Northampton Has Final Slate of Candidates for November Election

By Linda Cicaira

Two men will compete in the November general election for the District 4 seat on the Northampton County Board of Supervisors.

L. Dixon Leatherbury, a farmer who is chairman of the county planning commission and husband of Commonwealth's Attorney Beverly P. Leatherbury, and David L. Kabler, a real estate broker, both of the Machipongo area, will compete for the post. Supervisor H. Spencer Murray, of Franktown, the longtime chairman who currently represents District 4, is not seeking re-election. Roberta Kellam, of Franktown, dropped out of the race.

District 5 Supervisor Robert Duer, Exmore's town manager, is also not seeking another four-year term. Former Supervisor Betsy Mapp, of the Jamesville area, is running unopposed for the seat.

The board of supervisors and the school board are on staggered terms so not all the members' terms will expire at the end of the year.

Beverly Leatherbury is also seeking re-election as commonwealth's attorney with no opponents. In addition to holding the top prosecutor's job, she serves as the county's attorney, which is not an elected position.

Sheriff David L. Doughty Jr., of the Cape Charles area; Commissioner of Revenue Charlene P. Gray, of the Machipongo area; and Treasurer Cynthia S. Bradford, of Exmore, are also seeking another four-year term without opposition.

A special election will be held in November to fill the unexpired term of J. Wesley Travis, who resigned from the Cheriton Town Council. Jason P. Van Marter is unopposed in his bid for that job.

Charlena Jones, who ran an unsuccessful write-in campaign during a previous election, is officially running for the at-large school board seat held by Nancy Proto. School board members Jo Ann P. Molera, of District 4, and William J. "Skip" Oakley, of District 5, are seeking re-election. Molera lives in Franktown and is the court's victim's advocate. Oakley, the school board chairman, lives in Exmore.

S. Kyle Sturgis and Robin L. Rich-Coates are running for the two seats on the Eastern Shore Soil and Water District Board of Directors. Rich-Coates an incumbents. Kyle Sturgis is a newcomer.

Randall won the majority of votes in Rue with 61.97% and Melfa with 51%.

In Northampton where Randall lives, the vote was closer. Lewis received 55.31% or 521 votes compared to Randall's 44.69% or 421 votes. Lewis received the majority of votes in 4 of 5 districts and the central absentee precinct. Randall won in District 3 with 63.28%. In District 2, it was 49.18% to 50.82%, a difference of three votes. There was a four-vote difference in District 5.

The senatorial district also includes areas of Mathews County, Norfolk City, and Virginia Beach City. Lewis took the majority of votes in those areas too.

Northampton Supervisors Approve Budget Without Tax Increase

By Stefanie Jackson

Northampton supervisors approved a balanced budget for fiscal year 2020 that will be funded without a tax hike, totaling approximately $42.5 million, not counting funding for the Northampton school division.

But Spencer Murray, chairman of the board of supervisors, gave fair warning that taxes will likely increase in an upcoming fiscal year.

When Northampton High School is repaired or rebuilt, “the county will have to borrow money, and we will have to service that debt, and I do not see our ability to do that in future years without some tax increase,” he said.

The budget was approved in a 4-1 vote, with Supervisor Robert Duer voting “no.”

One source of his disapproval was the inclusion of $665,000 of projected revenue in fines and forfeitures.

Last month, Duer criticized the sheriff’s department because it failed to reach its goal of collecting $760,000 in fines in FY 2019. Since the department missed its target, the amount of fines expected to be collected in FY 2020 was reduced by $95,000.

But Duer offered a different perspective at the June 11 meeting.

“The fines and forfeitures – I’m worried about that. I don’t think it’s fair to put that on the sheriff. I know I gave him a hard time last time, but it’s not necessarily him I’m giving a hard time to, it’s us for balancing our budget off numbers that I don’t think it’s fair for him to produce.”

In Duer’s estimation, collecting $540,000 in fines for one year is a more reasonable goal.

“That’s how you build morale – make goals that are attainable,” he said.

Murray agreed that any fines collected, such as speeding tickets issued by the sheriff’s department, should be considered “extra money,” not used to balance the budget.

Duer was also critical of the late decision to raise landfill tipping fees from $72 to $75 per ton.

“Out of courtesy to the towns, that should’ve been done in January,” before the towns wrote their budgets, said Duer, who is also Exmore’s town manager.

County Administrator Charlie Kola-kowski agreed to follow Duer’s suggestion in the future.

Murray said hopefully the $3 increase per ton “won’t blow the town budget.”

But that seemingly small increase can make a difference of 5% or 6% for a town’s budget “when 80% of your budget’s trash collection,” Duer said.

But the main reason Duer disapproved of the Northampton budget was the county’s plans to spend a lot on capital projects in FY 2020 without having a plan to put money back in the “piggy bank.”

Northampton will appropriate $1.4 million from its capital reserve fund in FY 2020 to pay for projects like replacing heating and air conditioning units at the sheriff’s office and department of social services and sealing the roof of the courthouse.

Neither is there a plan to start saving for the Northampton High School building project.

“I would’ve liked to have seen at least a penny go to that. It’s not much money, but it’s got to be done. We can’t keep kicking this can down the road,” Duer said.

“If we spend money like boys, we ought to ... man up and raise taxes,” he added.

He was complimentary of Sheriff David Doughty when Finance Director John Chandler relayed the sheriff’s request to spend more than $70,000 in payroll vacancy savings on two vehicles to be used by the sheriff’s department.

The $70,000 is state funding that will be lost if it’s not spent. Supervisors called it a “use it or lose it” situation.

If all the positions in the sheriff’s department were filled, taxpayers would have to foot the bill for the sheriff’s department’s vehicles, Duer pointed out.

“So he’s doing every citizen in the county a favor,” he said.

Accomack Ballot Set for November Local Election

By Linda Cicaira

Five contested races will be on the ballot in Accomack County in the November general election, including two matches for school board positions. It will be the first time voters there will get to choose school board members as those representatives were previously chosen by the school board selection commission, a panel appointed by the circuit court judge.

The deadline for candidates to qualify was Tuesday. If anyone else wants to take part, they will have to do so through write-in campaigns.

District 4 school board member Gary S. Reese, of Parksley, was appointed by the SBSC and qualified for the November race against school activist Connie C. Burford, of Bloxom, an advocate for an elected school board who worked to get the issue to voters.

Janet Martin-Turner, a former school board member, who was not reappointed to the board by the commission after she clashed with other school board members who didn't want her to speak publicly about issues, is seeking the District 7 seat held by George Waldenmaier, who was her predecessor. Martin-Turner also worked to get a referendum for an elected school board. Thomas E. "T.J." Johnson III, a former school administrator, is also asking for a chance at the District 7 seat. Both candidates live in the Accomack area.

School board member Audrey Furness, of District 2, will not seek election. Edward F. Taylor, of Assawoman, an active Kegotank Elementary School PTA member, wants that job.

