I Wondered Who He Was

by Ed Loan

During the recent Bunker Hill Day celebration, crowds anxiously lined the parade route in a virtual sea of ribbons and flags. This year's celebration was extra special as the town welcomed home her deserving heroes of Desert Shield and Desert Storm. Following the Desert Storm troops rode a solitary vehicle which almost slipped past unnoticed among all the excitement. A sign on the vehicle's door identified its occupant as Honorary Chief Marshal John Daly, a member of Bunker Hill Post 26, The American Legion and a veteran of World War I.

For a few moments my mind slipped away from the ribbons and the hoopla. I remembered watching the recent PBS special "The Civil War." During one of its episodes, film footage was shown from a 1938 parade in which a handful of surviving veterans of that war were being driven in open-top cars. At the time I thought it such a loss that as the white-haired soldiers waved to the crowd they rode off into time. No one had bothered to inquire of their lives or experiences — and that part of history was gone forever. The veterans of World War I are today in the same category, few in number and dwindling rapidly. Soon, too, their personal experiences will be lost.

As Daly's vehicle inched out of sight I wondered who he was, where he'd been and what his once-youthful eyes had beheld. Being a member of Post 26, I concluded he must have been a resident of the town — what did he remember of Charlestown past? Upon inquiring about John Daly, I was told that besides being a veteran he had been a great vaudeville entertainer and, along with his wife Lola, once ran a very popular dance school on Main Street.

In the weeks that followed the parade, a conversation with Daly revealed a man who is vigorous, witty and warm. His life, which has spanned more than a century, proved to be a virtual treasure chest of memories.

What was most impressive was his precision mind that could recall 1900 as if it were yesterday. What was there for the asking went beyond the amazing and surely won't be found in any history book. We embarked

JOHN DALY, shown here with his son Ed, enjoyed this year's Bunker Hill Day festivities, including being a headtable guest at Bunker Hill Post 26, The American Legion's "Nite Before" Banquet, riding in the parade as an Honorary Chief Marshal and taking part in some post-parade partying. Daly is a century old and is a charter member of Post 26. (photo by John Dillon)

Cablevision's 'Party In The Park' Rocks Charlestown

CABLEVISION'S "Party in the Park" free concert was held in the Training Field on Aug. 8. Co-sponsored by the city of Boston Parks Department, the Cablevision concert kicked off with a set of music by Sky Blues, a Boston-based rock band. Charlestown residents, many toting children and picnic dinners, poured into the park and awaited the headline act of the evening — a set by the Boston rhythm and blues band Taylor-Made. Taylor-Made took the stage and had the crowd up and dancing to the classic hits of Motown. Those in attendance enjoyed the very special night of music.

★ Thompson Square — A two-car accident on Main Street on Aug. 9 sent one driver to the Mass. General Hospital by ambulance suffering from leg, head and back injuries.

The incident occurred when both vehicles were entering the intersection on Main Street at the Austin and Green streets traffic lights. The car traveling inbound on Main Street reportedly attempted to take a left turn onto Green Street, colliding with the car traveling along Main Street toward Sullivan Square. The impact of the collision, that happened on a rain-slicked roadway at dusk, could be heard from some distance, bringing many residents to the scene. Both cars had to be towed due to the extensive damage that resulted from the head-on accident.

★ Common Street — The proposal by Bruce Daniel to build two single-family dwellings on a vacant lot at 23-24 Common St. was heard by the city's Board of Appeal on Aug. 13. After hearing testimony from the Boston Redevelopment Authority, the Mayor's Office of Neighborhood Services and the Charlestown Neighborhood Council requesting deferral, the Board voted to postpone action on the proposal until a Sept. 10 hearing.

The BRA's request for deferral was based on a need for more community input through public meetings. The Neighborhood Services spokesperson outlined the public safety concerns of area residents and the developer's failure to include an adequate parking scheme in the proposal.

Neighborhood Council Chairman Dennis McLaughlin, by means of a letter to the Board, requested a deferral until all public safety issues were settled.

Daniel also asked the Board to defer his request on the proposal.

A community meeting is being scheduled for the first week in September to address the concerns raised at the Board hearing.

★ Charlestown — The U.S. Postal Service has designated Charlestown a test area for a new computerized bar code system called MUM, short for MISCoded and Undercod-ed Mail, according to Dick Joyce at the J.K. Kennedy Branch office.

The MUM system has been the subject of many calls to the Patriot office in recent weeks by residents wanting to know what the

Experience The Paddy Wagon

by Kathy Giordano

Another fall season is approaching and Paddy Wagon is planning for this year's collection of colorful and richly textured hand-knit sweaters. The uniquely designed sweaters in Paddy Wagon's collection reflect knitter Christine Fennell's experiences from places she has visited and people she has met from around the world. Each sweater is custom made to the buyer's specifications, making it a treasured and much-worn item in their wardrobe.

An example of Fennell's handiwork can be seen in a sweater entitled "Traveling to Peru." Taken from a pattern dating back to the 1500s, it consists of a sequence of diamonds representing wealth, squares for strength and stars for safe travel and guidance. Her devotion to this sweater, as is evidenced in all her work, is shown by her hand picking the appropriate yarn and she found the yarn for this sweater while visiting Prince Edward Island.

Fennell stated: "My sweaters tell a story of people, combining history, patterns and a never-ending appreciation I have for things I have learned from them." Most patterns, she admits, are individual symbols and folklore put together to relay a feeling.

Fennell knits in the Norwegian circular style stitch which she says makes a stronger, longer-lasting sweater. Knitting for only four years, she says that being a left-hander gave her difficulties in trying to find someone to teach her to knit. So, she went to the library and, by searching through the books she found, taught herself to knit. She now teaches knitting classes to small groups of students.

Paddy Wagon sweaters can be seen on display at Tuttle's Dry Cleaners at 69 Main St. Variations on children's sweaters can be made on a special-order basis. Each child's sweater is given that little extra touch, including button holes on both sides and a grow-tuck on the sleeves. Adult sweaters can be purchased from stock or specially made to order.

Knitting classes will begin in September. Each class is limited to four per class for the six-week session.

Call Christine at Paddy Wagon, 241-8124, for more information on how to buy your personalized sweater or to join a knitting class.

yellow label found on their mail represents. This label, according to Joyce, "is only a way to deliver mail more efficiently and, hopefully, at reduced costs."

At the present time, only mail received at the J.F. Kennedy branch between 11 p.m. and 2 a.m. is placed through the computerized console that prints out the address and zip code, including the four-digit entry for each location. Joyce stated that not only does this system "save 10 percent on cost, but eliminates the mail being handled by a clerk before being handed to the carrier for delivery." He also reiterated that this process does not delay the mail, another frequent complaint heard from residents.

Get used to the label, we're told. By 1995, 100 percent of all mail delivered will have a bar code on it, Joyce stated, either placed there by the customer or at a Post Office facility.

