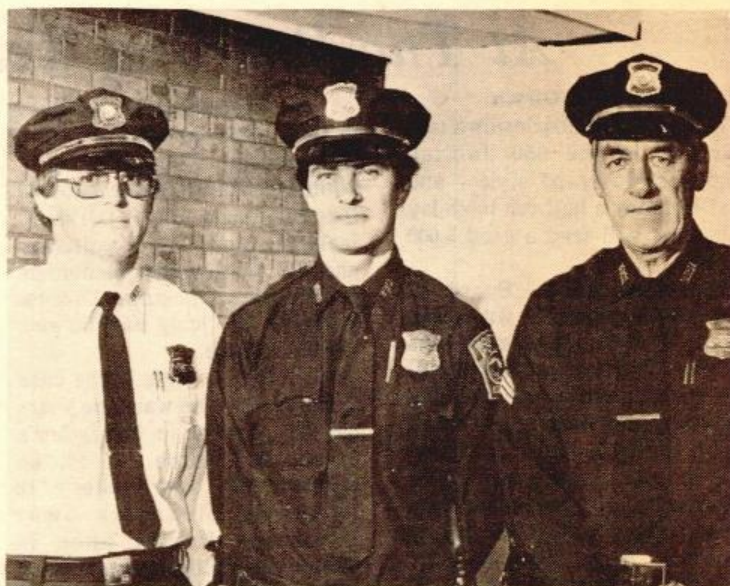

The opening of "A Salute to the Tall Ships" exhibit will be part of a gala evening affair on May 29. A reception at the Museum will be followed by a dinner-dance at Anthony's Pier 4 Restaurant. The Museum together with the USS CONSTITUTION are getting ready with great enthusiasm for the series of events surrounding the arrival of the Tall Ships. Museum director, Peter Sterling, contemplates a most successful and memorable celebration.

"All events surrounding the arrival of the Tall Ships have been planned and perfected for months. This will be the grandest celebration in Boston for 1980 and I am proud that the USS Constitution Museum has been able to contribute to the event."

Daily hours at the Museum are: Sunday - Saturday 9 a.m.-5 p.m.; beginning May 26 the hours are 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Admission is: Adults - $1.25, youths (6-16) - .25, Seniors - .50, student groups - .25, and members free.

On Sunday, May 18, Class Marshalls, Stephen A. LoPresti, and Frank J. Chiara led the 156

Mopeds And The Law

"It is estimated that for every 100 mopeds in use, there will be as many as four of them involved in an accident. I can't speak too strongly about the hazards involved with these motorized bicycles," said Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin.

The Registrar said there are now some 30,000 mopeds registered in Massachusetts. "My concern is primarily with two groups of people. Those who think a moped is a motorcycle and try to drive them accordingly, and those who have never driven them and while on vacation, rent one and without any prior experience, drive down a road they have never seen."

"The state's helmet law exempts the moped operator, and this situation also contributes to the hazards," McLaughlin said.

By definition, a moped is a pedal bicycle which has a helper motor rated no more than 1.5 brake horsepower, a cylinder capacity not exceeding 50 cubic centimeters, an automatic transmission and which is capable of maximum speed of no more than 25 miles an hour.

"Operators of mopeds must be at least 16 years old and must have a valid driver's license or learner's permit. To be operated, mopeds must have a sticker issued by the Registry, for a fee of $3, fixed to the rear fender," McLaughlin said.

"Traffic laws for motor vehicles apply to the moped operator, including the hand signal laws. Mopeds may be driven on all public ways except on limited access highways. They may be driven on bicycle lanes adjacent to the street, but must not be driven on off-street recreational bicycle paths," he said.

Registrar McLaughlin cited a recently released study done by the Highway Safety Research Center at the University of North Carolina, which predicts that by 1984 some 1,200 moped drivers will be killed each year.

The predicted toll is based on a sharp increase in sales, with mopeds going from 500,000 to 2.5 million by 1984. This report also states that around 11 per cent of all moped accidents result in serious injury.

