Bunker Hill Day Parade Committee Seeks Community Support

The Charlestown Veterans/Bunker Hill Day Commemorative Committee is seeking the support of the residents of Charlestown for the 1988 Bunker Hill Day Celebration. It is hoped that the events will serve as a significant and meaningful tribute to our patriot forefathers on this, the 213th anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill.

The Bunker Hill Day Parade, the highlight of the celebration, will be held on Sunday, June 19, commencing at 12:30 p.m. from the Hayes Square area of town. This should be one of the largest and most outstanding parades in the Greater Boston area.

Some of the top musical units already committed to the parade include: The Greater Kensington String Band of Philadelphia, winner of the First Prize in the 1988 New Year's Day Mummings Parade in Philadelphia; Dot Slamin Hill's Waltham Post 156, American Legion Band; The Garfield Cadets Junior Drum Corps of Garfield, New Jersey, current Drum Corps International World Cham-

Coyle Presents New Master Plan For Navy Yard To Community

by Kathy Giordano

After 14 months of dialogue with the Charlestown Neighborhood Council that included 22 meetings, 11 of which addressed only issues pertaining to the Charlestown Navy Yard, Boston Redevelopment Authority (BRA) Director Stephen Coyle came to the community last Tuesday evening to present the Authority's Master Plan for the Yard.

In the upper hall of the Knight of Columbus, a crowd of residents, Council members, city and state officials, representatives of city-wide organizations interested in the development of the waterfront, listened intently to Coyle's description of the future development plans that would include housing over 4,000 new residents and employing 8,000 workers when the project was completed in 1995.

According to Coyle, the object of the Authority was to establish a plan that did not create additional traffic problems in City Square or on the neighboring streets in Charlestown, but offered additional housing opportunities, generated jobs and tendered more open space within the 100 acres that front the Charlestown waterfront. Included in the

May 18 Is "Charlestown Loves A Healthy Heart Day"

Can you answer the following questions:

- What is your cholesterol?
- What is your blood pressure?
- What is your blood sugar?
- How much do you weigh?

Also, think about these questions:

- Do you smoke?
- If you smoke, how many cigarettes do you smoke a day?
- How often do you exercise?

The answers to these questions will give you a profile of your cardiovascular health. If you do not know the answers to these questions, you can find out at "Charlestown Loves a Healthy Heart Day" on Wednesday, May 18 at Johnnie's Foodmaster in the Bunker Hill Mall, sponsored by the Community Advisory Board on Cardiac Health Enhancement of the MGH-Bunker Hill Health Center and Johnnie's.

Healthy Heart Day will enable Charlestown residents to learn of their risks of developing cardiac disease. Free blood cholesterol, blood sugar, blood pressure, height and weight screenings will be provided and you will be asked to complete a questionnaire regarding stress, exercise and smoking habits. All the attained information will be fed into a computer to determine your comprehensive cardiac risk profile. Staff members from the Bunker Hill Health Center will be available to counsel you on how to lower your risk factors, if necessary.

Cooking demonstrations and displays on exercise, stress, nutrition and smoking will be available throughout the store.

The Charlestown Lion's Eyemobile will also be available at the Mall for free screening for glaucoma and visual acuity.

Help make Charlestown a healthier community by coming to "Healthy Heart Day" at Johnnie's Foodmaster at the Bunker Hill Mall on May 18, between 10 a.m. and 9 p.m.

Concerns On Public Transportation And Opposition To Proposed MBTA Garage Voiced

by Kathy Giordano

"The MBTA doesn't realize we're here. They think this is an empty room!" stated a frustrated Tony Costa, proprietor of a fast food stand located next to the USS Constitution in the Charlestown Navy Yard. Costa was vocalizing the concerns of many who were in attendance at last Thursday evening's meeting of the Neighborhood Council's Planning and Zoning Committee at which time representatives from the MBTA were present to discuss possible bus service to the Navy Yard.

Costa, who, with his family has operated a stand for over 44 years at the Navy Yard, explained to the MBTA the frustration that tourists have trying to get back to downtown from the Navy Yard after visiting the world famous attraction. "I'm surprised that the National Park Service or the Boston Redevelopment Authority (BRA) hasn't done something" about this situation. "We have to focus on the problem now, not five years from now. We need a bus line from downtown and back. Form a committee here tonight to at least get a shuttle bus here," he stated.

Although Costa's remarks focused on the difficulty of tourists receiving appropriate public transportation, residents of the Navy Yard expressed their strong desire to have a scheduled bus service that would allow them, especially the elderly tenants who live in the Anchorage Apartments, easier access to both Sullivan and Haymarket Squares and to other parts of Charlestown. One woman explained the difficulties of the elderly who have to carry heavy grocery bundles from the bus stop on Lowney Way to their building on Ninth Street. "We have to stop and rest several times before reaching our building," she stated.

