Spring Clean-up Scheduled For Saturday & Sunday

Charlestown's Spring Clean-up will take place this weekend—Saturday, May 10, and Sunday, May 11. This annual event, held under the auspices of the City of Boston, provides residents an opportunity to clean attics, cellars, and yards and take their refuse to dumpsters located throughout Charlestown. The City will then take the dumpsters away on Monday and clean up the vacant lots.

Location of the dumpsters will be:

- Hayes Square
- Lowney Way at Tremont Street
- Sullivan and Wesley Street
- Brighton and Caldwell Streets
- 89 Pearl Street
- Belmont and Medford Streets
- Old Rutherford Avenue (Union and Austin Streets)

Note: If dumpsters are filled, residents are asked to stack refuse as close to the dumpster as possible.

Crisis In Charlestown

Charlestown was stunned this past week as a rash of violent crimes once again spread fear, bewilderment, shame and frustration throughout our community.

In just a short span of four days, our community was witness to three knifings — a 51 year old man, a 21 year old girl, and the fatal stabbing of a black man.

Charlestown is in a state of crisis...our town does not need criticism or condemnation but rather help. To be continually branded as a racist community by self-serving political leaders and some of the media that are responding only to the superficial results of violent crimes serves no valid purpose.

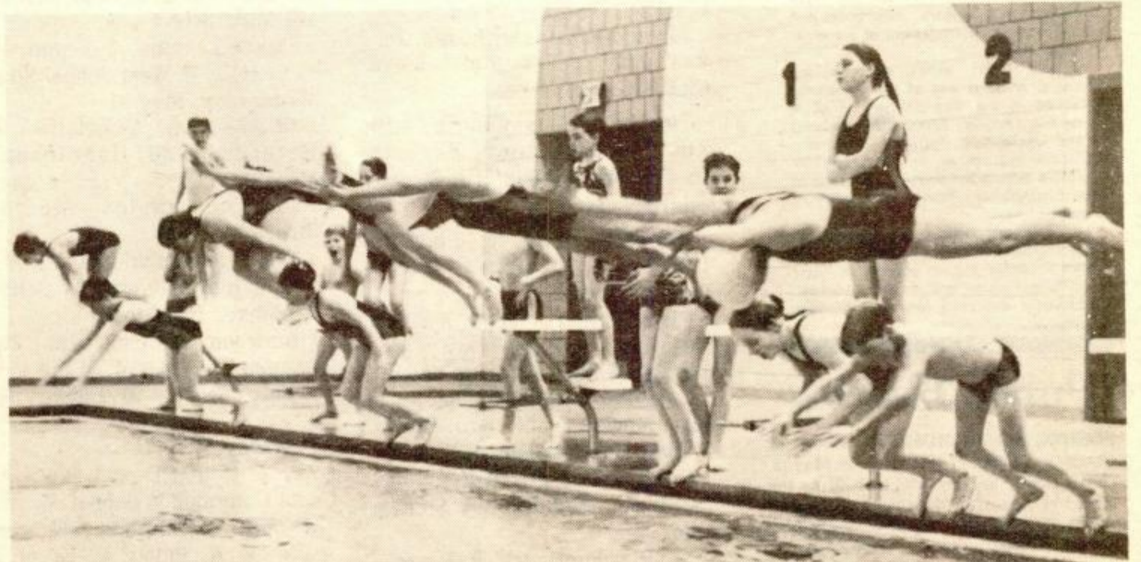

Charlestown needs help...our streets have turned into battlefields and for the first time in this writer's memory, many "Townies" are afraid to walk at night through the district.

Punks high on Angel Dust are ruling the streets after dark, especially in the project area.

Charlestown needs the total co-operation of every community and city-wide agency if we are to solve this onslaught of terror.

Drugs and weapons are the constant topic of conversation on our street corners — and both are readily available to our youth. Angel Dust (PCP) a drug originally introduced as an anesthetic (Continued On Page 10)

There's a lot of dedication and hard work being tapped at Powers Pool at the Quinn Athletic Facility on Medford Street. Even though their season is over, the Charlestown town Swim Team continues to practice four nights a week, constantly improving their aquatic techniques.