"And head injuries account for between 35 and 55 per cent of all moped injuries, according to the report," the Registrar said. "Therefore I encourage anyone owning or renting a moped to obtain a helmet."

CASHIER FOR SELF-SERVICE STATION CHARLESTOWN

What we need:

An absolutely dependable man or woman to punch a computerized cash register, take in money and credit cards through a little window, and give back the right change.

What you need:

The eye of an eagle, the speed of a magician, and the patience of Job. At times there may be a dozen cars at once pulling in and out of our self-serve islands. And it's you who has to remember that the guy in the red sweater belongs to the blue Chevy at pump #3, and it was he who handed you the $20 bill, and not the credit card (which came from the blue sweater in the red Datsun). You'll work in a neat, comfortable area with a glass window to protect you from unpleasant weather—and, once in a great while, unpleasant customers. You can be young, retired, full-time, part-time, moonlighter... just as long as you're honest, accurate and reliable. Some experience handling cash would be helpful; but if you can convince us you're right for the job, we'll train you from scratch.

What you get:

Good pay, including paid vacations, a work schedule we'll try to match up with your schedule, and the security of working for New England's largest independent oil company. (Full-time cashiers also get free Master Medical and paid holidays.)

Must Adopt True Spirit Of Unity

I was fortunate to attend a meeting in Saint Catherine's Parish Hall, last Sunday evening, May 18th. The purpose of this gathering was an attempt to find some solution, if any, to the growing numbers of our children and young adults who are into the drug scene.

What really impressed me was the total honesty of the people who attended this meeting. As one woman, who does not come from Saint Catherine's Parish, or the project area, so skillfully stated, "we must become aware that this evil has infested our whole town. It's the kid next door, up the street, our grandchildren, our own children." Like it or not, it has, or will, touch each of us in some way. As I listened I could not help but feel angry.

Why should our children have to cope with the most obscene of temptations? How can they be expected to deal with this at such a crucial time in their lives, a time which is so very difficult to say the least. They haven't even had time to form a right set of values before they are exposed to drugs, readily made available to them. Many of them have submitted, committing crimes of violence and self destruction.

Must we believe, that they are totally to blame? Do they really manufacture all their own drugs?

Thank You

The Senior Citizens at the Kent Nutrition Site would like to thank the children, teachers, and aides at the Kent School for the wonderful show they put on for us on Wednesday morning, April 30th. It was a beautiful thought to ask the Seniors. They enjoyed it immensely.

Thank You

To my family and my wonderful friends, who made my Seventy-fifth Birthday a "Night to Remember". To express the very warmest "Thank You to All".

Friendship is indeed a priceless gift.

Sincerely,
Mary L. Gillen

This has to be a very lucrative business. Who is benefitting from the misery of parents, children, the elderly?

We must adopt a true spirit of unity that emerged so clearly at that meeting in Saint Catherine's Hall. We must admit, first of all, that drugs are not just the problem of the families who live in the project. Drugs are down in the valley, up on the hill, and down in the neck — all over the town.

Maybe we can make a dent in this pollution surrounding us. At least let us be heard. Let it be known that we are the victims and not the perpetrators. Why should we suffer the extreme penalty — the broken lives of our children?

Peggy Doherty

A Thank You

A sincere thank you to Mr. Robert Murphy, Principal of Charlestown High. Mr. Ralph Berkowitz Coordinator, and Mr. Mark Doufman, Restaurant Manager for inviting a small group of our senior citizens to attend the Rock Concert put on by the Air Force Band from Peace Air Force Base recently and for a tour of some of the classes. The band was great (a little loud) but we enjoyed it!

Thanks again,

To Talk Of Many Things

by Sal Giarratani

As a city kid I grew up playing softball and baseball wherever and whenever possible. Sometimes my friends, my brother and I played in empty parking lots and would make bricks, cardboard boxes and spare gloves the bases. Most of the time we played on hardtop but always appreciated the real thing: playing on real softball or baseball playing fields.