Jesse W. Speidel, of Chincoteague's District 1; Camesha A. Handy, of the Parksley area in District 5; Paul C. Bull, of the Accomack area in District 6; and Ronnie E. Holden, of the Onancock area in District 8 were all appointed to the school board by the commission and are seeking election.

In District 9, Naudya Mapp, an appointed member, did not seek to become qualified. Malcolm "Pep" White, of Painter, is running unopposed for the seat.

School board Member Aaron Kane, of District 3, is not seeking election. Lisa C. Johnson, a Horntown minister, is running unopposed for that post.

An incumbent Accomack supervisor is being opposed in District 5. Supervisor Harrison W. "Harris" Phillips III is being challenged by James D. Rich. Both men live in the Bloxom area.

Longtime District 7 Supervisor Laura Belle Gordy is not seeking re-election. Miriam E. Riggs and Howard "Jackie" Phillips, both of Cashville, are vying for the seat.

Vanessa K. Johnson, an Accomack County employee from New Church, is seeking the District 3 seat. Supervisor Grayson Chesser is not seeking re-election.

District 4 Supervisor Paul E. J. Muhly, of Parksley, is running unopposed. Jim "Kaz" Kaczmarck Jr., of Parksley, applied to run but didn't get in all the documents needed to qualify, according to the voter registrar.

District 1 Supervisor William J. "Billy Joe" Tarr, of Chincoteague, is seeking re-election without opposition as are Ronald S. "Ron" Wolff, of District 2, who lives in Assawoman; Robert D. Crockett, of District 6, who lives in Onancock; Donald L. Hart Jr., of District 8, who lives in Keller; and C. Reneta Major, of District 9, who lives in the Painter area.

In races for constitutional offices, James A. Littleton Sr., of Melfa, and Brandy Custis Childress, of Accomack, are vying for treasurer. Littleton has worked in the treasurer's office for years. Childress is in banking. Treasurer Dana Bundick is retiring.

Captain Todd Wessells, of the Accomack County Sheriff's Office, a resident of the Painter area, is unopposed in his quest for sheriff. Sheriff Todd Godwin is retiring.

Commonwealth's Attorney J. Spencer Morgan III, of Onancock, and Commissioner of the Revenue Deborah T. Midgett, of Parksley, are not opposed in seeking their first full four-year terms. Both were elected to fill the unexpired terms of previous constitutional officers.

Two members of the Eastern Shore Soil and Water Conservation District — Fred W. Holland II, of New Church, and Jim A. Evans, of Parksley, — will run for re-election without opposition.

Planning Commission Recommends Denial of Wedding Venue

By Stefanie Jackson

The Northampton planning commission voted 3-1 Wednesday night to recommend the rejection of John and Linda Cleaveland's special-use permit application to use their Wellington Neck property to host outdoor weddings.

The decision was made in spite of the argument made by the Cleavelands' attorney, Carl Eason, that using the agricultural-rural business-zoned property as an event venue is "consistent with the spirit and intent of the comprehensive plan" of Northampton County.

Commissioner Glen Anders made the motion to recommend rejecting the application, seconded by Commissioner Sarah Morgan. Commissioner Andrew Follmer voted in favor of the motion and Commissioner Janet Sturgis abstained, leaving Chairman Dixon Leatherbury as the only vote opposing the motion.

When the Cleavelands first appeared before the planning commission in April, they were not prepared for what Spencer Murray, the chairman of the Northampton board of supervisors, said "sounded more like an inquisition than it did a hearing."

At that time, there were more neighbors who opposed the Cleavelands' proposal than those who supported it. The neighbors believed the event venue would have a high impact on the quiet residential neighborhood.

There were many complaints about the amount of noise and traffic that would be generated by an event venue. There was even speculation that the Cleavelands may build a dock on Nassawadox Creek to draw boat traffic and allow guests to fly in and land on the their private airstrip.

Pat Boyer, a neighbor and friend of the Cleavelands, said Wednesday, "Let's stop all the nonsense and get the facts straight."

Since April, the Cleavelands have attempted to start with a clean slate. They submitted a new zoning application completed with the help of engineer John Salm, who also prepared the certified plat accompanying the application.

Regarding safety concerns over the long dirt driveway leading to the Cleaveland home, the couple had agreed to make any necessary road improvements, such as covering the road with gravel or shells, Eason said.

They also agreed to hire an off-duty police officer to conduct traffic control at each event, he added.

But the Cleavelands efforts appeared to be for naught when the opposition to the event venue remained unchanged and planning commissioners said they still felt as if their concerns about noise and road safety issues had not been addressed.

For example, not only was neighbor Evelyn Witick still opposed, but she brought a petition signed by about 30 other neighbors who oppose the event venue.

"We would like to keep it safe and we would like to keep it rural" in Wellington Neck, she said.

Follmer said the "divisiveness" between neighbors on the issue was "unfortunate." He indicated that he had hoped the Cleavelands would have reached out to neighbors to work out their disagreements, but that had not happened.

Anders added the Cleavelands had not submitted a plan for noise control.

Eason had discussed two other recent instances in which the planning commission approved wedding venues, including the Elkington wedding venue in Eastville run by Elizabeth Dodd Russell, permitted in 2016, and Chelsea Hall in Machipongo, permitted in 2017.

Russell attended Wednesday's public hearing and voiced her support for another wedding venue to enhance economic development in Northampton County.

Eason said Elkington and Chelsea Hall set a precedent for the Cleavelands, but others disagreed.

Follmer called the argument for establishing a precedent "weak" because not a single person opposed Russell when her application was approved three years ago.

Neither Linda Cleaveland nor John Cleaveland spoke during the public hearing.

The planning commission's recommendation will be considered by county supervisors at their next regular meeting July 9. They are not obligated to follow the planning commission's recommendation. They may choose to reject the zoning application as recommended or approve it with or without restrictions as they see fit.

Man Arrested for 2016 Horntown Murder

Tavone Tyrell Cropper, a murder suspect in the 2016 death of a Horntown man, was arrested last week and is being held without bond in Accomack Jail.

The 28-year-old Pocomoke City, Md., man was indicted on counts of premeditated murder and use of a firearm in the crime in April. He is sometimes known as Tayvon Cropper and was arrested June 5. Garrett Dunham was appointed June 7 to serve Cropper's defense lawyer. The crimes occurred Feb. 4, 2016.

Three years ago, Cropper and Jahad Areil Triggs, of Chincoteague Road in New Church, were arrested in connection with the death of Robert Franklin Baytops IV, 22. They were released from jail in April 2016 after former Deputy Commonwealth's Attorney Matthew Brenner made the decision not to go forward with the case.

Triggs is also being held in Accomack Jail.

Onancock Man Sentenced for Rape

An Onancock man was recently sentenced in Accomack Circuit Court to 20 years in prison for raping his neighbor in August 2017.

