Warranty expectations & exclusions

Some examples of common jewelry issues that would not be considered as manufacturing defects include:

- Discoloration due to exposure to chemicals, make-up, swimming pools, hot tubs.
- Prongs and precious metals, in general, wear over time and may require restoration work.
- Bent, caught or worn out prong(s) allowing a stone to fall out or be lost due to normal wear or other damage.
- Lost stones or a stone has fallen out due to chipping or breaking caused by normal wear or other damage.

Please note that slight irregularities and variations in craftsmanship or natural characteristics, or internal inclusions, visible or invisible to each item. These characteristics are considered as part of the character of the item, and should not be considered a defect.

Sincerely,

Management of Mo's Ringlets.
