So, today's been a bit rough! Apparently I'm super crappy at keeping track of pills! I don't have any of my T-Blockers for today and it's actually making me kind of anxious? ☐ just glad I can pick up more tomorrow!! (Not that I'm having a bad day, just an anxious one!)

haven't done a comparison in a while. 5 months on T vs. 11 months on T. it's crazy to see the changes looking back especially because sometimes it feels like they aren't happening fast enough. here's to patience, thick eyebrows, and my 10 facial hairs.

Oh hiiii! It's been a minute. It feels like I've been in a time warp the last 16 days since Shiloh's arrival. It feels like yesterday and a lifetime ago all at once. Surprisingly the last couple of weeks have been more manageable than I expected. I know that parenting will be a continuous learning curve and that by the time I figure out the solution to one hiccup we will probably be on to the next but I want to take a minute to celebrate the win of getting through the first couple of weeks without the exhaustion and overwhelm I anticipated. But if I can give any advice to new and expecting moms

HGH Nordex(Somatropin) 50IU | Russian . that's what hgh does guys. makes you hold water. all the brands do it to a slightly different degree but its more so based on user response. some people say they go flat on some brands where as other people hold a shit ton of water.