★ Charlestown Navy Yard — Mayor Raymond L. Flynn, BRA representatives and the higher echelon of the biotechnology, pharmaceutical, financial and legal institutions of Boston gathered at Building 149 in the Navy Yard yesterday to celebrate the release of an important new book about the biotechnology industry entitled "The Business of Biotechnology, From the Bench to the Street."

The festivities took place at the Mass. General Hospital's Cancer Center in Building 149. The editor of the book, Dr. R. Dana Ono, is a leading spokesman for the biotechnology industry and is president and chief executive officer of Arcturus Pharmaceutical Corp. The formation of Arcturus will coincide with the release of the book this week.

The company will develop and manufacture products for the dermatology market, and will be located in the Charlestown Navy Yard.

★ City Square — The City Square Park design comment packages are still available at the Patriot office and at the Charlestown Branch Library for residents to pick up and review. The period for comment has been extended to Friday, Aug. 23. According to Stephen Collins, Charlestown liaison for the Central Artery/Tunnel and Central Artery/North Area projects, all comment must be returned by this date to either the Patriot or the library.

For more information, call Collins at 951-6005.

★ Street Reconstruction Contracts — Charlestown Neighborhood Council Chairman Dennis McLaughlin has been spending his month's break from council meetings busily tracking down information of the BRA street contracts that were scheduled to begin this month. According to McLaughlin, frequent calls to Paul Barrett, the BRA's assistant director for Harbor Planning and Development, have yet to bring forward any concrete answers as to when the contracts will begin.

A total of 26 streets are scheduled to undergo reconstruction with this BRA contract, a topic of meetings in the community this past spring. Council members and the Patriot office have been besieged with telephone calls from residents living on those streets asking for information on the status of the project. Barrett informed the Patriot that the BRA Board took action on the issue at their last meeting, but there has been no response from the BRA in attempts to obtain documentation on the Board's vote.

McLaughlin stated that he is in the process of trying to set a meeting with BRA representatives, council members and the Patriot to discuss the contracts before the council's monthly meeting in September.

Inglis Joins Boston Law Firm

Attorney Richard A. Gargiulo, partner in the Boston law firm of Gargiulo, Rudnick and Gargiulo, announce that Attorney Richard J. Inglis of Charlestown has joined the firm as an associate.

ATTORNEY RICHARD J. INGLIS

In making the announcement Gargiulo said, "Rich Inglis is a bright young lawyer with some finely honed skills. He is enthusiastic and dynamic and we look forward to working with him."

"During his years at Suffolk Law School, Inglis distinguished himself academically," Gargiulo said, "and he was the author of a number of significant articles. He also worked on the school's Law Journal."

"Inglis also did some outstanding work clerking," Gargiulo concluded, "and we believe that his thoroughness and attention to detail make him a young attorney worth watching."

Inglis is a native of Canada and a cum laude graduate of Mount Allison University in Sackville, New Brunswick in 1986. After coming to the United States, he sought admission at Suffolk University Law School and graduated cum laude in 1990.

LOOK BEYOND THE SURFACE OF A HOUSE

There are a lot of diamonds in the rough that are for sale. These are homes in great locations, with large sunny rooms, nice big yards, and awful wallpaper, dusty drapes, old wall-to-wall carpeting and bathrooms that are not at all inspiring.

Many buyers have a hard time looking beyond the surface of houses that have incredible potential. If you can learn to do this, however, you could find yourself with a home that is just a little elbow grease away from being fantastic. If the house is structurally sound and if the systems are in good condition, cosmetic work may be all it needs. Remember, too, that a home that does not show well is usually priced accordingly. Even if it's not, the seller may be more negotiable than one who had made a considerable investment in preparing his home to look its best. So bring your imagination with you on your next house-hunting trip! You might be pleasantly surprised.

If there's a move in your future, the real estate professionals at Monument Properties are ready to serve you. Call us at 241-5900 or drop by our offices at 85 Warren St. in Charlestown.

Not For Nothin' ... But Have You Heard ...

• Welcome Home ... Greetings go out to Chris Goggin who's home on leave having served with the Marine Corps in the Persian Gulf. Hope you noticed all the yellow ribbons on Charlestown's street lights waiting to welcome you home, Chris! ... Have a wonderful R&R!

• Bulletin ... Now that Bernie Kelly is recuperating nicely, he has promised to return to The Coffee Shop in Thompson Square and "buy a round" for the old gang. Lorraine has a sign-up sheet for all who want to be included in this once-in-a-lifetime event! Stay tuned. This occasion will merit full coverage in the Patriot!

• He Made It ... to Maine in his sailboat ... but not by sea! We're glad to report that after last week's story about the adventure of Bob Rush at sea, he finally got his newly purchased sailboat up to the Maine shores, but ... we're told ... only by towing it up there at the back of his car! Even that created some difficult navigational problems when heavy rains and gusting winds almost force him off the road ... Uh, Bob! Some people are just meant to be land lubbers. Worth a consideration, don't you think?

• Word From Chicago ... has arrived from John Lynch! We were happy to hear from the coach this week, and he wants to say "Hi" to all his old friends back home, especially his Curtin Club Little League team and their parents! John says he and Kelly are settled in and awaiting his first class at law school in a few weeks. In comparing Chicago to Boston, John says that the sales tax is 8%, train fare is $1.25, traffic is just as bad, but car insurance is MORE expensive. The weather is less humid in the Windy City, he says, but he's holding all judgment on Chicago weather until after his first winter there! ... We'll miss you at the annual Little League Banquet, John!

• Political Season Is In Full Swing ... Although not much is being seen in the newspapers or on TV, campaigns for city offices have volunteers putting in a lot of hours ... First to open a campaign office in the community is Mayor Ray Flynn whose Charlestown committee has rented space in the Bunker Hill Museum's lower hall. We're told that anyone interested in hopping on the Flynn bandwagon can visit the headquarters on Thursday nights anytime after 6:30 p.m. The museum is located at 43 Monument Square (use the Monument Avenue entrance.)

• Farewell ... and best of luck to Martha Bagley who'll be leaving Boston City Councillor Robert Travaglini's office this month to attend New England Law School.

• Sign Of The Times??? ... Gone, evidently, are the days when your visit to the local Post Office would include not only a smiling face, but frequently a melody or two. Sorry to say, folks, haven't heard even a whistle lately! We know things are getting bad out there, but for the life of me we can't explain this one!

• Oops ... Last week we noted that it's been a year since Father Ron Coyne settled in this community and started the ever-growing CYO programs ... We've been reminded that CYO baseball is in its fourth successful season under the watchful eyes of Bill Connell and Rob McIntosh. These two lads have been volunteering many hours to bring the over 13 kids a chance to play ball each summer. Sorry, fellas, your efforts are most appreciated and deserve recognition from this paper and the entire community.