The swim team's hard work has created yet another success story in Charlestown. This past season the "Townie" girls' team of the Boys' Club League went undefeated with a record of 12 and 0. They were named the New England Area Sectional Champs and all four age groups, (10 and under), (11 and 12), (13 and 14), and (15 and 17) swept the meet for the first time in Charlestown history. The season for the girls' team was also highlighted by a 102-56 upset over Phillips Academy in Andover.

In the Community School League, in which boys and girls compete against each other, the team has fared almost as well. Their season record of 11 and 1 has proved to be their best to date. Though the boys' team in the Boys' Club League did not achieve the outstanding record that the Girls' Team did, Coach Arthur Reardon stated that there was a marked improvement in their talent and he is certain that the next years will provide them with increased triumphs.

Three years ago the Community School Team and the (Continued on Page 8)

What kinds of training result in 1600 real estate sales a day?

- TRAINING IN REAL ESTATE LAW. Your agent must be aware of the constantly changing maze of legal restrictions and limitations.

- TRAINING IN FINANCE. In today's volatile market, your agent must be able to give you quick and accurate financial guidance.

- TRAINING IN SHOWING OFF YOUR HOUSE. Your house is special. Your agent should understand how to show it off to its best advantage.

- TRAINING IN CLOSING THE SALE. Selling a house is easy. Keeping it sold is tough. Your agent must be trained in shepherding your transaction through to the final close.

- TRAINING IN WORKING WITH OTHER AGENTS. There's a good chance your buyer will come from out of town. Your agent should be trained to work within a referral network so he can "shop" your house around the country.

- TRAINING IN ADVERTISING. Television advertising has become a dominant factor in selling real estate. We believe your agent will serve you best if he ties the sale of your home into a $20,000,000 advertising campaign.

There is only one group of agents with the training to meet all of these requirements. And last year they sold 579,000 homes. If you haven't guessed by now, we'll give you a hint: they wear gold jackets and go by the name Neighborhood Professionals.™

Member of the Charlestown Board of Trades!

Knights Knots

by Charlie McGonagle

Proof positive that the Annual Golf Visit to Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, by a group of members from Council 62 came back in the form of ten reels of eight millimeter movie film.

Nineteen men boarded a plane on a recent Saturday morning, and so far as can be determined, there were nineteen in the returning party a week later.

Each of the attending golfers agreed to help defray the cost of film, somewhere in the vicinity of fifty dollars, by contributing to a mutual "Film Fund." Jack Kavinski, who played the role of Cecil B. DeMille, handled all movie making chores.

Saturday evening, April 19, two hundred and five years to the day, Paul Revere "Spread the alarm over every Middlesex village and farm," the golfers returned to a Welcome Home Party in the Council Chambers.

"The golfers are coming, The golfers are coming," came the cry from Fran Wiemert, the modern day Paul Revere, and they came. With reels of movie film dangling from all pockets, 'Ski' led the parade. They were anxious, each of them, to relive the experience of the previous week through the miracle of film.

Wives and friends of the golfers were present to welcome back their menfolk and to bear witness to the movies. They had come to see, in living color, the beauty of a backswing, the magnificence of a thirty foot putt, the gracefulness of a perfectly stroked wedge shot, and possibly the miracle of golf's rarest trophy of all, a hole-in-one.

But what the women saw horrified them. As "Ski" fed each film into the whirling projector, their anger grew in intensity.

"When you left without clubs, I was suspicious," said one, "but when you said you would rent some, my suspicions were eased. I thought you meant Golf Clubs, though, not Night Clubs!" Smack! The sharp cracking sound of the hard slap echoed through the Council Chambers for what seemed like minutes.

"Turn them off, 'Ski'," pleaded the golfers as they attempted to drag him out of the hall, but his strength, a child of Budwieser, allowed him to break free long enough to feed another film. The sadistic vibrations of his grin could be felt as far away as the Phipps Street Burial Grounds, where even the spirits were shaken.

"Who is she?", asked another woman angrily, as an extremely attractive young lady was seen floating across an ice-blue swimming pool.

"Oh that thing?", answered Leo Mac, "I think she worked for the pool maintenance people. She's just cleaning the pool." Smack!

"Ski" was rolling now, enjoying the friction his film was creating between the sexes.

"I always knew Golf Courses had sand traps, but I didn't realize those traps came complete with four foot waves and bathing beauties." Smack!

One of the golfers, in self defense, told his wife that he simply went from tee to green each day of the week. "I did nothing else," he assured her. Overhearing the comment from his position at the projector, "Ski" shouted, "Yeah that's right, from Alice Tee to Betty Green." Smack!