Ann Herzenberg, MBTA service planning manager, stated the difficulty that the Authority was having in adding additional service was due to new federal guidelines set down by the Reagan administration. These guidelines require the MBTA to encourage private carriers to provide service to private industry rather than to supply public transportation. There are currently five such shuttles operating in the Navy Yard which service the BRA, MGH, MWRA, The Raymond Group and the National Park Service. However, these shuttles are not available to the general public, thus the residents of the Yard are left without any public transportation.

Under consideration was the diverting of the 93 bus (Bunker Hill) into the Navy Yard and subsidizing a form of public service that would accommodate the tenants. Diverting bus 93 was tried a few months ago, but was dropped. Herzenberg confessed that providing an express bus service into the Navy Yard is probably four to five years off. However, she stated that they are in the process of looking into providing a shuttle service from either Sullivan Square or the Community College station, perhaps even one originating at North Station.

The residents emphasized their disappointment with the MBTA not having a solution to their needs, a point they had hoped would be presented to them at the meeting. They expressed their need for a public transportation scheme that would include the needs of the residents of the Navy Yard and the million tourists that the National Park attracts each year. When told of the experiment with the boat shuttle from Pier 4 to Long Wharf, the residents stated that this was not a service that would be beneficial to their needs.

WHEN THE LIGHT FIXTURES DON'T CONVEY

Before you list your home for sale, take a look around. Are there some items you will want to take with you? There may be a dining room chandelier that's been in your family for three generations, a ceiling fan in the master bedroom, or bookcases in the den that look built-in, but aren't.

Normally, all fixtures are conveyed to the new owners when a house is sold. This includes anything that is attached to walls or ceilings and, in some areas, all major appliances that are installed in the house. If you have fixtures that you don't want to convey, tell your agent what you want excluded from the agreement at the time you list your property for sale. It's best to remove any light fixtures or ceiling fans you plan to take with you and replace them before the property is shown to prospective buyers. Other non-conveying items should be listed on the fact sheet or Multiple Listing Service description to ensure they will not become an issue when a buyer makes an offer.

As you are most likely aware, due to the fiscal constraints imposed on the City of Boston under Proposition 2½, the funds available from the City to underwrite parades are very limited. Thus, financial assistance must once again be sought from the community — from you, the residents, local business persons and community organizations, in order to make this 213th commemoration of the Battle of Bunker Hill a success.

The fund raising for the parade and the commemorative celebration is being carried out by a small but dedicated group of residents. These people are giving many hours of their time to make this a truly memorable celebration for the community and they need the support of every resident, whether he or she be a life-long "Townie" or a newer resident of the town.

Monies must be raised in order to pay the fee of each band, drum corps, color guard or other unit that takes part in the parade. Units charge from $800 to $1,500 to participate in the parade if they are from Massachusetts and much more for those units that are being brought in from distant states — none of them come for free.

There are several ways you, the resident, local business person or community organization can help:

1. Send in a donation to the Parade Committee using the coupon on the bottom of page four. Once again this year, the Monument will be featured weekly in the Patriot so the community can see the results of the fund raising efforts. Contributions of $25 or more will be acknowledged under the monument.

2. Drop your change (or more if possible) in the canisters that are located in the local stores.

3. Buy a 1988 Bunker Hill Day Parade Booster for a minimum donation of $1.00.

4. Chance books will also be available shortly with the prize to be announced in a future edition by the Chief Marshal.

Organizations or businesses that are interested in sponsoring a unit for the parade should contact the Parade General Chairman, James W. Conway, at 241-9511 or evenings at 242-6187.

The Chief Marshal of the June 19th Bunker Hill Day Parade is Richard P. Charbonnier, a World War II United States Navy veteran and Past Commander of the David M. Cleary Chapter 109, Disabled American Veterans.

Both Chief Marshal Charbonnier and the Parade Committee welcome the assistance of anyone interested in helping to make this community celebration a success. Help is needed on the various fund raising committees as well as in the organization of the parade and the commemorative exercises.

Life Behind The Wall

by Ronan FitzPatrick

Still and possibly forever, the rage of residents is the illegal parking at the south end of Ninth Street. Oblivious to postings and basic traffic safety patterns, violators continue to create an unacceptable situation at the rotary. Without vehicle congestion the rotary allows just an adequate passage — public safety vehicles need this area free of parking burdens to service the surrounding buildings. Once again, Transportation Commissioner Richard Dimino has been apprised of the potential hazard and responded with increased enforcement. Ticketing of the vehicles is the ticket that will hopefully return the traffic flow to normalcy.

Winter garments had not been retired as of May 3 for Shipways resident Bobbi Bishop. Exiting the garage at a rapid pace, Bobbi could not wait to arrive at her warm abode. A representative with Codman Management, Bobbi oversaw the closings of the bulk of the Shipway condominiums. Involved with other projects, Bobbi enjoys the yard living, but not the recent unfriendly weather. In time, Bobbi will be able to discard her winter finery for her Palm Beach swimwear. Everything in time.