• Birthday Wishes ... Gold Star mother Mary Borden of Salem Street will celebrate her 82nd birthday tomorrow, Aug. 16 ... Electrician extraordinaire Mario Tognarelli of Bunker Hill Street will celebrate 50-something on Sunday, Aug. 18 ... and little Danielle Justice of Old Ironside Way will turn 8 on the 20th ... Have a wonderful year, one and all!

• Get Well Wishes ... go out to Dorothy O'Toole of the Mary Colbert Apartments who's a patient at the Lawrence Memorial Hospital. Hope you are up and about soon.

• Question Of The Week ... Where did the "40 Flights" get its name? An inquiring mind asked ... Can you answer?

• You Heard ... about the "Dog Days of Summer" that officially ended last week ... well ... Aug. 17 marks the beginning of the "Cat Nights of Summer."

• A Rummage and Boutique Sale ... will be held this Saturday, Aug. 17, at Constitution Cooperative Apartments (the former St. Mary School) at 42 Park St. starting at 10 a.m. Drop by and pick up some great buys. For more info, call 241-9565.

• Put Aside ... Thursday night, Aug. 22 for a meat raffle at the K. of C. Hall to benefit Camp Bunker Hill. Doors open at 6:30. For more info, call 241-9487.

• Countdown Continues ... only 21 days till the first day of school. Get out there and enjoy, kids!

Boys & Girls Clubs Of Boston Recognizes Charlestown Teens

Twenty-five Charlestown teen-agers were recently recognized by the Boys & Girls Clubs of Boston for their accomplishments at the Charlestown Club this past year. A dinner and awards ceremony was held at the Dorothy Quincy Suite at the Old Hancock Building.

Receiving special recognition were Michael Christopher and Corey Gallagher. Christopher received the Bartholomew A. Brickley Memorial Award for the "most improved" club member and Gallagher received the Frederic C. Church Recognition Award for the "most outstanding" club member.

Honorees included: Erin Blaikie, Joseph Burns, Michael Christopher, Francis

Feeley, Corey Gallagher, Edward Gallagher, Kelly Gilgunn, Kolleen Hayes, Patrick Healey, Dawn Hill, Joseph Kacvinsky, Christine Locke, William Machado, Nicole Matson, Courtney McLaughlin, Jodi Neff, Daniel O'Brien, Jolie O'Brien, Lynn O'Brien, Adam Olsson, Nicholas Smith, Christopher Walsh, David Walsh, Stephanie Ward and Kimberly Weafer.

Birmingham Chosen As Outstanding American Young Leader

Sen. Thomas F. Birmingham will represent the United States at the upcoming American-Swiss Association Young Leaders Conference to be held in Switzerland this month. Birmingham is one of 15 American ASA fellows nationwide who were chosen because of their outstanding public contributions by a group of U.S. senators, representatives of the media and Washington public policy institutions. The participants have demonstrated leadership in a wide variety of fields, including government, business, journalism and the arts.

The conference will be moderated by Faith R. Whittlesey, the former U.S. Ambassador to Switzerland and President of the ASA. The Americans will meet with business, media, cultural and government representatives at the highest level for a week of in-depth discussion of issues concerning international relations.

The ASA was founded after World War II by leading Swiss citizens and is supported by representatives of Swiss and American financial institutions and other large corporations. The Young Leaders Conference is designed to strengthen the ties between the future leaders of Switzerland and the U.S.

C.Y.O. NEWS by

Father Ron Coyne

• CYO Tee Ball Update — Throughout the summer, boys and girls ages 3 to 7 have been involved in the CYO Tee-Ball program. The teams have played each Saturday, and have brought great pride to our community. It is good to know that our young boys and girls do not have to leave the neighborhood to experience good programs. We have been fortunate to have sponsors, coaches and parents who have provided time, money and expertise to make this program succeed.

On Friday night, Aug. 23, there will be an appreciation dance for all parents and friends of the Tee-Ball program from 8 p.m. to midnight at the K. of C. Hall, 75 West School St. The cost for this 50s dance will be $10 per person.

The final games of the season will be played at the Barry Field (Oilies) on Saturday, Aug. 24. This will be a special day for the children as they end their first season of organized baseball.

On Sunday, Aug. 25, beginning at noon, there will be a Tee-Ball cookout at the Oilies for all the children who participated, as well as for sponsors, coaches and parents. There is no charge for admission, the food and refreshments will be free and there will be games and contests.

We would like to thank all those who have given their time to assure the success of our program. In particular we wish to thank Gene Lawrence, Jimbo Tucker, Mike Cummings, Susan Miller, Tim Dacey and Jerry Duggan.

• Deep Sea Fishing — We wish to thank the 55 teenagers and eight adults who took part in our first deep sea trip sponsored by the Adolescent Task Force, including the CYO. Cash prizes were awarded to Brendan Brennan for the first fish caught and to Joe Fitzgerald for the biggest fish and the most fish caught.

The day was so successful that we have another planned for Friday, Aug. 16. The bus will leave at 5:45 a.m. and the cost of the trip is only $10 per person.

We wish to extend special thanks to Teamsters Local 25 for donating the cost of the bus that transported us from Charlestown to Plymouth.

• CCD Classes (Public School Religious Education)

— Father Coyne will be sending letters to all the families of the parish who have public school children in grades 1 through 8 inviting them to register for CCD classes for the school year. Our religious education coordinator is Julie Quinn, and we have wonderful people from the parish who volunteer to share their faith with our children.

We realize that there are many people who have not been able to encourage their children to come to Mass and religious education faithfully. This is an opportunity to ask the church to help you raise your children in a healthy environment.

Registration will be held in the lower rectory on Sunday, Sept. 8 from 9 a.m. to noon. Classes begin on Sunday, Sept. 15 for grades 1-6 and will be held from 9:45 to 10:45 a.m. Grade 7 and 8 will begin on Monday, Sept. 16 and will run from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

The registration fee is $10 per child, and $25 for a family of three or more. We encourage all children to attend Mass each week.

Ceremonies Mark Official Opening Of Hayes Square Park

For months, residents watched and speculated as changes began to happen at Hayes Square — changes that saw a transition from a sometimes badly kept area into a stunning new park with original artwork, lights, landscaping and a flagpole with the nation's colors proudly waving in the warm breezes.

City and state officials joined residents for ceremonies officially marking the opening of the new park. There was pride in many a heart as residents had worked side-by-side of the flag by an honor guard from USS Constitution.

Anne Considine, chairperson of the Bunker Hill Tenants Task Force, served as moderator for the event. She introduced invited guests and told of the creation of the park.

Considine spoke of it being a special day for the residents of the housing development and the entire Charlestown community. She said that the monument in the park represents our history as well as our future in that the hours of the sun-

She singled out John Ballard, the first Task Force director, who developed the proposal that was approved and funded in the amount of $250,000 by the Browne Fund back in 1985. She also praised former Task Force chairperson Mary MacInnes for her untiring work in seeing the park grow from an idea to a reality.

In addition, Considine thanked the sculptress Lu Stubbs, noting that she worked closely with Ballard and MacInnes in creating the idea, and her vision brought to life the ideas of the community.