At last resort, the same nineteen men who had earlier raised fifty dollars to purchase the films, had accumulated $873.40 to buy them back.

North Area Task Force Meeting

A public meeting of the North Area Task Force of the Central Artery Project will be held on Tuesday, May 20 at the Kent Community School, 50 Bunker Hill Street at 7:30 p.m. Local residents are encouraged to attend, as the meeting's purpose is to re-activate the community participation process for this transportation project.

A main feature of the meeting will be a presentation of the schedule for work on the North section of the Central Artery Project. It is being planned by the Mass. Department of Public Works and funded in cooperation with the Federal Highway Administration.

Work has just begun on the preliminary engineering and design phase of the project, based on a Final Environmental Impact Statement issued last year. Consultants have begun studying the chosen expressway plan and the surface street options that are also part of the project.

The consultant team is being coordinated by Louis Berger and Associates of Wellesley. The consultants will be working during the next two years of preliminary design of the expressway tunnels under the Square, local street improvements and land use possibilities.

As the project enters this phase of development, a community participation program will also be carried out. This effort to involve Charlestown and its neighbors in the planning of the North Area of the Central Artery project will be one of the topics for discussion at the Task Force Meeting.

At 7:00 p.m., before the formal meeting, there will be a slide show presented on the historic background of City Square. The public is cordially invited to attend both the slide show and the meeting. For further information please contact Mr. Edward Fitzgerald of the Mass. DPW at 727-6414.

Maritime Lecture At Museum

Maritime professions in the 1800's meant that men were out at sea for months on end. What did this mean for the sea-port towns and the women living in them? What roles did they assume? Were they merely house-keepers or did they take on the maintenance of the town?

Dr. Barbara Welter of Hunter College in New York will discuss "Women's Roles in 19th Century Maritime Communities" on May 22 at 7:30 p.m. at the USS Constitution Museum. Dr. Welter's research in this area has brought to light some unknown facts and theories about women's positions in the 19th century, especially as they related to sea-port towns.

The lecture is free as part of the Samuel Eliot Morison Lecture Series funded by the Lowell Institute and the Mutual Bank for Savings. The USS Constitution Museum is located in Boston's historic Charlestown Navy Yard.

Among the steps that will be taken by the Committee to enhance the community's political situation, would be the endorsement of candidates seeking public office, the holding of candidates nights, voter registration drives and an organized effort to achieve district representation for the City Council and School Committee.

To Talk Of Many Things . . .

Help Wanted

by Sal Giarratani

There are just too many Catholics who think "Catholic" Boston needs a Catholic League to defend their rights as citizens as much as Rome needs a Gaelic Football Club but they are wrong!

Catholics today are still victimized by a persistent Anti-Catholic bigotry. It maybe much more refined but just as evil.

The newly-formed Boston Catholic League for Religious and Civil Rights chapter is looking for contact persons in Charlestown at St. Mary's, St. Catherine's and St. Francis de Sales parishes to represent the League in their parishes and to be the communication link between parish and Boston Chapter. (For more info, write: The Catholic League, 27 Greycliff Road, Brighton, Ma. 02135.)

The job spec for this position entails very little time, no meetings to attend and gives everyone the opportunity to be part of the solution in overcoming bigotry based on anti-catholicism!

You know, we have all kinds of special interest groups that make their needs known. It's perfectly acceptable for women to demand equal pay for equal work and for minorities to make their needs known. I also think it's perfectly acceptable for Catholics to insist on their piece of the action as other interest groups do!

Delay Could Be Costly...

If you are hoping to benefit from a drop in mortgage interest rates a year from now, you could take a beating from inflation rates.

A $60,000 home today with a 20 percent down payment of $12,000 and a 30-year mortgage at 16 percent interest will mean a monthly payment of principal and interest of $645.50.

On the assumption that interest rates may drop to 14 percent in one year (and that's not guaranteed) and an inflation rate of 15 percent (which is not unlikely) that same home will cost $69,000. Under the same mortgage terms, the cash down payment will be $1,800 more and monthly principal and interest costs will increase to $654.05. Also to be considered are the losses in tax benefits and deferred equity in your home.