You're probably wondering what in the world any of this has to do with my column this week? Well, I brought all this up because "To Talk of Many Things" has been contacted by more than a few parents as well as one Little League coach in regards to conditions at the two fields used by the Charlestown Little League. The "majors" play over at the Neck near Sullivan Square while the "minors" use the Oiley down near the Navy Yard.

I have to be honest, all this was news to me, so I contacted Dennis Burke who coaches a "minors" team. Dennis tells me some concern has been expressed about the upkeep at both playing locations and questions have arisen concerning whether or not there exist enough staffing to properly maintain the fields.

Bad News Bearers?

Because of this concern, Dennis has promised that the Republican Ward Committee is going to be taking a hard look into this issue and I would like to say that this writer will be keeping Townies posted as to further developments because the kids have a right to play baseball on the best maintained fields possible!

Kudos

This column congratulates Patty Dunbar from School Street who recently graduated from Girls' Catholic High School in Malden and was named Queen of the Senior Prom. She plans to attend Bunker Hill Community College in the fall. Patty is the daughter of Jack and Rita (Alves) Dunbar.

Good Luck, Patty!

Boys' Club News

by Charlie McGonagle

He's our oldest active member, Buff McGoff is, but still he gets here most every day. Course he ain't at all what he used to be, but that's about what's expected when a guy has blown out ninety-eight candles at his last Birthday Party. Was a time when he'd bounce up and down the Basketball Court, slippin' and a sliddin' all the while, guess he never did have a good pair of sneakers.

Thing I admire most about Old Buff is he never worked a single day in his life. His needs are really pretty simple. He never drank or smoked, and if he ever used a cuss word, I ain't heard it. His big weakness is Bubble Gum. loves the stuff. I don't see how he's lived so long. He doesn't have any money, least if he does, he never carries it with him, and his old fur coat...Winter, Summer, Spring, or Fall, I ain't never seen him without it. Sometimes, on a hot summer's day, I feel real bad for Old Buff wearing that danged fur coat, especially these last few years.

But getting back to his Bubble Gum habit, it's the darndest thing I ever seen. I guess somewhere, way back when he was a younger feller, he decided to take up chewin' as his only vice. Maybe because he didn't work, and never carried even a nickle in that old fur coat, he decided on chewin' as opposed to, say, drinkin' or smokin'. The way Old Buff's got it figured is really pretty simple. You can always get a free hunk of Bubble Gum by just walkin' into a restaurant and lookin' under any table or chair. Never had to look passed a second one, he claims.

"And if worse comes to worse", he says "You can always find a good wad on the floor of any public buildin'. Fact o' the matter is, the public buildings give you more variety, as far as flavors go, than any place else. Sure, you've gotta put up with a little dirt and some second hand chewin', but my old Daddy always said ya hadda eat a peck a dirt before ya died, and even at my age, I don't think I'm too far into my second cup yet. Still got a long way ta go." Old Buff says.

Funny thing about Old Buff is how he chews, not so much what he chews. First off he gives the gum a good workout with his teeth, which, by the way, ain't store boughts. Every one of them's his very own. After he gets it all softened up, he takes it outta his mouth, lays it between his hands, and starts a lickin'. Its like there's nobody else around when he's doin' this. Nothin' matters to him but his Bubble Gum. One bad point, though, as far as this method of chewin' is concerned, is that Old Buff got these here dried up wads of old Bubble Gum stuck all over his fur coat. Don't seem to bother him though.

Another habit Old Buff used to have when he was a bit younger, was testin' his runnin' speed against cars. He'd wait for a car to come up the street, and from a dead stop, he'd sprint along side for just as long as he could. His biggest problem here was runnin' into parked cars. Ya see, he'd always look at the car he was chasin' as he ran, never looked straight ahead. Coupla times there the McGoff's thought they lost him, but Old Buff, he always bounced back.

With the added years, he's cut back on this habit quite a bit, but every once in a while, when his thoughts bring him back to better days, he gives it a whirl.

Yeah, Buff McGoff, Tommy McGoff's dog is getting old, fourteen years on the human calendar, which makes ninety-eight on the dog chart, but he's still quite a guy.
