

Career Day

Career Day at the University of St. Thomas-Houston is an annual event that focuses on career development for all UST students. The day offers panel discussions and industry overviews with Cameron School of Business and UST alumni with multiple years of industry experience as well as other Houston professionals.

This event not only showcases the advantages of a degree from the University of St. Thomas, but it also inspires and guides our current students, offering them the chance to learn how best to leverage their UST degrees towards the career of their choice.

The conference features a keynote speaker and concurrent panel discussions and serves as a supplement to the rigorous academic programs offered at the university to prepare students for their professional roles.

Save the Date for our 2018 UST Career Day on March 3

The 2017 panels were comprised of successful alumni and executives from the following disciplinary and industry areas:

- Accounting
- Banking and Finance Economics
- Marketing
- International Studies/International Development/International Business

Benefits to Speakers

- Guest speakers can share their expertise with emerging business leaders and showcase the innovative practices of their respective companies.
- Student attendance at each discipline-focused and industry-focused session is based on student interests. Speakers will have an audience of students and alumni with interest in those specific areas.