	1980	1981
Price	$60,000	$69,000
Down Payment	$12,000	$13,800
Mortgage Amount	$48,000	$55,200
Interest Rate	16%	14%
Mo. Payment
Princ. & Int.	$645.50	$654.05

Last year's LONG-OUT Barney Olsen is giving a great time at bat, batting 750. Our own "Townie" "Wholio" Hennessey, probably playing his last year for 15's team, played a good second base. The pitching so far this year has been Tony Pezzulo and if he can keep the ark-pitch up, 15 may go undefeated. Watch out for those line-drives Tony. Bill Rogers showed-up to punch out a single to drive in two runs.

Charlestown Swim Team Completes Winning Season

Boys' Club Team combined their talents and efforts to develop a more skilled unit. The teams compete in twelve meets in each league, keeping the swimmers busy with one and sometimes two meets a week. This after school program starts in late September and runs to the beginning of April.

This alliance gave all the athletes use of a better facility at the new Quinn Athletic Facility on Medford Street where they practice four nights a week during the school year. The warmer months finds the dedicated swimmers expanding and refining their abilities at the outdoor pool on Bunker Hill Street.

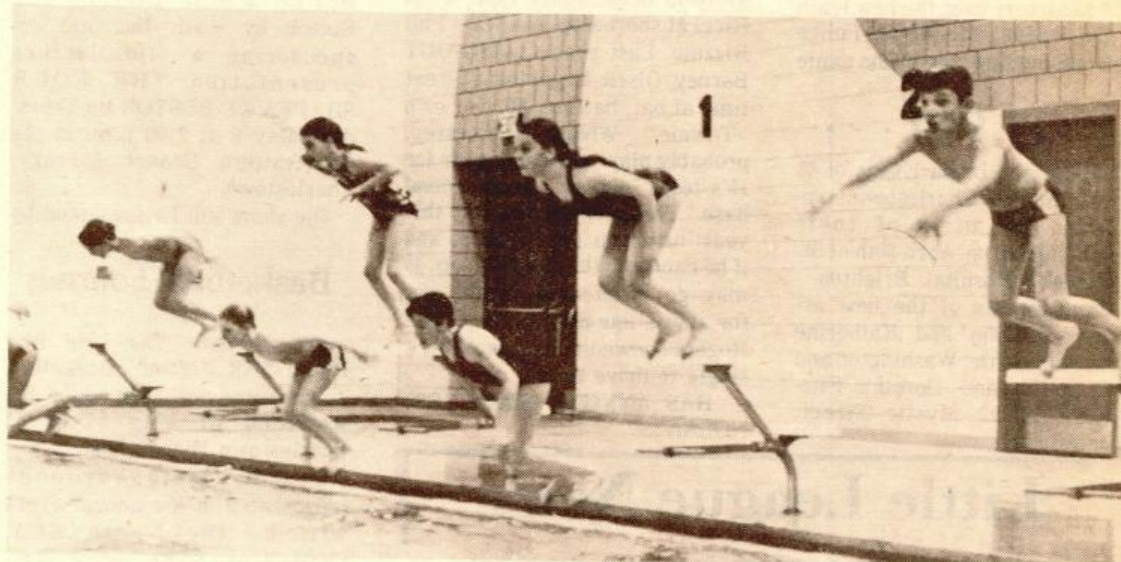

Coach Arthur Reardon, who gained experience when he helped coach a swim team in at a summer camp in Maine, believes that the kids' involvement on the team is a good experience for them. "They see that when they work hard they can get something from it. They realize that this is something they can be proud of." He added that other teams worry about competing against the "Townie" swimmers who have reputations as a strong and winning team.

Jim "Dinga" Houlihan also coaches the team. Now the director of the Kent Community School, he's been working with the Boys' Club for the past five years. Houlihan stated that both coaches emphasize the importance of school work to the swimmers. Noting that an increasing number of the Charlestown Swim Team members are attending Boston Latin High School, which he considers to be the best high school in the city, he said that these kids are "getting both academics and athletics" and are learning the importance of each.

In addition to the coaches, the Charlestown Swim Team receives assistance and instruction from many volunteers who help at meets and at practices. Michelle Barrett, Michael Shea, Chris Hennessey, and Ann Connolly all have given much support to the team. Another volunteer, Mike Donahue, is helping to develop a diving team. At the present the Charlestown Swim Team does not compete in this event, but Reardon is hopeful of new talents in this area.

