Was walking on a trail with my business partner, towards the lake, and we were talking about life. Nobody knows the obstacles we face on daily basis in the business world. And that is because I hate to complain. I always take full ownership of my life, my choices and my decisions. I accept full responsibility for that. And I know, whatever happens, I will fight through it, complaining is never an option. The higher we climb, the more obstacles we face. But I am always happy and full of energy, simply because I am programmed that way, since childhood, I see opportunities in every obstacle I face. I don't expect help from anybody. And that is the ultimate strength. Be strong, count on yourself, be driven, turn hardships into fuel and let it drive you with such power that you reach the stars ☐
