

Tuesday Morning Submit: Panda Skeptics Version

Glad Tuesday morning, everyone. By now, I'm sure most of you recognize the big information of the week: Blizzard's registered Mists of Pandaria as a trademark related to computer video games. Could this be the title of our next expansion? Can all of us expect to be rolling monks or deciding whether to make our new panda on the Alliance or Horde facet inside the following year or two?

It's tough to say for certain. Faked leaks apart, I am on a wait and see strategy. As it is, I do not think this ensures anything. It could possibly be for one thing fully completely different, or it might be a "just in case" factor. I've seen sufficient trademarked Harry Potter titles that by no means noticed the sunshine of day not to be wary. Then again, it might just be my own bias creeping in. Extreme Craft am nonetheless hoping for an enlargement that's pure Alliance vs. Horde. However hey, if nothing else, at the least we bought that sweet panda sketch from Anne.

So we definitely have extra Mists of Pandaria speculation than you can shake a stick at, however there's loads of other news to peruse as effectively, such as the debut of patch 4.2.0a. Upkeep right this moment will be the standard 5 a.m. to eleven a.m. PDT, so you should have time to browse. Verify all of it out after the break.
