

First, We'll Start with the Basics

We love summer. It's a time of sunshine, fun activities, and lazy afternoons at the poolside or on the beach. There's no doubt that this year's plans may be a little different, so today we're bringing the outdoors inside to create fabulous and funky pools for your Minecraft world.

We want to make these pools more than just a pool. Because why settle with simple construction when you could be the Picasso of pools? Don't worry we'll get you diving into the depths of these stunning creations in the blink of an eye!

We'll begin with the basics. You'll need to make a pool. down with destruction Here are some helpful tips for those who haven't created one before or want to refresh your memory.

- Gather all your materials. It doesn't matter which materials you choose to use or what shape you create for your pool. All you need is the buckets you will fill with water.
- Use blocks to draw your outline.
- Fill in the outline of your pool by digging the inside. Two blocks should suffice. Fill the base with basic materials. Or , skip ahead to see how you can make a larger impact with your new structure. Fill the pool with water buckets or watch your pool fill up with water while your friend does all the work.

Gather more friends to cook a meal or an outdoor buffet and then you can stay afloat in praises and compliments!

Let's look at ways to make your pool more stylish and also add some art! Now that you are familiar with the basic concepts, you can build a new pool , or replace the pool's bottom with new art. You've probably already picked your top choices from the countless blocks we've shown through Build With It over the past few months. Start with something simple for your first pool. The best place to start would be to take some of your preferred colors, locate materials that match and place them in the bottom of your pool. You can also build your pools in various unusual shapes. You could even try the fruit-shaped pool, such as the one in our picture!