Considine went on to thank Nicholas Reed for designing the park, and Mayor Raymond L. Flynn and Bob Flemming of the Browne Fund for continued support and commitment to the effort.

She concluded by acknowledging the very special contribution to the park's maintenance made by St. Catherine Parish, the Boston Housing Authority and McCarthy Bros. Liquors. In fact, Richie McCarthy's father Henry traveled from Florida to join the ceremonies.

MacInnes was called to the microphone. She told how happy she was with the completion of the park, adding that to express it fully would "take a hundred hours." She added that the sculpture was a work of love, for the boy and girl at the sundial were modeled by Stubbs' grandchildren.

Mayor Flynn was introduced and he stated that the sculpture was one of the "most remarkable pieces of art in the city . . . and is a real tribute to this community." He said that it is most notable that the art shows the crafts people who not only built the community but also built the city. He concluded by presenting MacInnes with a citation, proclaiming it Mary MacInnes Day in Boston.

Stubbs told the audience that it was an honor to create the art and a pleasure to work with the residents and designer Nick Reed on the park. She noted that it is a working sundial — on standard time — but cautioned those present not to rely on its time to catch a train.

Others present for the ceremonies included Rep. Richard A. Voke, House Majority Leader; Boston City Councillor Robert Travaglini; Boston Parks Commissioner Larry Dwyer; and Parks Regional Administrator James "Stretch" Walsh.

on a nostalgic walk through the streets of old Charlestown with a few excursions away from home, most notably to the trenches of World War I France . . . only to return to John's beloved Charlestown.

The Beginning

John's life began on Endicott Street in Boston's North End on Feb. 10, 1891. At that time, the North End was a densely populated Irish stronghold awash with ward politicians. Just down the street from John's house, JFK's mother Rose Fitzgerald had been born the year before. It was through the North End's busy streets that John's father drove a team of horses, delivering hay and freight seven days a week for $14.

When John was about 3, his family moved across the water to Charlestown to be near some relatives. The Daly family settled in at Hillside Place, next to the present day Charlestown Working Theater. John fondly remembers the area of the Neck — his words seemed to flow without effort, as if rehearsed. The Charlestown that he recalled from his childhood was, for the most part, quite unfamiliar except for a few landmarks that still exist today. Many streets he discussed simply don't exist anymore and many of today's old buildings hadn't yet been constructed.

The Charlestown of Yesteryear

Imagine, if you will, a time when no jets lumbered overhead from Logan Airport and there were no cars or traffic jams. Instead, horses' hoofs and the rattle of wagons could be heard on the streets that sliced between the rows of clapboard houses. John recalled the abundance of privately run grocery and dry good stores, as well as bakeries and furniture shops. Daly said: "The town was clannish with many of the old Yankee families around, but still people did for each other."

The policemen of the time he remembered as friendly as they walked their beats, tipping their tall round hats. Their coats, he continued, reached below their knees with a large belt and a star on its breast. Horse-drawn trolley cars carried passengers over Bunker Hill and Main streets which were not yet paved. Instead, rails had been laid over crushed rock and earth which was littered with its share of horse manure.

Young John attended the Bunker Hill School on the corner of Baldwin Street. Without hesitation, he told of classmates as well as the one-legged principal, Mr. Bullock. John recalled: "Bullock was a Civil War veteran who lost his leg at the Battle of Bull Run. On certain holidays he would come around and tell us about his time in the war."

Continuing, John noted: "You didn't see much electricity or gas in those days. Instead you ran your house on coal or wood. We used to get three bundles of wood for 10 cents and the abundance of ashes were picked up by a wagon provided by the city."

John remembered with great enthusiasm the old horse-drawn fire engines. "You had to have seen them," he recalled, "to appreciate their beauty and excitement. They were pulled by three horses. I can still see them galloping along Main Street. The driver worked the horses furiously while the engineer on the back was shoveling coal . . . black smoke billowing . . . bells ringing." He continued, "Besides what you have today in the town, in the old days we had Engine 27 on Elm Street, Engine 36 on Monument Street and Ladder 9 was at a separate station at Hancock Square (Eden Street area)."

The fire that John remembered most occurred at City Square's Waverly House Hotel at the turn of the century. At the time, the Waverly was billed as the largest and finest hotel in Boston. The structure stood six-stories high and occupied the site of the recently demolished YMCA. John remembered that the equipment of the time was so poor that the fire smoldered for almost a week. Daly was among the spectators who stood outside Roughan's Hall just across the square. Daly recalled: "The heavy smoke forced the firemen to bring the horses back to the station. Then there was the arrival of a wagon after wagon of coal to keep the engines fired."

Love Of Show Biz Born

When John was 5 years old, something very special happened in his young life. One day John's grandmother took him by the hand and the two boarded a street car which slowly rocked its way to Scollay Square. It was at the famed theater district that the young boy was to see his first vaudeville show at Austin and Stones Olympia Theater. The billboard that particular day advertised Adjie and her Lions. The wide-eyed boy was awestruck as the woman pulled a lion's mouth open and stuck her head inside. It was something he would never forget . . . his love for show biz had been born. As he rode home that day along Main Street, not even the prized front seat behind the wheelman seemed to interest him. Instead, young Daly stared from the streetcar imagining himself up on the stage with the lions.

The young boy's fascination with the stage was nurtured by two uncles. One uncle, Eddie, was himself a traveling vaudeville performer. Another uncle was the property manager at Boston's Howard Theater. John related: "Having an uncle that was a property manager was a real asset. My uncle's introductions caused many a doorman to turn his head when I wanted to see a show — and see shows I did!" The impressionable youth witnessed a wide variety of acts including comedy, dramatics, dance and acrobatics.

Old Sullivan Square

When not slipping off after school or on the weekends to see a show, John found other forms of entertainment at Charlestown's Neck. John remembered with great pleasure the Sullivan Square area of his youth and went on to describe it as it appeared from the entrance of his home on Hillside Place.

With a grin on his face, John stared off as if looking over the area he described. "Over on Beach Street, which ran through the present-day site of Engine 32, the sound of blacksmith Ed Bradley's anvil could be heard. The Schrafft's candy factory hadn't been built . . . instead there were large wharfs where huge ships came and went daily, unloading wares which were mostly cotton and lumber with its distinct smell."

Motioning with his hands, he continued: "Main Street was not as wide as it is today and it continued straight out to Somerville because there was no rotary or underpass. The Ryan Playground was a large open field about twice its present size as it stretched to the side of Alford Street leading from Everett. A portion of the field was used as the city dump."

"Beyond Alford Street in the direction of Somerville, lay the Canal District. The area was a congested collection of working-class clapboard houses. It was also the home of the famed Van Hostrands brewery. Across from the Canal District lay the once-grand Sullivan Square park." John recalled with great delight the grandeur of the park which ran along Sever Street. The area is today a parking lot under the overpass. Daly stated: "In the park's center was a water fountain surrounded by benches, trees and lovely grass. The park was encircled by fashionable townhouses. Across from the park, where the present-day 'T' station is located, rows of houses were divided by now nonexistent streets such as Kingston, Gardner and Hav-

As John put it, "The area was not yet a bustling transportation center. The elevated trains were still in the talking stage and the expanse was still unscarred by the automobile and the many large roads it would bring with it. It was an oasis."