A most creative and practical idea was offered recently by Kathleen "Kay" Whelan for the area. Her proposal would be for a non-sectarian chapel to be situated in the available mass of undeveloped square footage. A religious presence allows for individual contemplation now, especially for the combative world in which we live. All seek divine intervention at some time and peace within our mere mortal existence. As the sector expands, all the community benefits should be made available, if not in whole at least in part. We would suggest forwarding Kay's request to the Boston Redevelopment Authority and The Raymond Group for a feasibility study. If daycare can be addressed, why not religious care for the populace. As an update, Kay has been a fixture and guiding light in the community all her life. Ranging from the annual Bunker Hill Day Civic Events, the Boys and Girls Club, to the Charlestown "Townie Santa" drive, her contributions sustain the community.

No stranger to the Boston Public Garden is the duck parade. Immortalized by Robert McCloskey, they have been a tradition as have been the Swan Boats. Their offspring have arrived north, claiming the Anchorage area as satellite headquarters. Through the generosity and compassion of "Red" Marino, they are being well nourished. A most unique diet of puffed wheat is fed to them by the affable "Red." A pallet of the Quaker Oats product will be forthcoming from the local distributor. Until arrival, give "Red" a helping hand or a donation. It is nice to witness a benevolent gesture.

A special thanks is due to a concerned mother through whose efforts a hazardous situation has been eliminated. Intercession by Noreen Ridings has resulted in the correction of the situation in which a plank obstructed the children's play area at Shipyard Park. Boston Redevelopment Authority's Harbor Park Maintenance Supervisor Paul Flebotte had his conscientious staff ameliorate the problem. It is indeed a pleasure to know that impacting issues can be resolved with quick dispatch. To Noreen and the Harbor Park organization, your genuine interest in the betterment of the community is appreciated.

"Mill Girl Follies" This Weekend At The Charlestown Working Theater

MILL GIRL FOLLIES, directed by Ron Jenkins, will be presented this weekend at the Charlestown Working Theater, 442 Bunker Hill Street, with performances on Friday, May 13 and Saturday, May 14 at 8:00 p.m. "Mill Girl Follies" tells of the mill workers' plight and how they organized the 1912 strike that brought their bosses to their knees. The play's setting is a union meeting where workers make satirical remarks about the greediness of the mill owners. The workers discuss issues and problems through the performance of vaudeville sketches as this was a way for the mill workers to forget their hunger and poverty. After performing at the Charlestown Working Theater, "Mill Girl Follies" travels to Italy to celebrate the 900th anniversary of the University of Bologna. It is the only American entry in this international theater festival. For ticket reservations, call 242-3534.

Commends Cappucci

To the editor,

I would like to publicly commend our representative on the Boston School Committee, namely, Robert Meany Cappucci for his solid stand against re-naming the Charlestown High School Athletic Field and for being on top of this issue when it is easier to be counted than to be heard.

How quickly people can forget the gallant firefighters who answered the last alarm at the Vendome Fire, and how their memory can be diminished in only a few short years by these same people who disregard the bravery of Charlestown's sons and the memory of these sons by we who remain.

Great job, Robert Meany Cappucci!

Voke Asks MBTA For Increased Public Transportation

James O'Leary, General Manager
Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority
10 Park Plaza
Boston, Massachusetts 02116

Dear General Manager O'Leary,

Mitigation is a relatively new word in the vocabulary of many in Charlestown. With the recent onslaught of public improvement and development projects in Charlestown, however, local residents have heard of many different efforts designed to mitigate the congestion and inconvenience we will suffer. Because of this, community activists have become increasingly more aware of ways to limit traffic, and the potential benefits associated with doing so.

Currently, a group of local advocates organized to examine planning and zoning issues in our community have suggested the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority offer increased bus service to and from the Charlestown Navy Yard as a means to lessen the overall congestion while promoting the public good. This request stems from our strong belief that increased Navy Yard development, coupled with the Department of Public Works' Central Artery Reconstruction Project, the Massachusetts Port Authority's ongoing container operation at Moran Terminal, and the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority's proposed Charlestown Transfer Facility, could present any number of transportation problems for local residents and daily commuters.

I can assure you that the community and its representatives take the problems of increased traffic seriously. As a result of my concerns for local health safety, I have been successful in negotiating with the DPW to provide a local ambulance presence in Charlestown during construction periods. In addition, again in conjunction with the DPW, I have secured the necessary funding to hire police officers, stationed at potential trouble spots, to assist in the free flow of traffic. The community and I have also examined such issues as helicopter, water shuttle and freight train service to and from Charlestown as means to cope with the ever present problems of traffic congestion.