Both Houlihan and Reardon look forward to an increasingly superior team in years to come. Already the younger members of the team show promising capabilities. As these youngsters grow and practice, they'll become the winning force that contribute to the success of the Charlestown Swim Team.

CLUB MEMBERS maintain a competitive spirit at practice time.

in hospitals but subsequently discontinued because of adverse reactions, now reigns supreme in the drug culture of our town for those looking for highs. PCP-Angel Dust, which causes the alteration of the chemistry of the brain - which originally was developed to help people, has become a horrible monster that is destroying many of the youth of our community and its use is the foremost cause of the acceleration of violent crimes in our district.

Law enforcement agencies serving our community can no longer sit back on their haunches and react to the violence.

Our local police, in concert with Federal and State law enforcement agencies must immediately develop an effective plan to combat the seige of drugs and weapons. They must take positive action to wrest our streets from the hoodlums on "dust" and pick up the countless guns in the possession of our youth and young adults.

However, law enforcement agencies cannot do it alone. They need the cooperation of all the residents of our town, and that of both community and city-wide social services agencies if we are ever to bring safety back to our streets for all our people regardless of color and provide help for those youth caught up in the drug/weapon scene.

Charlestown can no longer hide her head in the sand like the proverbial ostrich and deny the existence of the onslaught of drugs and violence on our youth.

Our community civic and religious leaders must band together, stop beating their breasts and press for remedial action.

Charlestown should demand the full cooperation of the City Administration in solving the rampant drug related crimes in our community. Let the Mayor of Boston come to our assistance with help rather than with political rhetoric and grandstanding outside of Police Station 15.

Charlestown is in crisis and calls out for help.

Gibbons To Appear As Soloist

John Gibbons of Charlestown will be harpsichord soloist with the Boston Classical Orchestra when F. John Adams conducts the orchestra's inaugural concert, Wednesday, May 21 at 8:30 p.m. in Faneuil Hall.

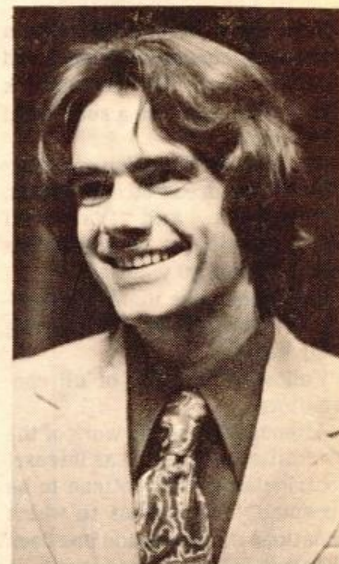

Gibbons will join with fellow harpsichordist Martin Pearlman to perform Bach's Concerto for Two Harpsichords, BWV 1061. Also on the program will be the Symphony No. 98 by Haydn and Mozart's Symphony No. 40, KV 550.

A frequent soloist with major performing groups in the United States and Europe, Gibbons has appeared with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the Boston Philharmonia Orchestra, the New York Pro Musica, the New York Consort of Viols, the Chamber Orchestra of Copenhagen and the Boston Camerata. He is harpsichordist to the Collection of the Museum of Fine Arts and a member of the Museum Trio.

Unlike other small orchestras in the area whose membership is either amateur or transient, the personnel of the Boston Classical Orchestra has been meticulously chosen from among Boston's most elite independent resident professional musicians, and from students and recent graduates of local music schools who have already attained performance levels of the highest artistic order.

The orchestra will open its first full season next fall in Faneuil Hall, where a four concert series is planned, marking the first time this Boston landmark will have been used by a professional orchestra on a regular basis. The ensemble will offer outstanding performances of familiar and lesser known classics, both to those who live in or near Boston and to new audiences in outlying communities. The orchestra plans to expand to nearby Boston communities in the very near future, and the Board of Trustees is now actively soliciting interested people in a number of areas.

CHARLESTOWN HARP-SICHORDIST John Gibbons will be soloist with the Boston Classical Orchestra under F. John Adams, Wednesday, May 21 at 8:30 p.m. in Boston's Faneuil Hall. With fellow harpsichordist Martin Pearlman, he will play Bach's Concerto for 2 Harpsichords, BWV 1060. Also on the program will be Haydn: Symphony No. 98 and Mozart: Symphony No. 40, KV 550.

