

Herbal Apprenticeship Scholarship Application

Enhance your herbal knowledge and experience with herbalist Tricia McCauley at Common Good City Farm (CGCF). Apprentices will gain hands-on experience while working with approximately fifty different herbs in the farm's medicinal herb bed and kitchen herb garden. Participants will follow the herbs as they change through the season learning how to plant, transplant, maintain, and harvest. This program is perfect for student herbalists in search of hands-on experience, gardeners wanting to deepen their understanding of herbs, and anyone who wants to connect to the seasons. The program is designed to be attended throughout the season and we are looking for participants who will commit to coming to each session.

Common Good City Farm is an urban farm and education center growing food with and for the community and providing educational opportunities for all people that help increase food security, improve health, and contribute to environmental sustainability.

CGCF's Herbal Apprenticeship Scholarship is designed for people making less than the DC Living Wage. This is $480/week without kids or $980/week with kids or other dependents.