Seven years and two months of the term was suspended for Kendall Darrell Stewart, 47, of Watson Street. He was ordered to be on good behavior for life and indefinite supervision. The Eastern Shore Post does not print the names of victims of sex crimes without their permission. Stewart was previously convicted of drug distribution, a domestic violation, contempt, resisting arrest, assault of an officer, and shoplifting.

In another case, Michael Paul Ledford, 39, of Oconee Circle in Gainesville, Ga., was sentenced to two years each for assault and battery of Officer C. Butler and Officer David Gladding, of the Chincoteague Police Department. The terms were set to run concurrently. All but six months was suspended. Ledford was also ordered to be on good behavior for five years. The crimes occurred June 17, 2018.

Richard Waldon Sullivan Jr., 63, of King Street in Belle Haven, pleaded no contest to strangling a family member last December. Sullivan was sentenced to five years in prison with all but a year suspended. He was ordered to be on good behavior for four years. Sullivan was also sentenced to 12 months with nine months suspended for assault and battery of a family member. The terms were set to run consecutively.

Cynthia Diana Lowe, 60, of Crisfield, Md., was sentenced to two years in prison with all but 30 days suspended for stealing property belonging to Island Foods on Nov. 9, 2017.

Tyris Javon Davis, 29, of Kelly Road in New Church, was convicted of leaving the scene of an accident and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle in connection with Aug. 4, 2018, incidents. Sentencing was set for Aug. 29. Davis is free on bail.

'Invisible' Man Sentenced

Warner Edward "Meatloaf" Byrd, 36, of Airport Drive in Melfa, was sentenced recently in Accomack Circuit Court to six months in jail. All but a month of the term was suspended on the condition that Byrd be on good behavior for two years. The offense occurred Aug. 28, 2017.

"There were 400 cameras in Walmart," said Judge W. Revell Lewis. "Did you think you were invisible?" the judge asked rhetorically.

Man Pleads Guilty to Sex-Related Offenses

An Exmore man pleaded guilty Monday in Northampton Circuit Court to four of 13 sex-related offenses. The crimes occurred when the victim was 13 and 14 years old.

Jamal Abdul White, 41, of Anthony Court, admitted to carnal knowledge, taking indecent liberties by exposing his genitals and proposing a sex act, and two counts of contributing to the delinquency of a minor that occurred in September 2018.

The guilty pleas were part of a bargaining agreement made with Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Jack Thornton, who wanted to keep the girl from having to testify in open court. Records show the offenses involved smoking marijuana and that at least one crime occurred on the girl's birthday.

Sentencing was deferred until September. White could be given to a maximum of 22 years in prison and be fined up to $107,500. White is being held in the Eastern Shore Regional Jail.

In another case, a bond was denied for Robert Riddick, 41, of Anderson

Street in Norfolk, who planned to live in Exmore with his girlfriend and children if he had been released. Riddick was indicted last month on counts of felony petty larceny and credit card theft involving cards belonging to David Harris and Quatisha Whitehurst. The incidents occurred Dec. 21, 2018.

Commonwealth's Attorney Beverly Leatherbury argued against bond saying he was a flight risk and had previously been convicted of eight felonies and 13 misdemeanors.

Bond was also denied for Jose Ortiz, of Cheriton, who was charged with possession with intent to distribute a schedule I or II drug on April 2.

3 Nonlocals Charged

Three out-of-towners were arrested recently in Northampton County and charged with felonies, according to district court records.

Fatima Anderson, 36, of Route 405 in Muncy, Pa., was accused of five counts of forging a public record, five counts of uttering, grand larceny, grand larceny with intent to sell, providing a false ID to an officer, and reckless driving. The incidents occurred in December 2017. She was arrested May 30.

Nathan Lee Pless, 44, of Union Station in Norfolk, Va., was charged with possession of heroin on June 8. Officer S.M. Beasley of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel police investigated. Pless was arrested June 9. A preliminary hearing was set for Aug. 22. Secured bond was set at $1,500.

The officer "went to assist a man who needed to cross the bridge. I asked him if he had anything that could harm me," Beasley said. "He stated that he had a knife in his pocket. He began reaching for it. I instructed him to stop. Asked if I could retrieve it and he said, 'I guess so.' I went to reach in his left pocket and the first thing in his pocket was a black bag. As I removed the bag I asked him what was in it and he said, 'trash.' I looked in the bag and there were numerous needles with at least two of them containing a cloudy substance believed to be heroin."

Roy Antoine Harris, 35, of Bridle Path Court in South Chesterfield, Va., was charged with distributing cocaine and possession with intent to distribute Suboxone. Beasley wrote in the file that a vehicle was stopped after backing down the highway. The driver offered a false ID and there was a strong odor of marijuana coming from the vehicle. On further inspection, numerous bags of a white powdery substance, 10 strips of Suboxone, and digital scales were found. A passenger also had a plastic bag with a green leafy substance and small baggies of the white power in her wig.

Harris claimed all the items belonged to him. He is being held without bond.

2 Local Men Charged

Two local men were arrested Monday and charged with felonies, according to records filed in Accomack General District Court.

Darren Philip Walker, 30, of Walker Lane in Harborton, was accused of felony DUI on June 10.

Officer Paul R. Meuli, of the Onancock Police Department, said he stopped a car that did not stop for a stop sign. The driver smelled "like an alcoholic beverage and also had slurred speech and red blood shot eyes," the officer wrote in court documents. A breathalyzer test showed .18. The legal limit is .08.

Brooks Redden Mariner, 28, of Savannah Road in Hallwood, was charged with possession of a Schedule I or II drug on June 10. He was arrested the same day. Cpl. K.A. Reese, of the Accomack County Sheriff's Office, investigated. An unsecured bond was set at $3,000.

Harry Wilson Crandall

Husband, father, grandfather, Episcopal priest, mentor, leader, U.S. Army officer, humanitarian, tireless volunteer, and a friend to all, the Rev. Harry Wilson Crandall was born March 30, 1932, on Great Diamond Island, in Casco Bay, Portland, Maine, and died Tuesday, May 14, 2019, after a brief illness. He was 87.

He received the Wood's Leadership Award in the spring of his freshman year in 1981.

Late in life, Rev. Crandall would say that his career was in sales, and that he always strived to steer clear of getting on management's bad side. It turned out management must have liked what he was doing and was impressed enough to give him a promotion to above. While Rev. Crandall will be dearly missed, we know he is rolling up his sleeves and is hard at work on the next chapter of his career in heaven. “Be glad in that day and leap for joy, for behold, your reward is great in Heaven.” Luke 6:23.

Grover Cleveland Outland Jr.

Mr. Grover Cleveland Outland, Jr., 91, retired trial attorney, citizen-soldier, and lifelong resident of Tidewater, passed away peacefully, in Onancock, May 23, 2019. He was the fourth child and only son of Lida Anne Maddox Outland of Somerset County, Md., and Grover C. Outland Sr., of Isle of Wight County, Va. Mr. Outland’s parents met as school teachers on the Eastern Shore in the early 1910s, Grover Sr. in Greenbackville (Accomack County) and Lida a few miles to the northwest in Stockton (Worcester County). They also taught at the old Eastville High School where Grover Sr. served as principal before moving their growing family to Norfolk., Va.

