The Spirit Of Halloween

tions made last weekend by those still young at heart. (photos by Maria Girvin)

Halloween

by
Ellen T. McCreven

The goblins are there,
Behind the big chair,
White ghosts move around,
While making no sound,
Then, out of the blue
A voice calls to you,
"Trick or treat — Trick or treat!"
And I jumped from my seat.
I looked down and smiled,
At my door was a child,
That night brought me joy,
Thoughts of me, as a boy,
Weaved a magical spell,
As to dreamland, I fell.
You can bet I had seen,
Witchcraft, that Halloween!

Ghost Stories For Halloween

Begin your Halloween trick-or-treating in the right frame of mind this year by attending a session of ghost stories at the Charlestown Branch Public Library.

On Monday, October 31, at 4:00 p.m., a program of gory stories and scary tales will be presented for children of all ages. Parents are welcome to accompany children, especially if they are too scared to come alone!

All are invited to come in costume, to tell a story, or just to listen, but be prepared to be scared!

Annual Veterans Day Mass

Bunker Hill Post 26, American Legion of Charlestown announced that their annual Mass honoring Veterans of all our nation's wars, both living and those who have passed on to greater glory, will be held at St. Francis de Sales Church, 313 Bunker Hill Street at 10:00 a.m. on Sunday, November 6, 1983.

Mrs. Florence Johnson, the Commander of Post 26, has extended an invitation to all other veteran groups and the general public to join with Post 26 at the Mass and afterward for a collation at Bishop Lawton Hall.

Residents Beware

It has been brought to the attention of the Boston Water and Sewer Commission that two men representing themselves as BWSC employees and wearing Commission hats, are attempting to gain entrance to homes in the Boston area, alleging to be on official BWSC business.

Francis W. Gens, Executive Director of the Commission stated, "All Boston Water and Sewer Commission employees are issued official BWSC photo identification cards. If anyone attempts to gain access to your property without proper identification, contact the Boston Police Department."

"GIBSON WAS INDISPENSABLE... THERE WOULDN'T HAVE BEEN A SALE WITHOUT YOU"

If you are thinking about selling your home, there is a lot to consider: how to price it, attracting buyers, screening serious and able buyers, negotiations, arranging finance, and problem solving. A letter from a Charlestown home-owner tells the story:

Dear Gibson Associates

Thank you for your fine work in selling our house in Charlestown. Your help was indispensable. Your pricing advice was right on target, as we received an excellent price in relatively short time.

We want especially to thank you for your handling of negotiations...and, more importantly, for carrying the ball when title problems arose. You were very helpful in the resolution of the problem and held the deal together until the problem was resolved. We doubt that there would have been a sale without your help."

Sincerely,
(A Charlestown Home-Owner)*

Completes Army Course

Private Christopher J. Carney, son of Joan T. and William F. Carney of 23 Phipps Street, Charlestown has completed the man-portable air defense system course under the one station unit training (OSUT) program at the U.S. Army Air Defense School, Fort Bliss, Texas.

He is a 1981 graduate of Boston English High School.

For the second year, a group of Charlestown residents are spearheading a drive to bring a little cheer, in the form of a Christmas gift basket, to Charlestown shut-ins to show them that they are not forgotten during the holiday season. Many of the parties and dinners at holiday time are for those individuals who are mobile, so this project will be directed to those needy who are confined to their homes and have limited contact with family and friends.

This committee, which has no affiliation with any single organization will be seeking a list of 100 shut-ins who will be targeted for a Christmas package. The various churches, social service agencies, and the V.N.A. of Boston are being requested to submit names. Individuals are also welcome to submit names.

Donations are being sought from businesses and individuals for items that would be appropriate for Christmas packages — toiletries, soap, non-perishable goods, canned foods, Christmas items, gift wrap, ribbon, etc.

Donations, offers to help, and names of shut-ins may be left with Ellen Mondy (242-3009) at the Mass. League for Nursing Office, Joe Kent at the Coin Shop (242-1822) or Gloria Conway (241-9511) at the Charlestown Patriot office, all at One Thompson Square (old Charlestown Savings Bank Building).

Volunteers are needed to ensure the success of this ambitious project. Last year 48 gift packages were distributed on Christmas Eve, and from all reports, recipients were delighted with the Christmas surprise and volunteers found the Christmas season heart-warming as they shared their time and talents to prepare and deliver these packages to Charlestown's needy shut-ins.

A meeting for volunteers will be held shortly. All are invited to become "Townie Santas" and join together in re-capturing the true meaning of Christmas.

To Raise Funds For "Toys For Belfast"

At their June convention, the Ancient Order of Hibernians voted unanimously to sponsor a distribution of toys for Christmas for underprivileged children in the war-torn areas of Northern Ireland.

The Hibernians are urging all Irish Americans in the Bay State to support the project by donating toys and games suitable for children from two to fourteen years of age.

In an effort to support the Hibernian program, a group of interested residents of Charlestown will sponsor a dance and social on Saturday, November 12, 1983 at St. Catherine's Hall from 8 to 12 p.m. Admission will be $5.00 and a toy. Music will be provided by Dennis Curtin and his Irish Show Band.

To emphasize this program as a strictly humanitarian effort, His Eminence Cardinal Thomas O'Fiaich, Primate of All Ireland and Archbishop of Armagh, has agreed to supervise the distribution of toys to the needy children of Ulster, regardless of religious or political persuasion.

Toys should be restricted to quality merchandise and should not be of a Military nature, such as toy guns, caps and cap pistols, "GI Joes", etc.

Anyone interested in helping with this worthwhile program can call Mrs. Sally Woods at 241-9177 or Mrs. Dolores Steele at 242-0462.

Community Center Discovers Great Need For Food Pantry

by Maria Girvin

A young slender woman quickly gathered the groceries and hastened to say thank you. "I just need it to get by until my first paycheck," she said as a deep crimson overcame her complexion. Embarrassed by her need, a need of many in Charlestown, she grabbed her young child's hand and slipped out the Charlestown Community Center door with two bags of food pantry items. Her arrival followed the departure of many Charlestown organization heads who had gathered that afternoon for a luncheon made from food pantry items. Invited by the Kennedy Center and the Community Center, the community leaders were there to learn about the food pantry and the community's needs.

