

Everything You to Know About Feeding Your Cat

When you bring a cat home, you need to know a few basic things to take the best care of it. You can go with your instinct since you love your cat and may be able to guess its needs. However, it is better to be equipped with the knowledge of a few do's and don'ts to make sure that you do not feed her more or less than its needs.

If you get your furry friend from a cat shop in Singapore, you will be able to get information about how to take care of your cat easily. Since good food and regular exercise are important for the health of your feline companion, besides your love and attention, you need to ensure that you pay attention to what and how often you feed your cat. Here are some of the important things you need to know about feeding your cat:

- Most cats prefer to have their meals early in the morning and evening. This is the time when many species of cats, think tiger and lions, hunt so this is the perfect meal time for them. You have to pay special attention to the portion size and only feed it as much as it needs depending on its age, size, and breed. Overfeeding can be bad for the health of your feline friend. It is best if you follow a strict schedule to feed your cat occasionally giving it treats for good behavior.
- Many cat owners wonder what to feed their cats since there are so many options right from dry food, wet food, milk, treats, etc. to choose from. As a responsible cat owner, you must check with a veterinary nutritionist about the exact nutritional needs of your cat and then choose to feed it a good mix of wet food, dry food, milk, and occasional treats. It is easy to find cat food in Singapore. The packaging will contain information about the ingredients as well as the serving size per meal.
- There are a few people who feed their cats everything they eat. This is not the right approach considering the different dietary needs of cats and those of humans. Since cats are small, portion control will be a problem if the owner will feed the cat every time he eats. And the food may be too heavy for a cat's digestive system. It is best to stick to food that is meant to meet the daily dietary needs of the cat.
- If you are a vegetarian, it is still essential that you feed meat to your cat since it has its own needs when it comes to nutrition. Vegetarian food will not be able to provide the necessary protein, fats, and other nutrients that your cat needs to stay healthy. If you plan to feed it home cooked meat also, make sure to consult with a veterinary nutritionist to help you with portion control and the right cooking method.

Most people worry about where to buy cats in Singapore as compared to those that mull about where to find cat food. This is because many stores now stock cat food from reputed brands. You can easily find the right one based on the age, size, and breed of your beloved pet. Make sure to shower your feline friend with love and attention to see it thrive in your home.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

John Alex writes an interesting articles and blogs on pets and help people in making the right choices for purchasing cats and kittens. He recommends CatSmart as the best name to trust for cats and cat products in Singapore.