Mr. Outland graduated in 1945 from Maury High School, in Norfolk, where he was president of his class and a member of the varsity football team. Toward the end of World War II, he entered Virginia Military Institute (VMI), which was still accelerating officer training for wartime duty overseas. At VMI, he played football for legendary coach “Pooley” Hubert, the former Alabama quarterback who had led the Crimson Tide to its first-ever national football championship in the 1926 Rose Bowl, “the game that changed the South.”

Mr. Outland graduated from VMI in January 1949 (Class of ‘49B) with a bachelor’s degree in English and a U.S. Army reserve commission. He then entered law school at neighboring Washington and Lee University where he subsequently earned his law degree and passed the Virginia bar. Upon graduation from law school, he was immediately called to active duty as a U.S. Army field artillery lieutenant. The Korean War had broken out while he was in law school. After completing his active duty commitment, Mr. Outland was preparing in 1952 to open his law office in Norfolk just down the hall from his father’s insurance office. Nevertheless, at the request of his senior noncommissioned officers in C Battery, 235th Field Artillery Observation Battalion, Mr. Outland volunteered to deploy to the combat zone in Korea as the executive officer of the battery, which had just received orders to Korea. He always said his NCOs stated faith in his ability to accomplish the mission while minimizing the loss of soldiers’ lives was the highest honor he ever received. The pre-deployment photo of his battery at Ft. Sill was always prominently displayed in Mr. Outland’s home.

For his service in the Korean War, Mr. Outland was awarded the Bronze Star medal, the Korean Defense medal (with two service stars), the United Nations Korean medal, and the Republic of Korea (ROK) Korean War medal. His battery’s missions were conducted in what is now North and South Korea and helped earn its parent unit a U.S. Meritorious Unit Commendation as well as two ROK Presidential Unit Citations. Postwar, Mr. Outland was promoted to captain and continued to serve in the Virginia Army National Guard (29th Infantry Division) until his honorable discharge in 1961.

Shortly after returning home from Korea in 1953, Mr. Outland met the love of his life, Norfolk native Margaret M. “Teancy” Matthews. Following several “campaigns” by Mr. Outland, they were married in October 1956, a happy union that lasted for more than 61 years until Teancy’s sudden, unexpected passing.

In 1953, Mr. Outland also opened his law office on Main Street in Norfolk before later forming a law partnership with George H. Gray under the firm name of Outland and Gray. By 1977, the law firm, then called Outland, Gray, O’Keefe and Hubbard, had expanded the practice to handle a variety of transactional and litigation matters including successful appeals to the Virginia Supreme Court.

After retiring in 2005, Mr. Outland continued pursuing his passions for duck hunting and fishing, mainly on the Shore’s barrier islands and inlets, and was noted for the flounder and duck dinners he prepared. Also of note was tall tales of the “ones that got away,” a reverence for well-trained Labrador retrievers, and an incomparable sense of humor. Mr. Outland served as president of the following organizations: the Norfolk-Portsmouth Chapter of the VMI Alumni Association, the Tidewater Chapter of the Washington and Lee Alumni, the Norfolk YMCA Board of Directors, the Norfolk Council on Alcoholism, the Pyramid Club, and the Folly Creek Corporation. He was also a member of the Norfolk and Chesapeake Rotary Clubs, the Norfolk

Wetlands Board, the American Legion Lynch-Anchorage Post 35 (honored 60 years of faithful membership), the Norfolk Yacht & Country Club, the Norfolk German Club, the Tidewater Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution and Ducks Unlimited. Mr. Outland was also an active member of the Church of the Good Shepherd, having served as a lay reader, choir member, vestryman and senior warden.

Mr. Outland had a special love for the Virginia Military Institute. He was appointed to the VMI Board of Visitors by the governor of Virginia and, also, served on the Alumni Association's Board of Directors, culminating in his election as president of the association while his sons were both cadets. In honor of his service to the Institute, Mr. Outland received the VMI Foundation's Distinguished Service Award, a rare honor that accorded him the privilege of addressing the Corps of Cadets.

Survivors include his sons, Grover

C. III, of Annapolis, Md., (Melissa) and James M., of Cape Charles, (Jodi), and daughter, Elizabeth O. Branner, of Lexington, Va. (Wade); eight grandchildren; and numerous nieces and nephews. Mr. Outland is also survived by his sister, Nancy O. Chandler, of Norfolk. He was predeceased by his parents, his sisters, Louise O. Smith and Jean O. Chrysler, their husbands, retired U.S. Marine Corps Col. John L. Smith Sr., and Walter P. Chrysler Jr., and the husband of his sister Nancy, Webster M. Chandler Jr., VMI '46.

The family wishes to thank the terrific people of Shore Riverside Hospice, Commonwealth Senior Living (formerly, The Hermitage), Cape Charles Rescue, the Town of Cape Charles, and Cindy McKlusky for all their love and support. Memorial donations may be made to the VMI Foundation and the Washington and Lee University School of Law.

AFTER BACKLASH, CHANGES TO TEACHER SALARY SCALE EXPLAINED

By Stefanie Jackson

After the Accomack school division received negative feedback over the new teacher salary scale the school board approved last month, Superintendent Chris Holland sent teachers a memo explaining the details that Director of Finance Beth Onley spent countless hours hammering out.

“We spend a lot of time and really try to make this fair,” Onley said in an interview with the Eastern Shore Post June 7.

One detail that had raised objections was the consolidation of the 32-step salary scale into 30 steps.

The goal was for teacher salaries to max out at 30 years of service, when the Virginia Retirement System allows employees to retire with full benefits.

Onley has worked toward that goal incrementally, one or two steps at a time, since fiscal year 2015, when Accomack’s teacher salary scale had 41 steps.

But there are Accomack teachers with more than 30 to 35 years of experience who were concerned that their steps had been eliminated now that the scale has just 30 steps.

That was not the case. Onley explained that in several places on the scale – not just at the top – two consecutive steps had been combined or “banded” together. In every case, the lower of the two steps had been combined with the higher step, so no teacher lost money.

Salary scale changes are made only for teachers’ benefit, never for their detriment, she said.

The steps that are currently banded together are years 10 and 11, 19 and 20, 24 and 25, 26 and 27, 29 and 30, and 31 and 32. In general, the steps with the fewest teachers were banded together.

Onley noted her work on the salary scale is impartial. She doesn’t see names, only numbers.

The teacher salary scale attached to the memo that was sent out is the same scale Onley presented and the school board approved May 21. The data was taken from a document Onley displayed at the public meeting – a spreadsheet comparing the new salary scale with the old one.

Accomack schools’ teacher salary scale is the only salary scale that is updated annually, she said.