With the aid of Chef Ned Bartier of the Andrew Johnson Detox Center in East Boston, Donna Lane of the Community Center fed approximately 30 persons a completely nourishing meal, prepared from foods kept by the Community Center's Pantry. The meal included macaroni and cheese, corn bread, quiche, and rice pudding.

The Center hoped their meal would impress upon community leaders the great need in Charlestown, for a food pantry and asked that organizations refer hungry people to the Kennedy Center when they are "down on their luck."

"I don't think people realize how many hungry people there really are," said Lane. "When we first started the pantry we were just concerned with purchasing food staples. We didn't think to consider that people would come in here looking for food and not have cooking facilities," said Lane, recalling clients from the YMCA.

Lane said they had to take a second look at their pantry and start stocking items that required no or minimum preparation. Some of these items included broth soups that only require hot water, jarred fruits, instant cereals, peanut butter and canned fruit juices.

"People from the 'Y' were helpful in thinking up the types of foods they and others with similar problems needed. They knew best. Sometimes one of them comes to the Center and bakes muffins or breads which are then frozen and handed out to others who may request food but are without cooking facilities. You know, it's not necessarily people from the 'Y' who have this problem. Sometimes people get their gas turned off because they can't pay their bill and then they're without a stove."

Although no one is turned away from the door who might wander into the Community Center from off the street, Lane prefers that food pantry clients go through the Kennedy Center first. In this way, the client may be able to utilize other community resources such as the Fuel Assistance Program.

Most of the foods purchased by the Community Center is done through a food pantry budget allotted them by the Kennedy Center. Some of this money comes from Project Bread who yearly sponsors the Walk for Hunger. Canned goods were donated during a drive earlier in the year. Lane will conduct another goods drive November 14 through the 18. Items particularly wanted are high protein foods such as peanut butter and tuna fish.

Other food items stocked in the pantry include rice, cereals, powdered milk, bake mixes, instant broths and others. Day old bread is donated by Stop and Shop.

Although the Community Center's pantry is small in comparison to the mouths it feeds, it seems able to temporarily ward off hunger within the community. Now, if the only permanent solution to hunger could be found.

Under The State House Dome

by J.J. Smith

Despite lofty rhetoric and philosophical gymnastics articulated by political pundits, racism, implied or otherwise, will not be the root reason why Mel King won't be the next mayor of Boston.

"Racism," of course, will still be a major factor as the final election results will show blacks voting for "one of our own" (Mel King) and many whites doing likewise for Ray Flynn. One need look no further than the recent primary to see this pattern exemplified in Boston's black wards where King nailed down some 90 percent of the vote, or in South Boston where his hometown and ethnic "kissing cousins" gave Flynn a hefty 70 percent of the tally.

In neither case, however, was this true "racism" or class discrimination at work, although obviously there had to be a hard core of true racists of both colors voting. Since time immemorial in America's great cities (and, yes, our suburbs, too) genetic profile and background (skin pigmentation, religion, point of national origin, etc.) has been a decisive factor in who gets elected to office whether it be for selectman, mayor, governor or even president. This isn't "racism" or discrimination but rather a natural inclination to feel more comfortable with and supportive of those with whom we share common things.

Here in Massachusetts, for decades Yankee Brahmin WASPS reigned supreme until Irish-American and later Italo-American politicians ousted them. Now the wave of the future, here and elsewhere, is Hispanic and black political figures. For Mel King, however, barring a major political boo-boo by Ray Flynn, that time is not now. His color will not be the root reason he loses.

Mel King won't be the next mayor of Boston because, when voters make that ultimate choice on November 15, many of them — especially municipal workers, both white and black, laid off in the on-going Prop. 2½-inspired Tregor crisis of 1981-82 — will remember that it was Ray Flynn who was the single dominant politician on the firing line to save their jobs.

Yes, Ray Flynn was there, in the political trenches and on the ramparts, while then-Rep. Mel King (whose vote was urgently needed in the Legislature) was strangely absent basking in the sunny climes of Cuba as a special guest of Communist dictator Fidel Castro. That's when, you'll recall, Mel King first said he preferred Castro to President Reagan, something he's reiterated since his stunning primary victory.

This professed Castro adulation alone destroys the conventional "wisdom" from the pundits that the "minorities are all with King." Boston's populous Cuban bloc has no love or admiration for the butcher of their homeland.

How did Mel King's legislative absence hurt Boston citizens as well as municipal workers? It did so because the very first bail-out Tregor legislation in late 1981 lost by ONE vote on Beacon Hill — Mel King's which he failed to cast because he was busy admiring Castro! As a direct result, Boston's financial bail-out legislation dragged on for more than a year leading to additional layoffs of hundreds of municipal workers, white and black, with the resultant loss of cars, homes and disruption of family life. As for the city itself, resultant police and fire layoffs adversely effected public safety. These workers — and their relatives, friends and neighbors, remember this to King's detriment.

In Boston, as elsewhere, that's something voters relate to. Here was a city faced with chaos and, by a strange quirk of fate, some months later the two men who are facing off for mayor played key roles in that on-going drama: one productively, one disastrously.

This was the crisis in which Ray Flynn authored his own "profile in courage." At a crucial juncture in the Boston City Council the Tregor bill was given up for dead. Even diehard councillors pushing it had given up. Until that point, Ray Flynn — seeing incumbent Mayor Kevin White as a future opponent — hadn't been in the forefront of the fight for a bill that could only help White.

But, with the chips down and the city's well-being at stake, Flynn entered the fray, personally saved the day and Tregor, and possibly the city itself regardless of the personal effect on his candidacy for mayor.

Chester Broderick, then the combative and feisty chairman of the Patrolmen's union, commented then, "How can we ever forget what this man has done? Flynn did something a political person wouldn't do but what an honorable and concerned citizen would do — he did that which it was not politically expedient for him to do."

The above true scenario explains in large measure why Ray Flynn surprised the experts in topping the primary field. His action then showed in stark, simple terms the man's integrity. That's the message that has been sweeping the city in recent days, a message about the man's character that the voters obviously sensed when they chose him in the October primary.