John spent many a carefree day at the park in Sullivan Square with boyhood pals who helped him imitate many of the acts he had witnessed, especially acrobatics in which he began to show a great interest. John told of the day that one of his acts was interrupted by music and a gathering crowd. Marching down Bunker Hill Street was the Ninth Massachusetts Regiment. As the troops turned onto Mishawum Street, John and his friends ran beside them. "The men were marching to Somerville to board troop trains," John related. It was 1898 and the United States was at war with Spain. As the boy paraded along Mishawum Street in all his innocence, off on a distant plain, a different conflict awaited him.

The 20th Century Begins

As if trying to keep his conversation in perfect order, he fittingly ended the 19th century by recalling January 1, 1900. Daly remembered sitting in the family's kitchen while his mother explained to him that it was the first day of the 20th century. Not only would Charlestown see some drastic changes in the new century, but also changes in young John's life. Perhaps the most severe change Charlestown would see during this time was the beginning phases of construction of the elevated train tracks, or as more commonly referred to, the El, in 1901.

Across the street from John's beloved Sullivan Square Park, noisy riveters clung to a large steel skeleton that would be the new train station, disturbing forever the serenity of John's stage in the park. Next the elevated track began to snake its way along Main Street, poisoning much of what lay in its path. John noted that the El had a disastrous effect on property values along Main Street, causing many of the old families to relocate and leave the once-quiet street. Daly said: "Many of the grand old houses lost their beauty to the noisy trains. One such residence was the Baldwin House located between School and Salem streets. The house stretched from Main to High streets and its large garden could boast of grapes, raspberries and peaches — but like John's park, it would never be the same."

(Next week, the reader will travel with John Daly from the stage to the trenches of France during World War I.)

THE COMMON at Sullivan Square is part of John Daly's memories of the Charlestown of yesteryear. The common, bounded by Main, Cambridge, Sever and Gardner streets, is now the site of the Sullivan Square overpass, the parking lot and Maffa Way, which ran through the middle of what was the common. (photo courtesy of Tom Flynn)

Charlestown 'Red Shirts' Hit The Streets

by Colleen Cronin

The "Red Shirts" have taken to the streets, parks, vacant lots and housing developments of Charlestown again this summer as part of the Boston Youth Cleanup Corps (BYCC).

Since 1986, the BYCC has employed thousands of inner city teen-agers and has enabled them to experience a sense of accomplishment that comes from dedication and hard work. Mayor Raymond L. Flynn created the program to meet the overwhelming need to employ the youth of Boston and to supplement the city's five-year capital improvement plan "Rebuilding Boston," a $1.01 billion program to upgrade Boston's infrastructure. Last summer the program employed 1,800 Boston teen-agers, 14 to 17, according to Parks Commissioner Larry Dwyer, who oversees the program.

The Red Shirts, as the crews are known because of their uniforms, are overseen by an adult supervisor. In addition to the cleaning crews, youths are employed in community-based organizations as recreational assistants, clerical support staff, day-care workers and day camp counselors. Other crews include Junior Park Rangers, Urban Wilds, and Maintenance, composed of the trash, paint and chipper crews.

A Red Shirt job provides a positive atmosphere for Boston youths and teaches them the importance of hard work, self-discipline, cooperation and community pride," said Dwyer.

Five cleaning crews are assigned to the Charlestown community. The crews are based at the Charlestown Boys & Girls Club, the Mishawum housing development, Charlestown High School, Doherty Playground and the Bunker Hill Housing Development.

Three of the crews recently joined forces to tackle the eyesore behind the Clougherty Pool at the Doherty Playground. According to Operations Director Brian Ward, the project was the largest cleanup in the community this summer and took a week to complete.

Charlestown High School Crew Supervisor Jim Hingston said: "The summer has been going great, there have been no problems to report. Everything is right on schedule, the weather has been good, and I have a great group of kids in my crew."

Lynn O'Brien, 16, of Charlestown said the Red Shirt position is an ideal summer job because the rules are easy to follow and their work makes Charlestown look better.

Charlestown Boys & Girls Club Crew Supervisor Paul Collins said: "The Red Shirt program teaches the kids responsibility that continues on in life. Local residents have commented on the good work the crews are doing and there has been nothing but positive feedback."

Ward said that the Parks Department has received numerous letters and telephone calls complimenting the work of the Charlestown crews as well as many requests for possible site clean ups. Inquiries for clean ups should be made to the Trash Hotline at 725-4500.

Music For A Summer's Night . . .

The city is presenting several summer concert series, with the Friday and Saturday concerts under the sponsorship of Mayor Raymond Flynn's Office of Business and Cultural Development and the Wednesday concerts sponsored by the Boston Parks Department.

• Friday, Aug. 16 — The Waterfront Jazz Showcase Series presents the White Heat Swing Orchestra performing from 6 to 8 p.m. at Christopher Columbus Park on Atlantic Avenue.

• Saturday, Aug. 17 — Davy Jones will perform at City Hall Plaza in the Oldies Concert Series at 7 p.m.

• Wednesday, Aug. 21 — Herb Reed and The Platters will be featured at Haymarket Bank Night on City Hall Plaza at 7:30 p.m.

New Director Welcomed At Little Patriots Day Care

The Charlestown Boys & Girls Club is happy to announce that Barbara Croteau began as the new Director of Little Patriots Day Care Center on July 29. Croteau has over 10 years experience in the day-care field and for the past seven years has been director of Preschool Concepts in Woburn. She has a B.S. in Early Childhood Education from Framingham State College.

Mary-Adele Weingenback, former director of Little Patriots, will be pursuing her studies in Europe this fall.

Anyone who needs day care for their child may contact Croteau at the Boys & Girls Club, 242-1775.

Board Of Appeal

Public hearings will be held by the Board of Appeal of the city of Boston at 9:30 a.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 27 in Room 801 of Boston City Hall.

• Bernard & Judith Evers have applied for variances from the Boston Zoning Code for 24R St. Martin St. relative to Articles 14(14-1) 14(14-4) 18(18-1) 20(20-1). The owners wish to sub-divide this lot from the lot that contains a one-family dwelling at 24 St. Martin St. They would take 2,820 square feet of land and erect a one-family dwelling on this lot.

• Douglas MacDonald seeks variances from the Boston Zoning Code for 23 Union Street relative to Articles 8(8-7-8) 14(14-2) 15(15-1). The owner wishes to change the legal occupancy of 23 Union St. from a three-family to a four-family dwelling and also construct decks and stairs.

