

Verdict Based on Opening Posts

In terms of opening posts Abhi hasn't put in anywhere near as much effort as Scoobless. Abhi has all of his points proven and Scoobless may have some points that are slightly sketchy but overall Scoobless has provided a huge chunk of information already in one blow which puts him in poll position for me. If we were to base a judgement on opening posts Scoobless would win in a landslide based on how much detail he has put into his opening post.

Scoobless wins purely for the amount of meat there is in his post. If the posts were both the same size then Abhi would probably win due to him having no inconsistencies in his posts.

The only point that makes a difference between either party is that for Scoobless Jay Garrick can't instantly reach Light Speed. Whereas Starhawk can but it is true that Jay Garrick could steal his speed and is most likely going to be able to easily outreact Starhawk if it came down to it. Which is where Scoobless challenged Abhi to find reaction feats. So speed is essentially a wash. But Jay Garrick could perhaps eventually overcome Abhi's amalgam.

One other point that could be added is that Scoobless may or may not have wanted to cloak Abhi's amalgam at the beginning of the battle and it would be illegal if he wanted to do so. But we can't be 100% sure if this was the case yet, Scoobless also brings up the point about Abhi's shielding perhaps not working as well.

So overall Scoobless edges it out this time but not completely. He's in the lead as of now but not by a lot.