The November 15 choice won't be between a white man or a black man. It'll be between two men who each had the chance to produce when needed by his city. The man who did is Boston's next mayor, Ray Flynn.

Taking A Long Look At The Circus

A few days and one weekend is left to get a look at the "Greatest Show On Earth," or as it is also called the Ringling

Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus. I caught the show last week, the first time I've seen the circus since I was a child. You might think that looking at it through anything other than a child's eyes would take away the fun. But it didn't. I still marveled at the trapeze artists and the miniature man, Mischu, and the clowns, 10 of which climbed out of a Ford Pinto — one at a time.

But that wasn't all my adult eyes saw. I saw circus life. I saw it on the faces of the performers, I saw it in the circus animals, I saw it in the men who tended to the props and animals and I saw it in the clown who flirted innocently with the young teenage girl in a ringside seat.

What I saw was a mixture of lives that created the circus. Although Barnum & Bailey's technique of a three-ring circus with something happening every moment is still utilized, there is still plenty of time to individually check the face of a feathered dancer or inspect the condition of a camel or two. And that is where I saw the true personalities of the circus.

The camel trainer cracked his whip and the camels all turned at the same time, in the same direction, in an even step. He cracked it again and they all turned again, the two on the end leaning in toward the center. I watched the trainer as he commanded the camels, never actually landing the whip on any of the beasts. He turned and took a bow for their performance. His smile almost sparkled as much as his suit. But what impressed me most was one of the end camels. He was old, gray, squat and leaned in toward the center noticeably more than the others, as if he was looking for physical support from a brother camel. However, his step never wavered during the five minute performance. His head never dipped and his spirit seemed to be as young as the others. He was old and no doubt with the circus longer than some of it's other performers. Maybe he could remember the big top. But his appearance was touching. It was indicative of the circus,—old but spirited.

The circus' children were obviously the pride of the show. I'm sure the oldsters saw the youngsters as the ones who would carry on the tradition. Several acts had the darlings dangling from wires, climbing 14 foot poles, or balancing precariously on shoulders, chairs, tight ropes or swinging bars. These children were fearless and when they took a bow, their chests swelled with pride. Their parents picked them up in a sign of circus victory. Their gesture couldn't have been more clear. It said, "This is my child. Isn't he something?"

And the clown who fell in love with the teenage girl melted my heart. It was obviously love at first sight during intermission. He seemed oblivious to the sad clown face he wore as he fed the girl popcorn, kernel by kernel never uttering a sound. She smiled, intrigued by his acts but confused by his silence. Nevertheless, she allowed him to hand-feed her while her young girlfriends looked on amused. Words didn't seem necessary. During the rest of the show he stole moments from the show to acknowledge her presence, waving at her or quietly looking in her direction.

Oh, I know that if you go, you will probably see something different. You may notice the slight fear in the lion tamer's eyes, or the teasing interludes between the performers and stage hands, or the loving kiss an acrobat may land on the hand of his petite wife as they walk out of a ring. Of course the kids will be seeing it through children's eyes and will applaud the tricks of the elephants, clamor over the clown's antics and empty your wallet with requests for ice cream and toys that razzle-dazzle in the dim lights. But guaranteed, the adult eyes will see the show behind the show and when you're an adult the circus is required entertainment ... because the circus teaches a lesson of life.

The show must go on — but let's enjoy it a little while we're on the stage.

STANDING ON STILTS, this acrobat prepared to be flipped into the air where he would complete a somersault in the air and land upright on the stilts.

THIS CIRCUS HAND's only companions were elephants whose trunks were silhouetted against Charlestown warehouses, as the circus train crept toward the railroad yards.

EXCITED OVER THE ARRIVAL of the circus train in Charlestown, residents lined Terminal Street to get a glimpse of the elephants.

THE CAMELS kept perfect timing as they danced to the crack of a whip in a parading fashion.

SO WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO ABOUT IT?

That's the question most often heard in the aftermath of the Soviet's barbaric destruction of Korean Air Lines Flight 007 - and the taking of 269 innocent lives - and it's a fair question, albeit an understatement.

We advanced several ideas in this regard in a recent column and, subsequently, received a 19 point plan from the Conservative Caucus. It is not only comprehensive, but we think you'll agree it covers all the bases ... and should be affected! Here following, then, is their answer to the "Massacre:"

- 1) Recall our Ambassador to the Soviet Union.
- 2) Discontinue all cultural and scientific exchanges with the U.S.S.R.
- 3) All trade with the Soviet Union should be terminated.
- 4) Expel Soviet personnel from the United States.
- 5) Cancel the licenses permitting the sale of pipelaying equipment to the U.S.S.R.
- 6) All signal intelligence transcripts of conversations involving the Soviet pilots and other U.S.S.R. personnel should be made public.
- 7) Bar all further high technology exports to the Soviet Union.
- 8) Rescind the five year Soviet grain deal.
- 9) Revoke all Soviet fishing privileges in U.S. controlled waters.
- 10) Deny access to U.S. ports by all Soviet vessels; no on or off loading of vessels already in port.
- 11) Withdraw from all arms control negotiations with the U.S.S.R.
- 12) Bar all credits and loan guarantees for the Soviet Union and its satellites.
- 13) Withdraw from all international banking organizations through which American taxpayers indirectly subsidize Soviet bloc countries.
- 14) Restrict the Soviet United Nations Mission to New York City and its environs.
- 15) Bar Soviet participation in Olympic competition.
- 16) Levy special taxes on U.S. companies which trade with Soviet bloc countries.
- 17) Demand the withdrawal of all Soviet equipment and personnel from Central America.
- 18) Blockade the delivery of Soviet equipment and personnel to Cuba, Nicaragua, Grenada, Guyana and Suriname.
- 19) Demand a war crimes tribunal to deal with the Soviet officials who authorized the August 31 executions.

Their plan has been placed in petition form (directed to the President and Congress of the United States) and copies may be obtained by requesting same from The Conservative Caucus, Inc., 450 Maple Ave East., Vienna, Virginia 22180.

Re-read the list and then, perhaps, add some points of your own. And, why not clip and mail this column to your Congressman? We mustn't let them forget!