Neal Guest Of Honor At Commissioning Ceremony

BRIG. GEN. RICHARD I. NEAL, USMC, recently gave the oath of office to seven new Marine Second Lieutenants at commissioning ceremonies on "USS Constitution." Shown at the reception that followed in the Preble Room in Building 5 in the Charlestown Navy Yard are (l. to r.): Bill Hughes, Marine veteran of Korea and Vietnam; Gen. Neal; and Marine veteran of Korea, Jim Conway, commander of Bunker Hill Post 26, The American Legion.

Helen Van Wart Dies At 82

Helen S. (Kelly) Van Wart of Cross Street, Charlestown died at home on Aug. 8 after a long illness. She was 82.

Mrs. Van Wart, the widow of A. Wylie Van Wart, was a lifelong resident of Charlestown.

She was founder and past president of the Bunker Hill Garden Club, and was a member of the Charlestown Historical Society.

Mrs. Van Wart is survived by her niece, Peggy Tassinari; a great-nephew Paul Tassinari; two great-nieces, Cheryl and Michelle Tassinari; and four sisters, Catherine Dion of California, Mary Brennan of Florida, Louise Fama of Charlestown and Dorothy O'Neil of New Hampshire.

A Funeral Mass was said for Mrs. Van Wart on Aug. 12 at St. Catherine Church and burial was at Woodlawn Cemetery, Everett.

Arrangements were made by the John H. Sawyer Funeral Home.

Girls Center Gossip . . .

Basketball Tournament — On Aug. 8, 21 girls participated in the first annual 3-on-3 Basketball Tournament. The night was a great success, and fun was had by all.

We would like to thank referee Jason MacDonald for helping the center out.

The winning team was Courtney McLaughlin, Nicole Matson and Colleen Walsh. Congratulations, girls, on a job well done.

Other participants in the tournament were: Linda Rizzo, Jacque Neff, Michelle McLaughlin, Colleen Callahan, Bonnie O'Leary, Janelle Kelley, Helena Reilly, Christine Locke, Kristin Connolly, Nicole Mainey, Katie O'Leary, Erin Brennan, Stephanie Ward, Erin McDonough, Erin Powers, Shannon McLaughlin, Loreen Jones and Kelly Gilgunn.

Martha's Vineyard — Last week we took six girls to Martha's Vineyard for the day. The weather was perfect and the beach was nice. Call us at the gym if you'd like to go on one of our beach trips this summer. For more information about Girls Center events, call Melanie, Mimi or Sue at 635-5169.

Boston Barons Hockey Tryouts

The Boston Barons Quinn Club, an A.H.A.C.M. and A.H.A.U.S. registered team, is looking for players to travel and compete in Europe in March 1992. Only players born in 1976 and 1977 may tryout.

For the seventh year in a row, the Barons have been invited to the Chris Verwijst International Ice Hockey Tournament, held annually in Tilburg, Holland.

Teams expected for the 1992 tournament are: Tilburg, Holland - Host Team; the National Teams of Austria, Great Britain, Holland, Italy, Norway, Poland and Sweden; and the Select Teams of Russia and the Boston Barons.

The cost for a player is $1,550 and for a parent, $1,880. The trip next year will be for 13 days, from March 10 to March 22. Prior to the tournament, the team and travel party will be in Sittard, Holland for six days to play friendship games and they will sightsee in Germany, Belgium and Holland.

The registration fee is $40, and tryouts will be at Kasabuski Rink in Saugus on Saturday, Aug. 17 from 10 a.m. to noon and on Sunday, Aug. 18 from 9 to 11 a.m.

For more information, contact Ed Johnson at 241-9891, John Tibbetts at 242-3255 or Phil Coleman at 242-3006.

CYO Tee-Ball Update

by Mike Cummings

The game schedule for Saturday, Aug. 17 is:

Field 1

10 a.m. - Teams 4 vs. 6
11:45 a.m. - Teams 8 vs. 2
1:15 p.m. - Teams 5 vs. 3

Field 2

1 p.m. - Teams 1 vs. 7
Although most of last Saturday's games had to be cancelled because of the rain, the last games of the day were played thanks to the efforts of some of the baseball players and their coach in fixing up the field. They are a pretty determined bunch of youngsters.

Players of the Game

Russ's A.A. — Daniel "Lefty" Buhay and Steve Carr

Reminder

On Friday, Aug. 23 from 8 p.m. to midnight, there will be a CYO Tee-Ball Appreciation Oldies Dance to benefit the league at the K. of C. Hall, 75 West School St.

Tickets are $10 per person, and may be obtained by calling Mike Cummings at 242-2416, Gene Lawrence at 242-9835 or Jimbo Tucker at 242-3470.

BOBBY D'S BEAT

by

Bob DeCristoforo

■ Going For The Gold . . . Tuesday, Aug. 6 was a red letter day for me. How often does one get the chance to congratulate five of his friends in St. Cloud, Minn. who had just been selected for the '92 USA Olympic Ice Hockey Team? Billy Guerin (BC), Scott LaChance (BU), Ted Donato (Harvard), Ted Crowley (BC) and Keith Tkachuk (BU) were ecstatic, to say the least. I am still overwhelmed!

■ Bunker Hill Junior Ball Hockey . . . Six teams — McGinty's Crew, Snappies II, Coconut's Cagemen, Revenge of the W, Junior JAFT and Thorton's Melons — are battling for playoff spots in the Bunker Hill Junior Ball Hockey League. The Revenge of the W currently holds the top spot. The league is an offspring of the successful spring league held at the Boys & Girls Club. Tommy McGrath is doing a fine job coordinating the league. Among his helpers are Donny Kelsey and Jason MacDonald.

■ The Globe's Here . . . Pat Owens, Ming Ngan, Danny Dollosa and Billy Schofield accompanied me on a tour of The Boston Globe as part of our ongoing Project Discovery program. It was another trip where we all learned something and it gave us better insight and appreciation of what it takes to put a daily newspaper together.

■ Summer Wheels . . . Summer Wheels made two stops this week when 22 teens spent an enjoyable evening at Canobie Lake, and 25 teens made a return trip to Hampton Beach. The trips are hosted by the Bunker Hill Teen Council.

Participants were Eric Gould, Billy Schofield, Jay Kelsey, Melissa Pacheco, Jeff Houlihan, Desiree Eatherton, Melanie Segal, Rachel Melaugh, Shannon Anzalone, Sheila Sumners, Moriann Smith, Pat Owens, Ming Ngan, Dan Dollosa, Danny Jones, Joe Donahue, Kelly Seward and Angel Mondonaldo.

Also, Yarelis Mondonaldo, Jimmy Yandle, Cindy Campbell, Leslie Gould, Kevin McMaster, Dede Arroyo, Angelique Kane, Jacquelyn MacDougall, Allison Evers, Marcus Alvarado, Ricky Evers, Kerry Gould, Nano Arroyo, Joey Boyden, Sean Mullins, Tommy Gould, Jill Doherty and Joe Gilmore.