Every year, Accomack teacher salaries are compared to the teacher salaries of its cohort – a group of eight similar Virginia school divisions, including Northampton.

Virginia legislators passed a state budget for fiscal year 2020 that includes funding for public school teachers and administrators to receive a raise of 5% over a two-year period that began in 2018.

Accomack teachers got a 3% raise last year, meaning a 2% raise was needed this year for the school division to remain in compliance with the state recommendation.

School administrators got 2% last year and will get 3% this year.

Teachers will also get 3% this year so they won’t get a smaller raise than administrators, giving teachers a 6% raise over a two-year period instead of 5%.

The only teachers who will not get 3% are brand-new teachers on the bottom of the pay scale and veteran teachers who have reached its limit.

Giving 3% to teachers who receive the minimum or maximum salaries would essentially create additional steps on the pay scale and undo Onley’s efforts to cap the scale at 30 steps, she explained.

However, the teachers at the bottom and top of the scale won’t go away empty-handed. They will get 1.5% cost-of-living pay increases.

The 1.5% cost-of-living adjustment (COLA) has been used for many years, Onley said.

The 3% raise all other teachers will get equals a step up on the pay scale plus a cost-of-living adjustment.

Last year, teachers got raises averaging 3% each. This year, to “keep it simple,” Onley said, each teacher moving up on the pay scale will get exactly 3%.

“Everybody needs to feel valued,” she said.

Tourism Commission Hires Marketing Director

Submitted Article

The Eastern Shore Tourism Commission announced its new marketing director, Susannah Morey, this week. Born and raised in Melfa, she says she is excited to call the Eastern Shore home once again.

Morey graduated from Virginia Commonwealth University in December 2018 with a major in mass communications and a minor in business. During her college career, she focused on working with nonprofits such as Richmond Friends of the Homeless and the Special Olympics, creating social media campaigns and generating content.

In the summer of 2018, she traveled to Cape Town, South Africa, to intern with Streetwires Artist Collective, a social enterprise art gallery and working artists' studio. Streetwires' mission is to help struggling craft wire and bead artists find job stability as well as to continue to use their creativity and practice their craft. Morey's favorite project was writing for the Streetwires blog. This gave her the opportunity to frequent coffee shops, take photos, and befriend local, small business owners.

"I have always found great passion in my work and I am very excited to combine my passion for Marketing, with my passion for the Eastern Shore," stated Morey. "Throughout my life, I have watched the Eastern Shore gain attention nationwide. During my first year at VCU, I remember seeing girls around campus wearing Cape Charles t-shirts and being amazed. More and more people are coming to visit and loving our little slice of heaven. I'm excited to continue the promotion of the Eastern Shore because I truly think there is no place like it."

HEALTH DEPARTMENT WARNS SWIMMERS ABOUT POSSIBLE INFECTION

By Linda Cicaira

The Eastern Shore Health District is warning residents not to enter bodies of water if they have cuts or abrasions and to clean wounds at once to reduce the risk of infection. Those with low-immune systems or chronic conditions also need to beware.

“Many harmful micro-organisms are found in lakes, rivers, along the coast, and in other bodies of water,” according to a prepared statement. “Some bacteria may lead to destructive soft-tissue infections and other illnesses,” the Virginia Department of Public Health cautions. “Most soft-tissue infections occur with either injury or with conditions of low immunity. However, sometimes otherwise healthy people can develop a skin infection after skin injury and being exposed to natural bodies of water.”

“If a person has open wounds, cuts, abrasions, and sores,” he or she should stay out of the water, the announcement continued. “Persons with low immune systems, cancer, diabetes, liver disease, and other chronic conditions should avoid eating raw or undercooked seafood, especially oysters. Vibrio bacteria can enter the body through a break in the skin or by consuming contaminated seafood. If a person gets a cut while in the water, immediately wash the wound with soap and fresh water. If the wound shows any signs of infection (redness, pain or swelling) or if the cut is deep, get medical attention immediately.”

“Vibrio illness symptoms may include diarrhea, vomiting, abdominal pain, chills, fever, shock, skin lesions, and wound infections. In someone with a compromised immune system, the bacteria can infect the bloodstream and may result in death. With Vibrio skin infections, surgery may be necessary. For all cases of Vibrio, it is important to begin treatment immediately because early medical care and antibiotics improve survival.”

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimates that 80,000 people in the U.S. become sick with vibriosis each year, and 100 people die from their infection. As of June 1, there have been four cases of vibriosis in Virginia compared to five the same time last year.

MAN ACCUSED OF ABDUCTION TURNS HIMSELF IN TO POLICE

By Linda Cicoira

Jerry A. Satchell, of Horntown, who was being sought for the abduction of a young woman, turned himself in Thursday following a search by Virginia and Maryland police that started early Wednesday morning.

"This is still an ongoing criminal investigation," Sgt. Michelle Anaya, of the state police, reported at press time. "Once information becomes available, an updated press release will follow."

A Virginia Critically Missing Adult

Alert was activated for Vermelle Tontrese Moore, 18, who was living in Accomack County. "She was safely located in Maryland shortly before 4 p.m., Wednesday," a police spokesperson said Wednesday.

Satchell, 20, was charged with abduction, felony destruction of property, and felony assault. Anaya said, The incident occurred at "3 a.m., Wednesday when Moore was a passenger in a vehicle traveling through the Captain's Cove subdivision in Greenbackville ... and was forcibly removed from the vehicle by Satchell. Satchell forced Moore into a dark green 1993 Ford F-150 pickup truck and fled the scene. As he was leaving the neighborhood, he intentionally backed into another vehicle and left the scene. No one in the vehicle that was struck by the pickup truck was injured in the crash."

The pickup he was driving was also located Wednesday afternoon in Accomack

County, according to a police report.

The Virginia State Police Bureau of Criminal Investigation's Chesapeake Field Office is being assisted by the Accomack County Sheriff's Office, Maryland State Police, and other police from Maryland.

Anyone with information about the case is asked to call 911 or the Virginia State Police at 757-424-6800 or #77 from a cell phone in Virginia. Emails may be sent to questions@vsp.virginia.gov

Leave Fawns Where You Find Them

Submitted Article

It is that time of year again when white-tailed deer fawns are showing up in yards and hayfields, and concerned citizens want to know how to help. In almost all cases, the best way to help is to simply leave it alone. Most wild animals will not abandon their young, but they do leave them alone for long periods of time.

Fawns, born from May through July, are purposely left alone by their mothers. Female deer, called does, stay away from the fawns to avoid leading predators such as dogs or coyotes to their location. The white spotted coat camouflages a fawn as it lies motionless in vegetation. Young fawns generally will not try to run away when they are approached.

Does will return several times each day to move and/or feed their young. You probably will not see the doe at all since she only stays to feed the fawn for a few minutes before leaving it alone again. If less than 24 hours have passed since a fawn has been "rescued," the fawn should be taken back and released at the exact location where it was found. After returning the fawn, immediately leave the area and do not wait for the doe to return. The doe will not come back for the fawn if a human is nearby.