GUEST COLUMNIST VIGNETTE....

"Did you know that in 1844, an organization of bigots, violently anti-Catholic, called the Know-Nothings, among many other acts of violence that they were guilty of, attacked and set fire to a poorly protected church in Philadelphia and burned down an Ursuline Convent in Charlestown, Massachusetts? When it was made known in New York that they were about to execute a similar siege on Saint Patrick's Cathedral, a valiant Irish Catholic defense unit, known as the Ancient Order of Hibernians, were employed by the then Archbishop Hughes to protect the holy place because the city's Mayor, a Know-Nothing sympathizer, refused to provide police protection. Recently, that same group of Irish noblemen had to be summoned to action again, when even more diabolical enemies - thousands of homosexual perverts and blasphemers - threatened this past June to desecrate the grounds of the glorious Cathedral of New York by using the church's steps as a viewing stand for their infamous parade. The Ancient Order of Hibernians were successful again, standing their ground while a dwindling number of sodomites conducted their parade off church property."

(Our thanks to Brother Francis, M.I.C.M., Saint Benedict Center, Still River, Mass.)

Those interested may still sign-up for the Typing Class. Classes will meet Monday and Wednesday nights. A registration fee of $5.00 is required. There will be no other charges for this 15 week program. Call the Community School Office for information.

Rosters for intramural basketball leagues will be available on Monday. The Kent/Charlestown will sponsor two leagues, 19 and under and 15 and under. David Martell has details. Games will be played on Wednesday nights. There will be four teams in each division so rosters are available on the first come first serve basis.

As has been stated previously in this space, the Kent/Charlestown will continue to offer its GED Preparation Classes and will initiate a Diploma Program in November. During the next few weeks a number of articles on adult literacy will be placed in the Patriot just to give people an idea of the magnitude of the problem of people lacking basic skills in Boston and the state of Massachusetts. The Kent/Charlestown Council urges people to take a good look at these programs as they can make a difference in looking for work or entering vocational training programs and the military.

For further information on any of the above please call the Community School Office weekdays after 2:30 p.m. at 242-2770.

Community Schools Literacy Program

(This is the first of a 3 part series on adult basic education in Charlestown.)

In the United States, more than 23 million adults are considered functionally illiterate. According to the Department of Education, the number increases each year by 2.3 million. In Boston it is estimated that 32% of the adult population (those 25 years of age and older) have not completed high school. According to the Boston Housing Authority's 1980 Neighborhood Survey, 24% of Charlestown's adult population has not graduated from high school. Given that approximately 75% of Charlestown's population is over 18, it is estimated that as many as 2400 Charlestown adults have not graduated from high school.

The overall effects of functional illiteracy are numerous. Individuals who lack basic skills in reading, writing, and math are at a disadvantage in seeking employment or advancing from an entry-level job to a higher position that offers more pay. Without the credential of a high school diploma or equivalency certificate, many people are denied access to certain job possibilities, higher education programs, and careers in the military. The every-day effects of illiteracy leave individuals at a loss when they have to perform certain functions that go beyond their skill levels: comparison shopping, managing money, filling out job applications, applying for a driver's license, using community resources, dealing with legal documents and the obligations they incur. The types of skills needed for basic every-day survival in our complex society are increasing, and those individuals lacking in basic skills are having difficulty meeting these demands.

The Charlestown Community School Program has recently received a grant from the Neighborhood Development and Employment Agency to deal with the issue of adult literacy in Charlestown. The program will offer individuals an instructional program in which they develop competency in the following areas: occupational knowledge, consumer awareness, health and safety measures, utilizing community resources, and understanding government and law. Students in the program will be involved in workshops, small classes, and individual instruction, and they can select either the morning or evening program. With the assistance of teachers and resource room tutors, students can work at their own pace to master the different competencies. When students feel ready, they can begin an assessment process that enables them to achieve a Boston high school diploma when they have completed all of the competency tasks.

A group orientation for new students will be held on November 14. Individuals who would like more information or would like to register for the program can call Susan Weiss at 242-2770. The community school staff is now in the process of scheduling information - sharing meetings with local groups who are interested in the literacy project. If your group would like to set up a meeting, contact Ralph Tufo at the community school office.

Next week's article will provide information on the GED certificate and opportunities for skill-training and career planning.

Views On Dental Health

by Jeffrey D. Cohen, D.M.D.

WHAT CAUSES STAINS ON TEETH?

Most stains form on the outer surface of tooth enamel, and are caused by the foods we eat, as well as coffee, tea, and tobacco. Stains of this type, although unsightly, are harmless and are not to be confused with tartar, a hard calcium deposit at the gumline which can cause gum disease. Both stains and tartar can usually be prevented by daily complete cleaning with toothbrush and floss. In cases of improper cleaning or poor alignment of the teeth, professional care will be necessary. Routine use of the so-called "whitening" toothpastes are to be avoided, as these products are highly abrasive to tooth enamel.

A second type of stain is below the enamel surface and can not be cleaned or polished off. These stains form during tooth development and are caused by such factors as high fever, certain medications and defective tooth formation. Modern dentistry makes available many ways to conservatively treat these defects.

Receives Grant For Vans

State Transportation Secretary Frederick P. Salvucci announced today that the Life Focus Center of Charlestown Inc. has been awarded a $45,908 grant for two specially equipped twelve passenger vans, one radio base station, and two mobile radio units.

Salvucci stated that these grants are part of The Federal Elderly and Handicapped Transportation Program. This program supplies grants to a number of community agencies to improve transportation services for the elderly and handicapped.

Endorsements For Nucci

Just prior to the Preliminary Election on October 11, John A. Nucci, Candidate for the Boston School Committee - District One received the full endorsement of the Boston Herald. The Herald endorsement which echoed the prior full endorsement of the Boston Globe the previous week, noted that Nucci, "...will build on the kind of progress that parents and businesses alike demand." On October 10, the Herald repeated the endorsement referring to Nucci as one of the candidates who "can lead this city in the years ahead through whatever problems and opportunities lie ahead."