■ Bunker Hill All Stars . . . The Bunker Hill All-Star Basketball team will play a Boston Police Department team on Saturday, Aug. 24 as part of the Bunker Hill Carnival Day. The game will begin at 10:30 a.m., and the All Stars will be led by Anthony Matson, Mike Erardi and Stephen Mahan.

■ Congratulations, Mr. Loan . . . Pearl Street in Charlestown is home to many great Charlestown families, and often as we rush around we may unintentionally lose sight of families and family members. We forget the men and women, the husband and wife, who work hard all their lives and raise a family. On Friday I attended a beautiful function which honored such a man. Jack Loan Sr. of Pearl Street was honored by his family and friends as he retired from the Somerville Fire Department where he served for well over 40 years.

Congratulations, Mr. Loan, you have a lovely wife in Patsy, two fine sons in Jack Jr. and Eddie, along with beautiful daughters-in-law and three grandchildren. You have done a fine job. You give love and you are loved — what more can anyone ask for?

A LITTLE BIT OF BACK TALK

Did you know that to become a certified chiropractor takes a minimum of six years of college training? In most states chiropractors are required to attend and pass annual seminars to have their licenses renewed.

The government has endorsed the use of chiropractors by including their treatment in Workmen's Compensation.

If you've been hesitant about seeing a chiropractor and this hasn't answered your questions, feel free to ask us directly. Call today.

Camp Bunker Hill Is Alive And Well

by Michael Cauley

Thanks again to the citizens of Charlestown, the Friends of Camp Bunker Hill and the staff of the Bunker Hill Health Center and Mass. General Hospital, Camp Bunker Hill is alive, well and full.

The meat raffle at the end of June raised over $760, with Paul Allen winning the scratch ticket raffle. Now because of this and other efforts, over 40 youngsters and teens are enjoying their seven weeks of fun in the sun, an increase of 10 youngsters from last year.

Every morning the children meet at Charlestown High School (thank you, Community Schools). From there, the adventures of each day begin anew. Already the children have been swimming, fishing and making a variety of craft projects. In addition, there have also been field trips to Hale Reservation. The groups have been boating, using the ropes course and exploring the "wilds" of the new rock cabin.

All in all, it has been an excellent start to the camp's 21st year. Most importantly, there's a lot more ahead. As the summer progresses, there will be more special events and field trips, taking advantage of the Navy Yard, rookie ball and the Harbor Islands.

There was even a special challenge softball game with the Friends of Camp Bunker Hill vs. the staff of MGH/Bunker Hill Health Center last month. In early August, there will be an appreciation day to thank all of our loyal supporters. But for those of us who work or attend camp we hope these pictures begin to tell you how important and worthwhile your efforts have been. We're back and better because of you. Thanks everyone.

American Dry Systems . . . A Dry Cleaner For Your Carpets

by Kathy Giordano

Dry cleaning for your carpets? Why not! After all doesn't that carpet or upholstery in your home or office deserve the same treatment you would give to your fine clothing?

American Dry Systems brings the same fine care into your home or office that you expect to find at the corner dry-cleaner. It uses a similar non-toxic solvent and unique oscillating process that literally blots dirt and stains out of carpet fiber and upholstery fabric.

There is no drying time from goey shampoos that often leave water stains. Colors won't run or be distorted by hot water or steam. The process also eliminates the possibility of mildew forming or ruined wood floors from damp carpets.

According to owner Mark Dullea of Charlestown, the process used by American Dry Systems is especially safe for priceless antique Orientals and other high-value wool rugs because of the low moisture cleaning method rated number one in a recent Consumer Reports magazine. "It surpasses all the wet processes tested," he said.

American Dry Systems guarantees all work and offers in-home and office service at convenient day, evening or weekend hours. For service or a list of reasonable rates, call 242-9657.

Bunker Hill Girls Club Holds Annual Reunion

THE ANNUAL Bunker Hill Girls Club Reunion provides an opportunity for old friends to meet and enjoy an evening together. At the same time, the funds realized from this event along with generous contributions from benefactors provide the basis for the annual Graham-Redgate-Wall Scholarships that assist present Boys & Girls Club members with their high school tuition. Shown TOP ROW (l. to r.) Jerry Steimel, director of the Charlestown Boys

BOTTOM ROW: Sharon

Burke, a student at St. Francis de Sales, is congratulated as a scholarship recipient by Graham and Maryann McCabe, representing the Wall family; Erin Blaikie of St. Francis de Sales School is presented a scholarship by Graham; Corey Gallagher, a student at St. Francis de Sales School, is congratulated by McCabe on receiving a scholarship; and McDonough congratulates Victoria Pinder of St. Catherine School as a scholarship recipient.

Weld Salutes BHCC's Fenway Program

Gov. William Weld joined educators as well as city and state officials at Bunker Hill Community College on July 31 to pay tribute to an innovative partnership between the college and the Boston Public Schools that encourages at-risk high school students to complete their education.

A ground-breaking ceremony was held on the BHCC campus for the $350,000 modular classroom project that will serve high school students from Boston Public Schools this fall. The collaboration between BHCC and the Boston schools is the first of its kind in Massachusetts. The graduation rate for students taking part in the program, which began at Bunker Hill last fall, is 88 percent higher than the citywide rate.

"The collaboration between BHCC and the Boston Public Schools provides a great opportunity for students to get the most out of their secondary education while gaining a better understanding of the scope and advantages of higher education," said Piedad Robertson, president of BHCC. "The Fenway Middle College High School Program also enables BHCC to carry out its mission as a community college. At BHCC, we enroll more graduates of the city's schools than any other higher education institution."

Robertson, who will be the governor's new education secretary starting in September, welcomed the governor along with other special guests including Sen. Thomas Birmingham and Rep. Mark Roosevelt, co-chairmen of the Legislature's Education Committee, and new Boston Public Schools Superintendent Lois Harrison Jones.

William Craft, vice president of planning and external resources at BHCC, said the groundbreaking ceremony gave special recognition to the value of community support.

"What has made this possible is the support of an anonymous donor who has pledged $280,000 toward the project which will also be funded through the BHCC Foundation," Craft said. "That kind of enthusiastic support is invaluable to us as we work more and more with the community to gain support for programs that provide those we serve with access to high-quality educational opportunities."

Robertson said the success of the Fenway Program

shows educators the value of building educational linkages between higher education and primary/secondary education.

The Fenway Middle College High School Program, which served about 120 students this past year, encourages at-risk students to complete high school and enter higher education by placing them in a supportive atmosphere on a college campus with access to its activities and courses. The program provides numerous opportunities for curriculum planning and recruitment into BHCC programs.

William P.H. Borzakian Dies At 88

William P.H. Borzakian of Somerville died on Aug. 9 at the Norwood Hospital after a short illness. He was 88.

Born in Bridgewater, Mr. Borzakian grew up in Cambridge and graduated from Cambridge Rindge Technical School. He graduated from Boston University in 1924.

