

Greenlyfe Keto problem with this is, many times one writer looked at the regulation, and wrote a piece about it. Then other writers start using pieces from that first article and rewriting parts to fit their article. By the time the information gets widely distributed, the actual regulations and rules get twisted and distorted, and what actually shows up in the media sometimes just doesn't truly represent the reality of what the regulations say.

The advertisement features a woman in a white bikini jumping joyfully on a beach. In the center, three bottles of 'KE KETO TO' are displayed. The text '30 DAY KETOSIS THE EASIEST WAY to BURN FAT' is prominent. A sign-up form on the right asks for personal information and includes a 'RUSH MY TRIAL' button. The bottom of the ad shows logos for Verified by VISA, MasterCard SECURE, and TRUSTe.

There's a lot of misunderstanding about what is going on with ObamaCare, and one of the things that I've noticed in discussions with Greenlyfe Ketoclients, is that there's an underlying set of myths that people have picked up about health care reform that just aren't true. But because of all they've heard in the media, people believe these myths are actually true.

Today we're going to talk about three Greenlyfe Keto myths I hear most commonly. Not everybody believes these myths, but enough do, and others are unsure what to believe, so it warrants dispelling these myths now.