Contest Deadline

There is still time to enter the photo essay contest "Share Your Boston With Us," which is part of the "Place Over Time" exhibit sponsored by the Boston Landmarks Commission and Jubilee 350. The contest deadline has been extended to May 15, according to coordinator June Ostermann.

Additional information and the official entry blank are available from Little City Hall, 236 Bunker Hill Street and from the exhibit office at 100 Franklin Street. Exhibit staff are also available to answer questions about the contest. Call 482-8418 for more information.

Boys' Club News

by Charlie McGonagle

So, Genuine Risk, a Filly, has won the Kentucky Derby, eh? Well, as true fans of the "Sport Of Kings", I think we should closely investigate all the facts before accepting this startling bit of racing news as gospel.

Let me first remind you that this particular race is known throughout thoroughbred circles as "The Run For The Roses", and if that name doesn't ring a bell in Year of Racing, 1980, then read on.

I have, in my possession, certain information which indicates that this young lady, Genuine Risk, did not run the full mile and one quarter Derby distance, and before you begin to snicker, hear me out, please.

First of all, two college students, friends of mine of unquestionable repute, have sworn they saw Genuine Risk leap out of the crowd at the quarter mile pole and join the race. Secondly, a veterinarian who checked all the finishers, claims that the Filly's legs definitely did not show any sign of having run a full mile and one quarter. And Rombo, the first male finisher in the race, voiced a great deal of doubt as to Genuine Risk's shadowed victory.

"Impossible", he said. "Nobody saw her at any of the checkpoints along the way. Not at the turn into the backstretch, not at the far turn, nowhere."

The Race Director concurred. "We cannot find a single shred of evidence that would indicate she ran the entire distance."

"I can't understand all of this," countered Genuine Risk. "I was tucked in on the rail most of the way, maybe that's why nobody saw me."

"You were hardly perspiring when you finished, how do you explain that?"

"That's all due to my trainer's methods."

"Good conditioning, you mean?"

"Hell no! Great anti-perspirant."

Doubt has also been cast on Genuine Risk's race in New York. Her recorded performance indicated her readiness for the Derby. However, another Filly from the New York area has come forward with evidence which would indicate that Genuine Risk did not finish the Wood Memorial either!

"I was riding the horse van in the barn area the day of the race," reports the young lady. "when a fully saddled Filly got on board. From the pictures I have seen, I am certain that Filly was Genuine Risk. She said she had turned an ankle about a half mile out of the starting gate. And was riding the van to the finish line."

I realize that all of this evidence is strictly heresy, but I am convinced that this young lady did not run the full Derby distance. When I voiced my opinion on this matter to a friend, she looked at me as though I had just dealt the fifty-first card out of my deck, and was attempting to play the game with the only one remaining.

"You know," she said, "that would be like somebody jumping into the Boston Marathon at Kenmore Square and winning the race. It just couldn't be done."

"Rosie", I replied to my friend, Ms. Ruiz, "with all those people lined up along the race route, I believe anything is possible."

First Eucharist For Second Graders

What an exciting day for us! We received Jesus in the Eucharist for the first time. We have been preparing for this special day for a long, long time. It was so good to be so close to Jesus. We want to stay that close all our lives. We will do this by going to Mass every week and receiving Jesus in the Eucharist.

On this happy day we prayed for many things and for many people. We asked God to bless our families, the young people in our parish, the old and the sick, our Priests and Sisters, and all those who have problems. We know God will hear our prayers because He loves us.

Our pastor, Father Serino, told us Jesus loves little children. Once the apostles told some mothers to take their children away because Jesus was tired. Jesus told the apostles to leave the children alone. Heaven is a place full of happy children. Father Serino told the grown-ups if they want to go to heaven they have to be like little children.

We thank God for giving us a sunny day. We thank our mothers and fathers for their love and their help.

God bless us all and God bless our city

Charlestown Mormon Stars In Original Play

"Saints in Boston - 1844", an original musical play, will be presented on May 16 and 17 at Alumnae Hall, Wellesley College. The play is being created and produced in celebration of the Sesquicentennial (150th) anniversary of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (or "Mormon" church), which was organized with 6 members on April 6, 1830 and has currently expanded to 4.5 million members worldwide.