Recent revelations concerning the present and future growth of the Charlestown Navy Yard dictate that swift action be taken to prevent the heavily anticipated commuter traffic problems that could plague our community. Much to the MBTA's credit, under your leadership, the train services offered by your authority have been bolstered to offer mitigation assistance. However, unless special attention is paid to the potential growth of the Navy Yard and its projections for nearly 10,000 jobs and countless more residents in the not too distant future, the access you have sought to provide could go for naught. Your help is needed.

The request for additional bus service to the Navy Yard appears to be very reasonable. In addition to getting cars off our local city streets, the bus service could provide a much desired public transportation link for the many who live or work in the Navy Yard. Some projections I have seen indicate that up to 45 percent of those working in the Navy Yard could be transported by means other than their own cars. Certainly, the advantages to provide this public transportation service must be recognized and pursued.

In light of the above, I ask you to consider the ramifications of the projected congestion throughout Charlestown and its potentially negative impact on Boston's transportation network. By doing so, I surely believe the Authority will positively address our pleas for this much needed additional service.

Very truly yours,
Richard A. Voke, Chairman,
House Committee on Ways and Means

My Thanks

I would like to take this opportunity to express my heartfelt appreciation to my family, friends and relatives for the numerous, beautiful flowers, stuffed animals, cards, prayers, and Masses which were extended to me during my recent surgery and hospitalization. May God bless you all.

Congregate Housing Proposals Sought For Old Municipal Building

by Lynn Peters

Despite some of the more controversial urban renewal projects going on around town, it's hardly disputable that something needs to come of the old Municipal Building. Sitting all but forgotten on the corner of Bunker Hill and Lexington Streets and vacant for nearly seven years since the last tenant's departure, the dilapidated 75-year-old building has become a prime target for graffiti and vandalism.

But its revamping won't bring more condos to Charlestown this time. Instead, Boston's Public Facilities Department publicly requested proposals the first of this month from developers interested in transforming the three-story eyesore into a congregate home for 18 to 24 elderly people.

Congregate housing is a relatively new concept, introduced in the 1970s and gaining popularity in the last five years. The elderly live in a group setting, having separate bedrooms and sharing common kitchens, living rooms and bathrooms. Designed to alleviate some of the loneliness and isolation of advancing age, congregate housing allows people to live independently and retain social relationships with their peers. Congregates usually attract people considered too independent for nursing homes but in need of limited help in daily living, or those dissatisfied with being alone all day while their adult

THE OLD MUNICIPAL BUILDING, 112 Bunker Hill Street, has had many uses over the years. Once the only place in town with showers complete with penny towels and soap, the building has a gym with a running track on the third floor, was used as a voting site for John F. Kennedy's run for Congress, a Little City Hall in the 70s and was home of the Girls Club and the Tiny Tots Program. Some of the better Charlestown tans were had on "Stoney Beach." Congregate Housing is now being planned for the site.

"This is not a nursing home," says Linda Lacey, a proponent of the congregate concept. Lacey, who was employed as an elderly outreach worker for Charlestown Community Schools before counseling for the city's JobStart, has been advocating congregate housing in Charlestown for two years. "The focus is on independence," Lacey says. "People can leave a congregate setting. They can get better, or married, or move out on their own if they want to."

The 1980 United States

census cites nearly 2,300 people over 60 years of age live in Charlestown out of a total 17,000 residents, accounting for 17 percent of the town and roughly 2.5 percent of Boston's population. To date, Lacey says 90 people can be identified as eligible for the proposed alternative housing. Placement procedures require applications and interviews as part of a screening process determining those in need of service. Aimed at the "frail" elderly, those over 70 years old not completely able to live without assistance or support, state-funded congregate housing programs address an increasing concern for subsidized continual care of the elderly earning less than $15,000 yearly.

Charlestown's congregate housing would be state-funded, providing the eligible needy elderly here with affordable rents based on roughly a third of their income. The Executive Office of Communities and Development (EOCD) would fund the renovation and oversee proper management after completion. As owner of the building, the Executive Office of Elder Affairs would coordinate local agencies in managing programs, and the Department of Public Welfare would help provide special services for individual needs. Typically, residents would be responsible for their own food, although hot lunch programs have been worked into other congregates.

Jean Moltenbrey, a housing analyst at Elder Affairs for three years and a congregate housing coordinator before that, stresses that congregate houses should positively integrate into the communities they come to. Each congregate, of the ap-

Over 2,000 View Charlestown Homes During Preservation Society House Tour

Over 2,000 people attended the Charlestown Preservation Society House Tour this past Saturday.

The House Tour began at the Old Charlestown High School on Monument Square and featured Charlestown homes with the opportunity to view renovations and the art of preserving buildings. The tour included Federal, Greek Revival and Victorian homes all from the Nineteenth Century.