Before his retirement several years ago, Mr. Borzakian worked as a salesman for the Liberty Bell Wholesale Grocery Co. in Charlestown, a company founded by his father in 1888.

Mr. Borzakian is survived by a sister, Rose Zeytoonjian of Jamaica Plain and a brother, Robert P. of Westwood.

Funeral services were held for Mr. Borzakian on Aug. 13 and burial was at the Mt. Auburn Cemetery in Cambridge.

Boston Residents Angry Over Lack Of Recycling

Over 100 residents attended a hearing on July 30 to promote the expansion of recycling in Boston. The hearing, held by City Councillor Rosaria Salerno, chair of the Council's Special Committee on Waste Management, marked the one-year anniversary of the passage of the Recycling Ordinance that mandates recycling of residential trash.

The ordinance requires the city to initiate recycling programs in every neighborhood and to recycle at least 20 percent of the residential waste stream during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1992. With the addition of a Materials Recycling Facility (MRF), 50 percent of the waste stream must be recycled during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1998. According to Joseph Casazza, commissioner of the Boston Public Works Department, in September the city will initiate pick-up of newspapers for all neighborhoods, a permanent composting site for yard waste, the expansion of the pilot curbside, multi-material Jamaica Plain program, and three new neighborhood dropoffs, including Charlestown.

Despite these plans, residents expressed critical concerns. "The city does not have an adequate plan to meet the requirements of the ordinance. It must develop a MRF and provide multi-material curbside recycling throughout the city," stated Carey Butfield, chairperson of the Boston Recycling Coalition, a city-wide group of citizen volunteers who are advocating for recycling and operate recycling drop-off centers.

Frustration, confusion, disappointment and anger were expressed by residents who have been operating five recycling drop-off sites throughout the city over the past three years. "We are sweating in the 99 degree heat on Saturdays, sorting through stinky trash, doing the city's job, not getting paid and all under the assumption that soon curbside pick up of recyclables will come. And the city thinks it is helping us," said Ron Gallagher of Dorchester Recycles.

Amy Goldsmith of Clean Water Action explained that Browning Ferris Industries (BFI), one of the largest waste contractors in Boston, is pushing for the construction of an incinerator in East Bridgewater. "If BFI gets its way, Boston would be burning and burying more trash, and recycling even less."

Jim Gascoigne, speaking for the Charlestown Recycling Committee, said: "We're excited to be bringing a recycling program to Charlestown, yet we remain concerned. Curbside multi-material pickup is a vastly better system than a drop-off. We urge a Materials Recovery Facility be built, and citywide curbside pick-up be implemented."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letters to the Editor must be signed and include name, address and telephone number for verification. The name will be withheld if the writer so requests. Anonymous letters will NOT be published.

Thank You!

I would like to take this opportunity to say thank you to my family and friends for the wonderful retirement party they put together for me.

I would especially like to thank Bob and Eleanor Scalli of Maid to Perfection Inc. Your hard work, concern and great food will not soon be forgotten.

Thank you,
John Loan

Thanks For Caring

Dear Gloria:

I would like to take this opportunity, on behalf of the Mayor's Office of Neighborhood Services and the children of the Headstart program, to express my thanks for the recent harbor cruise by Boston Harbor Cruises.

Julie Doherty met the group at Pier 1 on Aug. 9, and saw to it that the cruise was a great success.

Capt. Matthew James Hughes continues to support this program and the Charlestown community through his work with the cruise line. Capt. Hughes has always had a soft spot for children and we appreciate his efforts to give something back to the youth of Charlestown.

Sincerely,
Judy Evers, community liaison,
Mayor's Office of Neighborhood Services

Our Thanks

Even though God called Dad home on Aug. 2, we would like to express our sincere gratitude to Joe and "the boys" who are renovating the house on Union Street for all they did to try and revive him and the help they gave to our mother.

We would also like to thank the Cataldo Ambulance Service, Boston's 911 and all the friends and neighbors for the kindness they have shown to us during this difficult time.

The Family of Denis J. Sullivan

Our Sincere Appreciation

To: Philip Carr and Family

Frank H. Carr Funeral Home

On behalf of the entire Kyle family, I would like to express our sincere appreciation for the professionalism and dedication you and your home provided to us during the tragic loss of our family member Sgt. Matthew J. Kyle, USAF. Knowing that he was in your care throughout this most difficult period allowed us as a family to have peace within ourselves.

The coordination between you, your personnel and the Hanscom Air Force Base Color Guard became apparent when members of the guard approached and informed the family that the funeral and burial procedures went extremely well and without any complications, due to your cooperation and knowledge of military affairs — something they usually do not experience.

We thank you for all you have done for the family and helping Matthew rest in a most dignified and honorable manner.

Stephen M. Kyle
SFC/AD US Army

My Thanks To Rep. Voke

Dear Gloria,

Through you and The Charlestown Patriot, I would like to thank state Rep. Richard A. Voke for his untiring efforts to have ramps installed on the four corners of the sidewalk surrounding the Bunker Hill Monument. This will be of great help for the handicapped, elders, mothers pushing baby carriages and everyone in general.

Voke worked through the maze of agencies to find the appropriate ones to accomplish the task. The National Park Service was also helpful in rectifying this problem.

Now the ramps will give many the opportunity to enjoy the uniqueness of the monument and its surrounding area.

Again, Rep. Richard A. Voke, a sincere thanks and continued success.

Very truly yours,
Velma E. Glynn

A handicapped member of CHAP

POLICE LINE

From the desk of

Deputy Superintendent Robert E. Hayden Jr.
Area A, Boston Police Department

Tuesday, Aug. 6

During the evening, an automobile parked on Old Landing Way was vandalized by someone who smashed the side window.

Thursday, Aug. 8

At midnight, an attempt was made to break into an apartment on Sullivan Street by breaking the side window. The suspect was frightened away by the occupant.

An automobile parked on Bartlett Street was vandalized by someone who put screws into the door locks.

A 14-year-old youth reported that while walking at High and Green streets, he was assaulted by approximately eight youths who then fled.

During the evening, an automobile parked on Cambridge Street was vandalized by someone who attempted to break in; an automobile parked at Austin and Main streets was broken into by someone who broke a side window; and a trailer parked on Rutherford Avenue was broken into, and a radio and a CB radio were stolen.

Sunday, Aug. 11

At 12:30 a.m., a fight broke out between four individuals inside the store at 140 Main St. resulting in damage to assorted goods. The suspects fled on foot.

At 3:30 a.m., Officers Kelly and Nolan observed two teen-age males drinking alcohol at Medford and Polk streets. The suspects were placed under arrest for public drinking. When searched, the suspects were found to be in possession of cocaine packets.

At 3:46 a.m., officers responded to the front of 2 Dunstable St. for a report of a man shot. Upon arrival, the officers found a Charlestown man who had been shot in the chest. He was transported to Mass. General Hospital by ambulance where he died a short time later. An investigation is being conducted by the Homicide Unit and Area A detectives.
