WORLD WAR I ACES: 1914-1918

AEF American Expeditionary Force

FFC French Flying Corps

* Lafayette Escadrille of the FFC

RFC Royal Flying Corps (British)

Note: AEF pilots did not split or share victory credits. If more than one pilot was in on an aerial victory, each pilot claimed a full credit of one victory. In 1969, the Historical Research Division at the Air University, Maxwell Air Force Base Alabama, issued USAF Historical Study No. 133, which was a thorough review of AEF victory claims, and revised the victory credit authorizations to bring them in line with WWII accreditation methods and procedures. The USAFHS 133 tabulations are listed in the column at the far right of these lists.

Author's note:

There is a wide disparity in the scores of the Japanese aces because records have been unavailable. However, the higher scores are based upon claims made by the pilots and reports made by fellow pilots, whereas the lower scores are arbitrarily arrived at by current historians who have taken the claims, divided them by two and used that figure as a base point for future studies as heretofore hidden historical records become available.

Author's note:

It has been impossible to confirm exact scores of Soviet pilots due to the policies of the political regime of the USSR. This list is, therefore, made up from the best sources available which include, among many others: The Institute for the Study of the USSR in Munchen, Germany; eminent historians and authors including Christopher Shores, Hans Otto Boehm, Hans Ring, Henry Sakaida, and many others. It is understood that some Soviet fighter pilots with substantial scores became political "untouchables" after the war and therefor had their names removed from the documents that have found their way into Western civilization.