Residents of Charlestown were joined by participants from the greater Boston area in viewing the 12 homes on the tour — the 11th such tour sponsored by the society since its creation in the late '60s. Charlestown resident and organizer of the House Tour, Barbara Hedges, said, "The tour was a tremendous success. People enjoyed seeing the historical and architectural aspects of the homes, especially on the inside." She added, "It was a great opportunity for people to gather ideas for their own home preservation projects."

Proceeds from the tour will be used in part to aid in the restoration of the "Old Kent School" which was damaged by fire this past year. The "Old Kent School" houses Headstart and Day Care Programs which ensures Charlestown pre-schoolers and their families educational, health and social services. Proceeds will also benefit the Maintenance Trust Fund for the "Beautification of Thompson Square," Charlestown's business hub.

City Receives $150,000 CANA Grant

In a May 3 meeting of the Boston City Council's Committee on the Environment and Public Works, Councillor Robert E. Travaglini, committee chairman, endorsed the approval of a $150,000 grant from the State Department of Public Works. The grant is to be used by the City's Transportation Department in connection with the Central Artery/North Area (CANA) project.

Councillor Travaglini endorsed the grant after Boston Transportation Department (BTD) Deputy Commissioner Rina Cutler presented the Environment and Public Works Committee with a detailed City/State Memorandum of Agreement with regard to the CANA project. Objectives include a parking analysis, circulation study, permitting and on-demand analysis, the projection of related impacts at locations remote from project limits, transportation access needs and public information.

BTD Commissioner Richard A. Dimino said, "This grant will help the City to minimize or avoid potential adverse impacts from the CANA Project. Councillor Travaglini's prompt consideration of this issue is appreciated as the BTD is eager to move ahead with our objectives for this project."

City and State officials have been working closely with the community representatives since the initial stages of the CANA Project. The participation of the North Area Task Force and the Charlestown Neighborhood Council is expected to continue through involvement in the CANA working committee, which is responsible for on-going planning efforts related to the CANA Project.

At its May 4 session, upon recommendation from Councillor Travaglini, and in accordance with Massachusetts General Laws (Chapter 44, Section 53A), the full City Council voted to authorize the City of Boston's expenditure of the State's $150,000 grant.

Thanks...

To all my family, good friends & co-workers for celebrating my big four-o in a "grand ole' hoe down way." Many laughs, good food and a great time had by all.

Much appreciated!

SPECDA — A Program In Prevention In The War Against Drugs

by Lynn Peters
Prevention may prove to be the best medicine in city wide attempts to crack down on substance abuse. The School Program to Educate and Control Drug Abuse (SPECDA), an addition to the Boston Against Drugs' umbrella program patterned after a New York City effort in 1983 to combat its drug wars, is in its second year educating youngsters before they get into trouble.

Representing a partnership between the schools and police department, specially trained officers in full uniform meet with sixth graders in neighborhood classrooms. For eight weeks police and children work together on how to resist drug use and feel good about it.

Officer Joseph E. Dasher has been delivering SPECDA's message since its inception. A native of Boston and a product of similar neighborhoods he visits, Dasher volunteered in 1986 for training in New York and was one of the eight officers chosen to teach the program. He has been going into the Saint Francis de Sales, Saint Catherine of Siena and Clarence R. Edwards schools having, what he believes to be, a positive effect on children.

"Rehabilitation and additional drug units are high-cost programs," Dasher said at the monthly Public Safety and Community Relations meeting on May 10.

"And they prove to be somewhat inefficient in dealing with the problem." Dasher said the program costs virtually only the officers' salaries, and the School Department picks up their end of the tab or passes it off to the parents, in what amounts to about $2 per child.

"We've found that 10 and 12 year olds are already debating drug use," Dasher said. "The kids are on the front line with this."

SPECDA's goal comes through a four-part approach to change attitudes and perceptions, increase student awareness of the effects and consequences of substance abuse, develop a rapport between children and police, and promote cooperation between the school system and the police department.

The program includes a get-acquainted week and seven following interactive lessons on self esteem, peer pressure, pharmacology, decision making, and consequences and alternatives. Children graduate with a certificate upon the completion of their participation.

SPECDA expanded this school year to include two more officers with more-inclusive preparatory programs for the fifth grade and follow-up programs for the seventh grade. By the end of the 1987 school year, 85 percent of all Boston public and private school sixth graders had completed the program. All of the sixth grade and 60 percent of the fifth grade in the city will have been reached by the close of the 1988 school year.

SPECDA appears to be successful, indicated by positive officer-student relationships and the children's pride in their involvement. But Dasher said hard evidence cannot be measured for a few more years.

In an attempt to address the concerns of the residents over the additional traffic problems that would have been generated from the total build-out plan which was presented to the community last year, the Director stated that the overall project had been scaled down to meet the requirements set forth by the Council, as closely as could be achieved. "All we have heard over the last year has been traffic, traffic, traffic," Coyle stated. The reduction in the number of office spaces and housing units should bring the level of service (LOS) at Gate Four to between C and D, compared to LOS of between E and F in the previous plan. Gate Five would remain at a LOS of A.