Nucci is a graduate of Boston Latin School, Boston College, and holds a Master's Degree in Public Administration from Suffolk University. His School Committee candidacy has focused on all the important issues facing the schools and has earned him numerous important endorsements. Joining the Globe and Herald in support of Nucci are the Boston Teachers Union, the Greater Boston Labor Council (AFL-CIO), and the Greater Boston Building and Construction Trades Council, all major labor votes of confidence.

Nucci stated at a recent gathering that "I am pleased that my campaigning and visible discussion of the issues has not gone unnoticed both by the endorsing parties and institutions of the City and the voters, themselves, in the Preliminary Election." Nucci gathered an extremely wide margin of victory in the October election, beating his nearest opponent by a 3 to 1 margin and, according to the Globe, "obtaining more votes than all three of his opponents combined."

Nucci and his wife Peggy, a Boston school

O'Donnell 'Blitz' Keys Columbus Win

by Bob DeCristoforo, Athletic Director

Marian High of Framingham had every intention of turning their season around when they faced Christopher Columbus at Hormel Stadium last Sunday.

Junior Brian O'Donnell and the Columbus Football

Friars had other ideas. On a chilly October day, the Friars played an excellent football game, and O'Donnell was the leader.

Before many of us had settled down, O'Donnell took the opening kickoff and ran it 85 yards into the end zone to give the Friars a quick 6-0 lead. Chris Fratalia kicked the point after.

Shortly after, O'Donnell intercepted a Marian pass to start the next scoring drive, which ended successfully when Captain Jim O'Brien went over from the two yard line.

In quarter two, Marian scored 7 points to cut into the lead, but on the next kickoff to Friar O'Donnell, the young man surpassed his previous kickoff return and took the ball 95 yards into the end zone for another Columbus score.

Defensively the Friars were more than sound, recovering several Marian fumbles and picking off about nine Marian passes.

In the fourth quarter O'Donnell continued his 'blitz', this time taking QB Mike Wallace's 45-yard pass for his third TD of the afternoon to the delight of the Columbus following.

Columbus is now 3-3 overall and 3-2 in the Catholic Central League. The team is quickly coming of age, and the move to the Catholic Central League seems at this point to be the step in the right direction.

This week the Football

Friars will be travelling to Brockton for a Sunday 1:30 p.m. game against league leader Spellmen.

From the Friar-ing Pan: Despite losses on the JV and Freshmen level this past week, the young Friars have shown much improvement and many individual are assuming important roles for the future. More Alumni are making their presence known.

Ronny Curry took in this past game. He is a sophomore at Bowdoin College, and has made the Varsity football team. Also visiting us were former Columbus football Captains Angelo LaPaglia and Bobby Buckley.

A congratulations to Dave McKay, who ran a fine Alumni Brunch prior to Sunday game. This marks the beginning of the Columbus Alumni Association, and further information can be obtained by calling 742-2626 and asking for the Developmental Office.

We would also like to thank Jerry Libby of South Boston for all the help he has given us at the Home games.

TAKE A SHOT: BIG POT.

Wonderland's Twin Trifecta—here's how to bet it:

Trifecta means you have to pick the exact order of finish of the first three dogs in a single race.

Twin means you have to go do it again in yet another one.

It is not easy. But it is also not impossible.

In fact, not long ago one fellow bet $3 that he could do just that, and won himself $114,966.

The Twin Tri kitty keeps on building—and building—till somebody wins it. Then it starts all over again.

The Twin Tri. It's worth the try.

Remember, it paid over . . .

Pop Warner Corner

On Sunday, October 23rd, the Pop Warner Football D-Team lost by the score of 13 to 6. The Charlestown touchdown was scored by David Matson. This team played well but costly mistakes hurt them.

In the C-Team game, Charlestown lost by the score of 7 to 6. This was the second straight one point loss for this team. Both offense and defense played very well. Let's get a few more of those extra points. The touchdown was scored by Mark Marino. In last week's C-Team game, David Cameron scored their touchdown. Sorry for the mistake.

In the B-Team game, Charlestown lost by the score of 28 to 6. The touchdown was scored by James Cameron.

In the A-Team game, Charlestown suffered their first defeat of the year by the score of 8 to 6. This was a thriller

Hockey Clinic Registration

The Charlestown Hockey Clinic will hold registration for 4 to 10 year old youngsters interested in learning basic skating techniques. Registration will be held on Tuesday, November 8 from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the Charlestown High School Athletic Facility on Medford Street.

The Registration fee is $20.00 and will cover 15 hours of instruction.

For further information contact Mark Urquhart at 241-9333, Kevin Gallagher at 321-3862, or Bob McGann at 242-2770 between 6 p.m. and 9 p.m.

right down to the last play. The A-Team is a class team and will bounce back this week against Newton South. The size of the A-Team crowd was very disappointing. Charlestown, this is a super team fighting for the G.B.L. Championship. Let's take time out on Sunday from those N.F.L. games and come down and cheer the "Townies" on to the Championship. Let's get going and show that the whole town is backing this team, not just the A-Team parents and friends.

The litter baskets will be given out this Saturday afternoon. The ones who turn in their forms on time will get them. The others will get them at a later date if we can come up with 96 more orders.

I would like to thank all the people who helped out at the concession stand and in the marking of the field.

We will be playing Newton South this week and all help is welcome and if you want to bake goodies and bring them down, we would be most appreciative.

In our upcoming dance on November 19, 1983, some people have said that the $10.00 ticket price is too high. If you can only afford $5.00 a ticket, please come to this time. You will not be turned away.

Thanks,
The Board

Rosev's: The American Dream Lives On

"We are trying to be the best distributor that Hood has," says Len Paolillo, chief executive officer for Rosev's Distributors, Inc., Charlestown, Mass.

An ambitious goal indeed for a company which five years ago was nothing more than a back-door cash and carry ice cream mix distributor.

Rosev's today distributes a complete line of ice cream mixes — both soft and hard — a line of accessory products such as cones and paper products, and has recently begun distributing the full line of Hood dairy products to convenience stores, independent supermarkets and restaurants within the I-495 circle around Boston.

The building which houses the company — almost directly under the Tobin Bridge — is anything but glamorous, and Paolillo is almost apologetic about its appearance. "We're moving soon into a bigger location to accommodate our growth," he says.