If a wild animal has been injured or truly orphaned, do not take matters into your own hands. Locate a licensed wildlife rehabilitator by calling the Virginia Department of Game and Inland Fisheries (DG-IF) toll-free wildlife conflict helpline at 1-855-571-9003, 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday or visit <https://www.dgif.virginia.gov/wildlife/injured/rehabilitators/>

Raising a wild animal in captivity is illegal unless you have a DGIF wildlife rehabilitation permit. Even with the best professional care, more than 50% of fawns brought to rehabilitation facilities die before being released and of those fawns that are released, a very small percentage survives the first year in the wild. The best advice for someone who wants to help wildlife is to keep it wild.

Governor Gets Ready for Hurricane Season by Urging Virginia To Prepare

Submitted Article

Governor Ralph Northam and his cabinet participated in a day-long exercise last week that focused on disaster preparedness and how to ready all Virginia state agencies for hurricanes or other natural and manmade disasters.

The governor and his cabinet heard a presentation from North Carolina Gov. Roy Cooper on lessons learned from Hurricane Florence and the devastation and long-term recovery efforts still underway in the state. They were also briefed by experts at Old Dominion University who recently completed a study of the economic impact on the commonwealth if Florence had not turned south and instead struck Virginia directly. The day culminated in a hurricane preparation exercise to test executive decision-making protocol and state agency emergency response readiness.

"My administration is working hard to ensure that Virginia is resilient and ready to respond to any natural disaster," said Gov. Northam in a prepared release. "The impacts from tropical storm systems can pose threats to life and property in every region of the Commonwealth, and that's why it's important for all Virginians to take proactive steps now to prepare for the upcoming hurricane season."

Virginians are encouraged to use the start of hurricane season to make preparations to sustain themselves during and after a hurricane or other extreme weather events. Atlantic hurricane season runs from June 1 through Nov. 30.

"Hurricanes can devastate the entire state with storm surges, inland, river and flash flooding, damaging winds, landslides, dam failures, and tornadoes," said Secretary of Public Safety and Homeland Security Brian J. Moran. "Storms also have the ability to disrupt communication networks and produce prolonged power outages. Power interruptions, extreme heat, transportation networks, and communication system disruption can compound the effects of a hurricane for weeks. It is critical to have a plan and make preparations now to address your family's unique needs and circumstances."

HOW TO PREPARE

If you live in coastal Virginia, learn your hurricane evacuation zone, review evacuation routes and the commonwealth's Hurricane Evacuation Guide at www.KnowYourZoneVA.org. Coastal Virginians can also call 2-1-1 to learn their evacuation zone if they do not have access to a computer or internet services. Residents not residing in a preidentified evacuation zone should listen to evacuation orders from local and state emergency agencies to determine if and when to evacuate.

All Virginians, regardless of where they live or work, should review the Hurricane Preparedness Guide at www.VAemergency.gov/hurricanes

Hurricanes can produce significant statewide flooding, and just one inch of water in a home or business can cost thousands of dollars in cleanup and repairs. Most property insurance policies do not cover flood losses including those damages that result from flash floods, dam breaks, storm surges, inland flooding, and river flooding.

Don't wait until you see the next storm coming to purchase a flood insurance policy—these policies have a 30-day waiting period before taking effect. Contact your insurance agent or the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP) call center at 888-379-9531 for an agent referral or visit www.floodsmart.gov

To learn to how to prepare for and or how to recover from a flood, visit www.VAemergency.gov/floods. It can take several days or weeks for government services and assistance to reach you and your family depending on the severity of the disaster and your geographic location. Purchasing emergency supplies and building an emergency kit to sustain your family during and after a hurricane is critical. Visit www.VAemergency.gov/emergency-kit to review the checklist of supplies for your family and pets and to build a family emergency communication plan.

Stay informed as a storm approaches by following local media outlets, your National Weather Service field office, and the Virginia Department of Emergency Management (VDEM) on Facebook and Twitter.

Eastern Shore Public Library Joins National Genealogical Network

Submitted Article

If you want to be part of the popular ancestry search trend, you may not need to look any further than the local library. The Eastern Shore Public Library is now a FamilySearch Affiliate Library, which means it has access to more genealogy resources to help you make more family discoveries.

There are only a few hundred affiliate libraries in the country. The designation means local library patrons will now have greater and more convenient access to the wealth of genealogical resources available through FamilySearch. The popular web service has more than 6 billion searchable names and 2 billion images of historical genealogical records—and you get the helpful assistance of library staff.

The basic version of FamilySearch is available to anyone from home with a free account, but access to many record sets is restricted. By logging in at any of the four ESPL libraries with this individual account, most of these record sets will then be accessible. Such record sets include county court records of Accomack and Northampton Counties such as deeds, wills, inventories, shipping records, administrator's bonds, court orders, Overseers of the Poor indentures, property taxes, and many more. Rather than traveling long distances to courthouses, you can now view these records using the nearest ESPL library.

"Interest in our ancestral roots continues to grow with the popularity of DNA tests, reality tv shows like Long Lost Family or Who Do You Think You Are?, and the growing access to online genealogy records. Adding Eastern Shore Public Library as our newest FamilySearch Affiliate Library will enable patrons to make many fun, personal discoveries and family connections," said Paul Nauta, FamilySearch Public Relations Manager.

Eastern Shore Public Library has been upgrading its local history resources for the Eastern Shore of Virginia Heritage Center to be built at the new regional library in Parksley. It is expected that many new visitors will come to the Eastern Shore as the library's research facilities, equipment, and archive access are improved. The ESPL Foundation recently received two grants for this purpose. The Northampton Tourism Grant will help fund construction. The United Way of the Eastern Shore and the Katharine H.S. Edmonds Reading Materials Fund at the Eastern Shore of Virginia Community Foundation will partially fund the purchase of a new computerized microfilm scanner-reader. "FamilySearch is a wonderful addition to the great resources we already offer," said Cara Burton, library director.

For more information or to schedule a short tutorial, contact Eastern Shore Public Library at 757-787-3400.

This year's Player of the Year selection and first team pitcher was Nandua's Parker Murphy. Pitcher of the Year was Northampton's Mollie Travis, and Coach of the Year was Northampton's Billy Davis for the second consecutive season.

Nandua's Jamie Lyn Wert was chosen as catcher for the first team.

Fishing from the Shore

By Bill Hall

Despite having the freshest of baits, the latest in fish finding technology, and $400 coolers to hold $2 bags of ice, the one thing the fisherman cannot control is the weather. Last weekend was a prime example. But, despite less than ideal conditions, most of the anglers who ventured out in the sloppy conditions were justly rewarded for their efforts. One such group of women, fishing in a tournament out of Wachapreague, proved their worth and more by fishing in the winds and waves on Saturday while most of their male counterparts were home curled up on the sofa. Coming up at the end of next week, one local tackle shop, Bailey's Bait and Tackle, will mark a significant milestone, celebrating the 50th anniversary of its opening.