Coyle stated that discussions are underway between the BRA and the National Park Service to open Gate One for traffic in an attempt to bring an added reduction of traffic coming in and out of the Yard at the two existing gates. Conversations are also taking place with the MBTA to bring service into the Navy Yard for the residents and tourists that visit the area. He stated that the hope of the Authority is that by making the development of the Navy Yard more manageable, it would reduce the number of vehicles ending up on the neighboring streets of Charlestown.

"We are serious about building affordable housing units and they will be built," Coyle stated. An increase of 15 percent has been achieved in the total number of affordable units for low and moderate income families and individuals with this revised master plan. The addition of rental units at affordable prices and the opportunities for Charlestown residents to own their own homes in the Navy Yard pleased representatives from the affordable housing organization in Charlestown who were in the audience. Seventy percent of the total number of units will be allocated for Charlestown residents. Coyle indicated that it is possible that construction could begin on a number of these units this year.

The BRA estimates that Charlestown residents will fill 50 percent of the jobs generated by this development in the Yard. Plans indicate that a wide range of jobs will be offered, including office and research positions, hotel occupations and nursing home services. Although the new plan shows a reduction of 1,100 construction jobs and 1,400 permanent jobs, Coyle explained that the quality of life that would exist under the new plan and the management of traffic coming and going at the Yard would give a more appropriate scale of development in the area. "From listening to the concerns of the community, it is our belief that this strikes a balance," he stated.

Coyle is proposing a program that would take one-half percent of the sale price of market rate housing units in the Navy Yard and place that money into a fund that would benefit the affordable housing market in Charlestown by offering downpayments or setting up a program to provide technical advice on home ownership to prospective first time homebuyers. This would involve future housing in the Navy Yard and within Charlestown that would be offered at affordable prices.

The open space throughout the Navy Yard would include parks, walkways, sailing programs, public boating facilities, museums, as well as the planned Harborwalk.

A 250 room hotel at Yard's End would feature conference room facilities that would be used year round, not only by the commercial tenants of the Navy Yard, but by Greater Boston businesses and organizations. The hotel would offer a panoramic view of both the Navy Yard and the harbor from its top floor that would be a "tower" of approximately 155 feet in height.

According to the BRA, the overall Floor Area Ratio (FAR) of one will insure that this new development is appropriately scaled for the Navy Yard site. The volume of total development should not exceed the total land area of the Yard.

Remarks from the community covered a variety of concerns. Council members Jim Mansfield and Ken Stone, both members of the Planning and Zoning Committee that has been working tirelessly on Navy Yard issues, expressed hope that public transportation would be brought into the Yard.

Council member Bill Galvin applauded the placement of a nursing home in Charlestown, noting that he hoped that it would not become a luxury facility that would exclude Charlestown residents. Coyle stated that this nursing home would include a requirement in its disposition agreement that 25 percent of space be put aside for Charlestown residents, and that the home would most likely be a mix of income ranges to accommodate the needs of its patients.

Council member Tom Cunha and resident David Dow voiced their disappointment in the loss of job opportunities that the "re-

Concerns On Public Transportation And Opposition To Proposed MBTA Garage Voiced

(continued from page 3) chairperson of the Planning and Zoning Committee, stated her concern in not having a bus service that would accommodate the residents of Charlestown entering the Navy Yard for recreational use. She expressed her belief that by providing a public bus service that included the entire community of Charlestown would be beneficial to the residents of the Navy Yard as well as the residents "on the other side of the wall."

It was agreed that many more discussions would be needed before a solution to this problem is resolved. The Committee will work together with the MBTA and the residents to set up meetings in the near future to discuss the issue.

Also on the agenda was a future use of the parking lot on Rutherford Avenue, now being utilized by the Bunker Hill Community College (BHCC) for their students and faculty. It was learned that MBTA has plans to construct a four-story garage on the site for commuters that would include parking for the college on the ground level. Currently, the college supplies 700 parking spaces for their students.

According to BHCC Vice President Mon O'Shea, this accounts for only 15 percent of their students who would find it very difficult to use public transportation to get to the campus. He further stated that the college urges their students and employees to use the "T" rather than private transportation. The students who do use the parking lot are either handicapped or come from a great distance and use of public transportation would be a burden to them, O'Shea said.

Mel Stillman, Neighborhood Council member, stated that this was a battle already fought in Charlestown and the consensus then was not to build a garage on the spot fearing that this would generate more cars on Charlestown streets when the garage was full. He expressed his desire to leave the parking lot in the hands of the college rather than allowing the MBTA to build something there that the community doesn't want.

Consultants from Seelye, Stevenson, Value and Knecht, hired by the MBTA to design the garage for the site, stated that they wanted to inform the residents on what they have planned.

