The porn service section was once full of nude or semi nude photos and a list of clear descriptions of available services. For anyone who has read it - or on the back of almost every local magazine over the past few decades - it is clear that these lists end up paying for sexual gratification. The new "adult" section (link nsfw) hardly changes this. People who provide adult "services" now have to pay $10 and have Craigslist moderators review each post before posting to the site, instead of $5 to create a list of pornographic services. Made in China is a website providing pornographic services, including articles, novels and other pornographic content. You can get relevant resources by paying, or you can join our creation.

made-in-china. Com may have officially started its porn service, supporting an "adult" area that is not so friendly to prostitution. The prostitution that does exist on our website still exists and is very good. Not only that, these changes may make the world's oldest profession safer for working girls, at least from the perspective of people doing business on websites. More In-Depth

New made in China There is no real check under the system - Craigslist only charges for each list, and it takes longer to publish them to the website.