Cape Charles – Jeb Brady, at Baily's Bait & Tackle, reported that cobia fishing was good over the last weekend, with some large fish landed and many smaller fish released. Spadefish have arrived and taken up residence around the Plantation Light structure. Anglers are gearing up for Spanish mackerel, multiple reports indicating a good early season population. The Cape Charles fishing pier has produced mostly small croakers, a few sea mullet (whiting), and an occasional keeper flounder. On June 22, from 2-6 p.m., Bailey's Bait & Tackle 50th anniversary celebration will feature fishing seminars, giveaways, in-store specials, live music, food, and more.

Lower Shore – Chris Snook, of Chris' Bait & Tackle, reported that keeper cobia were caught, despite the weather, with lots of smaller fish in the mix. Flounder catches have come from inside the Ditch, when the water has been clear. The waters around the fourth island of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel are holding spadefish. A good sea mullet (whiting) run continues just south of Kiptopeke and small gay trout are being caught just off the Kiptopeke concrete ships. Snook said that the surf should still be holding some red drum, but nobody has tried recently due to the weather.

Wachapreague – Captain Lindsay Paul, of Trident Tackle, reported anglers were finding “a few flounder” and that a recent Ladies Flounder Tournament produced some fish as well. He had not heard of any recent catches of drum in the surf. Paul said that the time is right for offshore action, but nobody has ventured off yet out of Wachapreague. Amanda Manzella, of the Wachapreague Inn, reported that the Wachapreague Shore Girls Flounder Tournament was held on June 7-8. Over 20 keeper flounder were weighed in on Friday with many more than that released. Saturday's nasty conditions produced a decent number of fish, but only three were weighed in for the tournament, two of which exceeded three pounds in weight! JoAnn Eshelman earned over $500.00 for her first-place finish, followed by Tammy Hedspeith who pocketed over $300.00 for finishing second. Manzella finished up in third place.

Chincoteague – Jimmy Vasiliou, at Captain Steve's Bait & Tackle, reported that poor weather wiped out most of last weekend's fishing activities. The shop will be hosting the Frederick Saltwater Anglers Tournament, June 14-16, with weigh-ins held daily beginning at 6 p.m. The surf on Assateague is producing a mixture of snapper blues, kingfish (whiting), large rays, and increasing numbers of sharks. Keeper flounder catches have come from the waters of Four Mouths and in Watts Bay. A few sheephead have been landed by anglers specifically targeting the species. Spadefish and trigger fish are staged over the offshore reef, where a few cobia have been sighted. Vasiliou recommends that anglers keep a rod rigged with a cobia jig and a Gulp eel to take advantage of a possible cobia encounter.

Upper Shore – Allan Ring, from the Sea Hawk Sports Center, reported that the flounder bite continued on the seaside, but finding clear water was the key. Silversides and large minnows with Gulp baits, Ottertails, and “Bob's Your Uncle” Fish Bites were the top bait combinations. The bayside shallows have produced catches of speckled trout, especially along the tidal rips, for anglers casting Bass Assassin Paddletails and curly-tailed grubs. Bait fishermen enjoyed success using fresh soft crabs and peelers. Rockfish action in the shallows was also described as good on jig heads rigged with Paddletails, MirrOlures, and suspending twitch baits. Topwater action was especially effective early in the morning and late in the evening up inside the tidal creeks. Black perch have taken up their summertime residences inside the brackish creeks and rivers. Ring suggested using bloodworms, peeler crabs, or casting ultralight spinner baits such as Tsunamis for perch action.

Bill Hall was the first Eastern Shore resident to achieve Virginia Salt Water Master Angler Status. He has been named Virginia Saltwater Angler of the Year and Virginia Saltwater Release Angler of the Year. Bill is an I.G.F.A. International Committee Representative and a longtime member of the Virginia Saltwater Fishing Tournament Committee. He is the Virginia Recreation Fishing representative on the ASMFC Striped Bass Management Panel and is a past recipient of the CCA-VA Virginia Outdoor Writer Conservation Leadership Award.

Veterans' Spotlight and Veterans' News

Story by Alexander Hightower

Veteran Spotlight

Eastern Shore, meet Coast Guard Veteran BM2 Elizabeth Manske, originally from Milwaukee, Wis., and now lives in Chincoteague. She served just over eight years stationed at Cape May, N.J., followed by Yorktown, Va., Ocean City, Md., Chincoteague, and the USCG Cutter Morgenthau. She has visited Japan and was deployed to Alaska Fishery Patrol. After living on the West Coast for several years, the sand in her shoes reminded her how she longed to return to Chincoteague. These days you can find her enjoying days at the Assateague Island National Seashore park where she works as maintenance worker. Manske enjoys playing Texas Hold'em, bike riding, walking on the beach, and learning to play the violin. She is a grandmother of four and acknowledges that she can make one heck of a Southern Style Pecan Pie. If you see Elizabeth in passing, say hello and thank her for her service.

Vet Centers celebrate 40th Anniversary: Recently the Dept. of Veterans Affairs celebrated the 40th anniversary of the Vet Center. On June 7, Virginia Beach took time out to celebrate the Vet Center's anniversary by hosting a community open house. In attendance were veterans past and present.

Along with celebrating the anniversary of the Vet Center program, the event also salutes Vietnam Veterans 50th Commemoration of the Vietnam War. All Veterans, active duty service members, their families, and the general public at large were invited.

Today, there are 300 Vet Centers and 80 Mobile Vet Centers across the country to provide community-based counseling services to include confidential readjustment counseling, outreach, and referral to eligible veterans, active duty service members, including National Guard and Reserve components and their families. Individual, group, marriage, and family counseling is also offered in addition to referral and connections to other VA or community benefits and services at no cost. Vet Center Virginia Beach is ready and able to assist our veterans, family members, and active duty personnel with certified counselors and outreach staff, many of whom are veterans themselves, are prepared to discuss the tragedies of war, loss, grief, and transition after trauma.

Community Newspapers Help Bind Communities Together

Dear Editor:

We're in the midst of an extraordinarily bitter time in our country's history. The tenure of the time is: I don't simply disagree with you, I hate your guts.

Some politicians are denounced when they venture into a public space. Some are insulted out of restaurants and are subject to death threats. Almost daily, the president tells us that the free press is "the enemy of the people," "disgusting," "dishonest," and "scum."

Why do people attack freedom of the press? Easy. Because they're encouraged every day to do it. And they think they can get away with it.

Community newspapers fight this battle every day, and for the most part, win each one, because people in communities appreciate how a solid local paper keeps a sharp eye on the powers-that-be and holds them accountable. The community paper, they know, is prepared by people who live in the same places they do, and aren't remote, faceless, or distant from the affairs of daily life that everyone shares.

But day-to-day, we don't put in the hours with the expectation that we're saving democracy. We're trying to fulfill what an editor told me when I started as a reporter: "Only two rules — hit the deadlines and don't make stuff up."