Russell Corl of Charlestown portrays James Bailey, a light-hearted violinist. "Learning to play the violin, even when not making the actual sound, is just one of the challenges given to me by this production," he commented. "I have worked with play groups over the years, but the depth asked of this character is helping me develop as an actor with more understanding and focus." Mr. Corl, an optician by profession, has gained theatrical experience with the Charlestown Working Theatre over the past five years and is enjoying lending his skills to this production.

"Saints in Boston" is a delightful combination of fancy footwork, pleasing music, clever lines and a bit of romance in a historical setting. The story is actually based on two separate events, joined for the sake of brevity into one evening's entertainment. The first was the 1832 visit of two dedicated but very wear missionaries, Samuel H. Smith and Orson Hyde, to Boston. During the course of their brief time in the city they stayed at the Cobb boarding house. There they taught the gospel to a number of people, including, not insignificantly, a "milkmaid from Scarborough, Maine" named Agnes Coolbrith and a bright and cultured young lady named Mary Bailey. Though Mr. Cobb was decidedly even violently opposed to the two young preachers, not only his wife but also her two women friends were persuaded by their teachings, and ultimately joined the Church. Agnes Coolbrith subsequently met and married Don Carlos Smith, the Prophet's younger brother, while Mary Bailey married her missionary, Samuel Smith, to whom she bore four children.

The second historical event on which the plot is based is the 1844 Presidential candidacy of the Prophet Joseph Smith and his martyrdom shortly thereafter.

The script and lyrics were written by Kathryn Kimball, of Belmont, who is also directing the play. The music was composed by John Roeder, formerly of Cambridge, who is now studying at New Haven, Connecticut.

Hoosac Pier Topic of Meeting

On Tuesday, April 29th, the Charlestown Advisory Committee met with representatives of Massport and the Boston Redevelopment Authority for a discussion relating to the future development of Hoosac Pier. At the present the pier is leased to a warehouse operation, the Raytheon Pavilion, and a marina.

Elliot Friedman informed the committee that Massport had contracted with the firm of Childs, Bertman, and Tseckares to conduct a feasibility study to determine the physical condition of the pier, which will in turn, determine its future use. While Massport will not develop the pier itself, it will retain ownership and control through leasing agreements. The engineering firm will complete its survey about the middle of June

Jack Whelan again presented the request of the Boys' Club for the establishment of a sailing program in the Navy Yard. Other committee members including Ed McGuinness, Jerry Murphy, Allen Jarasitis, and Peg VanGorder expressed their hope that any future use of Hoosac Pier would provide jobs for the Charlestown community. The number of jobs provided the community has so far been very disappointing.

Peg VanGorder rendered a report of her meeting with members of the committee for the Charlestown Board of Trades Street Fair. The Advisory Committee supports the Fair's objective and wishes it every success. The fair will be held on May 30th, May 31st, and June 1st, at the Navy Yard.

C.H.S. Students Learn Emergency Driving Techniques

The Charlestown youth guided the Ford Fairmont down the paved roadway at a speed of about 40 miles per hour, being careful to stay within the marked lane.

Suddenly, he hit a wet, slick patch in the road. He hit the car's brakes, locking the wheels and throwing the car into a complete 360-degree spin. With water spraying and tires screeching, the car ground to a halt, undamaged, with the driver unhurt.

The above scene did not take place on Bunker Hill Street, or anywhere in Charlestown, for that matter. This maneuver was recently performed, deliberately, on the driver training area, or "skid pan," at Liberty Mutual Insurance Company's Research Center in Hopkinton, Mass.

Such practice skidding is part of a unique, advanced course of instruction in automotive safety taught by Liberty Mutual, which is called Emergency Reaction Driver Training (ERD). A group of 19 students from Charlestown High School got a first-hand taste of the ERD program in a recent visit to the Research Center, as part of the ongoing CHS-Liberty Mutual Partnership Program.

Liberty Mutual's ERD program combines classroom instruction with actual behind-the-wheel practice of selected exercises, to teach drivers how to handle emergency situations on both wet and dry surfaces. Having been given the class-room instruction at CHS prior to their visit, the students were ready for the wet skidding exercises when they arrived in Hopkinton.

Accompanied by instructors Gil Drake and James Dolliver, the students were each shown on the flooded skid pan how locking the brakes on the front, rear or all four wheels can produce a different kind of skid; this was done with the student driving, and the instructor locking the brakes with a dual set of pedals located on the skid car's passenger side. In succeeding runs onto the skid pan, the students used what they had learned in the classroom, together with the guidance of the instructors, to bring the car under control in each kind of skid.