Joe Rosselli is the owner of the company, and his story is one that renews faith in the American Dream.

"I started with one ice cream truck in 1968 and soon both my brother and I were involved. I was doing great in the summer but I asked myself, 'what was I going to do in the winter?'"

"I was lucky enough to land the contract for the South Boston Navy Yard Annex and I kept busy selling ice cream all year round because of it," Rosselli recalls.

In 1973 Rosselli and his brother bought a convenience store in Charlestown and year-round stability became a reality. In 1976, another store was purchased. All the while, the two remained in the ice cream vending business. The young entrepreneurs were on their way.

Rosev's Owner Has A Brainstorm

"Then I had a brainstorm. I had always had a problem getting mix for my ice cream trucks on weekends (Hood was closed for pick-ups on Saturday and Sunday) and so did a lot of other guys. I went to Hood and asked them 'Why not make me a depot for mix during the weekends?' It was a natural because I already had my stores and I could sell the stuff right out the back door," Rosselli says.

Hood agreed it was an excellent idea. And why not? Vendors could be serviced with Hood product every day without any added cost. Vendors and convenience store operators were soon flocking to Rosselli's store on hot summer weekends when business exceeded expectations. Peripheral supplies, such as cones, syrups and paper products were soon added. By the end of the first year, the cash and carry operation was a solid success.

"When the second year rolled around, people started asking me to deliver," Rosselli says. By the end of the second year, Rosev's had 12 solid delivery accounts. Today the company has 500 accounts, serviced by a fleet of five trucks and three full-time salesmen. The success story was complete. Almost.

Hood's Reorganization Meant

More Business For Rosev's H.P. Hood, suffering setbacks in a highly competitive industry, reorganized and a decision was made to spin off many of the delivery routes to independent distributors. Smaller volume accounts were difficult to service for a high volume mass producer such as Hood. Rather than lose the accounts all together, companies such as Rosev's struck an agreement with New England's largest dairy: become exclusive distributors of Hood's extensive dairy product line, receiving support services from the parent but remaining independent companies.

Rosev's was perfectly suited to fill this niche. It now delivers the full complement of Hood dairy products to restaurants, convenience stores and a number of small independent supermarkets. From a base of soft-serve ice cream mix, Rosev's now also delivers mix for what Rosselli terms, "gourmet" ice cream; the 14 percent mix used to make "hard" ice cream. Included among Rosev's accounts is perhaps greater Boston's most famous homemade ice cream company, Steve's.

There have been numerous opportunities to switch suppliers, Rosselli says. Competitors of Hood have attempted to entice him with offers of increased business — primarily through lower prices. But Rosselli sticks firmly with Hood.

"There is a strong element of loyalty involved," he says. "When I was scratching, and I mean scratching, Hood stood right by me and offered me seven days credit. I've never forgotten that and I never will. Another reason is that while others can beat Hood on price, no one can touch Hood on quality. And that's always been uppermost in my mind," Rosselli says.

Revitalized with a new and aggressive marketing team, H.P. Hood is now offering a range of new products designed to capture the quality-conscious consumer. Combined with a streamlined distribution system, Hood is definitely on the way back. And Rosev's Dairy is well positioned to capture an increasing percentage of the distribution market.

"We are one of the largest independent distributors of Hood products in greater Boston," says Paolillo. "And we are out there scrapping for new business every day."

Author Visits Edwards Middle School

Students at Edwards Middle School in Charlestown received a rare treat when children's book author Norma Fox Mazer visited recently to talk about writing books and encourage children to read.

Mazer spoke to 35 students in the school library about the lengthy publishing process, outlining how an idea becomes a book.

She encouraged aspiring writers to read and write as much as possible, underscoring the importance of not becoming discouraged. "Writing is a craft, not something instinctive," she said. Mazer told the students not to worry when their papers are not perfect the first time.

Mazer's books include Taking Terri Mueller and Mrs. Fish, Ape and Me.

School Volunteers for Boston District Coordinator David Gordon arranged Mazer's visit in cooperation with school

librarian Mabel Benton and Avon Publishers. Mazer also visited Wheatly

Middle School and Wilson Middle School. Meanwhile, her husband, young adult's author, Harry Mazer visited three area high schools.

HOMEBUYER STATS MISLEADING

If you believe the statistics on the number of first-time buyers published by the League of Savings Associations, you would be under the impression that this group has been priced out of the market. This is far from true - as are the statistics. Its report shows that last year only 13.5% of all new mortgage loans from S & Ls were made to first-time buyers. This is down considerably from the 36% figure of four years ago.

These results are misleading. Last year, first-time homebuyers made up 44% of home purchases. These buyers, however, were relying on financing NOT available through savings and loans, such as seller acceptance of first and second mortgages.

During the survey period, 9 out of 10 first-time buyers were utilizing creative financing. High interest rates are doing severe damage to the real estate market. Without creative financing, the young and first-time buyer would almost certainly be shut out of the market. Thank you, American ingenuity.

The Charlestown Committee to elect Diane Modica to the Boston City Council District 1 seat will host a "Townies welcome" for the candidate on Thursday, October 27 from 8:00 p.m. to midnight, at Memorial Hall, 14 Green Street. Donations are $5 per person and a buffet, cash bar and D.J. will be provided.

Modica emerged from a field of eight District Council candidates in the October 11 preliminary election to capture one of the top spots and an opportunity to run in the final election on November 15.

Her showing in

Tony Costa, Jane Green Charlestown was an impressive second, comfortably ahead of the current opponent. Modica garnered 1182 votes or 23% of votes cast for District City Council. Topping the ticket in the North End and with a strong showing in East Boston's five person race, Modica was able to demonstrate a broad base of appeal throughout the District.

Citing her Charlestown results, Modica stated, "I want to thank Charlestown for the warm reception during my preliminary campaign and the tremendous vote of confidence on October 11. I am especially grateful for the many friendships I have made throughout Charlestown. She added, "I will continue to work hard to win your vote again on November 15 and the privilege to represent District 1 on the Boston City Council."

Modica's Charlestown effort is being organized by Tim Dineen, Steve Owens, Red Evers, Tim Corcoran, Chum Clougherty, Jim Doherty, Jack Leeman.

