I guess I have lived a lot of my life uncomfortable in my own skin. Uncomfortable in my own strengths. Suffering imposter syndrome every time I set foot in a gym. Preserving deep seeded insecurities like they are my security blanket. Well, to that I say - no more!!! I'm going to unleash the badassery all out. You'll see me fail. You'll see me fail. You'll see me rise.

SARMs - or selective androgen receptor modulators Netherlands - are a new generation of anabolic compounds with a diverse range of different uses. Androgens themselves are either natural or synthetic hormones that are important for the development and maintenance of muscles and bone and the development of other tissues.

Hi Dylan I am from the Netherlands and i have a 3 questions for you about SARMS. I have done some research and the fact that there are almost or even no side effects, gives me the idea that this is a better alternative than anabolics, although you will grow less hard with SARMS as far i have read. The reason i ask you these questions is, that i can't find the answers on the internet and i don't...

SARMs are unapproved drugs, not dietary supplements. SARMs can pose a risk when taken for performance enhancement and without consulting a health care professional. SARMs should be avoided, as they can result in potentially life-threatening consequences. SARMs may be listed on the product label (with names like "ostarine" and "andarine").