As the parcel has been designed, the garage would be built on the section of the land nearest the Gilmore Bridge. An access road would be constructed for Boston Sand and Gravel through the site and the remainder of the parcel could hold 360 cars for college use in the open space.

The team showed architectural designs that included a 50 foot structure with four levels of parking. The upper three levels would accommodate between 808 cars for commuters, while they would offer the college 268 spaces on the ground floor.

The combination of garage parking and spaces on the open lot would be a reduction of 100 spaces from what the college is using today.

Although the consultants told the audience that the Rutherford Avenue site is only under advisement by the MBTA, the audience voiced their disapproval of this kind of use for the site, suggesting the "T" look into the possibility of placing this type of structure on their land at Sullivan Square rather than bringing the traffic that the garage would generate into the center of Charlestown and overflowing onto already crowded streets.

O'Shea stated that the college received $392,000 in 1982 to resurface the lot, but could not receive permission from the BRA, who owns the site, to do the needed work. He further stated that the college possesses an agreement signed by the Mayor and the City Council giving the college the use of the site. He said that the lease between the college and the BRA has expired and voiced his disappointment with BRA Junior Planner David Armanetti, for not being "up front" with the BRA's plans for the lot at a meeting held one day before this Planning and Zoning meeting. "If the BRA has development plans . . . no one wants to tell us," he stated. "We'll see you in court!" he concluded.

It was realized that the issue was too hot to handle at one meeting and that the issues of public transportation to the Navy Yard and the future plans for the lot on Rutherford Avenue should be separated and discussed further at upcoming meetings. These meetings have not yet been scheduled, but with the emotions being as high as they were at the first of these open discussions, any future meetings are expected to be well attended.

The Planning and Zoning Committee will meet again on Thursday, May 19 at 6:30 p.m. at the BRA office in Building 34 on First Avenue in the Navy Yard. The topic of discussion has not yet been determined by the co-chairpersons. The Patriot will announce the agenda in next week's edition.

• Welcome, Welcome, Welcome . . . Word has it that as of this fall, St. Francis de Sales School will have a new principal. Father John J. Stagnaro will head the school. We wish him every success and happiness in his new position . . . AND, who are those two new faces at the Patriot, you ask. None other than Lynn Peters, who has taken on the duties of reporter, and Jeanne Davis, who now sits at the main desk to greet you. We are delighted that these two ladies are working with us.

• Don't Forget This Sunday . . . Come celebrate the 50th Jubilee of Sister Ann Rita, O.P. at a Mass and reception at St. Francis de Sales. Mass is at 2 p.m. with the reception to follow in Bishop Lawton Hall between 3 and 5 p.m. See you there!

• Also This Sunday . . . don't miss the City Square slide show at the Bunker Hill Museum, 43 Monument Square, starting at 7 p.m. Anyone who has already seen this presentation has enjoyed it immensely. Ken Stone of the North Area Task Force has put the show together and hopes that you'll bring your memories of the Square to his attention at the showing so that they can be documented. Come and bring a friend!

• Last Call . . . Tickets for Saint Mary's Harbor Cruise are almost gone. The event will take place on Friday evening, June 17th - so, if you've been procrastinating, don't put it off another day. Contact the Rectory at 242-4664 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m., Monday to Friday to get your ticket.

• Happy Anniversary . . . to David and Linda Flanagan who celebrated their third on May 11th. Have a great day, Anne and Eddie. Our warmest wishes go out to you both on this very special milestone in your life.

• Stay Tuned . . . this Saturday night to the "Our Times" program on Channel 7 starting at 7 p.m. Featured this week will be Tom McIntyre of the Bricklayers and Masons Non-Profit Housing who is building the affordable housing units in the Navy Yard. Also included in the section will be one of the families from Charlestown who "won" one of the units, the Santosuosso's of Prospect Street. The units are coming along and occupancy is expected in October. Don't forget to tune in!

• Speaking of Tom McIntyre . . . did you know that his 15-year-old son has become a celebrity? He is part of the "New Kids On The Block" musical group that has signed a contract with CBS records and they have also performed at the Appollo Theater in Harlem where they received a standing ovation. They will be seen in an upcoming TV special from the Appollo which will be filmed next week.

proximate 70 sites in Massachusetts, is different, uniquely serving the interests of its residents and community. The new Charlestown housing may offer a day care center for families who would otherwise leave an elder alone during the day. Rooms for a small number of people requiring 24-hour nursing supervision may also be included.

As small as 15 or as large as 40 units, existing and proposed state-funded sites across the state have generally been located outside Boston city limits. Private congregates serve a different group of people on higher income levels. Moltenbrey says that only one of the number of congregates in Boston is funded in the same manner Charlestown's home would be. Eight elderly share living space in two four-bedroom units in Hyde Park, and within the last six months, nine homeless and hard-to-place elders moved into St. Helena's in Boston's South End in a similar congregate program.