Our mission in community journalism is to tell important stories, such as a school board meeting, sifting through the droning of officials who love the sound of their own voices, to bring readers information about their children's education (and sparing them hours in a high school meeting room on a week night).

The mission is also letting readers know about the upcoming Fourth of July fireworks show, the preparations for Christmas and summer festivals, charity events, graduation and the prom, and then sending out photographers and reporters to cover them. The community journalist knows these events are what tie us together and make our lives meaningful and rewarding.

As a colleague told me recently: "We may not save democracy every week, but when that day comes, we'll take it."

Congratulations to the Eastern Shore Post and wishes for many more years as a strong champion of its readers.

Donations Kickstart Boys & Girls Club Fundraiser, but Your Support Is Needed

Dear Editor:

The primary fundraiser for the Boys & Girls Club of the Eastern Shore is not until fall, but the real work for its volunteer board is right now as support is garnered for its Swine & Wine dinner. This year the event is on Oct. 19 at the Mary N. Smith Cultural Enrichment Center outside of Accomac.

That effort had a real kickstart recently when the Club received a $5,000 donation from a couple that wants to remain anonymous. They had seen the difference the Boys & Girls Club made in the lives of our local youth and wanted their funds to go directly to those who needed the essentials to have the same opportunities as others.

Several weeks earlier the Boys & Girls Club had received a $5,000 donation from Wayne Bell through United Way. Bell is the president of the United Way of Virginia's Eastern Shore and announced at the awards breakfast he was contributing $20,000 to ensure United Way made its fundraising goal, earmarking $5,000 for four organizations, including the Boys & Girls Club of the Eastern Shore.

In addition, Dr. George Sabol upped his annual contribution this year by offering to provide free orthodontic care to Boys & Girls Club members who could not afford dental care.

Any group seeking the support of its community needs to prove it makes a difference and produces a positive outcome. That is one reason the Eastern Shore Boys & Girls Club Board has numerous members who have served 10 years or longer. They continue to see the difference the club makes in the lives of the 200 members who attend the after-school program and the day-long summer sessions.

By creating a fun but purposeful club where the unit director and her staff form relationships with the club members, that difference can last a lifetime. That difference is based not only on academic success and making good life choices but also includes treating others with respect and making a positive contribution to the community. The club boasts some amazing success stories of members being the first in their family to attend college or even to graduate from high school in some cases. This year will see seven Boys & Girls Club members graduating from high school and all have postgraduate plans. That is quite an outcome.

That outcome starts with providing a hot nutritious meal each club day, having mentors work with club members on their academic skills, engaging members in physical activities and always demonstrating positive behavior.

Activities at the club support the Boys and Girls Clubs' mission statement: "To enable all young people, especially those who need us most, to reach their full potential as productive, caring, responsible citizens."

The $5,000 donations from Super Sponsors for the Swine & Wine will also help in this effort, as will all the other sponsors who support this annual event. The club depends on the funds raised by the Swine & Wine to remain in existence. Fortunately, it has been spectacularly successful thanks to the generous support of the Eastern Shore community. Many goods and services are donated, but the sponsorships are needed to ensure the club can continue to make a difference in the lives of the youth it serves.

The couple making the significant contribution to Boys & Girls Club is hoping others will step forward - and a small amount can go a long way. The cost of one month's attendance at the Boys & Girls Club is $30 per member.

To become a Swine & Wine sponsor, a $2,000 Whole Hog sponsorship includes 10 tickets and major signage at the event, a $1,000 Suckling Pig Sponsor receives eight tickets and exposure on event signage, a $500 Spiral Ham Sponsor gets four tickets and exposure on event signage and a $250 Rack of Ribs sponsor gets two tickets and exposure on event signage.

For information on sponsorships or to reserve tickets for Swine & Wine, call Shannon Gordon at 787-7577.

Oh Yippee! Editor Connie Morrison agreed to let me have this column/photo page since the Eastern Shore Post is continuing to celebrate its 20th anniversary this week.

The party will be in the parking lot today (Friday), June 14, from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., at 4 Corner Plaza. Hot dogs, cupcakes, drinks, and more! I'm so excited! Prizes!

From kittenhood until their deaths

Scoop, above, and Snoop, below, welcomed customers, wrote columns, and were the overnight guards at our office. Scoop could often be seen bonding with the only other tom there was around, Troy Justis, our advertising manager. As one can see, Snoop liked to party. They joined the staff when we still worked from Tasley. Everyone loved them.

The office was not only a pet sanctuary, but it was a nursery. The two women who founded the paper, Cheryl Nowak Sterling and the late Candy Farlow, often worked around the clock and had to get their mothering and grandmothering in sometime.

Neither of those women was too fond of my making candid shots of them. Out of respect, I am not going to post their pictures.

J.J. Justis, Troy's wife and Candy's daughter, still helps us out. Baylee below at right is an intern at the paper this summer, so you can see she's

Last I heard, she is now planning on studying nursing. Below, on the same day the girls were a little wound up. This was about a decade ago.

The late Taylor Justis, another of Troy's kids, was hanging out in the office one day with his daughter, Andrea, when I got the shot below. T-Pop (Troy) was pretty happy. Taylor and his brother, Bud (Anthony), and Troy's mother, all delivered papers for the Post. Cheryl's son Josh Nowak made our ads for a few years from Richmond where he lived with his wife, Joy, and daughter, Nicole. Josh and his brother, Matthew, were in their 20s when the paper got started in 1999. Because she lived in Richmond, Nicole wasn't around in person as much. But she was a fixture in all our minds through Cheryl's updates, photos, and sometimes her internet chats.

Andrea and Nicole are both about 10 now. It wouldn't be fair to mention the children without citing Angie gie sometimes thinks she is Santa Claus.

It is also impossible not to mention the late Bill Massey. I first met Bill when we both worked at WKRE Radio, in Jamesville.

Bill liked to refer to himself as the world's oldest paperboy. He was that. Not only did he deliver all the papers to Northampton County, but he was also a stockholder in the company, a news reporter, a feature writer, a columnist, and one of the most persistent and blunt people I have ever known.

Connie says if you want to know the truth about something you should ask me. But she didn't know Bill. He was the king and I am a mere peon. I mean that as a compliment. He could get a story with shock questions.

Here's a picture of Bill before he started shaving his head. We were at Cheryl's house for a meeting and he had to boast about the old radio station. Yippee!

Candy's grandchildren from her son Buddy were also around a bit. Buddy is in the Coast Guard and moved the family to Maine so I never got to see his daughter, who is the youngest. The boys were entertaining though. I didn't take the photo below and it was on Candy's Facebook page so I'm not cheating by posting it. Candy is at the center, of course, just like Connie is now. Darn troublemakers.

Soon, we will have to watch Connie's daughter Meg go off to college. We will also get to see writer Krystle Bono's daughter, Bella, and Kimberly Perry's daughter, Ivy, grow up.
