

Minecraft To Get Portals Between Servers, Finally

Minecraft maestro Markus Persson just lately up to date his blog with a progress report on his new studio, Mojang Specifications, and information in regards to the upcoming Halloween replace for the game. He notes that Mojang has discovered a constructing and now contains six employees: three programmers, a pixel artist, a CEO and a business developer.

As for the Halloween update, Persson says it can embody six new block sorts, 5 of which have "unique talents." There will even be a brand new monster, "a brand new dimension" and portals. Persson defined later in a tweet that these portals will ultimately be able to hyperlink between different Minecraft servers, although this functionality won't be applied anytime soon.

So, can monsters use portals? If so, Minecraft server list construct a transdimensional monster funnel leading immediately inside of another player's meticulously crafted fortress. So, feel free to invite us to a sport and go away us alone within the back room for a couple of minutes ... okay?