Advocates of congregate housing believe that not only does it work, but that it enriches people's lives as well.

"These are places where the elderly can achieve independence," says Frances Kehoe, a member of the Congregate Housing Board in Concord, where a school was renovated seven years ago into a 36-room house. "The quality of life has improved in some way for these people," Kehoe mentions the residents' own vegetable "victory garden," which she believes is an indication of successful group interaction. "They look out for each other," Kehoe says. "They're a part of each other."

The Public Facilities Department has advertised the building specifically to developers with experience in elderly congregate housing, a first for the agency. "There's a need for these services," Barry Berman, the department's project manager, says. "I'm excited about the project, in the sense that it's a new form of housing that can mesh with social service needs."

Berman, Moltenbrey and Lacey were involved in community meetings last October recommending congregate housing in Charlestown. The town seems to support the concept, according to the trio, although well-defined building, schematic and program plans are still a long way off. Success depends upon local agencies' help in providing client referral, homemaking, nutritional and medical services, and it appears there has been interest.

Berman says the old Municipal Building is structurally sound and conducive to the project. Proposals from interested developers are due June 10, and, thus begins the traditional process for redevelopment in Charlestown. The Public Facilities Department will have to choose an appropriate developer who will have to meet community concerns and zoning requirements, stretching an estimated completion date into sometime next year.

(continued from page 13) duce build" on the Master Plan creates. Coyle explained that trade-offs had to be made to bring the project to manageable level. He also stated that with all the development projects currently going on in Boston, he felt that construction jobs could be made up in other places. He also stated that the BRA used only union labor and that the "trades" have a stake in the Yard, noting the Bricklayers and other non-profits will work in the future buildup of the Navy Yard.

Coyle invited the audience to look at the shared vision of the Navy Yard, explaining that by creating a less dense area, it would become a better place to live, visit and work, thus creating a better quality of life overall.

It was noted by Neighborhood Council Chairman Dennis McLaughlin that every site in the new proposals must come before the Council before the developer can build. He stated that each proposal will be presented before an open meeting for the public to attend and voice their concerns. Coyle stated that "this was an open process and would continue to be an open process."

Coyle told the gathering that the new Master Plan "strikes a balance. We have listened to the comments from the community," he stated on more than one occasion. He said that he felt that traffic issues, the development of additional affordable housing units that now include both rental and ownership opportunities, the cry for additional open space, jobs for community people, height requirements and density, had all been addressed in the plan.

The process of determining whether the community agrees with the Director now begins. As each new proposal for development is presented before the Neighborhood Council, the community will have an opportunity to voice their concerns or approve the development proposal, as the whole picture of the future of the Navy Yard unveils itself.

CHARLESTOWN HEADSTART FIRE FUND

Fund raising events, along with generous contributions from individuals, organizations and businesses, have raised the total in the Fire Fund to almost $62,000.

The monies realized thus far represents only a portion of the total of $900,000 required to rebuild the Old Kent School in order to open the doors in the fall for the Headstart Program. Support is still desperately needed and donations in any amount are welcome — no contribution is too large or too small.

All donations will be publicly acknowledged.

Donations to the Charlestown Headstart Fire Fund have been received from:

Sorelle, Inc.

Ed and Donna Coleman

Employees and Customers of Jamason's Cafe

Donations, with checks made payable to the Charlestown Headstart Fire Fund, may be sent to: Jean E. Driscoll, Branch Manager, Bank of New England, 437 Rutherford Avenue, Charlestown, MA 02129.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, You who solve all problems, light all roads so that I can attain my goal. You who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and in all instances of my life. You are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things as You confirm once again that I never want to be separated from You even in spite of all material illusions. I wish to be with You in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine. (Say for three consecutive days - favor will be granted.) Prayer must be published.

A Rare Sight!

Balloon archways were the gateway through which children poured into the recent "A Boston Happening," an unforgettable event that gathered 700 inner city children from the Boys and Girls Clubs of Boston for the first time ever. It was an opportunity to "mingle with the stars" like Bill Costa and Amy Hart of Kiss 108, Boston athletes, and entertainers like Pee-Wee Herman and Spunky the Clown. Boston Against Drugs also participated. The chance to win the prize of the day — a trip to Disneyworld — was the icing on the cake!

The event's main purpose was to have these 6 to 13 year old children get together from all parts of the city to enjoy each other's company. By the end of the day, children sporting coats with home towns such as Charlestown, South Boston, Roxbury, and East Boston splashed across their backs were happily intermingled as they took part in the activities.

"A Boston Happening" was a grassroots effort organized by volunteers working in the Boys and Girls Clubs through the recommendation of Representative Joe Kennedy. The volunteers were members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormons), students at Harvard Business School and local young professionals.