"When they get into a skid, some people don't know what to do and they panic," said CHS student Miguel Rivera after he had completed his driving on the skid pan. "If I get into this situation now, I will know what to do. It's good experience," he continued, adding that he thought high schools "should have this course as a regular class, to teach people how to really drive."

Mike Walsh, who once "spun completely around" when he tried to avoid hitting a dog on a wet roadway, said he felt he had "learned a lot," and could avoid such skids in the future. Gerard Sullivan also described a wet skid he had experienced, and said that the braking techniques he had learned on the skid pan would give him "more control of the car" in a similar situation.

Other CHS students who traveled to the Research Center were Stanley Benford, Written Benson, William Buckley, Mark Butler, Earl Coleman, Jonette Cooper, Hector Cosme, Cecil Jones, Michael Junta, Kenneth Johnson, Wah Kin Leung, William McClung, Darrylzane Patterson, Michael O'Connor, Patrick Rose and Michael Walker. They were accompanied by Ralph Berkowitz and Michael Rusniak of the CHS faculty.

CDBG Human Services Cuts To Hit Charlestown

Citing the elimination of funds for all human services in the administration's proposed Year VI Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) application, Boston City Councillor Raymond L. Flynn, chairman of Council's Committee on Government Finance which will review the budget, stated, "The CDBG budget is the most important source of discretionary funds which the city has to assist neighborhood-based social services such as elderly home care, youth programs and community health centers. I am deeply disturbed that the administration has eliminated CDBG funding for these vitally needed programs. For many agencies, the funding provided from the CDBG budget makes the difference in being able to continue operation, and without the services provided by these organizations, many neighborhood residents will be severely impacted."

Among the programs in Charlestown which received CDBG funding last year were: The Kent Community School's Exceptional Children's Center, the Charlestown Boys' Club, the Charlestown Teen Center, the Kennedy Center, the Bunker Hill Housing Development, the Charlestown Historical Society and the Sullivan Square Economic Development Study.

Flynn noted that $26.1 million was available to the city in CDBG funds for fiscal year 1981, an increase of $1.2 million over last year. (The CDBG program was established by Congress to "provide housing and a suitable living environment and expand economic opportunities, principally for persons of low and moderate income.")

"Obviously every year there are more proposals submitted than there are funds available and many worthwhile programs go unfunded," Flynn stated. "While we can't provide more money, we can work to ensure that administrative overhead is kept to a bare minimum so that every available dollar goes to providing direct services to the people who need them most."

Flynn said he intended to work to try to restore CDBG funding for human services and public housing programs which have been cut from the administration's proposal. "I think it's important to provide a balance between social services and economic and neighborhood business development programs and I believe that was the intent of Congress in passing the original CDBG legislation. The difficulty the City Council faces in trying to restore the cuts is that under law we are required to give final authorization of the submission of the proposal to the department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), but we do not have the authority to initiate spending. It will be a difficult fight, but I hope we can persuade the administration to reconsider some of its priorities and include human services funding, even if it means decreasing the administrative overhead."

Flynn announced that the City Council hearing for CDBG funding for Charlestown and South Boston would be held Wednesday evening, May 14 at 7:00 p.m. in the City Council Chambers before the Committee on Government Finance. The other members of the Government Finance Committee besides Flynn are Councillors Rosemarie E. Sansone and John W. Sears.

Your Dental Health

by Jeffrey
D. Cohen,
D.M.D.

Flouride does help to prevent tooth decay. This was discovered in the thirties when researchers finally figured out that the reason for low tooth decay rates in some parts of the country was the high flouride content in the water. Those who drink water with adequate flouride from birth can expect to have up to 65 percent fewer cavities than could otherwise be expected. Most toothpastes and many mouth washes contain flouride and it can also be applied to teeth as part of regular dental treatment.

Regular dental treatment is essential to catch small problems and keep dental work and expense to a minimum. At the office of JEFFREY D. COHEN, D.M.D., 338 Main Street, 242-3550, we know that health costs are rising and we try to give the highest quality dental care for the dollars invested. We highly recommend dental insurance as a good investment through group purchase plans and will render assistance to Medicaid patients in the completion of necessary forms.