DIANE MODICA

and Stuart Vidockler. Supporters such as "Bun" Crowley, Jack Brown, Ruth Ellen Chardavoyne, Margie Turner, Bobby Wallace, Barbara Power, Patsy Flanagan, Barbara and Ed Meheigan, John Walsh, Neil Brennan, former District 1 City Council candidate and many others continue to lend a helping hand as Modica campaigns throughout the town.

Over the next few weeks, the Charlestown Committee will spearhead Modica's campaign in the town and help elect the District 1 City Councillor.

Mayoral Candidates To Discuss Neighborhood Development

Mayoral candidates Ray Flynn and Mel King will air their views on the role of neighborhoods in city development plans, using as their focus what one architect calls "the most spectacular site for development in Boston"—the harbor area.

The forum will be held on Wednesday evening, November 2nd at 7:15 p.m. at the Harborside Community School, 312 Border Street, East Boston.

Candidates will be questioned by a panel drawn from the sponsoring groups, the East Boston Ecumenical Community Council, the Harborside Community School, Jobs with Peace of Boston, the Kennedy Center in Charlestown and the St. Vincent Neighborhood Association of South Boston.

The impact of federal spending priorities on the city's ability to pursue a role in development will be raised and candidates will be asked whether they favor a significant reduction in military spending as a way to free up federal funds for the city.

The Harborside Community School can be reached on the Blue line, off at Maverick Station, proceed straight ahead onto Meridian Street, left on Border Street (at McDonald's) and the school is three blocks. It is also called the Umana School. Enter through the purple door by way of the parking lot.

By car, tunnel to East Boston, two quick rights onto Paris Street for three short blocks. Take a right onto Meridian Street (at the police station). Bear left at Central Square (at McDonald's) onto Border Street and follow directions as above.

The forum will be televised and doors will close at 7:30 p.m.

Now you can teach your old phone some new tricks.

When the Bell System breaks up on January 1, 1984, a whole new range of possibilities will open up.

That makes it a perfect time for you to re-evaluate your phone service. Because the same old service you've always had isn't necessarily the best for you now.

Choosing a different local calling plan could save you money. Buying phones may be more economical in the long run. And you may be able to save with the new long-distance options, too.

There are a lot of new tricks you can teach your old phone. We'll be sending you more information in upcoming bill inserts, but here's a brief rundown of some of your options now.

Local service

New England Telephone will still be your phone company for local service. But that doesn't mean your local calling plan has to be the same as everyone else's.

If you make a lot of local calls, your best bet is probably Unlimited Service, where a flat monthly fee buys you unlimited calls within your local exchange area.

However, if you don't make many local calls, Measured Service could save you money. We offer different Measured Service plans in different areas, but they all give you the same benefit: the less you call, the less you pay.

Toll calls within your own area code

New England Telephone will still provide you with this service. And give you options to help you cut your calling costs.

We offer options for people who make a lot of toll calls to the same few nearby towns. Choices for people who call a wide variety of toll exchanges. Even plans that let you make two or more hours of toll calls all around your own area code. Different options for different needs. All designed to help you save.

Long-distance calls outside your area code

After the break-up, New England Telephone will continue to give you access to long-distance service. So you can still make and receive long-distance calls. Your present long distance service will continue after January 1. Or you can choose a new long-distance company if you wish. Just check your Yellow Pages for a complete listing, compare rates and services, and make your choice.

Equipment

When it comes to choosing telephones, you have more choices than ever!

If you prefer to lease your phones, simply keep the ones we've provided. After January 1 you'll automatically be leasing them from AT&T.

Want to buy the phone you now have? Contact your New England Telephone business office and they'll tell you how.

What if you'd rather buy your telephone equipment elsewhere? Just check your Yellow Pages for a list of telephone retailers.

To change—or not to change?

The choice is yours. You don't have to make any changes if you don't want to—and you'll barely notice the break-up after January 1.

But now that you have so many different options to help you control your calling costs, it could benefit you to re-think your phone service. Because teaching old phones new tricks could mean your phone bill will take a smaller bite out of your budget.

If you have questions about the changes outlined here, call our special toll-free "Let's Talk" number. It's 1 800 555-5000. Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Or watch for more detailed information in your bill inserts.

Approves Sale Of CharlesNewtown

To the people of CharlesNewtown:

I fail to understand that a few people voted no in the recent election on selling to Mr. Quinn. It couldn't have been spelled out any clearer what would happen if he brought the property. It would stay just as it is now. If it isn't sold we could very well be facing a heatless, lightless CharlesNewtown and be looking for homes elsewhere and as far as the $250.00 we all paid when we moved in, that is long gone and we will never get that back. So wake up and think it over well. There still may be a chance for us.

A concerned tenant.

Thank You

We wish to send our heartfelt thanks to Marge Coughlan, Dot Collins and the seniors at the Parks and Recreation Senior Center for the lovely 50th Wedding Anniversary

Ms. Gloria Conway, Editor

Dear Ms. Conway:

It has been brought to our attention, on numerous occasions, by members of Massachusetts Citizens for Life, that your paper has printed excellent articles and commentaries on the Pro-life movement. We have noted some of these articles on our 24 hour Pro-

Party and for the ceramic gift they made especially for us.

At this time I would like to thank you most sincerely, on behalf of the Board of Directors and membership of MCFL for helping to keep alive the Pro-life message. We know it requires a certain amount of editorial courage to keep before the people issues they, would rather not be reminded of or issues they hope will go away. We commend you for this courage and hope that you "will keep up the good (although controversial) work".

Sincerely yours,

Computer Program For Kids A Hit At B.H.C.C.

The median age of students in the Division of Continuing Education of Bunker Hill Community College took a downturn this semester. The reason: Twenty-six youngsters between nine and 12 years of age are enrolled in a computer program.

The class, which is titled "Basic-ly for Kids," is an introductory course for children. It introduces them to various computer programming and hardware concepts and has a strong "hands-on" orientation. Students learn by doing as they actually operate and program the college's interactive computer system designed especially for the course. Upon completion of the course, students will take a complete tour of the college's computer facility and a certificate of completion will be awarded.

The success of the program has prompted the college to schedule a new class which will start October 29.

In addition, "Basic-ly for Kids" Part II will also start on that date. It will give the students an opportunity to provide more advanced program concepts and involve increased vocabulary.

There are two students per computer system and they proceed at their own pace through the exercises and program assignments.

The course is being supervised by Diane Puopolo of Amesbury. Lisa Sims of Malden, a BHCC graduate now attending Suffolk University, is her aide.

TIMOTHY REARDON of 35 Bartlett Street, Charlestown is one of the 26 youngsters between nine and 12 years of age enrolled in the computer program titled "Basic-ly for Kids" at Bunker Hill Community College. Standing is the instructor Diane Puopolo.

The young students learn a computer vocabulary which includes such things as input and output devices, storage of material, programs, hardware, software, etc.

Completes Electronic Course

Maureen Baker, of 113 Bunker Hill Street has received a certificate for completing an intensive six month program in Math and Electronics at Bunker Hill Community College. The course, which began in April, prepared the graduates to test and repair electronic equipment in both computer manufacturing companies and in organizations which use electronic equipment. Course work included technical math, analog and digital theory, micro-processor training as well as hands-on laboratory experience. Classes were held five hours a day, five days a week.

The program was sponsored by the Division of Planning and Development of the college.

A newly expanded version of this program has just begun at Bunker Hill. A 900 hour, nine month Electronic Technology Certificate will be offered again in the fall of 1984. Individuals interested in training in the field can prepare themselves by taking courses in algebra so they can pass the math requirement for this certificate program.

AMONG THE 26 YOUNGSTERS between nine and 12 years of age enrolled in the computer program titled "Basic-ly for Kids" at Bunker Hill Community College are Adam Mason, seated (left) of Chelsea; Shannon Boucher of 57 Walford Way and Jason Curry (standing) of 29 Cordis Street, both of Charlestown. Diane Puopolo, standing, is the instructor.

Commanding Officer, District A
Downtown, Charlestown, East Boston

On October 16, 1983, Officers received a radio call of an Assault and Battery with a Dangerous Weapon at 185 Main Street. Upon arrival, Officers found a 29 year old Charlestown man lying on the sidewalk. The victim told the Officers, that he was assaulted by an unknown white male. The victim could give no further information on his assailant. The Officers then requested an ambulance to the above location. The victim was treated at the scene by the ambulance attendants, for lacerations of the face and head. The victim was then transported by ambulance to the Mass. General Hospital. This incident will be further investigated by District A Detectives.

On October 17, 1983, Officers received a radio call of a Larceny from a building on Terminal Street. Upon arrival, the Officers spoke to the victim, who told them that person(s) unknown, removed two pallets of tuna fish from the building. They were found by the victim covered with leaves and tree branches behind the building. The victim

There was no evidence in the apartment of any gun shots fired.

On October 17, 1983, Officers responded to a Cedar Street address on a report of a B&E. Upon arrival, the Officers spoke to the victim. The victim stated to them that person(s) unknown entered his apartment from the rear window of the third floor. The suspect apparently climbed up the fire escape. ## Facts About Drugs — F.A.D.

"My friends talk about PCP. What is it?"

PCP or "angel dust" is the abbreviation for Phenocyclidine which is an anesthetic for large animals! In the summer of 1967 it made its appearance on the street scene. PCP is a white crystalline powder, soluble in water which can be used orally, smoked or injected. It is basically a depressant, but it is sold on the street as a hallucinogen.

Because of its bad effects, PCP is not used or prescribed for any medical reason. The effect of PCP on the major body systems is not predictable, and so there is danger in its use. Obvious effects of this drug include increased heart rate, dizziness, flushing, sweating slurred speech, and rapid involuntary eye movement. When larger doses are taken, major convulsions and coma can occur. Even in low doses, PCP's effects are highly unpredictable. Users of this drug are likely to have no memory of bad reactions afterwards. Hospitals can supply aid to people on a bad angel dust trip, but be sure to tell the doctor if PCP has been used or is suspected.

PCP is often sold on the street as THC (the main active ingredient in marijuana) or mescaline. These two drugs have been found to have been misrepresented in a majority of drug analyses programs. The misrepresentation is so high that any bad reactions to drugs which the seller "calls" THC or mescaline should be suspected as a PCP bumper.

***

Do you have a question about drugs? Send them, signed or unsigned, to Mimi White at the Charlestown Boys & Girls Club, 15 Green Street, Charlestown, MA 02129.

Voke To Serve On Task Force

Representative Richard A. Voke has accepted the invitation of Bailus Walker, the Commissioner of Public Health for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, to serve on the recently formed Task Force on Organ Transplantation.

The Task Force is charged with the development of standards and processes for evaluating the use of organ transplantation. The difficult issues facing the medical care sector and society as a whole will be discussed in terms of medical, economic, societal and ethical factors as they impact on the individual, on the family and on society.

Commenting on his appointment to the Task Force on Organ Transplantation, Representative Voke, who serves as Chairman of the Committee on Health Care for the Massachusetts House of Representatives, stated that he was honored to be asked by Public Health Commissioner Bailus Walker, to serve on the Task Force and he is looking forward to working with the other members of the broad based Task Force to prepare recommendations on questions of when, who, what and how of organ transplantations and the mechanisms and methods to implement the decisions of the Task Force.

Community Action Drug Program

The Chemical People is the name of two national television programs and a community action project that could raise the awareness of drug and alcohol problems in communities throughout the United States. Channel 2 in Boston will air the one-hour Chemical People programs on November 2nd and 9th at 8:00 p.m.

The programs will be hosted by the First Lady, Nancy Reagan, and it is hoped that there will be local community action springing from it.

Residents of Charlestown are invited to come to the Charlestown Boys and Girls Club at 7:30 p.m. on these nights to view the programs. There will be a panel of people from the town who will be willing to tell the local story as they see it. It will help people change their ideas that "it can't happen in our town, or our family."

Marjorie Pratt or Sandy McLaughlin of the Kennedy Center will be available to answer any questions concerning the Chemical People program at these meetings.

For further information call Mimi White at the Boys and Girls Club (242-1775) or Marjorie Pratt and Sandy McLaughlin at the Kennedy Center (241-8866).
